In starting a flock, only healthy, robust ewes should be selected, and all of them should be of the same type. They should be mated with a first class ram of similar type, and one of the same breed as the ewe flock, unless the farmer is crossing for some special purpose and does not intend to retain the progeny for breeding. Each year the ewes should be carefully weeded out, only the best being retained; too many Canadian farmers in the past have followed exactly the opposite course, allowing the buyers to pick out the best specimens and retaining only the cull females for breeding. By following the system of culling closely, a high degree of uniformity will in a few years be established in the flock. Every farmer knows that the presence of a few culls in a lot of animals always proves an obstacle to a sale at a remunerative price; therefore great pains should be taken to have the flock of uniformly good quality.

Good, comfortable roomy sheds or stabling for the cold and stormy days are necessary. These need not be expensive, but should be well ventilated, free from drafts, and situated on dry ground. A large open yard, apart from that occupied by other animals, should be attached to their houses in every case, to allow exercise. Too much confinement in over-warm, illy-ventilated or drafted stables, is fatal to success with sheep. On the other hand, comfortable quarters, regular and liberal feeding, plenty of pure water and a sufficiency of salt, will go far to ensure their successful wintering and a strong crop of lambs in the spring. Very careful attention must be given at lambing time, but at other times comparatively little time need be spent in looking after the flock. Indeed, sheep require less costly buildings and equipment, and less labour in caring for them, than almost any other class of live stock. Unfortunately there are two causes which tend to demoralize the sheep-raising industry in Canada, viz., the wholesale adulteration of many lines of imported woollen goods, and the ravages of dogs. The former renders wool-growing unprofitable, and the latter prevents the farmer from growing mutton sheep in many districts which are otherwise well-suited to the business. That legislation is needed to protect the sheep-breeder from these evils can scarcely be doubted.

THE DUKE'S REASONS

Advised Those Who Looked to Him For Advice or Authority to Give No Support to Any Chamberlain Candidate —Lord Lansdowne Hopes Discussion Will Lead to Closer Imperial Relations.

London, Feb. 20.—(C.A.P.)—The Duke of Devonshire in the House of Lords, which was crowded with peers, peeresses and members of the Commons, yesterday entered into full particulars concerning the reason for his withdrawing from the Cabinet. He said he was long troubled in his relations with Mr. Chamberlain. Premier Balfour wished him to resign with Mr. Ritchie and others, but he preferred to remain as a restraining force. When he became aware that Chamberlain had resigned he suggested to Mr. Balfour that Mr. Ritchie and Lord George Hamilton, having resigned on a misapprehension should be asked to reconsider. But Mr. Balfour said he had no intention of asking further consideration of his Sheffield speech. He then decided to resign, as he was a convinced free trader, and he declared emphatically he would continue to advise those respecting his authority and give no support to any Chamberlain candidate. Personally, as chairman of the Iron and Steel Company, he had no complaint against a policy to retaliate against America and reserve the home markets for ourselves, but the Government of the country should take the broader view that dumping was only an intermittent evil.

Lord Lansdowne replied that it would be diplomatic folly for the Government to divulge prematurely the use they may make of the discretion they proposed to ask Parliament to invest them with. His view this moment was that European powers were contemplating further additions to their hostile tariffs against Britain. Protection of preferential tariffs is not proposed, but while we say this we do not desire to be bound so that at no future time under no circumstances should we be prepared to contemplate the possibility of a mutual, advantageous arrangement with the colonies to whom we owe so much. If free discussion of that question is being looked upon in the light of the possibility of doing something to draw the colonies closer I will be the first to rejoice."

The vote for the third time this session resulted in 51 majority for the Government.

Address Agreed to.

London, Feb. 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday, the Home Secretary, Akers-Douglas, in behalf of the Government, moved the closure of the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, which was carried. The address, as a whole, was then agreed to without a division, and the House adjourned.

HIS MAJESTY'S TACT.

London, Feb. 20.—The royal eulogy of Lord Roberts, contained in the special army order issued Thursday evening, in which King Edward took leave of Lord Roberts as commander-in-chief of the army, is commented upon as avoiding an awkward dilemma.

The exceedingly curt manner in which the War Office dismissed Lord Roberts deeply incensed the late commander-in-chief, and this feeling was shared by the public to such an extent that it threatened to lead to a serious attack on the Government in Parliament.

The King's first intimation of his disapproval of the War Office treatment was to invite Lord Roberts to Buckingham Palace, where marked attention was shown to the field marshal. This has now been followed by the general army order, which was sent out by the King personally, not, as usually, through the War Office.

Let Others Experiment.

There is always something new in the way of medical treatment and you are constantly invited to try new-fangled, unproven remedies. Let others experiment and so risk health and lose time. C.P.R. Express Derailed.

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 20.—The C. P. R. express, which left yesterday afternoon for Montreal, was ditched near Desbarats, thirty miles from here, caused by spreading rails. All the cars except the locomotive went off the track, but though a number were bruised and injured there will be no fatalities. Traffic will be delayed for some time. Wrecking crews have gone out from here to the relief.

Captain Guilty of Manslaughter.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 20.—The coroner's jury inquiring into the cause of the loss of the steamer Clallam and fifty-four lives on Jan. 8, delivered their verdict yesterday, finding Capt. Roberts guilty of manslaughter, and Chief Engineer Delauney criminally culpable. Delauney is severely censured for negligence and incompetency. Capt. Roberts is now in Southern California.

"Lake Michigan" Reached.

London, Feb. 20.—The British steamer Lake Michigan, Capt. Owen, from St. John, N.B., Feb. 5, and Halifax, Feb. 8, for London, has been in collision with the British barque Matterhorn. The Lake Michigan is seriously damaged amidships. Her engine room and stoke hole became full of water, and the steamer was finally beached in a sinking condition.

REV. MR. CROSSLEY AT BOWMANVILLE.

At the communion service in the Bowmanville Methodist church, on Sunday week, 37 new members were received by letter and on probation. The official board met on Friday night when the following resolution was unanimously carried by standing vote:

"Resolved, that this quarterly Board at its third meeting assembled, expresses its satisfaction with the efforts of our pastor, Rev. D. O. Crossley, during the past year, crowned as they have been with a goodly measure of success. Our large congregation and the many organizations in connection with our church, make a constant demand upon time and energy, and we are grateful to a kind Providence for vouchsafing to him health and strength so that every demand has been cheerfully, faithfully and energetically met. We extend to him a cordial and hearty invitation to return to us for the third year."

Complimentary speeches were made by Messrs. P. Trebilcock, M A. James and Dr. W. E. Tilley.

REDUCED THE DEBT BY FOURTEEN THOUSAND.

The Christian Guardian of this week has the following appreciative note of the progress of George street Methodist church:—

"In connection with the anniversary services, the annual congregational meeting and tea was held in the Sunday School room, which was filled to overflowing. The reports presented by the different departments of the church showed that all were in a highly satisfactory condition, and the prospects for a successful year in 1904 were bright. The pastor was chairman of the gathering, and in opening the meeting expressed his gratitude at the work done by the church during the year 1903, and his particular pleasure at welcoming back Rev. Dr. Young, a former pastor of the church, to participate in the anniversary services. The debt on the church, which four years ago was $21,000, now stood at $7,000, and with subscriptions due during this year the net debt at the close would be but $5,000. This is a record which the officials may well feel proud of, and one which must be particularly pleasing to the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, during whose pastorate this large reduction in the debt has been made."

FAMOUS FENCE CASE APPEAL DISMISSED.

A Legal Case of Special Interest to Peterborough County Farmers.

The Toronto Globe has the following with reference to a local case:

Reid v. Middleton.—C. A. Masten, for plaintiff, appealed from judgment of Judge of County Court of Northumberland and Durham, sitting for the judge of County Court of Peterborough. The action was to recover damages for infringement of a patent for an improved fence known as "the Wartman Surface Square Braced fence post." One Wartman was the inventor, and the rights under the patent ultimately became vested in the plaintiff. The plaintiff also asked for an injunction restraining further infringement. Judgment was given dismissing the action with costs. The plaintiffs contended that the trial Judge erred in holding that the assignment to one Graham, one of the intermediate assignees, did not sufficiently identify the patent, or the subject matter of the patent. Appeal dismissed with costs. O. A. Langley, of Lakefield, for Plaintiffs. Roger & Bennet for defendant.

This was an action brought by Arthur Reid of Peterborough against James Middleton of Smith, for infringement by the latter of the Patent Fence known as "The Wartman Square Braced Fence Post," of the patent right of which the former claimed to hold an assignment for the Township of Smith. The case was tried before Judge Ketchum, acting during the illness of Judge Weller, at Peterborough in June, 1902, and judgment was given in the following April in favour of the defendant, the judge holding that Reid's title to the patent was insufficient. From this finding Reid appealed to the Divisional Court at Toronto, where the case was heard on Friday and the appeal dismissed

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.

Reference has already been made in these columns to the new system of teaching being introduced in some schools in New York State. Mr. J. J. Hartley, chairman of the local Board of Education, is deeply interested in the subject, and has supplied the Examiner with further particulars of the system, which will be published in a series of articles, the second of which follows:

Under the old system of trying to land a grade by force, our teachers were in such a constant state of exhaustion that they shuddered at the thought of going into society, and society shuddered at the thought of having them come. The isolation to which her life condemned the drudging teacher was moulding her into a type. Her vocation was impressed all over her, and she could be identified as far as the eye could see. In the five years of our experiment the genus teacher has disappeared. She has given place to a corps of very worthy, very pleasing and very easy-mannered ladies. It would puzzle an expert to pick out our teachers; unless the picking out of a teacher means the selection of the strongest character graced with the most perfect presence and manner. And I predict that those will be the eye-marks of the teacher of the future.

And our teachers carry to society as much as they bring back. They give to society a trend toward literature, history, art and social studies. They are the very life of all the mutual improvement movements.

The old system claimed their last drop of vitality under contract; it expected them to coin their heart's blood for a pittance. It ordered them to force along from thirty to fifty children, at whatever cost to themselves, and at whatever cost to the children. They were expected, they were required to be cruel. Not indeed for the sake of the cruelty; but they were compelled to undertake a work that involved cruelty. If they would not be harsh they must give way to those who would. And when they were no longer able to be harsh the outlook for them was as dismal as anything could be. With no margin at all for retirement they were rushed on to incapacity. The history of graded schools will have to confess to a vast army of wrecked young women. How could they be interesting or attractive while looking into unprovided helplessness or looking into their graves?

Under the new system there is no such thing. There is no martyrdom; the teacher gets more than she gives; there is no appointed time of collapse, with a list of waiters standing ready to step into the weary shoes the moment they can be no longer worn. The vulturas scent the coming carnage; the fallen teacher is quickly thrust aside; her place is filled, and the immortal machine goes grinding on its deadly and eternal way. I am ready to assert now that there is no need of the collapse of a school teacher. And the collapse of a teacher argues a worthless school. I am persuaded that correct teaching, really productive teaching, truly victorious teaching, is conducive to longevity and fluwless health. Men are constantly saying in slang phrase, "I am not in this thing for my health." A teacher to whom only proper duties are assigned may well say, "I am in this for my health. I am never so well as when I am with my precious children. They are adding years to my life, and decades to my usefulness."

It is easy to paint a Utopia or an elysium. Schemes of happiness have been preached ever since civilization began. But aside from literary quality they are not worth the paper they were written on. Were I spinning this doctrine out of the echoes of my brain I would not be deserving of your attention for a moment. I am not theorizing on what might be done; I am trying to describe and make clear what has been done. And I am not an exploiter nor a propagandist. I speak only when I am asked to do so; and I go only when I am called. I have lived long enough to know that a good thing needs no exploitation, and that a bad thing should not be exploited. I profess to describe real things; and I believe that I am doing so. I am not describing things far removed in time or space; I am describing things here and now; the means of verification are within easy reach of any who care to test the accuracy of the statements.

The old proverb says that miseries come in battalions. But blessings likewise come in showers. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God, and His Righteousness; and all those things shall be added unto you." I have alluded to some of the blessings that have come to us all since we did the righteous thing of reaching down the hand of sympathy and help to the unfortunate. But I have only been able to select a few of those blessings; a whole evening might be consumed in merely enumerating the rest. It is a long story; but it is a glorious story; a story beginning in sadness and ending in exultation. The story may not be believed; but it will be believed some day. A great astronomer was not believed when he proclaimed the law of planetary motion. "Well," he replied, "the Lord has waited six thousand years for someone to read His laws; I can well wait a century for someone to believe the reader." You mothers may or may not believe the statements of this paper, but inasmuch as they touch you so closely in your tenderest interests, you cannot afford to ignore them. It will be incumbent upon you to verify or disprove them. If you find them true, and only too feebly stated you will need to have no one point out your sacred duty in the premises. The mother will face raging lions and devouring flames and high rolling floods in defense of her offspring. If you find danger enthroned in the schools we can trust to you that which needs to be done. I tell you there is a danger; and that the danger has been active as well as potential. And the danger is restricted almost entirely to the public school. If you are a millionaire you cannot provide your children with privileges equal to those of the public school. Your children will be sufferers if they are taken out of the public schools. How is that? The children exposed to death if they remain in the public schools, and yet suffering loss if they leave them? It does look a little inconsistent; but the doctrine is nevertheless quite sound. It is not a loss to the children to leave a school in which they are in danger. But there is no need of the slightest danger in the public graded school. We have been considering to-night how to strike at the root of that danger and how to eliminate it from the school altogether. There is no place outside the public graded school where a child can get in so high a degree the stimulating education of companionship. The place in which to train up a man of the people is in the public graded schools. But not in a graded school where half the children are breaking their hearts, and the other half are dawdling and drifting into idleness and mischief. It is in a graded school fired with the spirit of enterprise, and moving with even tread to victory.

But is not all this in conflict with the doctrine that some children are born to be leaders? No, it is in entire harmony with that doctrine. There are born leaders; but you have to find them at the lowest end of your graded-school line. When a teacher goes down to rescue a suffering child she goes down to rescue a leader. There is such a thing as "parts," but they are to be found in a child who is at first shy, reticent and apparently stupid. The teacher who goes down to rescue a suffering child may be going down to rescue an Isaac Newton, a Goldsmith, a Walter Scott a Ulysses S. Grant. And there are children born to be hewers of wood and drawers of water; that is they are born to drudge for other people and to live always under orders; but you must seek such children at the very forefront of your graded school line. The prodigy makes a school record; but in nine cases out of ten he makes no other. The man who bends with intelligence to the work of life; the man who upholds society with unswerving integrity, comes from the lower end of the graded school line; from that end that is so often nagged out of a school if not into the grave.

And a word as to the homes. Before the appointment of our individual teacher, we forced the homes to be miserable adjuncts of the schools. We dumped back upon them all the arrearages of school work. We sternly demanded of the parents to do the work for which we had been paid; work which we were supposed to know how to do; we sent home crushed misery to sob itself out against the distressed mother's breast. Since we introduced our individual teacher no child below the high school has carried home a single task. No child with satchel and shining morning face has crept unwillingly to school. Children now disperse empty-handed with all their tasks finished, to greet their parents with a happy smile. Parents and children have all the home-time for forming endearing acquaintance; and the children fly back to school on the wings of eagerness. No child is detained as a prisoner to his tasks; and no exhausted teacher remains a prisoner to the dread arrears. There are no arrears; teachers and pupils are free to escape at once into life-giving air, to bound across the bosom of mother earth, and, Antaeus-like, to absorb renewed vitality from her touch. Parents have said: "We hardly know ourselves; your new teaching has brought sunshine into our homes."

A word about our high school. It is swarming with young people who would never have crossed its threshold under the old system of teaching only en masse. And it is swarming with other young people who would have never have come in sight of it under that same old system. It has a stronger studentship The improvement in the quality of its work is about as conspicuous as the expansion of its register. By every possible test we are getting conclusive evidence of the blessedness of judicious individual attention

Have you ever tried Scott's Emulsion for a thin, weak child, one backward in growth and slow in development? Those who have know the pleasure of seeing their delicate child grow strong and become well-developed under the gentle but effective influence of Scott's Emulsion. For the weak growth of the bones, Scott's Emulsion supplies those powerful tonics, the hypophosphites. For the lack of proper healthy flesh Scott's Emulsion provides the nourishing cod liver oil in an easily digested and palatable form. Any child that needs more and better nourishment—effective nourishment—will get it in Scott's Emulsion. There is no other remedy or food that combines so much that is necessary in maintaining good health and right growth in children.

BRITAIN AND THIBET.

Gen. MacDonald and His Flying Column Back at Chumbi.

London, Feb. 22.—Col. Younghusband's mission to Thibet at present is at a complete standstill. Gen. MacDonald with a flying column has returned to Chumbi. The big Thibetan force assembled at Gurn has dwindled to 2,000 men, and there is nothing to indicate what will be the next phase in the event of the Dalai Lama maintaining his present attitude.

The Indian Government has taken the greatest pains to emphasize the fact that the mission entirely is political, and is sole object the amicable settlement of outstanding difficulties with the Lama Government. It lays stress on the fact that Col. Younghusband has the most careful instructions not to excite hostility, while Gen. MacDonald has been ordered to act on the defensive only, his sole duty being to safeguard the commissioners.

FATAL FIRE IN PARIS.

Fourteen People Dead—Jumped From Windows to Escape.

Paris, Feb. 22.—Fourteen employes of a celluloid comb factory in this city lost their lives yesterday in a fire which was started by an explosion of gas. About twenty other employes were injured.

The explosion, which occurred in a room in the fourth storey, drove bricks and pieces of glass against a house on the other side of the street, and immediately afterwards enormous jets of flame burst out of the windows. Soon the entire structure was on fire. Simultaneously with the appearance of the flames, a number of men and women employed on the upper storeys, and who had been eating their luncheon, appeared at the windows and shrieked for assistance. Three men attempted to drop from a window to a balcony beneath, but, missing it, fell to the pavement below and were killed.

E. Ames. The commissioners present were Messrs. Ed. Gurney, Toronto; B. W. Folger, Kingston; F. E. Leonard, London, and M. J. O'Brien, Renfrew; Mr. Jaffray being absent in the south.

In the election of the Chairman, a resident of Toronto being considered necessary, the choice was limited to Messrs. Gurney and Jaffray, and, as the former declined, Mr. Jaffray was chosen permanent Chairman.

Perfect Digestion Means Health.

A Good Stomach Keeps Every Part of the Body in Perfect Condition and Disease Cannot Break In.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR BAD STOMACHS.

You Can Also Enjoy Mince Pie if You Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

If your stomach is all right, you are all right. Why are growing boys nearly always healthy? Because they have not abused their stomachs by excessive eating and drinking and weakened or destroyed the functions of that organ. Because they eat what Nature demands of good wholesome food and then take plenty of exercise and run and romp and help out in the process of digestion and keep their stomachs strong and well. The same is true of men who lead active outdoor lives and engage in physical activity. Their digestion is perfect, the food nutriment is properly assimilated, the blood is pure and healthy and you seldom hear of them being afflicted with headache, backache, kidney trouble, liver trouble, constipation or any other of the common ills that always afflict those with bad stomachs.

If there is anything wrong with you, be sure your stomach is right. If it is not right, get it right and do it in the right way—that is the natural way.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a natural remedy for all stomach disorders and weakness. They possess exactly the same properties that the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach possess and they actually do the digestive work of the stomach and enable that organ to rest and recuperate and become sound and well. They act in a mild, natural manner and cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. They prevent any fermentation of the food which causes sour stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets instil health into every part of the human body. They compel perfect digestion of the food and perfect assimilation of the food nutriment. Every organ and part of the body is kept in repair and good health necessarily results. At the same time the stomach, being relieved of the work of digestion, gets well and strong.

A prominent Detroit physician says: "I prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all cases of stomach trouble. I have tried many prescriptions, including a number of my own, but find nothing that gives such universal relief as this remedy. They are natural, harmless and thoroughly effective in their work, and while I have a natural antipathy to patent medicines, I do not hesitate to prescribe and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on all occasions."

The above is no exception. The best physicians are prescribing them all over the land. They can be had of any druggist for 50 cents a box, and if your own doctor is real honest with you, he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE ON PAPER-MAKING

Given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Saturday Evening.

Mr. R. B. Rogers Read Instructive and Highly Interesting Paper on Canadian Pulp.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintendent of the Trent Valley Canal, gave a most instructive lecture on the "Pulp Industries of Canada," in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Saturday night. There was a fairly large audience and the lecture was illustrated by a large number of excellent lime-light views, the machine being operated Mr. H. O. Fiske and Mr. A. Stevenson. Mr. G. H. Williamson, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., occupied the chair.

The lecture opened with a number of gramophone selections while Mr. McCoy gave a very acceptable piano solo. The chairman next called upon Mr. Rogers.

THE LECTURE.

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Rogers said the paper which he was about to read was written by Prof. D. P. Penhallow, and continued with the unexpected statement that the history of paper-making dated back to the time of the ancient Egyptians, about the year 3966 B.C. Now the industry has come to rank among the foremost in the world, and the products not only represent a great diversity of raw materials and finished fabrics, but also call for great skill, the utilization of large capital, and the employment of costly and intricate machinery for their development. The contrast between the primitive payrus paper of the ancients, and the highly finished product of to-day, probably affords one of the most conspicuous examples of industrial development which the world can show.

Until about 190 B.C. papyrus was widely used throughout India and Egypt as a paper. It was then replaced by parchment.

THE PAPYRUS.

In the manufacture of paper from the papyrus plant the most primitive methods were employed. The triangular stem was first of all diverted of its hard outer rind, and the pith so obtained cut into long, narrow strips. These were cemented together side by side by the application of a second series of strips crossing the first at right angles. For an unknown time the Chinese have used the so-called rice paper, which in many ways is very like payrus. Among the islands of the Pacific interesting forms of primitive paper or cloth may also be found, as illustrated in the tapa cloth of the Sandwich Islanders, obtained from the fibrous bark of the mulberry. Among the Japanese, cotton and other easily obtained fabrics, have for ages played an important part in their paper industry. Among Europeans numerous materials are employed, with a corresponding diversity of the quality of the product, which may be taken to represent adaptations to particular requirements of cost and the purposes to be served. It is stated that more than four hundred different kinds of material are used in paper manufacturing, the final product finding its way into the manufacture of from car wheels to the production of bank notes.

It is but a comparatively short time since all paper was made by the laborious hand process, yet to be seen in full operation in Japan, where the low price of labour makes this method sufficient for all requirements. Now, however, the hand process has become inadequate, and the introduction of machinery has wrought a wonderful revolution. The constantly increasing demand for paper during the past decade soon been directed to our forests, as a source of a material which would be at once cheap, and permit the production of paper of ample quality to meet all requirements of temporary use. At the same time a vast quantity of timber is now turned to account in a profitable manner. In Canada in 1900 there were in operation 40 pulp mills, with an output of 470,700 tons of pulp. In 1895 the total export of Canadian pulp was about $598,874 and in 1900, $2,712,788. This shows that during the last few years the industry has been rapidly increasing. The lecturer went on with statistics of the Chicoutimi, Sault Ste. Marie and Laurentide pulp mills, continuing with a vivid description of the country and general district in which the factories are situated, following which he described the endless mass of tall spire-like trees with their sombre foliage, carrying with them the suggestion of the solitude and grandeur which seem inseparable from forest growths in high latitudes and at high elevation. When the logs are cut they are hauled to the nearest streams and floated to their destination, tossed by the swirling waters or held fast in the unyielding embrace of a narrow defile until released by the daring lumbermen who follow closely on at the risk of limb or life. At the mill the logs are piled outside until ready for use. They are first cut into lengths of 24 inches then barked, next halved and quartered. They are next ground into pulp and the finer parts separated from the chips, and after being thoroughly washed passes into another room where it is carried through a series of roller presses from which it emerges in the form of wet sheets about 4-25 of an inch thick. Then for the production of newspapers the pulp is passed through the Fourdrinier machine, conveyed between a series of great rollers from the last of which it emerges in its well known form. Here it is made up into great which are at once weighed, wrapped, marked and shipped to their destination. And 70 tons of newspaper is produced daily, of this one-third goes to the Canadian market and the balance to Great Britain.

Mr. Rogers at some length next referred to the effect this industry must have upon the forests and its tendency to the final exhaustion of the supply of raw material.

Towards the conclusion of the discourse the speaker dwelt on the loneliness of the lumberman, working in the depths of the dark forests, far away from any community, and pointing out the great elevation in the establishment of reading rooms in the various lumber camps. He concluded by again pointing out the importance of the pulp industry to Canada and the future which it still had before it.

Mr. Fife moved, seconded by Mr. J. Coyle Brown, a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Rogers for his most interesting lecture. Mr. Rogers replied in suitable terms.

THE CHURCHES.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

The Rev. McKee McLennan, of Norwood, conducted both services at All Saints yesterday, and his discourses were very attentively listened to. In the morning the Rev. gentlemen took for his text Isa. 58, 5th verse, "Is it such a fast," etc., and dwelt very largely upon it as an appropriate subject for personal consideration at this season.

The choir rendered the anthem, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" very effectively at this service.

At the evening service the speaker took for his text, Acts 28, vs 20, "I am bound with this chain," and gave a fine exposition of his subject. At this service Mr. Albert Brundrette delighted the congregation with his rendition of the solo, "A Dream of Paradise."

ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. Canon Dixon of Toronto, preached two eloquent sermons at St. John's church yesterday. Both services were well attended. His subject in the morning was "Soldiers of Christ," and in the evening he spoke from the story of the sacrifice of Isaac. It being the first Sunday in Lent circulars setting forth the season's special services were distributed in the pews. Owing to Canon Dixon's illustrated lecture to-night, the meeting of the Young Men's Guild to-night, at which Mr. R. M. Dennistoun was to have delivered an address, is postponed until next Monday.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

A large congregation was present at St. Luke's church yesterday morning, when the acting Rector, Rev. J. L. Holah, preached an instructive sermon from the text, Matt. 5; 16; "Let your light so shine before men that they seeing your good works may glorify your Father which is in Heaven." This is an example, said the speaker of the previous application: "Ye are the light of the world." Referring to an illustration from natural law, the prism which concentrates the light, was instanced. So the light of a Christian must not be diffused into a brindle colour, but must be compact, as the admonition of St. Peter. To cultivate our graces, not separately, but adding each to other."

The evening service was also well attended when the unpleasant weather is considered. The text was Isah. 21; 9: "Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and all the graven images of her gods he hath broken unto the ground."

EARLY MORNING LAKEFIELD BLAZE.

Northey's Grocery Store and Bakeshop Destroyed.

Fire Started at Three o'clock—Origin is a Mystery—Loss is $1,500.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Lakefield, February 22nd. — About three o'clock this morning fire broke out in Northey's grocery store here, and before it could be checked, had destroyed the store, bake shop and a shed adjoining. Mr. Northey's residence, which was near by, was badly damaged and it was with great difficulty saved from destruction.

The loss will total $1500, part of which is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is a mystery at present; no one apparently knows how a fire could have started in the building at that hour.

The fire engine and brigade did excellent work, and but for the prompt response to the alarm, and the energetic work of the brigade, more damage would have been done.

SERVICES HELD FOR THE YOUNG MEN.

Local Clergymen Address Sermons to Young Men at Request of Y. M.C.A.

An Institution for Benefit of Strangers Married Men's Clubs Deprecated.

The local Young Men's Christian Association sent requests to the local clergymen asking them to preach sermons last night to young men, and a number of them complied with the request. The Y.M.C.A. was referred to as an institution which had done a great deal for the young men of Peterborough, by developing strong Christian manhood, and providing the means of developing an all-around man, by the educational classes, gymnasium and religious department. Brief summaries of the sermons follows:

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

David and Goliath was the subject of Rev. J. P. Wilson's sermon to young men last night, in George street church, preached at the request of the local Y.M.C.A. and as a preface to his sermon, Mr. Wilson paid a high tribute to the work of the Association. It provided a club in which were included means for the development of the educational, physical, mental and spiritual faculties of young men. It is seldom that an institution can be found in which all these advantages are combined, and the marvellous success of the Y.M.C.A. is sufficient evidence of the fact that it has filled a felt want. The speaker strongly deprecated the formation of married men's clubs. The place for a married man in the evening was in the home, and any agency which took him from that place was not in the best interests of family life. A young man's club was different, and it was necessary that young men, particularly those who are away from home, should have some place in which to spend their evenings, where they would be under right influences. This was provided by the Y.M.C.A. and he thought Peterborough should be proud of the splendidly equipped association building here.

Proceeding to speak on his text, Mr. Wilson said that young men today would have to face difficulties just as David did, but that like him they could also be successful. He enumerated some of the difficulties which would be encountered, among which were those of intemperance, gambling, unbelief. Young men never had greater opportunities than they have to-day for achieving success, and if they obtained help from the same source as David, they would overcome all the difficulties encountered.

The musical service last night was appropriate to the occasion, the anthem being "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and after the lesson the choir sang "The Mellow Eve is Gliding," while for the offertory "Where is My Wandering Boy," was sung as a solo and male quartette, Mr. Jas. Browne taking the solo. The music at the morning service was "The Bird Let Loose in Eastern Skies," Mr. G. W. Mulligan taking the baritone solo, and "While the Days are Going By," with a soprano solo, sang very sweetly by Miss Bertha Parnell.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

At the evening service, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe took his text from Proverbs iii, verse 13: "Happy is the man that findeth wisdom and the man that getteth understanding." The preacher dwelt chiefly on true pleasure and the ways of pleasantsness. He said that true pleasures depended on the state or condition of the individual and that which would be pleasant to the one would be hateful to the other. Religion seriously considered was a source of great pleasure especially to young men, and such a pleasure that belongs to its possessor and cannot be taken away. In conclusion Rev. W. J. Jolliffe spoke of the Y.M.C.A. its work, methods and benefits, pointing out the necessity of building up strong manhood.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

The pastor of Mark street church, Rev. J. G. Lewis, B.A., preached a special sermon last night to young men, and a feature of the service was the singing which was rendered by a male choir of 14 voices, conducted by Mr. John Miller. The pastor took for his text: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith; quit you like men, be strong." The text has, said the speaker, a military air, and appeals to young men, for it is from them that success is looked for on the battle field, and also in Christian work. Mr. Lewis compared the representative British Commander, Lord Roberts, with his great Bible commander, Paul, who inspired the respect of all his followers. The text represents strenuous efforts, and nothing is worthy of attainment which is not obtained by strenuous efforts. Nothing worth having is secured by luck or chance. The divisions of the text were then discussed. The first was "Watch." The speaker said that young men should watch against temptation, both from without and from within. (2) Stand fast. Honest doubters are respected, for a doubter is not at home in his doubts and seeks to get out into clearer understanding. We cannot afford to trifle with the faith, which has developed the noblest characters of the past and present. (3) "Quit you like Men." Have high ideals was the advice of the speaker, and do not be satisfied with your present standing. The man is large in thought, pure in feeling, and noble in speech and action, who thinks of other women through his mother, sister or wife. (4) Be Strong. This is the result of the others. In order to develop a strong Christian character, we must take Jesus Christ as an example, and follow in His footsteps.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

At St. Paul's church yesterday evening Rev. J. A. Wilson, B. A., preached from Zachariah ii, verse 4, "Run, speak to this young man." In his introductory remarks the speaker dwelt upon the life of Zachariah, who was but a young man whom he prophesied, and touched on the vision mentioned in the chapter of the young man with the measuring line. He showed that the young men of today very often were wrong in their measurements which they make, and mentioned that they need to be spoken to along these lines. Their conception of life is often too narrow and their ideas of duty often too small. The great throbbing world has need of them, but because of the wrong measurements they have taken of themselves, and of their duty, they oftimes make a failure of life. The preacher said he addressed young men, firstly, because they were in danger, of drunkenness, unbelief and worldliness; secondly, because they are worth saving, firstly, on account of their own sakes, secondly for their friends', thirdly for the church's, and fourthly, for their country's sake.

He passed the word on to the older members of the congregation, urging them to "Run, speak to this young man." The King's business, he said, required haste. Many a young man has "gone wrong" because he has not been spoken to in time.

In conclusion Mr. Wilson dwelt at some length on the commendable work of the church and the Y.M.C.A. in this direction and in closing made an appeal to young men to consider religion seriously and to avoid all worldly temptations.

LATEST NEWS OF SPORT.

The C. G. E. "Office" Defeated by "Works"—Semi-Final T. V. L. Game Wednesday.

THE HOME TEAM PROVED STRONGER.

The C. G. E. "Works" Defeated "Office" at the Brock Street Rink Saturday.

Score was 10-3 and the Game was a Clean one—The Visitors Outclassed but They Played Good Hockey.

The eight or nine hundred persons who visited the Brock street rink on Saturday night saw a game of hockey which proved to be not only interesting, because of the personnel of the teams which participated in it, but also because of the fact that a good exhibition of Canada's national winter game was given. The opposing teams were those representing respectively the "Works" and the "Office" staffs of the Canadian General Electric Company, those representing the former being from town, while the latter came from Toronto, where the head office of the company is located. For this reason considerable interest had attached itself to the contest, and there was a large crowd of "Works" supporters on hand to cheer their favourites on to victory, which they easily achieved, the score at the end of sixty minutes fast hockey being 10-3 against the visitors, who, although they put up a good game, were outclassed by the home team, the members of which, it must be confessed, played good hockey, and were at all stages masters of the situation.

The visitors were a well-balanced team, with one or two players who showed splendid form. Regan, in goal was perhaps the most effective man on the team. He stopped a great number of good shots, and had it not been for his presence, or a man equally as good, in the nets, a large score would have been run up against the visitors, as the local forwards seemed to find little difficulty in getting opportunities to shoot on goal. Logan at point, also busied himself in attempting to save the day for his team, and that the game was lost was not his fault. He stopped a number of shots on the flags, and otherwise proved himself effective in his position. The defence, as a whole, however, was deficient to that of the home team, who broke up what few rushes the Toronto forwards made with apparent ease. In spite of the wide margin however by which the home team won, the game was at times exciting, and although after the first few minutes of the game, there was never any doubt as to the outcome of the contest, it furnished considerable entertainment to the spectators.

The visiting team had evidently practiced together more than the local septette, and were accustomed to each other's style, while this could not be said of the home team. Individually however the locals were far superior, while at times they played some good combination. Whitecroft, of course, was the star of the forward line, and scored a majority of the goals. He had the visiting defence "guessing" all the time, while his checks could not keep within touch of him at all. Fred McGrath, on the right wing put up a most effective game, and had his check in the pit most of the time. He also took a hand in the scoring, and sent in a number of shots which Regan spoiled for scores. On the right wing, Renton, who has been out of the game for some weeks, with a broken thumb, played his position well. He was right after the puck, and prevented his check, who was a good man, from doing any scoring. Lee played a splendid game at rover. He puncture the nets on more than one occasion, and otherwise gave a good account of himself. The defence composed of Crowley, Ford and Fitzpatrick, proved a puzzle for the visitors, and the rushes of the forwards usually ended in Crowley's vicinity, but if by chance they got beyond "Bill," Ford took care that the net was saved. Both Crowley and Ford took a rush down the ice when the spirit moved them, and immediately the danger signal might have been displayed for the benefit of the visitors' goal-keeper, because they meant work for him. The work of Crowley and Ford made Fitzpatrick's task a light one, and the few shots which came his way were turned aside, only three goals were scored against him, two of them being very lucky shots for the visitors.

The visitors' forwards were active and fully as heavy as those of the home team, they worked in some very nice combination plays too, but were too closely checked to make their work effective.

The game was a clean one, and only for four minutes out of the 60, which were occupied in the progress of the game were men on the fence for rough play. Two men on each team were penalized for one minute each. Mr. George Lynch refereed the game, and his work was of a most satisfactory character.

The teams were:—

QUAKERS PULLED DOWN WM. HAMILTON BUNCH

And Win the First Series for the Sykes Trophy.

The Wm. Hamilton-Quaker Oats tug-of-war match which was pulled off in the armouries on Saturday night was the centre of great attraction and more than ordinary interest was displayed. The "Quakers" won, getting two out of three pulls. The first was won by the Quakers and the second by the Wm. Hamilton bunch. The third was a keen contest, and excitement ran high. After a hard pull and almost an even drop the "Cereals" were given the decision, thereby winning the Sykes Trophy so far as the first of the series is concerned.

The Cordage Company were formerly the champions, and the "Quaker Oats" men won from them, mine the victor.

Owing to the illness of Four of the St. Georges Players the Game called for to-night is postponed.

TRENTON ACTIVE FOR THE CANAL.

The Question of our Waterways Discussed and Action Decided Upon.

The Importance of the Trent Valley Route to be Impressed Upon the Transportation Commission.

An important meeting of the Trenton Board of Trade was held in the Town Hall, Monday evening, Dr. Jacques, president of board, presided, and in his opening remarks, said as the subject of the meeting had been indicated in the notices calling it, he would merely state that it was principally for the purpose of taking contemplated action in the matter of bringing the importance of the Trent Valley Waterway before the Royal Commission on Transportation. As Mr. David Gilmour was present and had made a careful study of the question he would ask him to address the meeting, without making further remarks.

In his address Mr. Gilmour demonstrated the great advantages to be derived from the completion of the route. What was wanted was a cheap means of transportation to the Old Country, where there were millions of people to be fed and millions of dollars paid out annually for imports, and here in Canada we had the foodstuffs, and wanted the markets of Great Britain. He hoped that the Board of Trade and the Town Council would make a move in the direction of securing the united co-operation of all similar bodies along the route of the canal in bringing the matter before the members of Royal Commission, with whom he had already been in communication on the subject.

After some discussion, on motion of Messrs. G. A. White and J. H. Dickey, a committee composed of Messrs R. Fraser, W. R. Phillips and T. Jarrett was appointed to draft a resolution along the lines indicated in the remarks of Mr. Gilmour.

The board adjourned until Thursday evening.

At the adjourned meeting the resolution submitted, of which the following is a copy, was adopted:

Whereas the Royal Transportation Commission, appointed by the Dominion Government to report on the transportation conditions of the country, has at present under its consideration the advantages of the various routes by rail and water.

And whereas the Trent Valley Waterway is conceded to be a route of the greatest importance to the shipping interests of the Dominion, and it is understood that the completion is only a matter of time.

And whereas the chairman of the said commission has intimated that the commission would be pleased to receive any information in relation to the said Trent Valley Waterway, setting forth reasons why its construction should be proceeded with.

And whereas it is in the opinion of the Trenton Board of Trade that immediate steps should be taken to present to the Royal Transportation Commission, such available information and data as will enable the members of said commission to form an intelligent opinion of the merits of the said Trent Valley Waterway.

Therefore be it resolved that the various Boards of Trade and Municipal Councils along the route of the Canal or Waterway be memoralized to take action forthwith to appoint representatives, who may, at a time and place to be determined, have an opportunity of laying before the said commission, such facts as they may consider it desirable to present.

And further that while leaving the fixing of a time and place for meeting an open question, it is in the opinion of the Trenton Board of Trade that in view of its central location, Peterborough is the most desirable place to meet and that the middle of March is the most opportune time. If, however, Trenton is considered a desirable place to meet, every facility will be afforded for such a meeting.

Remarks were made by Messrs. D. Gilmour, Mayor Funnell, Councillor O'Rourke, G. W. Ostrom, Councillor White, R. Fraser and others.

THIS WINTER.

Wherein It Has Become Something of a Record-Breaker.

This Winter has been a sad blow to the Oldest Inhabitant, says The Mail and Empire. It makes him dumb and impotent in the presence of the youngest audience. A mere child can say to him with impunity, "Gee! this is the coldest weather ever I seen. And, say! ain't the snow deep?" No more can the Oldest Inhabitant smile with chill superiority and begin, "Cold? Why, I remember in the year—" and so on. To find more snow the venerable oracle has to tramp back nearly sixty years—and the walking isn't good, either. If he has his memory with him, he can paint an Artic picture of the year 1845, when this district lay numb and smothered under snow which hid the snake fences, of which only an occasional stake was revealed. But the cold in that record-breaking year could not be compared to the cold of 1904. In fact, the Winter of '45 was generally mild, even if it did snow without ceasing for ninety hours. In only five Winters since the early thirties has January been so cold.

There is this to be said for a Winter like the present—we expected it. Unscientifically we made our forecasts and we have not been disappointed. We had one of the most glorious Autumns in history, and as we drifted balmily through September and October expecting each beautiful day to be the last, we said among ourselves, "Well, when the Winter comes, she is bound to be a snorter."

This we remarked unguardedly, with no idea that it would ever get into print and look so ill-bred. Now Mr. Stupart says that we had no right to make any such prognostication. Because we have a beautiful Fall is no reason why we should look forward to a severe Winter. Because we have a wretched Summer, wet and raw, we have no right to prognosticate a good Fall or a mild Winter. In short, the seasons have no relation to each other. This is what the weather experts tell us, and they speak by the isobar and isotherm, and by other formidable institutions. But we know a little more than the weather men. We speak as graduates in the school of experience, where we have learned that there is a law of compensation. We feel it in our bones that a beautiful Spring, a glorious Summer, a mellow Fall, and a short, crisp Winter are too good to be true. We don't deserve a year like this. Similarly, we know that we don't deserve a year that is bad all through. The most we can say about the weather is that it is going to strike an average somewhere. This is in spite of the rather contradictory fact that weather shows a disposition to perpetuate itself, to maintain its type, as though every day were the father of every next day and the son of every preceding day.

The mean temperature of January, 1904, was about 16½ degress above zero. On five days the minimum temperature fell to between ten and fifteen below, and on five other days to between five and ten. The coldest days, according to the thermometer, was on the fourth, when a fraction lower than 15 degrees below was reached. Some other cold Januarys were:

1857	Mean temperature	12.7	Lowest	20.0
1865	Mean temperature	17.7	Lowest	9.0
1867	Mean temperature	17.6	Lowest	5.0
1873	Mean temperature	17.7	Lowest	18.0
1875	Mean temperature	18.1	Lowest	9.0
1877	Mean temperature	17.6	Lowest	140.
1881	Mean temperature	16.7	Lowest	5.0

It is quite unscientific, of course, to add up the lowest temperatures and see what they all come to, but, beholding them in a column, the impulse is irresistible. We make it 122 below zero. Having gone so far, there seems no reason why we should hesitate to add also the 15 degrees below that were recorded in the present month. This gives us a grand total of 137. In face of this overwhelming fact, it is idle to enquire, "Is this cold enough for you?"

As a postscript, we should like to add that Winters are becoming milder than in the good old days, when the Oldest Inhabitant was a youth. The contrary is the case, and the very reason ascribed for the alleged softening of the Winters is that which proves their increasing rigors. The clearing up of the land has an influence on the weather, but toward greater extremes of heat and cold. This tendency is so slight that no man's life is long enough to permit it being noted

Herbert Spencer in Montreal.

Mr. George Iles, in a personal article on Herbert Spencer in The Outlook, tells this characteristic anecdote: "Spencer was a very 'set' man. At Montreal I told him that the view from the summit of Mount Royal commands superb stretches of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Valleys. But the view from half-way up the acclivity contented Mr. Spencer. He had found views thus restricted more pleasing than wider vistas, and not one step further would he budge, although twice invited. Not far away a costly mansion was being finished for a multi-millionaire, whose fortune had been won with little scruple. When it was suggested that his carriage should pass this mansion; he was indignant. 'It is largely,' he said, 'the admiring the ostentation of such men that makes them possible. Baron Grant, the fraudulent speculator, sent me an invitation for the inaugural of Leicester square, his gift to London, before a party of friends I tore the card to pieces. Such men as Grant try to compensate for robbing Peter by giving Paul what they do not owe him.'"

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

100 YEARS OLD.

Senator Wark Likened to Moses—Messages of Congratulation From Sir Wilfrid Laurier and His Colleagues.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—"And Moses was 120 years of age when he died. His eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated." The foregoing excerpt from the Scriptures was applied to Senator Wark, the oldest living Canadian legislator yesterday. Telegrams of congratulation are pouring in upon Senator Wark from all parts of the Dominion. Here is one that the Prime Minister sent yesterday morning:

From the Premier.

"Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 19.—To the Hon. Mr. Wark, Fredericton, N.B.: My colleague, the Hon. H. E. Emmerson, will be in Fredericton today to offer you the congratulations of the Canadian Government on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of your birth. At the same time I beg to join my own personal voice to the voice of all your fellow-citizens in thanking Providence that your life has been spared, and in hoping that, by God's blessing, it will be preserved for many years. (Signed.) Wilfrid Laurier."

SENATOR WARK,
As He Appears in the Senate.

For the Government.

A message from the Secretary of State was worded as follows: "In behalf of the Government of Canada and myself, I desire to offer you our congratulations on the celebration of your centenary. Your long and useful life, marked by equanimity and temperance, presents a noble example for youth and middle age to emulate. I hope to see you next month in your place in the Senate, when you will receive a hearty welcome from that body, in whose deliberations you have for so many years taken an active interest. (Signed.) R. W. Scott."

An Original Message.

An official of the Government wired Mr. Wark this original message:

"I desire to add my personal congratulations to the many which you have received on attaining the age of one hundred, and wish you yet many years. You are twenty years younger than Moses, the last legislator to cross the century mark."

One Hundred Years Old.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 20.—Flags flew from public and private residences yesterday in honor of the celebration of Senator Wark's birthday. Lord Minto sent a message to him conveying the King's congratulations in his achieving his 100th birthday.

HOW IT SPREADS.

It made the cure of a case of Piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread and although this was only two years ago the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonhardt of Lincoln, Neb., the discoverer, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world.

It will cure any case of Piles. There is a month's treatment in each box.

Sold for $1.00, with absolute guarantee.

Newton's Blue.

It is well known that under the action of gravity the water composing such a thin shell as a soap bubble tends to run down on all sides, so that the walls of the bubble grew thin at the top and thicken toward the bottom. After a time the bubble becomes so thin at the top that further flow of water from this point can hardly take place, and finally the bubble bursts. But before this last stage is reached a degree of thinness in the walls of the bubble is attained which causes it to glow with brilliant iridescent colors. Newton noticed that on top of the thin bubble illuminated by white sky light a black spot is formed. With increase of thickness downward from this point on all sides, a red band next appears; then a blue one; then again red and blue, red and blue, and so on, the colors showing more extremes of red and purple in the higher orders. This blue band which first expands outward from the black spot at the top and descends slowly with the subsidence of the water Newton called the "blue of the first order," and, although somewhat dingy, he judged it to be of the same tint as the blue of the sky.—T. J. J. See in Atlantic.

Inquisitive Birds.

Of the birds undoubtedly the blue jays have the most inquisitiveness. And they are the most noisy in expressing it, although crows will hold a close second place, if not fully the equal. How the jays screeched and whistled and called—a confusion of all the sounds of jaydom—near my home! More than a dozen darted into a small evergreen tree on the lawn. People came from several houses in the vicinity, all curious to know what was the matter with the birds. It seemed to be a "want to know" on both sides. The jays had discovered a cat walking meekly along by the fence in the low shrubbery near and under the spruce tree. There was no nest in the vicinity, and, so far as could be ascertained, the cat had not attacked the jays. But what a pandemonium of jay jargon over one meek looking, quiet cat! The jays outdid themselves and called out nearly all the occupants of the many houses on that street. 7

THROUGH ENGLISH EYES.

Feelings of a New-comer—Homesick Englishwoman Does Not Take to Canadian Ways and Things—Feels at Sea.

Arriving in Toronto, tired, limp, and crumpled, after a sleepless night journey from Montreal, the English woman "just out," feels decidedly inclined to sit down on a doorstep and weep, and wishes that she were back again on the friendly steamer, its bows turned toward the river mouth, says The London Leader. She is at present possessed with one all-engrossing desire. It spells TEA. "Black or green?" snaps the waitress with the much bepuffed and beribbon bowed coiffure and the metallic voice. "Why, black, of course!" she says wonderingly. Later on she learns that among their numerous successful recipes for the ruining of their digestions the Canadians include the drinking of green tea. The lady with the bows in her hair slams down the cutlery and plates with a clash; for deft hand and velvet foot do not count as assets in the value of the Canadian waitress.

Superfluities of Speech.

Also in a country which is always insisting on the verb to "hustle," such superfluities of speech as "Thank you," "Please," "Will you kindly?" and "Good morning," are discountenanced. One does not say, "Please let me have a chop." One jerks out "Chop!" The waiting lady bangs it down in front of one, and ticket in hand, snaps, "That all?" One replies "Yaep!" bolts the chop after smothering it in the scarlet-tinted "sass" or "katchup," that takes the place of our mustard, and picks one's teeth with the implement always provided, whatever else be lacking, in the American feeding place.

Unless one can rent a house or a very expensive flat one must either go to a boarding-house or "room with light housekeeping." The "roomer" is one who takes furnished rooms, including heat and light; but providing her own bed and table linen, blankets, crockery, and cooking utensils. The term "light housekeeping" means that she does her own work and cooks on the "other lady's" stove, and she is not supposed to give six-course dinners, have babies, or do washing and ironing on an extensive scale. "I know I'll never get used to messing in and out of someone else's kitchen and cooking on that, after the dear little gas-cooker I used to have in London," says the Englishwoman looking dubiously at the big stove which lords it over every Canadian kitchen. The lady of the house assures her that in less high tone residences than her own there are frequently as many as four roomers, who all cook on the one stove.

Having explained the points of the stove and its little ways, she leads the way to the rooms, pointing out the rocking chairs and double windows and introducing the black grating in the floor as the register. "The furnace in the cellar, you know," she explains, "heats the house by hot-air pipes, and keeps it good 'n warm!" "Does one draw round the cheerful register on a winter's evening?", laughs the Englishwoman, somewhat hysterically, turning to her husband, for a picture flashes across her brain of a winter evening fireside just before the lamps were lit, in a little English cottage now "To let."

A Strange Language.

The Englishwoman bewails having sold all her kitchen things and crockery as she sets out for one of the big stores to buy a fresh supply. "Good job we stuck to our old steel knives. These blunt, tin things—plated they call 'em—that we get here give me the hump. No decent meat or beer or butter, or knives or bread, or fires! G-r-r-r!" growls the Englishman, who has got indigestion as a result of restaurant meals. In buying crockery and kitchen utensils the Englishwoman finds that the former is somewhat more expensive and much coarser than English ware; and the Canadian taste is generally more garish and crude than the English. Many things are called by different names, too. What she calls a glass fruit dish is termed a "berry bowl;" a jug is a "pitcher;" a meat dish a "platter;" a frying-pan a "fry-pan," and when she asks for a salt-cellar she is given a "salt-sprinkler" like a pepper caster.

The Lion Didn't Roar.

It is related that Pinnow, the faithful servant and personal valet of Prince Bismarck, once trod on his master's gouty foot. Instead of swearing at him or even declaring he was a clumsy fool, Bismarck, noticing that Pinnow himself was frightened, said: "Consider yourself honored. No other person, my dear Pinnow, not even the kaiser . meself, would have been suffered to tread on my corns."

I DRINK TO THE DEAD.

I drink to the dead! Fill the glass brim high,
Silently drain it deep—
I drink to the dead, who lonely lie
Sleeping their dreamless sleep.
Silence! By none be the stillness broke
That rests on the room as a spell;
Here's the soldier lad in his blood-stained cloak,
And the maiden who loved so well!

What shall the draught be?—the blood-red wine
That flows from the trampled grape;
But will that stifle, say, brother mine,
Thoughts that none dare escape?
Ah, often in hours of fretfulness
For a draught we, perchance, may dream
That would lull us into forgetfulness—
The water from Lethe's stream.

Not so! Not so! Let their memory stay
In our hearts, aye fresh and fair;
And we shall see them again one day,
Though years may come thick with care.
For over the waste of the Valley of Death,
And over its darksome river,
The path we must tread with our failing breath
Is bridged by their love forever.
—From "Last Words," by Captain Horace Townshend.

Three Men.

There are three sorts of men in the world—three, and no more. And of women only one. There are happy men and there are knaves and fools. Hybrids I don't count. And to my mind knaves and fools are very much alike.—"Love and Mr. Lewisham."

His Disappearing Pulse.

"My!" exclaimed the doctor. "You've hardly any pulse today!"

"Well, don't you remember, doctor," replied the patient, "you took it when you were here yesterday?"

The Broken Down Nervous System.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is not always the pale and bloodless who suffer from nervous exhaustion, and when a person of apparent good health finds himself almost helpless he gets little sympathy from physician or friends and not infrequently his ills are attributed to the imagination.

A tendency to put off the duties of the day, indisposition for exertion or concentration of the mind, depressed spirits, wakefulness at night, indigestion, headache, feelings of fatigue, and lassitude, dizziness, specks before the eyes, noises in the ears and irregularities and derangements of the sexual organs are among the most common symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

Nervous diseases are slow in coming on and patience is necessary in their treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is absolutely certain to be of benefit to anyone suffering from exhausted nerves, for it supplies the very elements of nature which go to create new nerve cells and instill new vigor and energy into the nervous system.

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run-down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

CHAPTER I.

Uncle Ephraim Barlow was an old-fashioned man, clinging to the old-time customs of his fathers, and looking with but little toleration upon what he termed the "new-fangled notions" of the present generation. Born and reared amid the rocks and hills of the Bay State, his nature partook largely of the nature of his surroundings, and he grew into manhood with many a rough point adhering to his character, which, nevertheless, taken as a whole, was, like the wild New England scenery, beautiful and grand. None knew Uncle Ephraim Barlow but to respect him, and at the church in which he was a deacon, few would have been missed more than the tall, muscular man, with the long white hair, who, Sunday after Sunday, walked slowly up the middle aisle to his accustomed seat before the altar, and who regularly passed the contribution box, bowing involuntarily in token of approbation when a neighbor's gift was larger than its wont, and gravely dropping in his own ten cents—never more, never less, always ten cents—his weekly offering, which he knew amounted in a year to just five dollars and twenty cents. And still Uncle Ephraim was not stingy, as the Silverton poor could testify, for many a load of wood and bag of meal found entrance to the doors where cold and hunger would have otherwise been, while to his minister he was literally a holder up of the weary hands, and a comforter in the time of trouble.

His helpmeet, Aunt Hannah, like that virtuous woman mentioned in the Bible, was one "who seeketh wool and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands, who riseth while yet it is night, and giveth meat to her household," while Miss Betsy Barlow, the deacon's maiden sister, was a character in her way, and bore no resemblance to those frivolous females to whom the Apostle Paul had reference when he condemned the plaiting of hair and the wearing of gold and jewels. Quaint, queer and simple-headed, she had but little idea of any world this side of heaven, except the one bounded by the "huckleberry" hills and the crystal waters of Fairy Pond, which from the back door of the farm-house were plainly seen, both in the summer sunshine and when the intervening fields were covered with the white snow.

The home of such a trio, was, like themselves, ancient and unpretentious, nearly one hundred years having elapsed since the solid foundation was laid to a portion of the building. Unquestionably it was the oldest house in Silverton, for on the heavy oaken door of what was called the back room was still to be seen the mark of a bullet, left there by some marauders who, during the Revolution, had encamped in that neighborhood. George Washington, it was said, had spent a night beneath its roof, the deacon's mother pouring for him her Bohea tea and breaking her home-made bread. Since that time several attempts had been made to modernize the house. Lath and plaster had been put upon the rafters and paper upon the walls, wooden latches had given place to iron, while in the parlor, where Washington had slept, there was the extravagance of a porcelain knob, such as Uncle Ephraim said was only fit for gentry who could afford to be grand. For himself he was content to live as his father did; but young folks, he supposed, must in some things have their way, and so when his pretty neice, who had lived with him from childhood to the day of her marriage, came back to him a widow, bringing her two fatherless children and a host of new ideas, he good-humoredly suffered her to tear down some of his household idols and replace them with her own. And thus it was that the farm-house gradually changed its appearance, for young womanhood which has had one glimpse of the outer world will not settle down quietly amid fashions a century old. Lucy Lennox, when she returned to the farm-house, was not quite the same as when she went away. Indeed, Aunt Betsy in her guileless heart feared that she had actually fallen from grace, imputing the fall wholly to Lucy's predilection for a certain little book on whose back was written "Common Prayer," and at which Aunt Betsy scarcely dared to look, lest she should be guilty of the enormities practiced by the Romanists themselves. Clearer headed than his sister, the deacon read the black-bound book, finding therein much that was good, but wondering "why, when folks promised to renounce the pomps and vanities, they did not do so, instead of acting more stuck up than ever." Inconsistency was the underlying strata of the whole Episcopal Church he said, and as Lucy had declared her perference for that church, he too, in a measure, charged her propensity for repairs to the same source with Aunt Betsy; but, as he could see no sin in what she did, he suffered her in most things to have her way. But when she contemplated an attack upon the huge chimney occupying the centre of the building, he interfered, for there was nothing he liked better than the bright fire on the hearth when the evenings grew chilly and long, and the autumn rain was falling upon the roof. The chimney should stand, he said; and as no amount of coaxing could prevail on him to revoke his decision, the chimney stood, and with it the three fire-places, where, in the fall and spring, were burned the twisted knots too bulky for the kitchen stove. This was fourteen years ago, and in that lapse of time Lucy Lennox had gradually fallen in with the family ways of living, and ceased to talk of her cottage in western New York, where her husband had died and where were born her daughters, one of whom she was expecting home on the warm July day when our story opens.

Katy Lennox had been for a year an inmate of Canandaigua Seminary, whither she was sent at the expense of a distant relative to whom her father had been guardian, and who, during her infancy, had had a home with Uncle Ephraim, Mrs. Lennox having brought him with her when she returned to Silverton. Dr. Morris Grant he was now, and he had just come home from a three years' sojourn in Paris, and was living in his own handsome dwelling across the fields toward Silverton village, and half a mile or more from Uncle Ephraim's farm-house. He had written from Paris, offering to send his cousins, Helen and Kate, to any school their mother might select, and as Canandaigua was her choice, they had gone thither the year before, but Helen, the eldest, had fallen sick within three months, and returned to Silverton, satisfied that the New England schools were good enough for her. This was Helen; but Katy was different. Katy was more susceptible of polish and refinement—so the mother thought; and as she arranged and re-arranged the little parlor, lingering longest by the piano, Dr. Morris's gift, she drew bright pictures of her favorite child, wondering how the farm-house and its inmates would seem to her after all she must have seen during her weeks of travel since the close of the summer term. And then she wondered why cousin Morris was so annoyed when told that Katy had accepted an invitation to accompany Mrs. Woodhull and her party on a trip to Montreal and Lake George, taking Boston on her homeward route. Katy's movements were nothing to him, unless—and the little ambitious mother struck at random a few notes of the soft-toned piano as she thought how possible it was that the interest always manifested by staid, quiet Morris Grant for her light-hearted Kate was more than a brotherly interest, such as he would naturally feel for the daughter of one who had been to him a second father. But Katy was so much a child when he went away to Paris that it could not be. She would sooner think of Helen, who was more like him.

"It's Helen, if anybody," she said aloud, just as a voice near the window called out: "Please, Cousin Lucy relieve me of these flowers. I brought them over in honor of Katy's return.

Blushing guiltily, Mrs. Lennox advanced to meet a tall, dark-looking man with a grave, pleasant face, which, when he smiled, was strangely attractive, from the sudden lighting up of the hazel eyes and the glitter of the white, even teeth so fully to view.

"Oh, thank you, Morris! Katy will like them, I am sure," Mrs. Lennox said, taking from his hand a bouquet of the choice flowers which grew only in the hothouse at Linwood. "Come in for a moment, please."

"No, thank you," the doctor replied. "There is a case of rheumatism just over the hill, and I must not be idle if I would retain the practice given to me. Not that I make anything but good will as yet, for only the Silverton poor dare trust their lives in my inexperienced hands. But I can afford to wait," and with another flash of the hazel eyes Morris walked away a pace or two, then, as if struck with some sudden thought, turned back, and fanning his heated face with his leghorn hat, said, hesitatingly: "By the way, Uncle Ephraim's last payment on the old mill falls due to-morrow. Tell him if he says anything in your presence, not to mind unless it is perfectly convenient. He must be somewhat straightened just now, as Katy's trip cannot have cost him a small sum."

The clear, penetrating eyes were looking full at Mrs. Lennox, who for a moment felt slightly piqued that Morris Grant should take so much oversight of her uncle's affairs.

"Uncle Ephraim did not pay the bills," Mrs. Lennox faltered at last. "Mrs. Woodhull wrote that the expense should be nothing to me, and as she is fully able and makes so much of Katy, I did not think it wrong."

"Lucy Lennox! I am astonished!" was all Morris could say, as the tinge of wounded pride dyed his cheek.

Kate was a connection—a distant, it is true, but his blood was in her veins, and his inborn pride shrank from receiving so much from strangers, while he wondered at her mother, feeling more and more convinced that what he had so long suspected was literally true. Mrs. Lennox was weak. Mrs. Lennox was ambitious, and for the sake of associating her daughter with people whom the world had placed above her, she would stoop to accept that upon which she had no claim.

"Mrs. Woodhull was so urgent and so fond of Katy; and then I thought it well to give her the advantage of being with such people as compose that party, the very first in Canandaigua, besides some from New York," Mrs. Lennox began in self-defence, but Morris did not stop to hear more, and hurried off a second time, while Mrs. Lennox looked after him, wondering at the feeling which she could not understand.

A call from Uncle Ephraim roused her, and going out into the square entry she tied his linen cravat, and then handing him the blue umbrella, an appendage he took with him in sunshine and in storm, she watched him as he stepped into his one-horse wagon and drove briskly away in the direction of the depot, where he was to meet his neice

"I wish Cousin Morris had offered his carriage," she thought, as the corn-colored wagon disappeared from view. "The train stops five minutes at West Silverton, and some of those grand people will be likely to see the turnout," and with a sigh as she doubted whether it were not a disgrace as well as an inconvenience to be poor, she repaired to the kitchen, where sundry savory smells betokened a plentiful dinner.

Bending over the sink, with her cap strings tucked back, her sleeves rolled up, and her short purple calico shielded from harm by her broad check apron, Aunt Betsy stood cleaning the silvery onions, and occasionally wiping her dim old eyes, as the odor proved too strong for her. At another table stood Aunt Hannah, deep in the mysteries of the light white crust which was to cover the tender chicken boiling in the pot, while in the oven bubbled and baked the custard pie, remembered as Katy's favorite, and prepared for her coming by Helen herself—plain-spoken, dark-eyed Helen—now out in the strawberry beds, picking the few luscious berries which almost by a miracle had been coaxed to wait for Katy, who loved them so dearly.

"It's better, too, now than when I came home," Helen thought, as with her rich scarlet fruit she went slowly to the house. "Morris is here, and the new church, and if she likes she can teach in Sunday school, though maybe she will prefer going with Uncle Ephraim. He will be pleased if she does," and pausing by the door, Helen looked across Fairy Pond in the direction of Silverton village, where the top of a slender spire was just visible—the spire of St. John's, built within the year, and mostly at the expense of Dr. Morris Grant, who, a zealous churchman himself, had labored successfully to instill into Helen's mind some of his own peculiar views, as well as to awaken in Mrs. Lennox's heart the professions which had lain dormant for as long a time as the little black bound book had lain on the cupboard shelf, forgotten and unread.

How the doctor's views were regarded by the Deacon's family we shall see by and by. At present our story has to do with Helen, holding her bowl of berries by the rear door and looking across the distant fields. With one last glance at the object of her thoughts, she re-entered the house where her mother was arranging the square table for dinner, bringing out the white stone china instead of the mulberry set kept for everyday use.

"We ought to have some silver forks," she said despondingly, as she laid by each plate the three-tined forks of steel, to pay for which Helen and Katy had picked huckleberries on the hills and dried apples from the orchard.

"Never mind, mother," Helen answered cheerily; "if Katy is as she used to be, she will care more for us than for silver, and I guess she is, for I imagine it would take a great deal to make her anything but a warm-hearted, merry little creature."

This was sensible Helen's tribute of affection to the little gay, chattering butterfly, at that moment an occupant of Uncle Ephraim's corn-colored wagon, and riding with that worthy toward home, throwing kisses to every barefoot boy and girl she met, and screaming with delight as the old familiar waymarks met her view.

"There is Aunt Betsy, with her dress pinned up as usual," she cried, when at last the wagon stopped before the door, and the four women came hurriedly out to meet her, almost smothering her with caresses, and then holding her off to see if she had changed.

She was very stylish in her pretty traveling dress of gray, made under Mrs. Woodhull's supervision, and nothing could be more becoming than her jaunty hat, tied with ribbons of blue, while the dainty kids, bought to match the dress, fitted her fat hands charmingly, and the little high-heeled boots of soft prunella were faultless in their style. She was very attractive in her personal appearance and the mental verdict of the four females regarding her intently was something as follows: Mrs. Lennox detected unmistakable marks of the grand society she had been mingling in, and was pleased accordingly; Aunt Hannah pronounced her "the prettiest creeter she had ever seen"; Aunt Betsy decided that her hoops were too big and her clothes too fine for a Barlow; while Helen, who looked beyond dress, or style, or manner, straight into her sister's soft blue eyes, brimming with love and tears, decided that Katy was not changed for the worse. Nor was she. Truthful, loving, simple-hearted and full of playful life she had gone from home, and she came back the same, never once thinking of the difference between the farm-house and Mrs. Woodhull's palace, or if she did, giving the preference to the former.

"It was perfectly splendid to get home," she said, handing her gloves to Helen, her sunshade to her mother, her satchel to Aunt Hannah, and tossing her bonnet in the vicinity of the water pail, from which it was saved by Aunt Betsy, who put it carefully in the press, examining it closely first and wondering how much it cost.

Deciding that "it was a good thumpin' price," she returned to the kitchen, where Katy, dancing and curvetting in circles, scarcely stood still long enough for them to see that in spite of boarding-school fare, of which she had complained so bitterly, her cheeks were rounder, her eyes brighter, and her figure fuller than of old. She had improved, but she did not appear to know it, or to guess how beautiful she was in the fresh bloom of seventeen, with her golden hair waving around her childish forehead, and her deep blue eyes laughing so expressively with each change of her constantly varying face. Everything animate and inanimate pertaining to the old house, came in for its share of notice. She kissed the kitten, squeezed the cat, hugged the dog, and hugged the little goat tied to his post in the clover yard and trying so hard to get free. The horse, to whom she fed handfuls of grass, had been already hugged. She did that the first thing after strangling Uncle Ephraim as she alighted from the train, and some from the car window saw it, smiling at what they termed the charming simplicity of an enthusiastic school-girl. Blessed youth! blessed early girlhood, surrounded by a halo of fare beauty! It was Katy's shield and buckler, warding off many a cold criticism which might otherwise have been passed upon her.

They were sitting down to dinner now, and the deacon's voice trembled as, with the blessing invoked, he thanked God for bringing back the little girl whose head was for a moment bent reverently, but quickly lifted itself up as its owner, in the same breath with that in which the deacon uttered his amen, declared how hungry she was, and went into rhapsodies over the nicely cooked viands which loaded the table. The best bits were hers that day, and she refused nothing until it came to Aunt Betsy's onions, once her special delight, but now declined, greatly to the distress of the old lady, who having been on the watch for "quirks," as she styled any departure from long established customs, now knew she had found one, and with an injured expression, withdrew the offered bowl, saying sadly: "You used to eat 'em raw, Catherine; what's got into you?"

MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

She tells of her experience in the following letter: "I was troubled with a pain in my heart and weakness for six years. Most of the time I could not lie on my left side. I consulted a doctor but got no relief and was completely discouraged. I did not think I would live long and expected my friends would find me dead. A friend brought me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I took them to please her, not thinking they would do me any good. I had not used half the box when I commenced to feel myself getting better and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers from heart trouble."

HON. AUGUSTUS C. GREGORY

He Is Termed the Great Old Man of Australia—His Inventive Genius—Some First Things He Has Done.

There was a jubilation in Queensland on the last birthday of the "Grand Old Man" of that State. He is the Hon. Augustus Charles Gregory, 83 years old, and a resident of Australia since he was 10. He will be remembered as one of the greatest explorers of the continent.

All maps of Australia showing the routes of the explorers who solved its mysteries mark the tracks of Gregory through North Australia, through the inner part of West Australia, and along the southern edge of the desert. He brought to light important regions that were fit for settlement and are now among the prosperous parts of the Commonwealth, though it was long supposed they could not be turned to good account.

Young Gregory decided that his parents needed a clock, and when he was fourteen he made one out of such materials as he could pick up, and it kept good time for eight years. When he was eighteen he built the first flour mill in Queensland, forging all the ironwork for it from old bedsteads and exploring the mountains for mill-stones, which he picked out and fashioned with his own hands from the granite near his home.

He was scarcely more than a boy when he designed the apparatus for the first revolving light on Rotnest Island, where a lighthouse was needed for the safety of shipping. His contrivance worked without a hitch for thirty-five years, till it was replaced by a larger one.

During his explorations he discovered a bed of iron ore in western Australia, fused some of the metal in a blacksmith's forge, turned it into steel, made a pen-knife blade of it and mounted it on a handle of kangaroo bone. Some officials expressed doubts that it was a bona fide production, but Gregory was able to prove that the steel was actually the product of western Australian ore.

When his chronometer got out of order he was able to repair it in the desert and continued the observations in which it played an important part. Not a few of his astronomical determinations of geographic positions have stood the test of later observations.

One day when he was traveling in the vast deserted plains he decided that his provisions were too heavy for his party to carry and yet every ounce of food was needed. He set to work to reduce the weight while preserving the nutritive qualities.

He found that he could greatly reduce the weight of his salt pork by melting it. He also discovered by experimentation that the flour he turned into biscuits weighed more than the biscuits.

The bright idea occurred to him of making meat biscuits. So he mixed flour with melted pork and tinned beef. The biscuits turned out well and weighed only about one half as much as the meat and flour separately.

These are only a few of the many ways in which his ingenuity and ready resources contributed to the complete success of his enterprises. He was for many years Surveyor-General of Queensland, and in his peaceful old age all Australia delights to honor him.

PRAISE FOR CANADA

London Daily Graphic on Surprising Trade of the Dominion.

VALUE OF OUR PRFERENCE

Choice Compliments to the Colonies From Mr. Frederic Harrison—Command of the Seas Backbone of Permanent British Empire—Without Balfour Cabinet a Fortuitous Collection of Atoms.

London, Feb. 22.—(C.A.P.)—The Graphic, dealing with Canada's economic progress, says the import figures for 1903 are $160,000,000, a surprising result in the case of a country whose population is less than 6,000,000. It is especially gratifying that the spirit of speculation reaching its climax in 1902 has subsided with beneficial results to the general economic situation.

Parker Heard From.

London, Feb. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Gilbert Parker, M.P., addressing a tariff meeting at Bristol, said that Britain for five years had been receiving a preference from Canada representing an increase of £6,000,000.

With Frederic Harrison's Compliments.

London, Feb. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Frederic Harrison, lecturing on Imperialism, said it was impossible in the changing conditions of modern life to make the British Empire permanent. Canada being drawn socially, commercially and politically to the United States. The Australian group would become an Americanized Republic, smart, selfish and vulgarized. They regard Britain not as a mother, but as a grandmother. New Zealand was more democratic and gave us mutton, swagger and impudence, but not manners or literature. Once Britain lost the command of the seas the Empire would tumble to pieces like a pack of cards.

Fortuitous Collection of Atoms.

London, Feb. 22.—(C. A.P.)—The Daily Mail, in a leading article on the importance of Premier Balfour in the Cabinet, says that Mr. Balfour is the controlling force in the Treasury bench. With him it is a passable fighting instrument, but without him merely a fortuitous concentration of discordant atoms.

Yukon's Lovely Climate.

London, Feb. 22.—(C. A. P.)—C. Chataway of Cambridge planted some flower seeds exposed to over 60 degrees below zero farnheit at Dawson City eight winters ago. As they are growing well, he says it is evidence the Yukon is not a barren waste horticulturally.

To Look After Him.

London, Feb. 22.—(C.A.P.)—The railway porter, finding Lady Mount Stephen's necklace, has been dismissed from the company's service for retaining it six days. Lady Mount Stephen has paid him a reward and has offered to find him work.

Like French-Canadians.

London, Feb. 22.—(C.A.P.)—The Times, referring to the conciliatory work of the progressive party in Cape Colony, says the Dutch are now able to play the same equal part freely and loyally taken in the great dominion by the French-Canadian in Quebec.

IN EVIL CASE.

C.P.R. Lake Michigan Is Still Ashore Near Dungeness.

London, Feb. 22.—The Canadian Pacific Railway's Canada Line steamer Lake Michigan, which collided with the bark Matterhorn Friday, is still ashore near Dungeness. Owing to a heavy wind it is feared that the vessel will become a wreck. Tugs from Dover have succeeded in getting water aboard for the cattle, but they are unable, owing to the heavy sea, to supply the Lake Michigan with pumps. Forty-six members of the crew were landed at Dover Saturday night, where they were supplied with clothing. The crew returned to the vessel yesterday. It is believed the Lake Michigan is damaged below the water line amidships.

CAPTURE SOME JAPS

Major, Five Soldiers and Two Civilians Fall to Cossacks.

WERE 2,500 RUSSIANS KILLED?

Russian Mobilization Is Proceeding on an Ever Increasing Scale, and It Is Expected That the 300,000 Russians in Manchuria Will Be 100,000 Stronger in Two Weeks—Jap Railway Destroyers Hanged.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—Major-Gen. Pflug, Admiral Alexieff's Chief of Staff, telegraphs from Port Arthur as follows:

"The situation here is unchanged.

"A sotnia of Cossacks passing through Wiju captured Major Tatsaru of the Japanese army, five armed soldiers and two Japanese civilians.

"The reports concerning the enemy are generally contradictory and scarce.

"Advices have been received confirming the report that troops belonging to the army of Yuanshihkai, Viceroy of the Chinese Province of Chili, are being sent to Sinchifu and Kupantse.

"Manchuria is quiet."

Another report says war maps and papers were found on the Japanese prisoners. It adds that the Coreans are observing a decidedly friendly attitude toward the Russian officers.

The Manchurian Railway is forwarding military trains without difficulty.

HASTENING MOBILIZATION.

100,000 Men Destined For Manchuria By Russia in a Fortnight.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—Count Kutaissoff, war governor of Irkutsk, has returned to his post to hasten the forwarding of men and war material across Lake Baikal. It is reported all the steamers of the volunteer fleets are to be armed.

Military activity is proceeding on an ever-increasing scale, and all is in readiness for the mobilization of the entire Russian army should that become necessary. In a fortnight 100,000 additional troops will be in Manchuria. Three army corps of Siberian rifles have already been organized, and a fourth soon will become completed. There is also a brigade of Cossack artillery armed with excellent mountain guns.

Russian March to the Yalu.

Gen. Valkoff is in command of the non-combatants force at Harbin. Gens. Linevitch and Von Dratovitch are at Liaoyang (about half-way between Newchwang and Mukden), When the 10th Regiment is near Kinchow, the 9th Regiment near Liauchang and the 12th Regiment near Liaoyang, it is intended to commence a simultaneous march toward the Yalu River. While Major-Gen. Pflug is advancing the troops from Mukden to the Yalu he will, at the same time be strengthening his centre and preparing to defend the railroad and the north gulf coast in force.

An enormous consignment of artillery is en route, and it is said without hesitation that there were not over 275,000 troops in Manchuria and at Vladivostock when the war began. The administration authorities of Port Arthur asserts that the Japanese have landed in Corea only.

A RUSSIAN REPULSE?

Vague Rumors of a Land Battle With 2,500 Lives Lost.

London, Feb. 22.—The cables are still absolutely silent with regard to the progress of the war, but there are vague rumors of land fighting. As an instance, the Paris edition of The New York Herald's correspondent at St. Petersburg talks of a Russian repulse on the Yalu River, with a loss of over 2,500 lives. These rumors are unconfirmed and from an unreliable quarter.

Japanese Forced Marches.

The Morning Post's Che Foo correspondent says he learns tens of thousands of Japanese are advancing by forced marches from various parts of Corea on the Yalu and that severe fighting is expected shortly. The Standard's Kieff correspondent hears that the Caucasus and Turkestan armies are to be mobilized. He adds that the rumor is not confirmed officially, but says if it is true it can only be interpreted as a veiled threat against India in certain emergencies. The Tien Tsin correspondent of The Standard reports the attack by 500 Chinese "brigands" on the Russian post at Foochow as probably an attempt to wreck the railway.

Japanese Sinews of War.

Tokio, Feb. 22.—The national loan has already been twice covered.

Russians Mang Japanese.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—A despatch from Harbin, dated Feb. 20, says the railroad is in working order, and the Japanese who attempted to blow up the bridge over the Sungari River have been hanged. Bands of bandits who have been observed under Japanese leadership, are being pursued.

Russians Who Are Prisoners.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—It is understood that the Russians taken prisoners in the Chemulpo fight will be brought home under agreement with France, Great Britain and Italy. These men will hence-forward be non-combatants. It is believed here that Viceroy Alexieff will exercise general supervision over the naval movements in the Far East.

To Relieve Americans in Corea.

Seoul, Feb. 22.—United States Minister Allen is endeavoring to bring all the American women and children from Northern Corea before hostilities actually begin. He has planned to assemble them temporarily at Ping Yang.

Gen. Kuropatkin Raised.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—General Kuropatkin has been relieved of his functions as Minister of War and has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Russian army in the Far East.

Japanese Fugitives Maltreated.

Seoul, Feb. 22.—Japanese fugitives, who were maltreated at Port Arthur, arrived at Chemulpo yesterday, and the story of their ill-treatment has created great excitement among the people there.

Russia Favors Hay's Suggestion.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Count Cassini yesterday said Russia gladly and willingly favored the suggestion of Secretary Hay to localize hostilities, and "the highly prized friendly relations between the Washington and St. Petersburg Governments have in no way been interfered with."

Russian Scouting Parties.

Seoul, Feb. 22.—Two Russian scouting parties were seen yesterday close to Anju, nearly a hundred miles south of Wiju.

PEACEMAKER, EDWARD VII.

King of England Offers His Services to Russia As Mediator.

London, Feb. 22.—Count Benckendorff, Russian Ambassador to the Court of St. James, is going to St. Petersburg to personally assure the Czar regarding the true state of British feeling on the subject of the pending war. It is understood that King Edward will intimate his readiness to act as mediator regarding the war in the Far East if the Czar so desires, and the Count will convey a personal message to that effect from the King to the Emperor.

Britain's Last Word Yet Unsaid.

London, Feb. 22.—The Foreign Office is waiting for the judgment of Berlin and St. Petersburg before having said the last word to Mr. Hay's proposals. The exclusion of Manchuria from the neutral sphere is considered by many diplomats as a dangerous precedent for either belligerent, since it implies that one of the richest and most populous provinces of China can be cut off and annexed by either Russia or Japan at the close of hostilities. Either power wishes to prohibit the other from doing what it considers itself licensed to accomplish.

King to Corean Emperor.

Seoul, Feb. 22.—The British Minister, G. N. Gordan, presented to the Emperor of Corea Saturday a monster silver cup sent by King Edward, in honor of the fortieth anniversary of the Emperor's accession to the throne. Returning thanks to King Edward, the Emperor expressed himself as highly gratified by the gift, and added that he much appreciated the presence of the guards of the British Legation, whom he regarded as his own troops.

The Kaiser to the Czar.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 22.—It is known that the Czar has received at least three personal letters from European sovereigns, expressing the heartiest sympathy. The potentates are Emperor William of Germany, King Christian of Denmark, and King Oscar of Sweden and Norway. The letter from Emperor William concluded with the significant words: "God is with us." The others are of the friendliest character and contain warm assurances.

Regulating War Correspondents.

London, Feb. 22.—Regulations governing the conduct of war correspondents in the field have just been announced. In the event of any contraventions of the regulations, or the instructions of the officer in command, war correspondents are made liable to court-martial.

Both Legs Frozen.

Fredericton, N. B., Feb. 22.—Arthur H. Shea, M.A., a graduate of the University of New Brunswick, and until recently engaged in private teaching here, was found, at daylight yesterday morning dying unconscious in a snow bank without a vestige of clothing on him and his legs frozen from the knees down. He had been showing symptoms of insanity lately and left his home at 4 o'clock in the morning. After a search of two hours the fire department was called out and the men found him and took him to the hospital. His feet will have to be amputated to save his life.

INDICATIONS OF WAR.

Bulgarian Government Has Declared State of Siege Over 19 Miles.

London, Feb. 23.—Telegrams from Vienna and Salonica, published here yesterday morning, give alarming but unconfirmed details of preparations pointing to a war between Turkey and Bulgaria.

The Sofia correspondent of The Daily Mail telegraphs the Bulgarian Government has declared a state of seige over a zone 19 miles wide extending along the frontier from Taustandil over the Black Sea, with a view of preventing incursions of armed bands.

Blockaders Get Preference.

The Hague, Feb. 23.—The arbitration tribunal, considering the claims of the blockading powers against Venezuela has decided that Great Britain, Germany and Italy have the right to a preference of 30 per cent. of the customs duties at La Guayra and Puerto Cabello, the litigants to pay their own costs in the procedure, and divide equally the costs of the tribunal. The United States is commissioned to carry out the decision within three months.

Cattle Are All Right.

London, Feb. 22.—The cattle on board the Lake Michigan are all right and have food and water for two days. Pumps have been put on board, and it is hoped that with a continuance of the fine weather the vessel can be floated within 48 hours.

Every Available Inch of Floor Space Utilized Saturday.

From 10 a. m. till the time of closing Saturday night this store's largely reinforced staff were working shoulder to shoulder earnestly endeavouring to serve satisfactorily the multitudes of people who were waiting their turn patiently. Save for a few moments around the evening eating hour this store was literally thronged all day—and why?

Values (if you dislike the word Bargain) caused the "extra push" of business, and will continue to repeat Saturday's experience every day this week.

As mentioned before the lines are too numerous for all to get a showing at one time—too numerous for all to get a show in the circular—new lines are shown each day.

LAND BATTLE IS IMMINENT.

RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOATS CAPTURED

Japanese Renew Attack Upon the Fleet at Port Arthur—The Torpedo Boats were Captured by Means of the Use of Russian Signals—Indefinite Reports of the Movements of Troops.

Seoul, Feb. 23.—Reports have been received that a strong Russian force which concentrated south of the Yalu River and occupied successively Wiju and Anju, is now moving southward. A general Japanese advance begins to-day, and as the opposing patrols are already in touch, a battle is imminent. The Russian force consists largely of Cossacks.

Japs Renew the Attack.

Tokio, Feb. 23.—It is reported here that Vice-Admiral Togo has again attacked Port Arthur. It is impossible to confirm the statement, but the navy department says it has had no news from Togo yesterday. It is considered very probable that the vice-admiral has made another attack on the Russians, as he is engaged in blockading Port Arthur.

USED ENEMY'S SIGNALS.

Japanese Capture Four Russian Torpedo Boats, Confirming Reports of a Fresh Attack on Port Arthur.

London, Feb. 23.—The Nagasaki correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, under date of Feb. 22, reports that the Japanese squadron has captured four Russian torpedo boats at Port Arthur by means of using Russian signals. This despatch appears to confirm reports from various quarters of a fresh attack on Port Arthur by the Japanese. The report reached Nagasaki from Che Foo, and it adds that the Russian crews of the four torpedo boats have been transferred.

May Have Been Another Attack.

No other news of this attack has been received in London, but the Che Foo correspondent of The Morning Post, in a despatch dated yesterday, says the statement is current that the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers, in the attack on Port Arthur of Feb. 14, sunk or damaged two Russian battleships, in addition to the torpedo boat already reported. It is possible, therefore, that the report of The Telegraph's Nagasaki correspondent also refers to the earlier attack.

The report that large bodies of Cossacks and other troops are occupying Newchwang and Hsinmingtin are unfounded.

British Concentrating.

A Daily Mail despatch from Hong Kong says a British squadron is concentrating there, and that a corresponding French concentration of warships is occurring at Saigon, Indo-China; this is supposedly a result of the Anglo-French understanding.

According to the Nagasaki correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, the American squadron, the vessels of which are variously reported at Che Foo and Shanghai, is going to demonstrate at the mouth of the Yalu River.

Indefinite Reports Printed.

Indefinite reports of the movements of troops in the vicinity of the Yalu River, and statements of attempts to cut the Siberian Railroad, are also published this morning.

The Wei-Hai-Wei correspondent of The Times describes a visit to Chemulpo, on Feb. 19, and the Japanese landing of rations there, which he says demonstrated that the Japanese military organization is superior to that of any European power. A general Japanese advance along the Pekin road to Pingyang, Corea, the correspondent continues, is expected shortly.

Japan's Possible Intent.

It is believed that while the sea power of Russia at Vladivostock is intact, the Japanese will not attempt to land on the eastern coast of Corea. As an evidence of Japan's intention, it is worthy of note that her cruisers are busy patrolling towards the northwest of Corea, and that she is not landing artillery at Chemulpo.

Everything suggests an immediate dash for a strategic position in Northern Corea, the correspondent concludes, and it is possible the Russians are considerably farther south than is supposed.

A Tokio correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says he learns from a reliable source that the Russian minister to China, Paul Lessar, has successfully bribed Chinese officials, with the result that the instructions given the gunboat Mandjur to leave Shanghai were cancelled. The Japanese Government considers this to be a breach of Chinese neutrality, and is taking steps in the matter.

Beef and Vegetable Scarcity.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—Port Arthur is said to be entirely out of beef and vegetables and drawing upon Dalny for a slim supply. The Pronto was sent from Port Arthur to Dalny for refugees. While leaving Port Arthur with all lights out she was fired upon by a Russian cruiser, fifteen shots striking her upper works. The entrance to Dalny is honeycombed with mines.

Villages Destroyed By Burst Dam.

Tientsin, Feb. 23.—A telegram from Tsinanfu, Shantung, says that hundreds of lives have been lost by the bursting of a dam on the Hwhangho. Several villages were destroyed.

FIRED UPON BY RUSSIANS.

British Steamer Chingping Arrives at Port Dalny After Exciting Experience —Russian Pilot Boat Blown Up.

Wei-ai-Wei, Feb. 23.—The British steamer Chingping, belonging to the Chinese Engineering and Mining Company of Shanghai, has arrived here from Port Dalny, and reports that she also was fired upon by the Russians and was hit seven times around her water line. A Russian pilot boat that was coming out of Port Dalny to pilot the Chingping was blown up by a mine.

Captured by the Russians.

London, Feb. 23.—The owners of the British steamer Rosalie, from Cardiff, Nov. 22, for Vladivostock, and which sailed from Nagasaki, Jan. 18, have been notified that she has been captured by the Russians at Vladivostock.

Japanese Inciting Brigands.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—Heavy snows and blizzards over the Siberian railroad, especially east of Baikal, are largely increasing the difficulties of transporting troops, besides better enabling Chinese brigands to operate. Japanese agents are reported at North Vladivostock inciting the brigands to action.

Alexieff at Harbin.

Can't Tell What a Day May Bring.

New York, Feb. 23.—The Chinese minister here, says a cable to The World from Berlin, with an ostentation, that has been entirely foreign to him, has proclaimed that China's neutrality is only temporary; that no one, even the astutest diplomats, can tell what change a day will bring forth in China's attitude. Thirty thousand drilled troops wait only the order to invade Manchuria in favor of the Japs.

U. S. Meditating.

Washington, Feb. 23.—United States naval officers are considering earnestly the strengthening of the American Asiatic fleet, in view of the vast interests of the United States in the Philippines and in China and Corea, and the probability that disturbances may necessitate their protection at any time. While the fleet is regarded as too small, there is a desire to avoid exciting the suspicion of interfering.

A Black Sea Understanding.

New York, Feb. 23.—Turkey, according to a cable to The Herald from its correspondent in St. Petersburg, has lent a willing ear to the diplomatic suggestions of Russia that the Black Sea fleet should one day be found unexpectedly in the Mediterranean. Turkey will be given a free hand in settling the Balkan difficulties in the war which the coming months are deemed sure to bring. Such egress from the Black Sea would release a naval force which would turn the vital question of the command of the sea in the Far East in favor of Russia.

A Canadian Off to the War.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—W. Richmond Smith, the Canadian journalist who is to represent The London Standard in the war, left Toronto last evening. A number of Mr. Smith's friends met him at the National Club at a farewell dinner.

Missionaries Arrive at Wonsan.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The State Department has received a cable from Corea stating that Mr. and Mrs. McRae and Miss McMillan, the Canadian Presbyterian missionaries, at Hanhenig, have arrived at Wonsan in safety.

Two Schooners Wrecked.

New York, Feb. 23.—During a dense fog, high sea, and wind, two vessels went ashore yesterday near Bellport, L. I., and the other near Long Branch, N.J. They were the Benjamin Cromwell, Capt. McClean, with lumber from Charleston, S.C., to Halifax, N. S., valued at $12,000; and the Olive T. Whittier, Capt. Whittier, of Portland, Me., laden with lumber. Only two of the crew of eight of the Cromwell were saved. The ten men on the Whittier were rescued.

Two Men Lost.

New York, Feb. 23.—Two men were lost by the steamer York Castle, which arrived yesterday from Delagoa Bay, in an attempt to give aid on Feb. 21 to the American schooner Willie L. Newton, about 200 miles southeast of Sandy Hook.

RUSSIA CONFIDENT.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—The war will end in August or September in the complete defeat of the Japanese, said a high authority to-day in intimate touch with the Russian plans.

When our forces are concentrated and ready they will finish by driving the Japanese into the sea. Frankly, it seems to us that the Japanese really have utterly failed to apreciate Russia's resources or have counted on the aid of Great Britain or the United States, neither of which ever contemplated becoming involved.

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over.

"Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, Miss M. CARTLEDGE, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga."—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

A USEFUL AID.

The British ballot, otherwise the numbered ballot, used in Ontario parliamentary elections, has been freely denounced by Conservative politicians, who have declared that this condition prevents it from being an absolutely secret ballot, and that it could be used for oppressive and coercive purposes. That it has been so used, cannot be shown, but that the numbered ballot has been exceedingly useful in tracing irregularities and breaches of the Election Act in irregularities, is well established. In view of the irregularities displayed in evading and breaking the Election Law, the numbered ballot is capable of serving a most useful purpose in the interests of purer election methods. Whether or not the facilities the numbered ballot, in the hands of a properly constituted judicial tribunal affords, for the tracing of electoral crookedness, is the real ground of Conservative objection to it, it is safe to say that there are many leading Conservatives in Toronto who would feel much more uncomfortable than they do now, if the numbered ballot were available to assist, under judicial direction, the detection of the crooked work which characterized the civic elections of last January, and now undergoing investigation. An investigation which presents so many difficulties and complications, with so many interests inviting obstruction, may fail in bringing to light all the villainy that has evidently been committed by somebody and in some interests, through the lack of the assistance which the numbered ballot would be capable of affording.

NORTH MONAGHAN BOARD OF HEALTH

Medical Health Officers Report was Received - Accounts Presented.

The local Board of Health of the Township of North Monaghan met on Saturday, February 20th. There were present, Messrs. Madill, May, Sanders and McLane. The secretary, G. W. Bennett, was also present.

On motion of Messrs. May and McLane, Mr. Madill was re-elected as chairman for the year.

The report of the Medical Health Officer was read as follows:

To the Board of Health of the Township of North Monaghan:—

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit my report for the year 1903. I am pleased to be able to state that during the past year, the township, as compared with other municipalities, has escaped very well from the ravages of contagious diseases. Since last January there have been reported to me two cases of diphtheria neither of which however proved fatal, and nine cases of scarlet fever, three of which proved fatal. In all of these cases, as soon as recognized, prompt action was taken, and every possible effort made to prevent the spreading of the contagion by placarding, securing rigid quarantine and isolation, and afterwards by thorough disinfection.

I have also to call your attention to the occurrence in this municipality of a nuisance, and a serious nuisance, to public health—the fertilizer plant and factory. With your valuable aid and the advice of Dr. Bryce, the Provincial M.H.O., a conviction before the county police magistrate was secured against the parties maining the nuisance in violation of the Public Health Act. Up to the present I am not aware of a reoccurrence of the nuisance. It will be your duty, however, through a competent sanitary inspector, to exercise eternal vigilance in this case, as in all other probable nuisances, and report to your M.H.O. as to any supposed violation of the law, so that prompt action may be taken to prevent their continuance. Your M.H.O. desires to thank you for your kind and generous support in the discharge of his duties.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. Newton Greer, M.H.O.

On motion, the report was received and adopted, and ordered to be filed.

Accounts were presented as follows: Dr. Eastwood, evidence, Greer vs. Stevens, $4; Dr. Greer, fees, M.H.O., 1903, $37; Donnistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, fees, Greer vs. Stevens, $5; Dr. H. P. Bryce, Toronto, evidence Greer vs. Stevens, $25.

On motion of Messrs. May and Saunders, these accounts were passed and ordered to be paid.

On motion it was arranged that Mr. G. H. May would act as Sanitary Inspector pro tem and that it will be his duty to insist upon a rigid adherence to the Public Health Laws as far as they relate to sanitary and health matters in the township.

The meeting then adjourned until called by the chairman or other competent authority.

SLEEP IS PRICELESS.

But It can be Obtained by Simple Methods.

Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day's labour, and instead of retiring to bed with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose, do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable itching of the rectum? Do you then endeavour to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion?

If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Milbury, 70 Pearl street, Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching, which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it tonight, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

WORLD'S FAIR ARRANGEMENTS

Mr G. T. Bell, of the Grand Trunk Railway System, has returned from the American General Passenger and Ticket Agents' special convention at St. Louis, at which World's Fair arrangements and excursions were considered by the transportation lines of the country in a preliminary way, in conjunction with the St Louis terminal railroads and the Executive of the Exposition. This consultation will aid materially the various passenger traffic associations in dealing with the subject definitely and more in detail. It was recognized at St. Louis that the conditions would require each group of lines to act separately and for this purpose the New England, Trunk Line and Central Passenger Associations are meeting in New York this week.

At the banquet tendered by the Business Men's League of St. Louis, to the visiting officials, Mr. Bell spoke in behalf of the Canadian lines which were complimented by the World's Fair officials for the comparatively large amount of publicity already given with the object of promoting the success of the fair, upon which there has already been spent by the Exposition Company fifteen million dollars, aside from the millions being spent by each State and Territory, foreign countries, individual exhibitors and concessionaires, which will bring the total up to fifty millions. Mr. Bell's announcement that the Grand Trunk would operate during the Fair a double daily service between Canada's metropolis, Montreal, and St. Louis, passing through the leading cities of the Dominion including Toronto, Hamilton, London, etc., was greeted with much satisfaction by the business men and officers of the Fair present at the banquet.

THE IMPERIAL RATE

Australia Contemplates the Adoption of Penny Postage.

ECONOMICS RULE POLITICS

Prof. Hewins, Secretary of the Tariff Commission, So Declares, and That As a Concomitant An Imperial Tariff Must Come—His View of Derivation of Greatness of Chamberlain's Movement.

London, Feb. 23.—(C.A.P.)—The Australian Government contemplate introducing the Imperial penny postage as adopted. By a system of poundage rates in the ocean mail service it is estimated that £50,000 annually will be saved.

Economics Rule Politics.

London, Feb. 23.—William Hewins, secretary of the Tariff Commission, lecturing on an Imperial tariff, said that the Imperialist movement was not the creation of a day, but was a deep undercurrent which was bound soon to find its expression in a representative body within the kingdom. Politics did not determine economics, but the reverse was the case if they cast their eyes back of the great movements.

To the colonies and other relations in the most distant parts of the world, this movement of Mr. Chamberlain would be seen to derive its greatness from its being an embodiment of some of the most vital movements moulding the destiny of our race. The most gratifying result of the replies given by the British manufacturers to the Commissioner's questions was the great importance attached to the colonial trade. However fascinating Mr. Chamberlain's scheme was to the imagination, it was the material wealth of the Empire which was the basis of its power.

He believed that in continental opinion British manufacturing industries were sinking into third place, and soon our capitalistic supremacy would disappear unless it was founded on perfectly sure grounds. The Tariff Commission's work was progressing silently; it would be better able to capture the position afterwards. Men of position and the intelligent classes would soon demand its adoption.

Move With Colonies.

London, Feb. 23.—(C. A. P.)—Joseph Chamberlain in a letter to Premier Seddon of New Zealand, just published, says that unless we move on similar lines to those on which our great colonies are moving we can make no progress nor have that closer union within the Empire on which the future of the British race depends.

Against Home Rule.

London, Feb. 23.—(C.A.P.)—Earl Grey (Liberal-Unionist) has written a letter stating that since the object of the Liberal-Unionist Association was to prevent a home rule Government coming into power, it is unnecessary to examine the fiscal belief of its members.

ETENDED TO NEW ZEALAND.

Dominion Government Grants That Colony Our 33 1-3 Per Cent. Preference.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—After careful consideration of the recent tariff of New Zealand, under which a preference was granted to Great Britain and Canada, the Dominion Government have reached the conclusion that the tariff of New Zealand is on the whole as favorable to Canada as that of the Dominion is to the far distant island colony. Accordingly an order in council has been passed extending to New Zealand the Canadian preference of 33 1-3 per cent.

Probably Fatally Hurt.

Essex, Feb. 23.—George Robertson of Chatham, who has been drilling a well here for the M.C.R., was probably fatally hurt yesterday afternoon. A chain or hook holding up an oak block weighing over forty pounds broke and the block fell 30 feet, striking the man's skull as he looked up to see what was the matter. His skull was crushed in so that he cannot live. He is about 35 years of age, and has a family at Chatham.

Murder Trial at Brantford.

Brantford, Feb. 23.—The spring assizes opened here yesterday, Mr. Justice Street presiding. The grand jury was selected, and the charge of murder against Kennedy was made. After considering the evidence for three hours, the jury brought in a true bill against the prisoner. The trial will open this morning at 10 o'clock.

FRANCE AND CANADA.

Three Reports Received at Ottawa From Canadian Commissioners.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—The Department of Trade and Commerce has received three reports yesterday morning from the commercial agents at Paris, Lorrainghan and Lyons. Mr. Poudron of Paris says that there is a market for Canadian corundum in France.

He has talked it over with an important official as to Canadian corundum getting the advantage of the minimum tariff, and learned that if Canada would reciprocate by reducing its duty on an article not now included in the French treaty then a recommendation would be made to the French Parliament to admit Canadian corundum as crushed emery at $8 per ton. To get this done would require an act of the French Parliament.

J. B. Jackson of Leeds writes that the shipowners of Hull are anxious for a direct service with Canada. If there were a direct service there would be plenty of trade, and the British people would prefer to handle Canadian goods instead of American if they got the opportunity.

PLAIN TALK BY A PLAIN MAN.

Postmaster at Fesserton has Proved That Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a Safeguard Against Discomfort After Eating.

A plain statement like the above made by a reliable person is as strong a recommendation as could be given to any person or thing. This one is made by Mr. R. Jancowski, Postmaster at Fesserton, Ont. He is well known in Fesserton and surrounding country, and wherever he is known he is noted for his honest, straight-forward dealing. He speaks of persons and things as he finds them, without fear or favour. He says Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are good because he has tried them and found them good.

"I generally use only half a Tablet after eating," Mr. Jancowski says further "and it has always given me relief." And that's what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets do for all who are in distress after eating. One or two carried in the pocket and taken after a hearty meal is an insurance policy against discomfort.

THE BUDGET DEBATE.

Farm Forestry in Older Ontario.—Hon. John Dryden Will Explain His Proposal in the Legislature.

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The debate on the budget will be continued this afternoon in the Legislature by Mr. Donald Sutherland of South Oxford, who will be followed by Hon. John Dryden. The Minister will review the work of the Department of Agriculture during recent years, showing the advancement that has been made, and give a general explanation of his proposed measure, forshadowed by Hon. Mr. Davis last week, for assisting farmers in the older parts of Ontario to reforest portions of their lands. On the Government side there is a feeling that the debate should end to-night, but it is understood that about a dozen members of the Opposition have made known their desire to speak, so that it may be several days before this obstacle to proceeding with the business of the session is removed. The House sat for only half an hour yesterday, contenting itself with advancing a stage a few bills introduced by private members.

At yesterday's session the Provincial Secretary laid on the table copies of correspondence relating to the dismissal of W. S. Cowan from the office of license inspector of South Wellington. From the return it appears complaints were made to the department that the inspector had failed in his duty.

Dr. Barr moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Common Schools Act. The object is to give the casting vote to the Mayor or Reeve of a municipality in case of a deadlock on the organization of a school board.

Hon Mr. Harcourt said there was a defect in the present law, but the remedy suggested was not a good one. The bill was referred to the Legal Committee.

Mr. Little (Cardwell) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Gamey moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Public Schools Act, relating to the taking of the assessment in the unorganized portion of a school section.

The Minister of Education said there was a difficulty to be overcome, but he asked that the bill be withdrawn and promised to, undertake to find some way to remedy the present state of affairs.

Mr. Smyth (Algoma) introduced a bill respecting voters' lists in unorganized territories. The bill provides that the act stand as it was previous to amendment, when the voters' lists were revised once a year.

Mr. Whitney secured an order for the return of copies of Orders-in-Council with reference to the payment of employes at Sault Ste. Marie, with copies of all correspondence before and after relating to such payments.

The County Council of Lennox and Addington has petitioned the Legislature against any change in the method of electing County Councils.

The Premier entertained the Press Gallery to luncheon in the Speaker's chambers at noon yesterday.

The Railway, Printing and Private Bills Committees met yesterday afternoon.

I tried many different remedies and consulted doctors, but all in vain until I started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I had taken more than two bottles when I began to feel better, my appetite improved wonderfully and I increased rapidly in weight. I took altogether four bottles and am now as well as can be, for which I owe my thanks to Burdock Blood Bitters. I can recommend it to all those suffering as I did."

LOBBY INTERLUDES.

"HARMLESS BAUBLE," THE MACE, IN THE ONTARIO ASSEMBLY.

Significant of the Visible Presence of Monarchy—Once When It Was Missing—Sergeant-at-Arms Glackmeyer—How Members of the House Make Game of Each Other—Smoking Room Anecdotes.

The mace is a very important factor in the making of legislation, although to those who carelessly gaze at it, it appears a harmless bauble, says The Toronto News. That it is heavy those who have seen the sergeant-at-arms, Mr. F. J. Glackmeyer, lift it to his shoulder fully realize, but its importance is not so apparent in a democratic country. It is, in fact, the symbol of authority; it signifies the invisible presence of monarchy. A few years ago when the House was spending a dull afternoon in putting private bills through committee, it chanced that Mr. Glackmeyer took a recess for five minutes. The committee rose and reported the bill during his absence and without thought of the sedition of which it was guilty, the House gave the bill a second reading. Horror overspread the features of Mr. Glackmeyer when he returned. The mace had been hanging on its hooks under the table while the Speaker had announced the second reading. The terra cotta velvet cushion on which it rests when properly installed had lain lonesome throughout the procedure. If the error had passed unnoticed the particular village which was seeking authorization to spend $10,000 on improving its water works or something of that sort might have done so without the authorization of the mace. All monarchists must be appalled at the thought. However, the House speedily went into committee again. The mace was placed on the table, when it rose and reported the bill once more. The second reading was passed over again, and the village involved is now enjoying the improvements authorized with no curse of sedition upon them.

"Bearded like a Pard."

For a genial man Mr. F. J. Glackmeyer can command an appearance of solemnity that is absolutely astonishing at times. And yet it is not an oppressive solemnity. Mr. Glackmeyer is "bearded like a pard," and this no doubt enables him to control his countenance in and out of season. There is said to be such a thing as laughing in one's beard, and perhaps the sergeant-at-arms indulges himself in that way once in a while. He shows no symptoms of it, however, and when the members are laughing over some sally he looks up toward the Press Gallery with an expression that says: "Pray tell me the cause of this hilarity? It seems to me a most inopportune occasion for mirth." Mr. Glackmeyer is a tall man and a strong man as can be seen by the grace with which he handled the mace. Nevertheless, he is thankful that the old custom which forced him to stand with the mace resting across his right shoulder on the day of prorogation throughout the reading of the list of bills passed during the session was abolished by Sir Oliver Mowat. During the nine or ten months recess the mace, of which he is custodian, is treated as a bit of furniture with no sacred significance. Indeed, just before the House opened this year it was found to have been so damaged that it had to be sent to a blacksmith shop or some other hospital for maces. It, however, emerged on the opening day more radiant than ever.

"Greenhorn" Members.

The members of the House are fond of making game of each other in private conversation. In a legislative body of which nearly half the members are men who have never lived in a town or a city, it follows that some "greenhorns" must be found. No member in the annals of the House ever blew out the gas, but there is an anecdote told of one member who came into the House some years ago that nearly brings him into the same class. This member paid his first visit to Toronto during the summer session of 1898, and put up at a well-known downtown hotel. He was obviously awed by the hotel clerk, and it was some three days after his arrival before he ventured to approach the dignitary with the words:

"Say, up in my section of the country they usually give a man a lamp when he's going to bed. I may be a farmer, but you can't impose upon me. I'm not going to undress in the dark any longer."

"Why," said the clerk, "isn't there a light in your room?"

"No, there isn't."

"Front!" called the clerk, and to the responding bell boy, "go up with this gentleman and see what's the matter with the light in his room."

On arrival the lad immediately turned on the incandescent lamp.

"Oh!" said the legislator. "I've been using that to hang my hat on."

Anecdotes in the House.

Anecdotage is seldom indulged in the Legislature. Mr. Malcolm, who used to sit for Centre Bruce, would interlard a few in the annual speech in which he declared his independence and his related belief that the Liberal Government was the best in the interest of the Province. Mr. Malcolm's stories were best appreciated by those of strongly Scottish sympathies. Few of the others use a story to illustrate a point in the manner of Sir John A. Macdonald, and his tale of the "little piece of ham," for instance. The practice seems to be dying out even on the stump. There is one Opposition member, however, who makes effective use of anecdote to illustrate his points on the platform, if not in the House. The gentleman in question is Mr. Henry Carscallen, K.C., of Hamilton, and two of his tales figured largely in the last general election campaign. One was a skit on Hon. John Dryden. The Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Carscallen would gravely inform his hearers, once went to visit a large farmer in Essex County, and in looking over the farm came across a field of tobacco.

"What is this?" he asked.

An Agricultural Skit.

"Surely you as Minister of Agriculture know tobacco plants when you see them!" said the farmer.

"Oh!" exclaimed Mr. Dryden, "so those are tobacco plants! Well, when do they begin to plug out."

Roars of laughter invariably followed this, and Mr. Carscallen used to then relate another skit on Premier Ross, and what was called "the loaded referendum." He would tell of a farmer's boy who was told to put a setting of eggs under a hen, and put thirty or forty instead of fifteen into the nest. When rebuked by his father, the boy said: "Well I just wanted to see that old hen stretch herself." Mr. Carscallen never had to explain the analogy.

PACIFIC PROVINCE.

Outlook for the Future Said to Be Most Promising.

Bulletin 18, issued by the Bureau of Information for British Columbia, supplies some interesting statistics regarding that province for last year. Although the mining centres were seriously affected by the disastrous strikes of the miners, which continued during the spring and summer, recovery has been very rapid and the industry is now believed to have attained a stability and to promise greater success than ever before. There has been a general revival throughout the province, production has materially increased and the outlook is described as very promising. A careful estimate gives the total output of metalliferous mines at 1,276,000 tons and of coal mines as 1,686,149 tons, the total value being $19,200,000. Gold, both placer and lode, is responsible for $6,900,000 of this total; coal and coke, $5,250,000 and copper $4,500,000.

Fruit shipments have largely increased, totalling 2,992 tons, as against 2,373 in 1902, the value being $240,000. The total fruit crop marketed is estimated to have exceeded $500,000.

Live stock are reported to have increased not so much in quantity as in quality, while the year's output of butter topped 1,000,000 pounds, as against 750,000 pounds in 1902.

As a set-off to these increases the salmon pack of 1903 was the smallest since 1892, the principal cause being the wanton destruction of salmon at the traps in previous years and the absence on the American side of any regulations for preservation of the fish supply; 473,674 cases were marketed. The halibut fishery is growing rapidly and reached to nearly 11,000,000 pounds.

Notwithstanding some temporary drawbacks, the total cut of lumber for 1903 exceeded that of 1902 by from 10 to 20 per cent., the estimate of the complete cut being 325,000,000 feet. The lumbermen are making strong efforts to obtain a revision of the tariff whereby some measure of protection in the Northwest market will be afforded.

To Restore Leather Bindings.

To restore the leather bindings of books wash them first very lightly and carefully with clean warm water in which a tiny piece of soda has been dissolved, in order to free the leather from grease; then wash with clear water to remove the soda, and dry. Dissolve a bit of gum arabic the size of a small bean in a teaspoonful of water and beat it up with a teaspoonful of the white of an egg. With a bit of sponge go lightly over the leather with this glair and let it dry.

Should the glair froth up on the leather, as it is very likely to do if there is much tool work on the book, dab it until it subsides with the palm of the hand or with the sponge squeezed as dry as possible.

Her Husband's Male Friends.

One of the most complicated duties of a wife is the shuffling off of her husband's male friends, says the Ladies' Field. Fifty per cent can go at once, for half a man's bachelor associates are, according to his wife, not fit for polite society, either because they have no manners or because they wear the wrong sort of collars. Ten per cent she may genuinely dislike, or possibly they may not take to her. Some of the rest are on the borderland of toleration, but most of them have a knack of dropping off by slow degrees. Possibly this is the inward and spiritual meaning of the farewell bachelors' dinner most intending bridegrooms give, though they never realize it at the time.

BARRY'S COLLABORATOR.

Boy Friend's Bright Saying Brings a Half-penny at Every Performance.

That Mr. J. M. Barrie is not the sole author of "Little Mary," that he had a collaborator, who has drawn royalties, and that he has caused a legal document to be drawn up acknowledging the collaboration will be news to most persons. This is the first time in his literary career that the author and play-wright has not relied upon his own talents.

Mr. Barrie has a boon favorite companion, Tommy, son of Mr. Llewellyn Davis. One day Mr. Barrie brought his little friend some sweets.

"If I gave you these sweets and told you if you ate them you would be sick in the morning, what would you say?" he inquired.

Tommy instantly replied: I'd say that I'd be sick to-night."

Mr. Barrie was delighted.

"Give me permission to use that line in my new play," he said to the lad, "and as part author, you will receive royalties to the amount of a halfpenny for every performance given when the play is produced."

Permission was, of course, readily given and a contract was drawn up and duly signed and sealed.

At that time Mr. Barrie was writing "Little Mary." The line referred to has been utilized in the first act and always gets a big round of laughter, which is well worth the royalty it draws, for Mr. Barrie has abided by the letter of the contract and pays his royalties regularly. If the popularity of the play be taken into consideration, "Tommy" is in the way of amassing a small fortune for a boy.

A Parallel.

An old farmer said to his sons: "Boys, don't you wait for somethin' to turn up. You might jest as well go and sit down on a stone in the middle of a meadow with a pail 'twixt your legs and wait for a cow to back up to you to be milked."

Worth Striving For.

He—There is always a fighting chance, dear.

Country Life

Ought, it would seem, to give exemption from the diseases which prey upon the residents of thickly populated cities. But there is no exemption from disease, and in the country, as in the city, one may see the cheeks grow hollow and the eyes grow dull while the flame wastes away with that terrible disease, consumption.

Weak lungs are made strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate and stubborn coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs and other symptoms which, if neglected or unskillfully treated, terminate fatally in consumption. The action of Golden Medical Discovery in the curing of wasting diseases is entirely philosophic. Emaciation, and consequent loss of weight, are among the most striking symptoms of what are known as wasting diseases. The body is not being adequately nourished, and the cause of this lack of nourishment is not lack of food but lack of ability in the stomach and the other organs of digestion and nutrition to prepare the food for the assimilation and nutrition of the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and the organs of digestion and nutrition, and so enables the body to be nourished back to strength in the only way by which strength can come; that is, by food perfectly digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

Accept no substitute for "Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for you, though many things may pay the dealer a larger profit.

CAUGHT COLD.

"The first day of this year," writes Mrs. Kate Schey, of 916 St. Paul Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis. "I caught a heavy cold, which settled on my lungs and brought on a hemorrhage. From that time on until the first of April I bled from my lungs five different times. I was so weak and undone I could only do the lightest work. The doctor told me I was going into consumption. My breath was short and at times I could hardly get my breath at all. This is the state I was in when I began to take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After the first bottle I was much better, and I could walk two or three blocks without trouble. My breath was not so short and I was much improved. After taking four bottles I could work all day, and I never felt better in my life. I think your medicine the best in the world and I recommend it to all who are troubled as I was."

WILL MAKE AFFIDAVIT.

"I was sick for about three months, had chills, fever, and coughed a great deal," writes Mr. W. L. Brown, of McBearman, Jackson Co., Tenn. "Most of my neighbors and friends thought I had consumption. I was reduced in flesh, and was very weak—only weighed 110 pounds; my physician thought there was little hope for my recovery.

"My wife went to the store to get some antifebrin, quinine, etc., for me and a friend of mine (Mr. W. W. McBearman), who had been taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery recommended this medicine for me. Finally I decided to use it, after my physician told me that it would be good for me. I sent and got one bottle, and before all was taken I weighed 149 pounds—a gain of 39 pounds. I am still taking the Golden Medical Discovery, have taken nearly two bottles, and now weigh 161 pounds, which is more than I ever weighed. I am still gaining strength and taking the 'Discovery.' I wish to say that this is a recent recovery, that only two months ago I only weighed about 110 pounds.

"I can and will make affidavit to this full statement any time. If you wish to use this as a testimonial do so, and I will answer all letters from inquiring sufferers."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, containing 1008 pages, and over 700 illustrations, is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 cents for the book in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Wanted.

Summer cottage at Chemong Park for rental for season. Would purchase during occupancy if satisfied. J. Alex. Culverwell, Branch Office, 9 Toronto street, Toronto. 2d

The auction sale of the Humphries woodland and other property has been postponed on account of the snow blockade, until Friday the 26th Feb. at 2 p.m., at the Munroe House, Peterborough, and not Saturday as inadvertently stated in our issue of yesterday. 4d

A Correction

In the obituary paragraph printed in yesterday's Examiner, of the death of little Marjorie Moncrief, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital, it was stated that she was buried yesterday at the Roman Catholic cemetery. This was an error; the deceased was buried at the Little Lake cemetery, Rev. J. C. Davidson, of St. John's, presiding.

St. Luke's.

The Rev. George Ross Beamish, M. A., of St. Thomas' church, Belleville, will be the special preacher, at the Wednesday evening service, at St. Luke's church, 8 p.m. This is Mr. Beamish's first visit to Peterborough and as he is considered the most eloquent preacher of the Ontario Diocese we should all avail ourselves of the opportunity to hear his eloquence and learn from his piritual instruction. 2d

Single Tax Lecture.

Prof. Lee Francis Lyburger, of the Neff College of Oratory, Philadelphia, is announced to deliver a lecture on "Single Tax" in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 24th. Among the many plaudits of the press regarding Mr. Lyburger, the Toledo News says:—"He is a brilliant speaker and one of the best thinkers economic and social questions in this country." One of the Wilmington newspapers says of him that "he is probably the greatest orator on political and industrial questions the world has yet produced." The chair will be taken by Mayor Roger.

WERE MOVED TO TEARS BY PATHETIC STORY.

"Christy's Old Organ" at St. John's—A Very Touching Story.

There was a large and highly appreciative audience at St. John's Sunday School last night, when Rev. Canon Dixon, of Toronto, gave life and interest to the old story of "Christy's Old Organ." From one hundred to one hundred and fifty Sunday School scholars occupied the front rows while the remainder were filled with adults. The girls of Hazel Brae enjoyed a drive to and from the lecture through the kindness of Mr. R. H. Leary, as well as did some of the inmates of the Protestant Home.

In well chosen words Rev. Canon Dixon narrated the very touching and pathetic story, bringing out the daily phases in the life of the street arabs of London. Accompanying the description were numerous splendid limelight views which were made from photographs taken in East London slums. The vividness and pathos of the story were increased by the singing of "Home, Sweet Home," "Bright Home of the Saviour," "There is a City Bright," and other similar selections. The audience was deeply touched and many were moved to tears. The deeply religious side of the story was well brought out by the lecturer, whose visit to Peterborough will not soon be forgotten.

Rev. Canon Dixon left this morning for Orillia where, unless delayed by the snow, he will lecture tonight.

S. S. SCHOLARS WERE GIVEN PRIZES.

At Grace Methodist Sunday School on Sunday Afternoon.

A pleasing feature of the session of Grace Methodist Sunday School on Sunday afternoon last, was the annual presentation of prizes. After the usual opening of the school the Superintendent called on Mr. J. J. Hartley to make the presentation of the prizes offered by him at the commencement of the year to the boy and the girl reciting the greatest number of verses. These were won by Miss Leila Smith and Master Wilbert Regan.

Mr. Hartley in a short address presented the two successful contestants with handsomely bound books, and also intimated his intention of offering similar prizes for the current year.

Two teachers, Mrs. Geo. Syer and Mr. J. J. Hartley, and three pupils, Lawrence Smith, Wilbert Regan and Fred Brown, had been in attendance at the school every Sunday during the year, and in consequence were entitled to the prizes for attendance. Each of these was made the recipient of a book, the presentations being made to the pupils by Mr. James Stubbs and to the teachers by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Wilson.

Instead of the regular lesson study with the teachers, the school had the pleasure of an address from the pastor, Mr. Wilson, who expressed his pleasure in the evident good work being done by the school, the excellent order and behaviour of the pupils in which he considered Grace Sunday School to be a model school.

SOCIAL EVENING AT EPWORTH LEAGUE.

George Street League Held an Enjoyable Evening's Entertainment.

The meeting of the George street Epworth League last night was in the hands of the Social Committee and a pleasant social time was spent by a large numbers of the members and friends.

Recitations by Miss Hazel Pentland, and instrumental and vocal music contributed by Miss Chasty, Miss Ida Sanderson and Mr. James Browne, formed an enjoyable programme, while no little amusement was afforded by the writing of telegrams, the words of which had to have the initial letters taken consecutively from those of a given word.

300 boxes of note paper and envelopes at 25c. each, worth 35c., also a straight 20 per cent. discount off all Chatelaines, pocket books and card cases, at Sailsbury & Co's.

LOCK COMPANY TO BE GIVEN THE LOT.

Upon Which Will Be Erected Large Buildings for Manufacturing Purposes.

A SPECIAL MEETING OF COUNCIL.

City Fathers in Session Last Night—Mr. J. J. Turner Addressed the Council on His Assessment—Change in Method of Paying for Street Watering—Other Business.

At last night's meeting of the Town Council, the question of conveying to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company the lot at the intersection of the G.T.R. and C.P.R. tracks, on condition that the Company erect upon it enlarged buildings, and that they employ an increased number of hands, was considered, on the following resolution:—

"Moved by Ald. Morrison, seconded by Ald. Rush, that the lot applied for by the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company be conveyed to them and that their assessment be fixed at $12,000 for ten years, on condition that they carry out the extension mentioned in their application, and upon conditions similar to those imposed on the Cordage Company."

After some discussion on the resolution, it was adopted, two Aldermen, Best and Johnston, opposing it.

The adoption of this resolution means that the Company will as early as weather conditions permit, commence the erection of a number of large buildings in which the operations will be carried on. These buildings will accommodate an increased number of workmen, about 150 will be employed, and the Company's output will be largely increased.

The buildings on Simcoe street which the Company will vacate, will then be ready for another industry, for which purpose doubtless it will be taken.

Mr. J. J. Turner, addressed the Council, asking for a refund on taxes paid on his firm's property on George street. He considered that it was assessed too high, and he would also like a fixed assessment for a period of years on the property. He thought his firm was worthy of some consideration at the hands of the Council. The matter will be dealt with by the Committee of the Whole and the Court of Revision.

A report presented by the Board of Works through Ald. Best, provides for a change in the method of paying for the street watering. In future the persons whose property adjoins the streets watered will be taxed to pay the cost of the same, the rate for this item not to exceed three-quarters of a mill on the dollar.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last night in the Council Chamber with the Mayor in the chair, and the following Aldermen present: Messrs. Johnston, Edgcumbe, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Scott, Adams, Batten, McWilliams, Best.

The minutes on motion were taken as read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS

Communications were received from:—R. A. Kent, Clerk, Standing Order Committee, Legislative Assembly, Toronto, to the effect that the town's petition praying for certain legislation respecting the Commissioners of the Town Trust, and other matters and was examined by the Standing Order Committee. Mr. Kent further stated that on account of certain differences between the motion and the petition, the Committee recommend that 100 posters setting out what legislation is sought should be posted in the town.—Legal Committee with power to act.

From Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, referring to the above question. The letter stated the Standing Order Committee are more particular with a bill coming from a constituency represented by a Minister, than they are with those coming from others, the former was expected to set good examples. The communication added that the bill had, however, gone through, been presented to the House and is now under way to the Private Bills Committee, but the conditions laid down by the Committee will have to be carried out before the Bill will be considered by the Private Bills Committee.—Received.

From J. E. Farewell, secretary of the Western Ontario Good Roads Association, stating that the next meeting of the Association will be held in Toronto on Feb. 24th and 25th, instead of March as previously announced.—Received.

From the Clerk of Fort William, enclosing copy of a reply to attacks made on the town's management of its municipal franchises.—Received.

From A. B. Cunningham, calling attention to the fact that the sidewalk on west side of Reid street, between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie, is covered with 18 inches of ice and snow. He suggested that the council instruct the Street Commissioner to clean such walks and charge the expense up to the owner in taxes.—Board of Works.

From William Taylor, offering to purchase four buildings on the recently acquired Hilliard properties, and will pay the following prices: A, $40; B, $100; C, $20; D, $40.—Property Committee to deal with.

From W. G. Morrow, secretary of the Board of Education, enclosing the estimates of the Board of Education for 1904. $30,000 is asked for—$7,000 for the Collegiate Institute and $23,000 for the Public Schools.—Finance Committee.

INK COMPANY CLAIMS DAMAGES

From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson, on behalf of the Colonial Ink Company, claiming $200 damage on account of the plant being closed down for one week, caused by pipes being frozen because of the fact that a surface water drain came into proximity with the Company's water pipes.—Legal Committee.

From the Canadian Cordage Co., renewing their request for use of the town hydrants for fire practice and for use in time of fire at the works or houses in the vicinity.—Water Commissioners.

From A. Stevenson, secretary of the Town Trust Commissioners, enclosing a copy of the following resolution passed at a meeting of the Commissioners:—

"That the chairman be authorized to notify the Mayor that the Commissioners are prepared to deal with the town property between Rink, Perry, Stewart and Bethune streets, in such manner as the Town Council shall lawfully direct, provided that the Commissioners are protected by legislation from all responsibility in the matter."—Received.

Mrs. J. S. Pogue, asking for remission of taxes for Mr. John Pogue, who has had his arm broken.—Court of Revision.

MISS LILLICO MADE RECIPIENT OF WATCH.

An Address Expressing Appreciation of her Services Miss Lillico has Gone to Cleveland to Train for a Nurse.

Last night the residence of Mr. James Lillico, Gravel Road, North Monaghan, was the scene of a very pleasing event. Miss Lillico, who is well and favourably known to the residents of that vicinity has decided to go to Cleveland, Ohio, for the purpose of taking a course as a trained nurse, and a number of her friends gathered at her father's home to bid her farewell and to show her an expression of their appreciation of her services, particularly in church and Sunday school work, in both of which she has been actively engaged. A large number of her friends gathered at her home, and after a pleasant social hour had been spent, Mr. Bert Sanderson read the following address and Mr. Ormond Anderson presented Miss Lillico with a gold watch on behalf of her friends:

Dear Miss Lillico,—It is with deep regret that we have learned that you are about to leave us, but while it is a cause for regret to us, it is also a cause of great satisfaction to know that you have chosen for yourself a noble and self-sacrificing profession. During the past your life has been a busy one indeed, in addition to the multitudinous home duties you always found time to take part in the various church activities in the community. Of your work as a Sunday school teacher we cannot speak too highly. For some time you have acted as superintendent of Elmdale Sunday school with marked success. Your many friends throughout the district esteem very highly your labour of love, and as you are now about to enter into a larger sphere of usefulness, for which you are eminently qualified, you will take with you the good wishes of all for your success in life. In token of the appreciation of your work and as an expression of gratitude for past services they ask you to accept this watch. That you may be spared to wear it, that you may be spared to a life of Christian usefulness, and that God's richest blessing may rest upon you is the sincere wish of your many friends. Signed on their behalf,

BERT SANDERSON,
ORMOND ANDREWS,
JAS. B. FOWLER.

Miss Lillico, to whom this affair was a total surprise, expressed her thanks briefly. She had found it a distinct pleasure to be associated with her friends and should always remember with feelings of happiness those who had gathered to do her honour.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening spent. Miss Lillico left this morning for Cleveland.

Let Others Experiment.

There is always something new in the way of medical treatment and you are constantly invited to try new-fangled, unproven remedies. Let others experiment and so risk health and lose time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been tried in the crucible of time, won the approval of public opinion and demonstrated their right to a place in every home as a family medicine.

MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE MATTERS.

Last Year's Success is Likely to be Eclipsed by That of 1904.

As the spring season approaches the question of Association Football is again revived, and the prospects for the Midland Football League form the subject of discussion among the enthusiasts of the game. Dr. Morgan has already taken steps towards a reorganization for the season, and it is expected that the League will be gotten under way earlier this season than it was last year, which was the first season for the League. Twelve clubs were entered last year, and already a number of these have signified their intention of entering the League again, while it is believed that a number of other towns will be represented in 1904. Last season was a successful one, particularly so when the fact that the League was just starting is considered, and the early action of Dr. Morgan, the president, in getting the League under way for 1903, should result in a greater degree of success than that which characterized last season's operations.

The clubs in the league last year were as follows:—Cordova, Warsaw, Havelock, Norwood, in District No. 1; Bridgenorth, Quakers, Auburns, Y.M.C.A. II in District No. 2; Omemee, Bethany, Millbrook, Y.M.C.A. I in District No. 3. It is hoped that this year clubs will be entered from Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Warkworth, Keene, Harwood, Fraserville, Centreville, Pontypool and other places, in addition to those in the League last last year.

The annual meeting of the League will be held early in the season so that games may be played before the warm weather comes on.

All clubs intending to enter should communicate as soon as possible with the president, Dr. Morgan, or M. J. Hutchinson, of the Examiner, acting secretary.

OBITUARY.

One of the first settlers of the Township of Otonabee passed away on Sunday night in the person of Mrs. Wm. Foley, who died at the family residence, lot 4, concession 4, of the above named township, at the age of 75 years. The deceased lady had lived for 56 years, ever since she was married, on the farm on which her death occurred, and was well known to the residents of the township. The late Mrs. Foley had been ailing for some months with a general breaking up of her system, and her death was due to no specific disease.

She came to Canada from her birthplace, Limerick Ireland, when she was about 2 years of age and at the time of her marriage with Mr. Foley, 56 years ago, came to Otonabee to live and had resided there ever since. A large family survives her, in addition to Mr. Foley there are a number of children: Edward, James, Sister Emily, in Notre Dame, New York; William, Mrs. Ryan, of Peterborough; Amelia, at home, Julia, who is a Sister at Brockville, and Caroline and Annie at home.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning from the family residence, to the Roman Catholic church, and to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, where interment will take place.

ATHLETIC CONCERT AT BRADBURN'S TO-NIGHT.

Contest for the 135 Pound American Wrestling Championship

To-night, for the first time in the history of the town, Peterborough residents will have an opportunity of witnessing a wrestling contest for the American 135 pound championship. George Kennedy of Montreal, who now holds the championship, will defend his title against Max Riley, from whom he won the championship in Montreal a short time ago. This was Wiley's first defeat, and he is confident of being able to win back the championship belt to-night, while on the other hand, Kennedy is equally confident of his ability to successfully defend it. He is in splendid condition, and has impressed those who have seen him since his arrival in town as being a likely looking man. Both men have had a work out with local wrestlers, and will give good accounts of themselves to-night.

In addition to the wrestling bout, a number of first class athletic contests will be brought on. Mr. Jack Mason of Montreal, will box Hockey Jones of Hamilton for the 133 lbs. championship of Canada, while Dave Belland and Jack Kelly will be seen in a six round boxing bout for the amateur championship of Peterborough. A number of musical selections will also be given, including songs by Mr. T. E. Crowe, R. J. Desautel and Joe Halpany, and music by Mr. Halpany's orchestra of six pieces.

The programme to be presented will be a good one, and the promoters are deserving of the support of local sporting men.

CAMPBELLFORD 9 AND WARKWORTH 5.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Keene, Feb. 23.—A hockey match of unusual interest was played here on Monday evening between Campbellford and Warkworth to decide the championship of district No. 8. Both teams were in good form and were accompanied by a number of supporters, while the interest of this village was about evenly divided. During the early part of the game the Warkworth seven played rings round Campbellford, and scored two goals in quick succession. Then Campbellford pulled out and scored three; Warkworth notched another and Campbellford one more. This ended the play for half-time. Score 4—3 in favour of Campbellford.

After half-time Campbellford seemed to have the better of the game, though Warkworth played in hard luck, tallying only two, to Campbellford's five. Score 9—5. The teams lined up as follows:—

CAMPBELLFORD TEAM HERE TO-MORROW.

Will Play the T. A. S. in the First of the Semi-Final Games.

The expected has happened, and Campbellford has won the district from Warkworth in the T.V.L., and to-morrow night the winners will play the T. A. S. here in the first semi-final game for the League championship. The Campbellford team has been playing well all season, and the home team look for a hard contest to-morrow night. They believe that if they do not succeed in running up a good big score here to-morrow night, the Campbellford team may defeat them on the open rink in that town, where the visiting team will be at a great disadvantage. The Campbellford septette is a fast bunch and the home team to-morrow night will have their work cut out to win.

Mr. McIntyre of Bobcaygeon, will probably referee the game.

GUILD TEAMS IN INTERESTING GAME.

George Street Played a Strictly Amateur Team and Lost Honourably.

A game of hockey, which created some little degree of interest among the supporters of the opposing teams was played last night between teams representing the Charlotte street and George street Young Men's Guilds. The final score was something like 8—2 in favour of the men from the south, who outclassed their opponents both in speed and weight, and although the George street forwards were able to take the puck into the territory of the other team, they apparently could not locate the net. They played a good clean game, however, and the score hardly indicates the play. The winners played some ex-O.H.A. men while the losers confined their team entirely to green men, and consider their defeat an honourable one. It is a fact worthy of special note, particularly in view of the fact that the Review has continually making charges against the Examiner's players of rough work, that the only two men ruled off in the progress of the game were members of the Review team.

Mr. Ed. Dillon made a most satisfactory referee.

OPENING THE SEASON OF ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

President Issues a Letter Asking Clubs Intending to Enter Midland League to Send Word in Early.

The president of the Midland Football League asks all those clubs intending to enter this year, to organize early and arrange for suitable grounds for games so that matches may begin early and the championship decided before the hot summer weather.

Last year there was some delay, the formation of the League not being a certainty, but this year a number of teams have already signified their intention of competing and there is no uncertainty in that regard. It would be well for all clubs thinking of entering a team to drop a card to the president, Dr. Morgan, or to M. J. Hutchinson, care of the Examiner, who is acting as secretary in the absence of Mr. Ayers. Notice of the annual meeting will be given later and will be arranged as near as possible to suit a representative from each club giving notice of entering the league.

PUCKERINGS.

MISS LILLICO MADE RECIPIENT OF WATCH.

An Address Expressing Appreciation of her Services Miss Lillico has Gone to Cleveland to Train for a Nurse.

Last night the residence of Mr. James Lillico, Gravel Road, North Monaghan, was the scene of a very pleasing event. Miss Lillico, who is well and favourably known to the residents of that vicinity has decided to go to Cleveland, Ohio, for the purpose of taking a course as a trained nurse, and a number of her friends gathered at her father's home to bid her farewell and to show her an expression of their appreciation of her services, particularly in church and Sunday school work, in both of which she has been actively engaged. A large number of her friends gathered at her home, and after a pleasant social hour had been spent, Mr. Bert Sanderson read the following address and Mr. Ormond Anderson presented Miss Lillico with a gold watch on behalf of her friends:

Dear Miss Lillico,—It is with deep regret that we have learned that you are about to leave us, but while it is a cause for regret to us, it is also a cause of great satisfaction to know that you have chosen for yourself a noble and self-sacrifising profession. During the past your life has been a busy one indeed, in addition to the multitudinous home duties you always found time to take part in the various church activities in the community. Of your work as a Sunday school teacher we cannot speak too highly. For some time you have acted as superintendent of Elmdale Sunday school with marked success. Your many friends throughout the district esteem very highly your labour of love, and as you are now about to enter into a larger sphere of usefulness, for which you are eminently qualified, you will take with you the good wishes of all for your success in life. In token of the appreciation of your work and as an expression of gratitude for past services they ask you to accept this watch. That you may be granted to wear it, that you may be spared to a life of Christian usefulness, and that God's richest blessing may rest upon you is the sincere wish of your many friends. Signed on their behalf,

BERT SANDERSON.
ORMOND ANDREWS,
JAS. B. FOWLER.

Miss Lillico, to whom this affair was a total surprise, expressed her thanks briefly. She had found it a distinct pleasure to be associated with her friends and should always remember with feelings of happiness those who had gathered to do her honour.

Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening spent. Miss Lillico left this morning for Cleveland.

Let Others Experiment.

There is always something new in the way of medical treatment and you are constantly invited to try new-fangled, unproven remedies. Let others experiment and so risk health and loss time. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have been tried in the crucible of time, won the approval of public opinion and demonstrated their right to a place in every home as a family medicine.

MIDLAND FOOTBALL LEAGUE MATTERS.

Last Year's Success is Likely to be Eclipsed by That of 1904.

As the spring season approaches the question of Association Football is again revived, and the prospects for the Midland Football League form the subject of discussion among the enthusiasts of the game. Dr. Morgan has already taken steps towards a reorganization for the season, and it is expected that the League will be gotton under way earlier this season than it was last year, which was the first season for the League. Twelve clubs were entered last year, and already a number of these have signified their intention of entering the League again, while it is believed that a number of other towns will be represented in 1904. Last season was a successful one, particularly so when the fact that the League was just starting is considered, and the early action of Dr. Morgan, the president, in getting the League under way for 1904, should result in a greater degree of success than that which characterized last season's operations.

The clubs in the League last year were as follows:—Cordova, Warsaw, Havelock, Norwood, in District No. 1; Bridgenorth, Quakers, Auburns, Y.M.C.A. II in District No. 2; Omemee, Bethany, Millbrook, Y.M.C.A. I in District No. 3. It is hoped that this year clubs will be entered from Lakefield, Bobcaygeon, Warkworth, Keene, Harwood, Fraserville, Centreville, Pontypool and other places, in addition to those in the League last last year.

The annual meeting of the League will be held early in the season so that games may be played before the warm weather comes on.

All clubs intending to enter should communicate as soon as possible with the president, Dr. Morgan, or M. J. Hutchinson, of the Examiner, acting secretary.

OBITUARY.

One of the first settlers of the Township of Otonabee passed away on Sunday night in the person of Mrs. Wm. Foley, who died at the family residence, lot 4, concession 4, of the above named township, at the age of 75 years. The deceased lady had lived for 56 years, ever since she was married, on the farm on which her death occurred, and was well known to the residents of the township. The late Mrs. Foley had been ailing for some months with a general breaking up of her system, and her death was due to no specific disease.

She came to Canada from her birthplace, Limerick Ireland, when she was about 2 years of age and at the time of her marriage with Mr. Foley, 56 years ago, came to Otonabee to live and had resided there ever since. A large family survives her, in addition to Mr. Foley there are a number of children: Edward, James, Sister Emily, in Notre Dame, New York; William, Mrs. Ryan, of Peterborough; Amelia, at home, Julia, who is a Sister at Brockville, and Caroline and Annie at home.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning from the family residence, to the Roman Catholic church, and to the Roman Catholic Cemetery, where interment will take place.

BARONET BORN IN CANADA.

Now Following the Plow for a Living in the State of Michigan—Fate Owes No Airs Because of Rank.

Following the plow on a little farm in the middle west of the United States, living the life of a small farmer of that part of the world, early to bed, early to rise, working hard in all weathers, Sir George Compton Reade, eighth baronet of an old family, once masters of Shipton Court, Oxfordshire, wrests from the soil of the New World support for himself and his family while nursing dreams of a lawsuit which may restore to him the family estates.

It is a far cry from Oxfordshire to Dexter, Michigan; further still from this farmer-baronet back to the doughty warrior of 1660, who received the title from Charles II., newly come to the throne, but even greater is the contrast between the little frame dwelling which shelters the present Sir George, and the gabled, stone-built family seat of the Reades, and its well-timbered park. Shipton Court had, for almost two centuries, passed with the title, but at the death of the sixth baronet, Sir John Chandos Reade, it was found that the property had been deeded away from his successor—a broken entail, or something of that sort—so, that now, following the death of the seventh of the line, Sir Chandos Stanhope Hoskyns Reade, only the empty title descends to Sir George unless he carries out his threat of testing the question at law and gets a favorable decision.

Although born in Canada, the farmer-baronet has lived for upwards of fifty years in the neighborhood of his present home, whither his father removed when George was a little boy.

There he married a farmer's daughter, there his children were born, grew up and were married, and to all his neighbors he was known as plain George Reade, who had a cousin in England who was "a lord or something," but who put on no airs in consequence, but went about his affairs in a yellow cotton shirt and patched trousers, just as they all did.

Then one day there came a surprise. Appeared to the group of gossips at the village store George Reade, his straw "jimmie" replaced by an antiquated high hat, with the announcement that by the death of his cousin he had become Sir George Compton Reade, Bart.; that he made the announcement in justice to himself and family, and as a proper recognition of the honor which had come to him; but he assured them that it would make no difference in his attitude to the community at large, and that, pending a settlement of the question of the property, he would go on planting his crops and trading horses as usual.

Sir George's manner of entering upon his title-bearing era met with the hearty approval of the community, which regards him as a typical, common-sense farmer. He came to his fence and laughed about it with acquaintances passing along the road. When anyone wanted to poke a little fun at the spectacle of an English baronet running a bean-planter, he not only laughed with the rest, but contributed a jest of his own to show there was no resentment. It must not be supposed that he does not appreciate the distinction and all that it implies. But he is shrewd enough to realize that a title requires something more than a Michigan farmer to support it with dignity. Meanwhile it is something to be gloated over in private, along with the family tree.

In person, Sir George is tall and well-built, and he carries his fifty-eight years well. Strange to say, he seems to be more pleased with being "Sir" than his wife does at being "Lady," not that she makes light of it, but being inclined to regard the manor in England much in the light of a "castle in Spain," she continues to busy herself with the pies, and nurses no design of invading the English aristocracy at present.

"I am a subject of the King of England," said Sir George to a correspondent, who talked with him at his Michigan farm. "The title in our family has never been very far from me, and the chances that it would fall to me have always made it probable that I would some day want to live in England. I was born in London, Canada, and came here when a child. My father entered this farm—acquired title under the Public Land Act you know.

"Would I like to live in England? No one could see Shipton Court and not wish to live there. It is beautiful. I've been to England since coming into the title, and met some of my relatives. Yes, I would like to live in England, first-rate, but I would not do it unless I could get hold of some of the family estate. I understand there are titled persons of meagre means who live by their wits and the weight of their names, but I would not wish to do it. I do not have to. I have two farms and some money in reserve, and can keep on as I have lived these fifty years, if need be."

Played an Organ.

The little daughter of a well known New York musician was much chagrined the other day by the ingenuous remark of a "new friend." Said the little girl proudly:

"My father is an organist."

"And does he have a monkey?" was the prompt rejoinder.

WOMAN'S DANGERS.

The Lives of all Women Beset by Secret Troubles.

A Simple and Certain Method by Which the Ills of Girlhood and Womanhood may be Overcome.

Every woman's health depends upon her blood—its richness and its regularity. Sometimes it is hard to believe that nearly all common diseases spring from the blood, no matter how different they may seem. It is hard, for instance, to realize that rheumatism and indigestion are both the cause of bad blood, and both cured by good blood. But there can be no doubt in the case of the secret troubles of a woman's life, from fifteen to fifty. The blood is plainly the cause of all her irregularities in health. Then comes the signs of secret illness, the headaches, backaches and sideaches; the pale cheeks and dull eyes; the failing appetite and irritable nerves; the hysteria and biliousness; the weakness and languor; the distress and despondency and all the weary wretched feelings that attack women in their times of ill-health. And the blood is to blame for it all. When the blood is rich and red and regular, there is little trouble in the life of maid or mother. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are worth their weight in gold to every woman. They actually make new blood. Every dose sends galloping through the veins pure, strong, rich red blood that strikes at the cause of the secret ill-health. The new blood restores regularity and braces all the special organs for their special tasks. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills banish the backaches and headaches, sharpen the appetite and the energies, soothe the nerves and bring back the rosy glow of health to faded cheeks. This is the special mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and there is no other medicine in the world can do it so successfully. Mrs. Geo. Danby, of Tilbury, Ont., has proved the truth of these statements and says so for the benefit her experience may bring to other suffering women. Mrs. Danby says: "I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing to suffering women. For a long time I was a great sufferer from the ailments that afflict so many of my sex. I was extremely nervous at all times, suffered a great deal with headaches and indigestion. In fact I was in a most miserable condition when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but after taking them a short time I began to improve, and through their further use I am altogether like a new woman. I am sure if more women would take Dr Williams' Pink Pills they would be convinced of the great good they can do."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for Mrs. Danby they can do for every growing girl and ailing woman in Canada, if they are given a fair and reasonable use. But you must make sure you get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. To be had from dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Dee's Magic Mirror.

There are several accounts of the manner in which the famous gunpowder plot of 1605 was discovered, but among the students of occult science the belief is that its timely discovery was made by Dr. John Dee by means of a magic mirror. Proof of how general this belief was at one time is given by the fact that in some editions of the Common Prayer Book, published in the eighteenth century, is to be found an engraving inserted before the service for Nov. 5 depicting a circular mirror on a stand in which is the reflection of the houses of parliament by night and a person carrying a dark lantern. On the left side are two men in the costume of the reign of King James looking into the mirror. On the right side at the top the eye of Providence throws a ray on to the mirror. Beneath are legs and hoofs, as if evil spirits were making their exit.

A Good Place to Avoid.

In the northern Shan states, on the border of Burma, there is a tribe called the Wild Was. These people propitiate with human skulls the demons whom they worship. Outside every village in their country there are many posts, all in one line, decked with human skulls. A niche is cut in the back of each post, with a ledge on which the skull can rest and grin through a hole in front of it. Every village has a dozen and some as many as a hundred of these head posts. Fresh skulls are in special request at harvest time and are purchased for large sums, those of distinguished visitors being particularly desired.

She Shut.

A story is told of Count Schonvaloff, a former Russian ambassador to England. He greatly admired Englishwomen and was heartily annoyed when he offended any one of them. While he was in London he learned English, and, having heard one famous English beauty say "Shut up!" to another, he imagined it to be a phrase of polite agreement, such as "Say no more." In this sense he himself addressed it to an illustrious lady the next night at dinner, to the lady's consternation, and his own when later he discovered his mistake.

BLOW TO TRUE SCOTS.

Bagpipes Were Introduced to Them by the English.

The true Scotsman will spend a sad half hour when he learns that Scotland cannot really boast of being the mother—or father—of the bagpipes, and that these harmless and necessary musical instruments had been actually dumped on to the land of heather and gorse by England!

As this charge was made at the annual gathering of the Incorporated Society of Musicians—and in Glasgow, too—it is an insinuation that must not be treated too lightly.

Scotsmen in London are already thinking of combining in a big protest against this slur upon the pipes. However, enquiries were set afoot, and it was found that the bagpipe goes back into the dim days of the Old Testament, and that it was used by the Egyptians, the Greeks, and the Romans long, long before either England or Scotland produced anything beyond mud and paleoliths.

It has been known in various countries and languages as the musetto, the sackpfeife (a most descriptive word), and the cornamusa. In Nero's time it was a popular instrument, for history has it that that wicked emperor "promised to appear before the public as a bagpiper." It is very probable that it was not the fiddle that Nero played while Rome was burning—but the bagpipe.

Shakespeare talks of "the drone of a Lincolnshire bagpipe," and a far greater than he—the British Encyclopaedia—gives much evidence "to disprove the common notion that the instrument has always been peculiar to Scotland."

After this blow to Highland traditions some cynical investigator will prove, perhaps, that the haggis came originally from Australia, that the Scotch broth was made first in Germany, that the kilts were aboriginal garments many years B.C. (as, indeed, they were), and that the best Scotch whiskey comes from Ireland.

But there is still butterscotch remaining. Nobody can prove that this delicacy was dumped into Scotland by alien confectioners.

When Tea Was New.

Tea in the seventeenth century was offered as a curious foreign drink. It was prepared with care and drunk with some trepidation. Ladies often took brandy afterward as a corrective. A learned physician, Dr. Lister, wrote that "tea and coffee were permitted by God's providence for lessening the number of mankind by shortening life, as a kind of silent plague."—Besant's Survey of London.

HOMESICK.

It stands afar midst happy, sunnilt fields,
A little farmhouse, brown and old,
With ancient ivy-covered, buttress-ed walls,
And straw-thatched roof of gold;
And I a wanderer from the dusty town,
Grown weary of its heavy ways,
Wistful, from off the hot white road, look down
And long for the old days.

For there the nights were blessed with quiet sleep,
The days were filled with happy cares,
And there the skies seemed ever blue, and there
Was time for peace and prayers;
While youth and laughter, joy and hope and love
Sang in my heart a happy song.
Ah me! a song that's hushed forever more,
The crowded streets among.

And now I stand and gaze, with heavy heart,
Across dear fields in longing sere,
To where another woman, happier far,
Looks from the low half-door
Oh, little farmhouse, old, and brown, and sweet,
I wake when all the world's at rest
And think of you, and long for the old peace
And the untroubled breast.

—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Pyx Chapel.

The many visitors to London who flock here at this time of year will be interested to hear that the Pyx Chapel, in Westminster Abbey, which has hitherto been jealously guarded from the public gaze, is shortly to be lighted by electricity and thrown open for general inspection. Here was formerly the Royal strong room, where the regalia and the King's money were kept, and from this treasury in 1303, while Edward I. was warring in Scotland, was stolen the £100,000 which was to pay the expenses of the campaign. The stone door, with seven locks, had formerly a covering of human skins, and one wonders if they were those of the daring robbers of Plantagenet times. The Pyz, which contained the standard pieces of gold and silver used at the "trial of the pyx," first ordered in the reign of Henry II., has been transferred to the mint, and the regalia, since the restoration, have been kept at the Tower. The only object of interest now to be seen in the chapel, if we except a few ancient chests, is an old stone altar, and there is no longer any reason for keeping it under lock and key.—London Chronicle.

Dundonald Story.

The London News, speaking of Lord Dundonald, says:

In the Admiralty there is said to be pigeon-holed a plan for an infernal machine, which was prepared by His Lordship's distinguished grandfather, the tenth Earl. In the course of the Napoleonic wars he, while Lord Cochrane, submitted it to the chiefs of the navy, but it was rejected as being too "barbarous, fiendish and horrible" to be employed against a Christian foe. In the course of the Crimean war, Cochrane, then Lord Dundonald, a second time brought his idea before the Admiralty, and again its inhuman character secured its rejection.

Queen Victoria's Tact.

There is a pretty story in connection with the late Italian Ambassador, Baron de Renzis de Montanaro, who, on arriving at Windsor to present his credentials, asked one of the gentlemen-in-waiting if he should kiss Queen Victoria's hand on presentation. Unable to give a reply, he referred him to another official, who, in turn, asked the late Marquis of Salisbury to decide the point. But he, nonplused, applied direct to Her Majesty, who graciously answered that it was not the custom, but she would be very pleased if His Excellency would do so.—London Onlooker.

The Broken Down Nervous System.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is not always the pale and bloodless who suffer from nervous exhaustion, and when a person of apparent good health finds himself almost helpless he gets little sympathy from physician or friends and not infrequently his ills are attributed to the imagination.

A tendency to put off the duties of the day, indisposition for exertion or concentration of the mind, depressed spirits, wakefulness at night, indigestion, headache, feelings of fatigue, and lassitude, dizziness, specks before the eyes, noises in the ears and irregularities and derangements of the sexual organs are among the most common symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

Nervous diseases are slow in coming on and patience is necessary in their treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is absolutely certain to be of benefit to anyone suffering from exhausted nerves, for it supplies the very elements of nature which go to create new nerve cells and instill new vigor and energy into the nervous system.

Mrs. J. Hatcher, 224 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton foundry, states:—

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run-down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

It was the first time Aunt Betsy had called a name so obnoxious to Kate, especially when, as in the present case, great emphasis was laid upon the nine, and from past experience Katy knew that her good aunt was displeased. Her first impulse was to accept the dish refused, but when she remembered her reason for refusing, she said, laughingly: "Excuse me, Aunt Betsy, I love them still, but—but—well, the fact is, I am going by and by to run over and see Cousin Morris, inasmuch as he was not polite enough to come here, and you know it might not be so pleasant."

"The land!" and Aunty Betsy brightened. "If that's all, eat 'em 'Tain't no ways likely you'll get near enough to him to make any difference—only turn your head when you shake hands."

But Katy remained incorrigible, while Helen, who guessed that her impulsive sister was contemplating a warmer greeting of the doctor than a mere shaking of his hands, kindly turned the conversation by telling how Morris was improved by his tour abroad, and how much the poor people thought of him.

"He is very fine looking, too," she said, whereupon Katy involuntarily exclaimed: "I wonder if he is as handsome as Wilford Cameron? Oh, I never wrote about him, did I?" and the little maiden began to blush as she stirred her tea industriously.

"Who is Wilford Cameron?" asked Mrs. Lennox.

"Oh, he's Wilford Cameron, that's all; lives on Fifth Avenue—is a lawyer—is very rich—a friend of Mrs. Woodhull, and was with us in our travels," Kate answered rapidly, the red burning on her cheeks so brightly that Aunt Betsy innocently passed her a big feather fan, saying "she looked mighty hot."

And Katy was warm, but whether from talking of Wilford Cameron or not none could tell. She said no more of him, but went on to speak of Morris, asking if it were true, as she had heard, that he built the new church in Silverton.

"Yes, and runs it, too," Aunt Betsy answered energetically, proceeding to tell "what goin's on they had, with the minister shiftin' his clothes now and ag'in, and the folks all talkin' together. Morris got me in once," she said, "and I thought meetin' was let out half a dozen times, so much h'istin' round as there was. I'd as soon go to a show if it was a good one, and I told Morris so. He laughed and said I'd feel different when I knew 'em better; but needn't tell me that prayers made up is as good as them as isn't, though Morris, I do believe, will get to Heaven a long ways ahead of me, if he is a 'Piscopal."

"If you'll believe it, Helen here is one of 'em, and has got a sight of 'Piscopal quirks into her head. Why, she and Morris sing that talkin'-like singin' Sundays when the folks get up and Helen plays the accordeon."

"Melodeon, aunty, melodeon," and Helen laughed merrily at her aunt's mistake, turning the conversation again, and this time to Canandaigua, where she had some acquaintances.

But Katy was so much afraid of Canandaigua, and what talking of it might lead to, that she kept to Cousin Morris, asking innumerable questions about his house and grounds, and whether there was as many flowers there now as there used to be in the days when she and Helen went to say their lessons at Linwood, as they had done before Morris sailed for Europe.

"I think it right mean in him not to be here to see me," she said, poutingly, "and I am going over as quick as I eat my dinner."

But against this all exclaimed at once. She was too tired, the mother said, she must lie down and rest, while Helen suggested that she had not told them about her trip, and Uncle Ephraim remarked that she would not find Morris at home, as he was going that afternoon to Spencer.

"Are you glad to have me home again, Uncle Eph?" she asked when once she caught him regarding her with a peculiar look.

"Yes, Katy-did, very glad," he answered; "I've missed you every day, though you do nothing much but bother me."

"Why did you look so funny at me just now?" Kate continued, and the deacon replied: "I was thinking how hard it would be for such a highty-tighty thing as you to meet the crosses and disappointments which lie all along the road which you must travel. I should hate to see your young life crushed out of you, as young lives sometimes are?"

"Oh, never fear for me. I am going to be happy all my life long. Wilford Cameron said I ought to be."

"I don't know who Wilford Cameron is, but there's no ought about it," the deacon rejoined. "God marks out the path for us to walk in, and when he says it's best, we know it is, though some are straight and pleasant and others crooked and hard."

"I'll choose the straight and pleasant then—why shouldn't I?" Katy asked.

"Can't tell what path you'll take," the deacon answered. "God knows whether you'll easy through the world, or whether he'll send you suffering to purify and make you better."

"Purified by suffering," Katy said aloud, while a shadow involuntarily crept for an instant over her gay spirits.

It was supper time ere long, and after that was over Kate announced her intention of going to Linwood whether Morris was there or not.

"I can see the housekeeper and the birds and flowers," she said, as she swung her straw hat by the string and started from the door.

"Ain't Helen going with you?" Aunt Hannah asked, while Helen herself looked a little surprised.

But Katy would rather go alone. She had a heap to tell Cousin Morris, and Helen could go next time.

"Just as you like," Helen answered good-naturedly, and so Katy went alone to call on Morris Grant.

CHAPTER II.

Morris had returned from Spencer, and in his dressing gown and slippers was sitting by the window of his library, looking out upon the purple sunshine flooding the western sky, and thinking of the little girl coming so rapidly up the grassy lane in the rear of the house. He was going over to see her by and by, he said, and he pictured to himself how she must look by this time, hoping that he should not find her greatly changed, for Morris Grant's memories were very precious of the play-child who used to tease and worry him so much with her lessons poorly learned, and the never-ending jokes played off upon her teacher. How then was he amazed when, just as the sun was going down and he was watching its last rays lingering on the brow of the hill across the pond, the library door was opened wide and the room suddenly filled with life and joy, as a graceful figure, with reddish golden hair, bounded across the floor, and winding its arms around his neck gave him the hearty kiss which Katy had in her mind when she declined Aunt Betsy's favorite vegetable.

Morris Grant was not averse to being kissed, and yet the fact that Katy Lennox had kissed him in such a way awoke a chill of disappointment, for it said that to her he was the teacher still, the elder brother, whom, as a child, she had loaded with caresses.

"Oh, Cousin Morris!" she exclaimed, "why didn't you come over at noon, you naughty boy! But what a splendid-looking man you've got to be! and what do you think of me?" she added, blushing for the first time, as he held her off from him and looked into the sunny face.

"I think you wholly unchanged," he answered, so gravely that Katy began to pout as she said: "And you are sorry, I know. Pray what did you expect of me, and what would you have me be?"

"Nothing but what you are—the same Kitty as of old," he answered, his own bright smile breaking all over his sober face.

He saw that his manner repelled her, and he tried to be natural, succeeding so well that Katy forgot her first disappointment, and making him sit by her side on the sofa, where she could see him distinctly, she poured forth a volley of talk, telling him, among other things, how much afraid of him some of his letters made her—they were so serious and so like a sermon.

"You wrote me once that you thought of being a minister," she added, "Why did you change your mind? It must be splendid, I think, to be a young clergyman—invited to so many tea-drinkings—and having all the girls in the parish after you, as they always are after unmarried ministers."

"I did not decide rashly," he said, "but after weeks of anxious thought and prayer for guidance I came to the conclusion that in the practice of medicine, I could find perhaps as broad a field for good as in the church, and so I decided to go on with my profession—to be a physician of the poor and suffering, speaking to them of Him who came to save, and in this way I shall not labor in vain. Many would seek another place than Silverton and its vicinity, but something told me that my work was here, and so I am content to stay, feeling thankful that my means admit of my waiting for patients, if need be, and at the same time ministering to the wants of those who are needy."

Gradually, as he talked, there came into his face a light, born only from the peace which passeth understanding and the awe-struck Katy crept closer to his side and grasping his hand in hers, said softly: "Dear cousin, what a good man you are, and how silly I must seem to you, thinking you cared for tea-drinkings, or even girls, when, of course, you do not."

"Perhaps I do," the doctor replied, slightly pressing the warm, fat hand holding his so fast. "A minister's or a doctor's life would be very dreary indeed if there was no one to share it, and I have had my dreams of the girls, or girl, who was some days to brighten my home."

He looked fully at Katy now, but she was thinking of something else adn her next remark was to ask him rather abruptly how old he was?"

"Twenty-six last May," he answered, while Katy continued: "You are not old enough to be married yet. Wilford Cameron is thirty."

"Where did you meet Wilford Cameron?" Morris asked, in some surprise, and then the story which Katy had not told, even to her sister, came out in full, and Morris tried to listen patiently while Katy explained how, on the very first day of the examination, Mrs. Woodhull had come in, and with her the grandest, proudest looking man, who the girls said was Mr. Wilford Cameron, from New York, a fastidious bachelor, whose family were noted for their wealth and exclusiveness, keeping six servants and living in the finest style; that Mrs. Woodhull, who all through the year had been very kind to Katy, came to her after school and invited her home to tea; that she had gone and met Mr. Cameron; that she was very much afraid of him at first, and was not sure that she was quite over it now, although he was so polite to her all through the journey, taking so much pains to have her see the finest sights and laughing at her enthusiasm.

"Wilford Cameron with you in your trip?" Morris asked, a new idea dawning on his mind.

"Yes, let me tell you," and Katy spoke rapidly. "I saw him that night, and then — well, I rode alone with him once down by the lake, and he talked to me just as if he was not a grand man and I a school-girl. And when the term closed, I staid at Mrs. Woodhull's and he was there. He liked my playing and liked my singing, and I guess he liked me—that is, you know—yes, he liked me some," and Katy twisted the fringe of her shawl, while Morris, in spite of the pain tugging at his heart strings, laughed aloud as, he rejoined, "I have no doubt he did; but go on—what next?"

"He said more about my joining the party than anybody, and I am very sure he paid the bills."

"Oh Katy," and Morris started as if he had been stung, "I would rather have given Linwood than have you thus indebted to Wilford Cameron, or any other man."

"I could not help it. I did not mean any harm" Katy said, timidly, explaining how she had shrunk from the proposition which Mrs. Woodhull thought was right, urging it until she consented, and telling how kind Mr. Cameron was, and how careful not to remind her of her indebtedness to him, attending to and anticipating every want as if she had been his sister.

"You would like Mr. Cameron, Cousin Morris. He made me think of you a little, only he is prouder," and Katy's hand moved up Morris's coat sleeve till it rested on his shoulder.

"Perhaps so," Morris answered, feeling a growing resentment towards one who it seemed to him, had done him a great wrong.

But Wilford was not to blame, he reflected. He could not help admiring the bright little Katy—and so conquering all ungenerous feelings, he turned to her at last, and said:

"Did my little Cousin Kitty like Wilford Cameron?"

Something in Morris's voice startled Katy strangely; her hand came down from his shoulder, and for an instant there swept over her an emotion similar to what she had felt when with Wilford Cameron she rambled along the shores of Lake George, or sat alone with him on the deck of the steamer which carried them down Lake Champlain.

Morris had always been her brother, and she did not guess that she was more to him than a sister, so she answered frankly at last: "I guess I did like him a little. I couldn't help it, Morris. You could not either, or any one. I believe Mrs. Woodhull was more than half in love with him herself, and she talked so much of his family; they must be very grand."

"Yes, I know those Camerons," was Morris's quiet remark.

"What! You don't know Wilford?" Katy almost screamed, and Morris replied: "Not Wilford, no; but the mother and the sisters were in Paris, and I met them many times."

"What were they doing in Paris?" Katy asked, and Morris replied that he believed the immediate object of their being there, was to obtain the best medical advice for a little orphan grandchild, a bright, beautiful boy, to whom some terrible accident had happened in infancy, preventing his walking entirely, and making him nearly helpless. His name was Jamie, Morris said, and as he saw that Katy was interested, he told her how sweet-tempered the little fellow was, how patient under suffering, and how eagerly he listened, when Morris, who at one time attended him, told him of the Saviour and his love for little children.

Doan's Kidney Pills

FINALLY MADE A COMPLETE CURE.

Mr. Jacob Jamieson, Jamieson Bros., the well-known Contractors and Builders, Welland, Ont., tells of how he was cured: "For fourteen years I was afflicted with kidney trouble which increased in severity the last five years. My most serious attack was four years ago, when I was completely incapacitated. I had terrible pains across my back, floating specks before my eyes and was in almost constant torment. I could not sit or stand with ease and was a wreck in health, having no appetite and lost greatly in flesh. I had taken medicine from five different doctors and also numerous other preparations to no purpose. I finally began to take Doan's Kidney Pills and before I had taken five boxes the trouble left me and I now feel better than I have for twenty years. Those who know me know how I was afflicted and say it is almost impossible to believe that I have been cured, yet they know it is so. I have passed the meridian of life but I feel that I have taken on the rosy hue of boyhood."

"About a year ago I had a very bad cough and feared it would run into consumption," writes Hon. Geo. W. Lynch, of 27 Mason Street, Worcester, Mass. "When a severe attack of coughing would come on vomiting would set in. Matter accumulated in nose and my tonsils were irritated. After reading of the wonderful cures resulting from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery began to use it, with some doubts as to the good it would do me. I am frank to say. But, after I had used one bottle I noticed quite a change for the better. Ordered five more bottles and before I had used them all the cure was complete. There is not now a trace of cough or cold in my system and my health is perfect."

Sir Henry Irving's Empty House.

On one occasion Sir Henry Irving and another unknown actor, being especially in need of money arranged to go down to Linoleth, where Irving was to read the "Lady of Lyons." His companion billed the town and engaged the hall, and Irving was announced to appear "at precisely eight o'clock." At that hour the two friends left their hotel and found the Town Hall not only deserted, but locked. When they hunted up the old Scotch janitor they were discomfited to find that he had forgotten all about the reading! But he opened the hall, and they waited in patience and absolute solitude for an hour and a half. Not one citizen of Linoleth came to hear the "Lady of Lyons" read. Irving says that for years he could not hear of anything taking place at "precisely eight o'clock" without a shudder.

Will Reclaim 3,000,000 Acres.

The C. P. R. have decided to call tenders for excavating and other work necessary to carry out their scheme to irrigate the dry belt near Calgary. The hope is to render three million acres fit for cultivation, one-half for cereals and the other half for grazing. Three hundred thousand acres will be irrigated first, and after that much has been taken up by settlers the work will be extended. Two canals will be used to irrigate the tract, a main canal 35 miles long with a width at bottom of six feet, and carrying ten feet of water. This canal will be built first, and will be used to carry water to the secondary canal, which when completed will be 115 miles long. To make the main canal 250,000,000 cubic feet of earth will have to be removed. The work will be done with steam shovels, etc.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

The Property Committee's report was as follows:—

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee begs leave to report having purchased the necessary green hardwood for next season with the exception of Ashburnham or Fifth Ward requirements, arrangements for which are under way. So far we have paid $5.00 per cord for maple four feet, and $5.50 for maple two feet

All of which is respectfully submitted

V. EASTWOOD,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

Mr. H P. Kennedy, seconded by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, presented the following which was on motion adopted:—

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

Gentlemen,—I beg to move, as per notice of motion at our regular February meeting, that the following schedule be adopted to govern the salaries of our public school teachers:

Lady Teachers

Minimum salary,—$350 per annum
Maximum salary for those holding second class certificates,—$400 per annum.
Maximum salary for those holding first class professional certificate, — $450 per annum.

Male Teachers

For those holding second class certificates, maximum,—$700 per annum
For those holding first class professional certificates maximum, — $750 per annum.

For the purpose of this schedule the inspector shall three times a year in December, April and June, furnish the Board with an official report on each teacher's efficiency, both in discipline and teaching ability, and in the June report the teacher shall be placed in one or other of the following grades:

I.—Excellent; II.—Good; III—Fair.

for the direction of the Board in allotting the proper increase in salary which will be as follows:

Lady Teachers

Grade I.—$33 1-3 per annum.
Grade II.—$20 per annum.

Male Teachers

Grade I.—$50 per annum.
Grade II.—$30 per annum.

Grade III—Any teacher, male or female, placed in this grade to receive no increase and will leave him or herself liable not to be re-engaged by the Board.

This schedule is to take effect September 1st, 1904 and to govern any new teacher that may be appointed by the Board from the date of the adoption of this report. In event of vacancies occurring on the staff teachers holding first-class professional certificates to receive the preference but in no case will any lower certificate be accepted than a second class professional. Any members of the staff holding second class certificates taking out non-professional firsts at any time to be entitled to obtain the maximum governing first class teachers.

H. P. KENNEDY,
WM. G. FERGUSON,

"In support of this motion I might say," said Mr. Kennedy, "that I believe it is a step in the right direction.

As a Board, we represent the citizens of a city which stands seventh in the Province in population, and while our council has not seen fit to allow us to be incorporated, notwithstanding we have a population nearly 25 per cent. larger than Windsor, 40 p. c. larger than either Guelph, Stratford, St. Thomas or Belleville and nearly 50 per cent. larger than either Chatham, St. Catharines or Woodstock. Let the Board of Education not be held back as far as the progress of our schools is concerned to a level below many of our small towns which we find is the case at present, e. g.:—

Berlin.—Principals, $700 to $1,050; assistant principals, $600 to $800; ladies, $300 to $350. 12 between $300 and $350; 6 between $350 and $400; 6 between $400 and $450; average for ladies, $362.50.

Chatham.—Principals, $1,100; lady principal, $800; assistant ladies, $350 to $500; 1 at $500; 4 between $400 and $450; 6 between $350 and $400; average $404.50. Purpose increasing for 1905.

Kingston.—Male teachers, $700 to $850; lady teachers, $275 to $500.

Belleville.—Male teachers, 4 between $625 and $750; lady teachers, 1 at $580; 3 between $400 and $450; 3 at $375; 8 at $351; 1 at $300; average for lady teachers, $367 20; no maximum or minimum or yearly increase.

Brantford.—Assistant lady teachers according to classes, $275 to $500.

Brockville.—Assistant lady teachers, $300 to $400.

Guelph.—Principal, $1,250; assistant male teachers, 4 between $650 and $750; one lady, 4th book, $575; ladies according to classes, $300 to $150.

London.—Assistant males, $600 to $700; principal, $800 to $1000; lady teachers, $275 to $500 with an annual increase of $20.

Peterborough.—Male teachers, average $691 against an average of $936 in all other cities; including eight smaller than Peterborough, making a difference of $243.50. Lady teachers, average $345.50, against $479, a difference of $133.50. Teachers on our present staff receiving less than $350 per annum are twelve, receiving an average of $294.

Methods of teaching and the qualifications for teachers have changed considerably in the last quarter of a century and in fact are changing year by year. This is an age of progress and in order to keep pace with the times it is necessary to be on the alert and keep our teaching staff up to the highest possible standard.

The great majority of our pupils take no higher education than is to be obtained in our public schools, hence the great necessity of having teachers for our public schools with the most modern training.

Our teachers have been doing good work but have not been and are not receiving sufficient salaries for their services; then our city is rapidly growing and every year additional teachers are needed for our staff, for instance the staff is 25 per cent larger than when the present schedule was adopted ten years ago. It is essential therefore that we keep our standard high, and our schedule of salaries not only so that our teachers will have a mere living, but one in keeping with their profession and at the same time offer sufficient inducement for their advancement.

In conclusion, I feel that, as a board, we should be unanimous in adopting this motion and by so doing show we are anxious to treat our staff in a fair manner and give them every encouragement possible.

A suggestion of one of our members, Mr Hill, at a previous meeting to have an extra teacher for supply work so as to enable each member of the staff during the year to spend a few days in visiting other schools, thereby gaining new ideas, etc., is certainly a good one and should be adopted by the Board at any early date."

It was moved by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. J. J. McBain, that the Board request the Principal of the Collegiate Institute to report on all the assistants three times a year, viz.: December, April and June, and that this Board would suggest that the Principal make a provision for visiting the other rooms in the school.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Pringle, seconded by Mr. Ferguson, it was resolved that the question of filling the places rendered vacant by the resignations of Messrs. Beatty and Roddick, be referred to the Committee on Appointments, with power to act, it being understood that on the recommendation of the Principal, a specialist in modern languages be advertised for, to succeed Mr. Beatty.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Pringle, seconded by Mr. Morgan, that the Property Committee be instructed to procure a boiler for the Central School and provide temporary heating for the school.—Carried.

from injurious legislation, and that this sum be paid to the Union when satisfactory assurance has been given that the cities of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa and Winnipeg have agreed to make contributions to the fund in proportion to population and the said sum to cover the membership fee of this town in the Union, and that $15 be now remitted on account thereof; also that $5.00 be paid to the Ontario Municipal Association for the membership fee of Peterborough in the Association.

4. That the Mayor and Aldermen Best and Adams be authorized to engage Mr. G. L. Blatch to audit the accounts of the Town and Ashburnham provided they can make satisfactory arrangements with him.

5. Your committee authorized the solicitor to publish such notice as may be necessary to empower the Town to grant the application of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co. such notice to be without prejudice to any action the council may subsequently decide to take with regard to this matter.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Adams moved the adoption of the report, with the exception of the first clause, to which he was opposed, which was carried.

Ald. Best presented a petition to the Lieutenant - Governor praying that the latter allow the town to have a survey made of the west bank of the Otonabee River from Wolfe street to Hunter street, and moved seconded by Ald Batten, that it be adopted, and a copy sent to the Crown Lands Department.—Carried.

BYLAW.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $5,000 to pay for extension of the water mains during the year 1903, which was passed.

MR TURNER WANTS A REBATE.

Mr. J. J. Turner addressed the council with reference to a fixed assessment on the factory of J. J. Turner & Sons. A letter had been sent to the council asking the council to fix the company's assessment at the price paid for the land. Mr. Turner said that they had paid out $10,000 in wages last year, and $65,000 through the Bank of Toronto, and he thought that they should have some consideration from the council. If the council could lower the assessment, even for one year, they would be pleased. The present assessment was $9,000, which Mr. Turner claimed was out of all proportion to the cost of the land on which the building is situated, was $2500.

His Worship assured Mr. Turner that the council would take the matter into its consideration.

Ald. Adams moved that the matter be referred to the Committee of the Whole. The mover believed that there were some manifestly unfair assessments.

Ald. Morrison suggested that the matter be dealt with by the Legal Committee, as it was a legal point. Mr. Turner asking for a rebate of taxes on the assesment made last year.

It was moved by Ald. McWilliams seconded by Ald. Best, that the question be referred to the Committee of the Whole and the Court of Revision.—Carried.

Ald. Morrison moved that the Manufacturers Committee be authorized to issue a small pamphlet to advertise the advantages of the town, and also to purchase maps, etc.—Carried.

Ald. Batten moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that the owner of the adjoining lot be authorized to remove a dead tree in front of his premises, at the corner of Reid and Simcoe streets.—Carried.

LOCK COMPANY'S GRANT.

Ald. Morrison moved that the council grant to the Lock Manufacturing Company the lot at the intersection of the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. tracks, on condition that the company erect buildings to employ 150 hands, and that the company be given a fixed assessment of $12,000. Ald. Morrison referred to the fact that the lot had been offered to other concerns, who had not accepted it. The company had paid out about $1,000,000 in wages since its establishment here, and he thought that they should be dealt with in a fair manner. This was a manufacturing town, and the council could not affor to antagonize the concerns that were at present here.

Ald. Best objected to the proposal. He considered the land in question worth $4,000. He believed the lot should be sold at a fair value, and the property assessed on the basis of the new assessment act.

Ald. Rush, in support of Ald. Morrison, thought the Lock Company entitled to all they were asking. He pointed out that in erecting new premises their old buildings would undoubtedly shortly be occupied by a new industry. He would give the same inducements to Mr. J. J. Turner, the Geo. Matthews Co., or any other concern under like conditions.

In reply to Ald. Best, who expressed his doubt of the accuracy of Ald. Morrison's statement, that the Lock Company had paid out a million dollars in wages, Ald. Adams stated that at present the company's wage bill is $40,000 a year.

Ald. Johnston advocated selling the land to the company for $2,500, and fixing the assessment at $8,000. Ald. Johnston thought the land worth $3,500.

Ald. McWilliams expressed his feelings on the matter, and said that neither of the propositions submitted were agreeable to him, although he would support Ald. Morrison's motion. He thought the council should consider how much the town would be benefitted by the acceptance of the proposition which they were discussing. He held it as a principle that any establishment putting up additional buildings and enlarging their business giving employment to an increased number of hands should be treated on the same basis as a new industry.

Ald. Morrison's motion was voted on and carried on the following division:—

Yeas—Alds. Edgcumbe, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Scott, Batten, McWilliams.

Nays—Ald. Johnston, Best.

Ald. Adams did not vote.

The council then adjourned.

THE DAVIDSONS ARE DANDIES.

They Will Appear on Thursday in the Brock Street Rink.

(Winnipeg Tribune)

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a fancy skating exhibition in Winnipeg greeted the Davidsons last night at the Auditorium, about 1,500 people being present, two-thirds of whom skated during the intervals before and after the exhibition.

John Davidson was the first to appear on his three foot stilts and Dutch rolls, serpentine loops, eights whirls and spins he reeled off with a wonderful grace and ease that caught the audience and held their closest interest.

Then Miss Fanny came on in a neat costume of red, trimmed with white fur, and completely captivated the audience with her beautiful and extensive series of figures. She easily upheld her reputation as the most skillful of lady fancy skaters, among the feats she performed being the three, forward and backward, single and double grapevine with whirl, serpentine loops and leaps, etc., a great deal of her work being interspersed with difficult toe catches, splendidly executed, that never failed to bring the crowd.

In the Brock street rink Thursday night. Skating before and after the exhibition. Band in attendance. Admission, 25c; children, 15c.

Seventy Miles of Railway Between Harbin and Vladivostock Destroyed by Japanese—Cossacks Reach 30 Miles South of Yalu River—Russians Declare Complete Defeat of Japs by September.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—The Japanese, who were hanged by Russians in Manchuria, for attempting to blow up the railroad bridge over the Sungari River, were disguised as coolies. They were arrested just as they were about to make the attempt. Inquiry revealed that they were Japanese officers of the general staff, named Col. Assai of the Engineers, and Lieuts. Zonalascha and Kasurata of the Sappers. They were hanged from the girders of the bridge.

War to Last Till September.

40,000 JAPS LAND.

An Engagement Said to Have Occurred on Night of Feb. 12.

London, Feb. 24.—The Che Foo correspondent of The Morning Post, under yesterday's date, says 40,000 more Japanese troops have landed at Chemulpo, and that he had received confirmation of the report that some Japanese have landed at Pigeon Bay, others at Talienwan, and that an engagement occurred on the night of Feb. 12.

According to The Standard's correspondent at Seoul, the Japanese bombarded Port Arthur at intervals between the 8th and the 14th of February, inflicting, however, but slight injuries. The report is confirmed, this correspondent continues, that 70 miles of railroad track and some important bridges have been destroyed between Harbin and Valdivostock.

If the latter report is true it would be a great advantage to the Japanese, as Vladivostock is known to be very badly supplied, and it therefore could not long resist a Japanese attack. There is still, however, no news of actual operations of any kind.

In a despatch from Tokio, a correspondent of The Times says some hundreds of Cossacks reached Chongju, 30 miles south of the Yalu River, the afternoon of Feb. 20. Thirty troopers crossed the river at Kazan, the same evening, thus arriving within 45 miles of Pingyang, Corea. It is understood the Diet will meet the middle of March for the introduction of the war budget.

A correspondent of The Times at Wei-Hai-Wei says he hears that all the mechanics at Port Arthur, Dalny and Vladivostock, are Chinese, and that it is impossible for the Russians to repair their damaged warships.

Russians About to Come Out.

Che Foo, Feb. 24.—The bottled-up Russian fleet at Port Arthur is preparing to make a desperate dash for the open sea. As soon as the work of repair on the injured ships is complete the Russian fleet will make a combined attack on the Japanese squadron on guard.

Jap Attack on the North.

Nagaski, Feb. 24.—A strong Japanese squadron is nearing Vladivostock for the purpose of attacking the Russian fleet in the harbor there. It is said the ice has broken up and the Japanese are able to approach.

Battleground in Northern Corea.

London, Feb. 24.—Russian scouts are known to be at Anju, and it is believed two companies of Japanese are already at Pingyang. Immediate skirmishing is possible at several points. As an evidence of the Japanese intentions, it is worthy of notice that their cruisers are busy patroling toward the northwest coast of Corea.

They are now landing artillery at Chemulpo, and their transports are carrying sampans from Japan, all of which suggests the probability of disembarkation, independent of local conditions, farther north. Furthermore, while the troops landing at Chemulpo are variously estimated to number from 8,000 to 15,000, only a part of them is visible.

Everything suggests that the Japanese contemplate an immediate dash for a strategic position in Northern Corea, their activity implying that the Russians are alive to the situation. It is possible that the Russians are considerably farther south than is supposed at present.

An Insult to Britain.

Berlin, Feb. 24.—It is said here that Russia will refuse permission to English army officers to witness the land operations of their army at the front. Other nations will, however, be accorded the usual facilities

Ambulances For Harbin.

Paris, Feb. 24.—In a despatch from Harbin, Manchuria, a correspondent of The Matin says ambulances are being sent there from all parts of Russia and that the Baltic railroad has furnished a sanitary train for 200 wounded.

A despatch from Port Arthur, published this morning, denies categorically the reports of a new attack by Japanese torpedo boats, and says they have been repulsed with losses every time they appeared in the roadstead.

The allegation is made, according to the despatch from Port Arthur, that the Japanese have dethroned the Emperor of Corea and annexed the country.

Russia's Formal Protest.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 24.—Foreign Minister Lamsdorff Monday sent the circular to Russian representatives abroad, outlined yesterday, of complaint that the Japanese had violated the law of nations.

The Gunboat Mandjur.

Shanghai, Feb. 24.—Two Chinese cruisers are expected here to-day to settle the question of the refusal of the Russian gunboat Mandjur to obey the order of The Taotai to leave Shanghai.

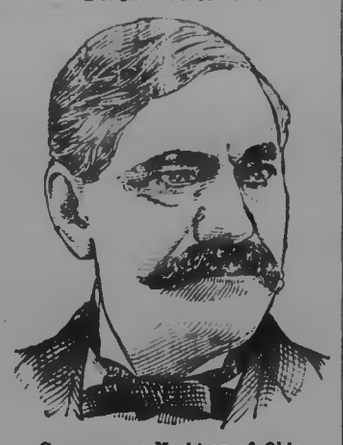
CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

The Remarkable Experience of a Prominent Statesman—Congressman Meekison Gives Pe-ru-na a High Endorsement.



Congressman Meekison of Ohio.

Hon. David Meekison is well known not only in his own State, but throughout America. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue. He writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to ersdicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

THE TEST OF FITNESS.

The Conservative Opposition in Ontario is naturally anxious for power; but this anxiety of itself furnishes no valid reason why a Conservative Government should replace a Liberal Administration. In the abstract the fact that the Liberal party has been a long time in power is no reason why it should be replaced. If it has not done its work well; if the affairs of the Province have been neglected or carelessly administered the Liberal party has thereby forfeited it right to govern the Province. But there is not the slightest evidence that such a condition of things exists. On the other hand there is abundant evidence to show that the very reverse has been the case. In the matter of finances the existence, this year, of a surplus of about three and a half million dollars, almost enough to carry on the affairs of the province for a year, shows that our resources have been shrewdly and carefully husbanded. When one considers in addition the fact that in respect of over a hundred millions of dollars spent by the Liberal Government in the public interests, not one dollar of which can be shown to have been employed any other way than for the benefit of the public service, not to speak of being improperly expended, we have a remarkable record. Then we have all the public services adequately administered. Our Crown domain, though in the past, millions of dollars have been drawn from it, has been so well looked after that it is at present a more fruitful source of revenue than at any time in the history of the Province, and the way it has been managed assures a long continued future of revenue productively. Our timber revenue has stood between direct taxation and the people for a generation and with the same prudent management as in the past it is good for three or four generations more. Our agricultural interests have been adequately looked after with the result that Ontario is the foremost farming and dairying province of the Dominion. Our public institutions have also been, and are being, so efficiently administered that while the unfortunates, sheltered and cared for in them are treated as well as, and in many respects better than, in any similar institutions on the continent, the cost per head is far below the average of the institutions any other province or state. Our educational institutions are also admirably administered, and though as in contrast with agriculture, results cannot be estimated on a dollars and cents basis. Yet we have conditions worth more than mere money. The position Ontario holds as the foremost province of the Dominion is due to the higher plan of intelligence of its population, and this is in turn due to the practical results of our educational system. What better public service could be expected from the Opposition? The answer to this question should determine the attitude of the people towards the respective parties whose claims upon office are always before the people.

HIAWATHA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A number of the young sports of Hiawatha went to Alderville last Thursday. They participated in an oyster supper and concert. However, it was shorter than usual, the programme consisting of a speech and a song. The good Alderville people were not satisfied with that, but made provision for the next night, and insisted upon the young sports remaining until the following evening, which invitation which accepted by them. But the ambitious young sports the following day besieged and took the thrifty little town of Roseneath, and through the day frequently visited the Commercial House, and had plenty of fun playing pool and other games, until it was time to proceed to the oyster supper. The oysters were better than usual. The sports were much disappointed in not being able to attend the Keene Carnival, which was held that night, and which was so much looked forward to by them.

Many of Hiawatha's prominent people have been sick, one of them being the school teacher, Miss Agnes Crowley, who has had an attack of la grippe. The people of Hiawatha should be more cautious, and live up to the following motto: "Be careful of your health; its worth your while to try to eat and drink with caution, and keep your stockings dry. For, though Hiawatha's a healthy place, disease lurks about; the awful grip'll get you if you don't watch out.

Mr. Alfred Crow, a famous sportsman of this place, owing to the deep snow, has been unable to pursue the sly Reynard.

Squire Jas. Howard, and a very well known sportsman, will no doubt in the near future test his long Tom on the bear.

WOMAN'S DANGERS.

The Lives of all Women Beset by Secret Troubles.

A Simple and Certain Method by Which the Ills of Girlhood and Womanhood may be Overcome.

Every woman's health depends upon her blood—its richness and its regularity. Sometimes it is hard to believe that nearly all common diseases spring from the blood, no matter how different they may seem. It is hard, for instance, to realize that rheumatism and indigestion are both the cause of bad blood, and both cured by good blood. But there can be no doubt in the case of the secret troubles of a woman's life, from fifteen to fifty. The blood is plainly the cause of all her irregularities in health. Then comes the signs of secret illness, the headaches, backaches and sideaches; the pale cheeks and dull eyes; the failing appetite and irritable nerves; the hysteria and biliousness; the weakness and langour; the distress and despondency and all the weary wretched feelings that attack women in their times of ill-health. And the blood is to blame for it all. When the blood is rich and red and regular, there is little trouble in the life of maid or mother. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are worth their weight in gold to every woman. They actually make new blood. Every dose sends galloping through the veins pure, strong, rich red blood that strikes at the cause of the secret ill-health. The new blood restores regularity and braces all the special organs for their special tasks. In this way Dr. Williams Pink Pills banish the backaches and headaches, sharpen the appetite and the energies, soothe the nerves and bring back the rosy glow of health to faded cheeks. This is the special mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and there is no other medicine in the world can do it so successfully. Mrs. Geo. Danby, of Tilbury, Ont., has proved the truth of these statements and says so for the benefit her experience may bring to other suffering women. Mrs. Danby says: "I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing to suffering women. For a long time I was a great sufferer from the ailments that afflict so many of my sex. I was extremely nervous at all times, suffered a great deal with headaches and indigestion. In fact I was in a most miserable condition when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but after taking them a short time I began to improve, and through their further use I am altogether like a new woman. I am sure if more women would take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills they would be convinced of the great good they can do."

What Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for Mrs. Danby they can do for every growing girl and ailing woman in Canada, if they are given a fair and reasonable use. But you must make sure you get the genuine pills with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. To be had from dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Success at Last!

Ferrol represents the first and only successful attempt to combine Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus.

Not only have these unparalleled remedies been brought together, but in the process of emulsion and as the result of scientific treatment, the well recognized value of the Oil and Iron has been immensely enhanced. This has been proved beyond doubt by actual test. Therefore, for building up the run-down system

FERROL (The Iron-Oil Food) is absolutely without an equal. Ferrol is an unfailing remedy for the persistent colds so prevalent at this season.

STORMY MEETING OF CEMENT CO.

Directors to be Increased to Seven, and Only Two of the Former Ones Likely to be Retained.

(Toronto News.)

The National Cement Company, Limited, of Durham, held its second annual meeting in the Temple Building yesterday. About 200 of the 1,500 stockholders assembled, representing all parts of the Province where the stock has been sold. The meeting was of a rather stormy character, and much disappointment was felt at the result of the year's operations.

The total amount received for cement sold during the twelve months was $234,267.32; the stock on hand is $37,330, leaving a total of $271,597.32

The total expenditure for wages, paper sacks, coal, plaster and clay was $238,623.54.

For taxes, selling, laboratory and office expenses, auditing, telegraph, postage, salaries, legal expenses, insurance, interest, discount, mill repairs and expenses, $43,061.38, showing a net loss on the year's business of $10,087.60.

The company's capital account, according to a statement submitted, and to the valuations placed by the directors upon the assets, is as follows:

Liabilities.

Capital stock	$1,000,000 00
Loan	125,125 35
Bills payable	12,858 58
Accounts payable	24,777 98
	$1,161,561 91

Assets.

Plant	$ 734,929 78
Real estate, marl and clay beds	265,224 54
Durham Siding (dep.)	500 00
Clay siding	1,588 15
Accounts receivable	10,356 03
Insurance prepaid	295 78
Cash at Durham	991 60
Balance due on stock	4,602 50
Loss	86,936 75
	$1,161,561 91
Bal. loss brought down	$ 86,936 75

The meeting decided to increase the number of directors to seven and it is said only two of the former directors are likely to be retained.

It is to be feared that the result of this promising company's operations will have a depressing effect upon the business of floating cement companies.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The draining of the Cavan swamp is now occupying the minds of the Councillors of Cavan. We hope no mistake will be made by them, as was done before in levying such a small amount on the ratepayers of the township. The ratepayers should consider that the swamp lands are flooded from the high lands surrounding the swamp, that the owners of swamp lands are not responsible for the overflowing of the water in the spring from the high lands. The swamp heretofore has been the means for carrying the surplus water from these excellent farms that are lying along each side of the swamp; the Creator of the Universe, who made all things wisely and well made an outlet for the drainage of the adjoining farms. This fact in connection with the amount of expenditure in draining their lands into the main drain before they will derive any benefit from the lands, and also that their taxes on the swamp lands will be increased when they become profitable to the owners.

The Methodist Sunday School held a very successful entertainment in the Methodist church here on Friday last. The Popular Vote of 1904

Is Unanimously in Favour of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—They are the Nation's Favourite.

No article on the market, whatever be the purpose for which it was created, can be a phenomenal success, and be universally popular, unless it possesses great and unfailing merit. Inferior and worthless articles may flourish for a limited time if their praises are sung by sufficiently clever and catchy advertising; but their days are numbered from the start, and their finish is a foregone conclusion. This is an age of the survival of the fittest and only articles of true merit endure.

The unparalleled and phenomenal success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from a business standpoint, is not unnatural and not surprising. It is due directly to their unparalleled and phenomenal success in curing multiplied thousands of cases of dyspepsia throughout the English-speaking world.

The reason of the wonderful success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is so plain and simple that a child can understand; it is this and nothing more; they are natural in their workings and effects. They take up the effects of the worn and wasted stomach, and do it just as the stomach did it when it was well and strong and able. They actually digest the food and do it thoroughly, completely and independently, thus giving the weak and weary stomach an opportunity to renew and regain its wasted strength. You forget that you have a stomach just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl, and Nature restores and heals that organ and makes it well and strong.

A St. Louis business man says:—"I was a confirmed dyspeptic for years. What I ate had to be forced down and most of it soured or lay like lead in my stomach and did me no good. I was in constant misery both in mind and body and came to be cranky, morose and irritable. My natural disposition, which was cheerful and pleasant, left me and I was alienating all my friends. The doctors did me no good. I got so I hated the sight or name of a doctor. My wife finally worried me into buying a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which I began taking under protest, as I had no faith in anything or anybody. I was sore on creation.

"I had not taken a third of that box before I noticed a decided and most welcome change. I could enjoy a good meal and feel no bad effects following it. I forgot my stomach and had a chance to think about something else. I went ahead with my business in ease and comfort. Six boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a total outlay of $3.00 cured me completely, and I have not suffered a pain from dyspepsia for two years. I have an appetite like a sixteen-year-old boy. I wish everyone who suffers from dyspepsia could know what a change this great remedy made in me."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box. All druggists carry them and the best doctors are prescribing them. You need not fear that you will ever be unable to get them; for, because of the good they have done mankind and the suffering they have relieved and the happiness they have caused, the fame and the success and the popularity of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from generation unto generation will endure.

GREAT SCARCITY OF HENS' EGGS.

Eggs! Eggs! Eggs! A kingdom for Eggs! This is the cry of many of the confectioners of Peterborough at the present time, and unless the hens come to their relief soon many serious complications will arise to affect, not only the producer of the table delicacies in confectionery, but also the consumers. Already many a small boy has raised his protest against the fearth of cream puffs at the tea table, and anxious mothers have wearied in offering their apologies for the obstinate hen of the barn yard.

So serious has the situation become that one of the leading confectioners has been compelled to lay off several of his bakers, and he states that he can hold out no hope for his many customers until Jack Frost loosens his grip upon the elements. The unfortunate position this particular baker is in is also the lot of many others. Not anticipating the continued cold weather of this winter, they did not take the precaution to make a contract with the egg dealers for a yearly supply at a stationary price. The small quantity of eggs they are getting now are costing them from 30 to 35c a dozen, while those who have made their yearly contracts are getting their usual supply at 16 and 17 cents per dozen. The present situation has been hard upon the dealers, who have been severely tempted to break their contracts. They have had from all over for the eggs, and the prices they could have received ranged from 30 to 60 cents per dozen.

Another large confectioner, well known for his excellent cream puffs, jelly cakes, etc., has ceased making these delicacies altogether, and others who have secured a supply of eggs are charging up the extra cost to the customer. One result of this scarcity of eggs has been the commencement of an agitation against what is termed an unfair discrimination by Canadian egg dealers against the Canadian Egg consumer. It is stated that in order to gain the British market for their commodity the dealers are shopping the largest and best class of eggs, and thus leaving the Canadian consumer the small and inferior class of eggs. The present system of cold storage is contributing in some measure to this condition, because it enables the dealers to hold on to their eggs until the price desired can be obtained.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The funeral of the late Isah Thornton last Saturday, was one of the largest seen here for a long time. The deceased died from pneumonia and typhoid fever, after an illness of only five days, at the age of 57. Although not of a very rugged constitutiontution he had been able to perform his accustomed and active duties up to the time he was stricken with illness. Drs. Keith and Carmichael did all in their power for his recovery, but apparently the disease made no response to their remedies. Quite a gloom has been cast over the village and country, as he was well and favourably known, being a conscientious and active worker and elder in the Presbyterian church of Omemee. He was also a member of the Bible Society, and of the Lord's Day Alliance. The deceased was a Liberal in politics. He leaves a widow, son and daughter to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband and father. The funeral service was conducted at the home of the deceased and at the Presbyterian church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Whitlaw, and seldom has there been witnessed a more impressive and sad and sorrowful event. There were about 80 vehicles in the procession. There were a number of beautiful wreaths of flowers on the coffin from the friends of the deceased.

Mr. Isaiah Best of Toronto, was here on Saturday last, attending the funeral of the late Mr. Thornton.

Wood is coming in more plentiful, and the price ranges from $3 to $5.

Mr. T. Huggins, a retired farmer of Ops, has come here to live, intending to become chief agent for the sale of the Peter Hamilton Co's fine agricultural implements. He will be sure to get his share of the business here.

Robert and David Thornton, of Peterborough, and Mrs. M. Thornton, were here on Saturday at the funeral of the late I Thornton.

If You Pity a Sick Friend

Tell Me His Name, Let Me Help Him

Just write a postal card—only the cost of a penny. All I ask is the name of a friend who needs help. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this: I will arrange with a druggist near him so that he may take six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost is $5.50. If it fails I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

Don't think that too fair to be possible, for I do just as I say. I do it to convince those who don't know me and so that everyone who needs help will accept it.

I have learned that the cured ones are fair. I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on just those terms and 39 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. I have willingly paid for the rest.

And I spent a lifetime in perfecting the remedy before I ever offered it to anyone. At thousands of bedsides, in hospitals and homes, I have watched it cure the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. I learned that it does not fail, save where some cause—like cancer—makes a cure impossible.

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. My Restorative brings back that nerve power which alone operates every vital organ of the body. Common treatments merely doctor the organs and the results at best are but temporary. My remedy restores the nerve power that makes these organs act. No other treatment does that and there is positively no other way to make weak vital organs well.

My book will explain this. It tells about the only remedies so sure that any man dare offer it on such a plan as mine. Won't you tell me a friend who needs it?

FOREST REVENUE THIRTY MILLIONS.

Mr. Thos. Southworth's Prophecy of Future Wealth.

Necessity for Trained Students in Forest Culture.

Some unusually interesting phases of one of Ontario's great sources of wealth—the forest—was dealt with at an open meeting of the Natural Science Association of the University of Toronto in the Biological Building Wednesday night by Mr. Thomas Southworth, Ontario Director of Forestry, and Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture.

Mr. Southworth's subject was "Ontario's Permanent Forest Reserves." He briefly developed the present policy of the Crown Lands Department, looking to the establishment of a large and permanent system of Crown forests, yielding a large annual revenue along the line of the system adopted in Germany. He briefly sketched the development of the lumbering industry in Ontario from 1827, when the Crown revenue from timber dues was only $267, down to the present time, when the annual revenue was over one million dollars. There were in the province, he said, some forty million acres of timber lands that were not suited for agricultural purposes, and which could probably be preserved crown in perpetuity, the timber being ready to be cut being sold annually by auction. It was estimated that the yearly yield would total some six billion feet, and if only half the amount realized per acre in Germany accrued to the Crown, the annual revenue of the province would be $30,000,000. "And I expect to live to see the day when Ontario's revenue from her Crown forests will realize this amount," added Mr. Southworth.

In conclusion he referred to the need of men scientifically trained in sylva-culture to effectively carry out the large plans of the Government for the future enormous development of Ontario's forest wealth.

MR. JOHN HAYDEN DIED IN COBOURG.

Was a Highly Esteemed Citizen of Cobourg.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star of the 12th instant refers as follows to the death of a gentleman who was well-known here:

Death's relentless javelin, which has pierced many a brave heart this fatal winter, since our last issue cut down one of Cobourg's oldest, best known and most highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. John Hayden, who died at his George street residence at 6.30 Monday morning. Last Friday week Mr. Hayden went home at the close of the day's business suffering from an attack of erysipelas. Symptoms of heart failure developed rapidly, and, despite all that care and skill could do, the soul of our good townsman crossed the great gulf no mortal e'er repassed.

Mr. Hayden was born on Nov. 15, 1829, at North Frodingham, Yorkshire, England,—the eldest son of the late Rev. Wm. Hayden, one of the first missionaries of the Congregational Church sent to Canada nearly seventy years ago, whose pastoral labours resulted in the establishment of the Congregational churches at Cobourg and Cold Springs. This estimable minister will be well remembered by old readers of The Sentinel-Star, as also his wife—a most saintly woman — the mother of the subject of this sketch.

After receiving a fair education Mr. Hayden learned the painter's art, and by dint of indomitable industry and assiduous application, and without receiving adventitious assistance of any kind, he began to build up the large business which at the time of his death he had carried on in Cobourg for nearly fifty years. He had well earned the reputation of being one of the most successful hardware merchants in Ontario.

In 1866 Mr. Hayden was a member of Cobourg Battery Garrison Artillery, and served at the front during the Fenian Raid. He received a medal and land grant in New Ontario for his military services.

In early manhood he was united in marriage to Miss Eliza, second daughter of the late Thomas Dumble, Esquire. Had he lived until April next he and Mrs. Hayden would have celebrated the golden jubilee of their wedding. They have been most happy partners of each other's fortunes. Their mutual inclinations were nicely tuned unisons. Every joy was brightened and every care alleviated by the unselfish ministrations of a devoted husband and affectionate father. It was around his hospitable fireside that those who knew Mr. Hayden best loved him most. His tastes were refined and aesthetic. A lover of the beautiful, he was passionately fond of flowers, and enjoyed nothing so much as lavishing upon his friends with open hand the treasures of his garden and conservatory.

Besides Mrs. Hayden, surviving are two sons, viz., ex-Mayor J. D. Hayden, who was associated with his father in business, and Dr. Edgar Hayden, practising medicine at Rosenath, and one daughter, Mrs. Ida Reynar, wife of Rev. Dr. Reynar, Dean of the Faculty of Victoria College; also one brother, Hon. Jabez Hayden, of Fort Wayne, Ind., and two sisters, Mrs. W. Hamilton of Peterborough, and Mrs. Wm. Kerr, of Ashburnham.

A faithful member of the Methodist church, he was regular in attendance at the Sabbath services and a generous supporter of all the institutions of the church.

Naturally shunning the least ostentation he never took a prominent part in political or municipal movements, but nevertheless he was a man of strong convictions, always ready to back up men and measures calculated in his opinion to advance the best interests of the community, in whose progress he took a deep interest. In politics he was a staunch Liberal.

The obsequies took place at the Union Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, the funeral being largely attended. The services at the house and cemetery were conducted by Rev. H. T. Lewis. The following nephews of deceased acted as pall-bearers:—Messrs. Jas. Kerr, Wm. Kerr, Geo. Kerr, C. A. Munson, A. Hayden and H. Field.

Among relatives present from out of town, were Prof. A. R. Bain, Victoria College, Toronto; Mr. D. Dumble, Peterborough, and Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Toronto.

To the bereaved widow and family there goes out the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in the dark gloom of the vale of tears into which this sad event has precipitated those whose loss is beyond measure aggravated by years of delightful society and felicitous friendship with the departed, but whose hearts are sustained by hopes of immortality and faith in the everlasting covenant.

LIVED 78 YEARS IN PETERBOROUGH COUNTY.

Mr. F. T. Lumsden, who had been a resident of Peterborough county for 78 years, died last night at his late residence, 22 Division street, Peterborough, after an illness extending over some period of time, from a general breaking up of his system. He had reached the age of 82 years, the greater part of which had been spent in this vicinity. Coming to Canada from his birthplace, Wexford, Ireland, when quite young, his family settled in the township of Dummer, where he lived continuously until about a year ago, when he removed to Peterborough.

He leaves a widow and eight children, six daughters and two sons: — Mrs. B. F. Ackerman, Mrs. A. S. Maguire of Peterborough; Mrs. D. A. Hutchinson, Port Huron; Miss Hettie, of Jersey City, N.J., Mrs. D. A. Rose, of Souris, Man.; George of Carville, Assa; Miss Lizzie and John, of Peterborough. One sister, Mrs. Rollo, of Campbellford, survives him.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, at 12.30 from the family residence, 22 Division street, to the Warsaw cemetery, where interment will take place.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, which was performed in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives, a sumptuous wedding dejeuner was served. YOUNG MEN'S GUILD WERE ENTERTAINERS,

A Pleasant Evening Spent in Sunday School Room—The Work of the Guilds Eulogized.

Last night the members of the Young Men's Guild of the George street church entertained the members of the Girls' Guild pleasantly in the Sunday school room of the church, and the evening proved to be one of more than ordinary enjoyment. The Girls' Guild was organized prior to that of the young men, and the former look upon their institution as an elder sister to the latter, and they accepted last night the entertainment given them by the members of their brother Guild in a true sisterly fashion, and the evening was one which was thoroughly enjoyed by both the entertained and entertainers.

The guests were welcomed at the door on their arrival by the President and the officers of the Guild, and the first exercise on the programme was an address of welcome by the pastor, who occupies the position of Hon. President of the Guild. He expressed his pleasure on behalf of the Guild in welcoming the young ladies as guests of the young men. It had been with considerable satisfaction he had witnessed the organization of both Guilds, and the success with which both have met has been very gratifying both to himself and the officials of the church, who recognized the Guilds as important factors in the development of the church. He hoped that this would be but one of many similar gatherings. Following this came a reading by Mr. W. Campbell, which heartily pleased the audience. Mr. John Bowes then gave a vocal solo, which was also appreciated by those present.

An interesting feature of the evening was the portion devoted to discussion of ten topics, among which were those of "War," "Leap Year, "Our Guild," "the Weather," etc. two minutes being allowed for each, and each was discussed with a different partner. This proved a very enjoyable part of the programme. Mr. R. N. Jolliffe rendered a very pleasing vocal solo, and to an enthusiastic demand for an encore, responded with "Boys will be Boys." Mr. Jolliffe is always heard with pleasure by the members of the sister Guild of the George street church. Mr. Smith then favoured the audience with a violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Mowat. A number of musical selections by a string orchestra, also accompanied by Mrs. Mowat, added enjoyment to the evening exercises.

At this juncture the whole company sat down to an oyster supper, served by Mr. Harry Long, and after ample justice had been done the tempting viands, a toast list was proceeded with, the first to be honoured being the King, proposed by the chairman, Mr. W. Warne, President of the Guild.

Mr. J. Jeffries proposed the second toast, that to "Our Church." The church, said Mr. Jeffries, was an old institution. It had stood the test of 1900 years and was to-day as active as ever. Speaking of the Methodist church, he thought the branch in Canada was particularly fortunate in its possession of some of the most able men in the country, and the pastor of the George street street church was a man whom all loved and respected. The pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, responding, said, that all Methodists should be proud of their church. Of the population of Canada, one in every five was a Methodist. Speaking of the "Church" in its broad sense, he said that it was a mighty factor in the world's development. The Methodist church in Peterborough was proud of the Guilds, and he hoped the members of the Guilds would be proud of their church.

The next toast, that to "Our Guests," was proposed by the 1st Vice-President of the Young Men's Guild, who spoke of the pleasure which the opportunity of entertaining the members of the Girls' Guild gave. Their "brothers" had watched with pleasure the progress made by the sister organization, and he believed that the Young Men's Guild owed its present existence to it. He expressed the hope that in future gatherings of this character would be more frequent. Miss Griffiths, responding on behalf of the guests, made a fitting speech, and expressed very pleasingly the enjoyment experienced by them in accepting the invitation of the young men.

The last toast, that to "The Young Men's Guild," was proposed by Miss Booth, who proved her ability as a speaker by her able handling of the subject. Mr. Garnet Galley responded, and paid a high tribute to the work accomplished by the Guilds. There was a wide field for the Guilds, and he believed they were reaching young people who could not be reached in any other way. Mr. Galley's address was practical and will no doubt have a good effect.

The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem, followed by the benediction by the pastor.

Prof. Lybarger Will Speak on the Subject in Y. M. C. A. Hall.

To-night at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Professor Lybarger will deliver a lecture on Single Tax. That the Professor is eminently qualified to speak on the subject is proved by the following letter written by Inspector Hughes, of Toronto:—

"W. H. Roebuck, Esq.,

"Toronto,—

"Dear Mr. Roebuck, — I wish to express my high appreciation of the honour which your association did me in asking me to preside at Prof. Lybarger's lecture yesterday. It was a great lecture. There are few men who have the ability to instruct and inspire an audience thoroughly as Professor Lybarger. His best characteristic is his superb character as a man. BIG PROGRAMME TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Stanley Cup Challengers Will Play the Local Senior Team.

The Davidsons, of St. Paul, Will Give Exhibition of Fancy Skating—a Double Bill.

The hockey club will present a big programme to-morrow night, when the first senior game for the season be played with the fast St. George's of Toronto, city champions, and the local seven as the opposing team. The St. George's gave the Marlboros a hard run for the O.H.A. senior championship, and on the team are a number of players of the late Wellingtons who played for the Stanley cup. Chadwick, the centre man, is said to be the fastest forward in Canada, while Irving and Ardagh, also former Wellington players, are as good as the best.

Chancer Elliott has expressed his opinion that the Peterborough team is in the same class with the St. George's and Marlboros, and this will be a good opportunity for local enthusiasts to see how the team handles itself with senior company. The game is bound to be a fast one and will be well worth seeing. A special attraction will be the fancy skating of the Davidsons of St. Paul, who have been delighting large crowds everywhere throughout Canada in the larger cities. They give a very interesting exhibition and with the hockey match thrown in for one admission price there should be a large crowd on hand to-morrow night.

PUCKERINGS.

Tickets for to-night's game may be purchased at O'Brien's cigar store and the T.A.S. rooms.

• • • •

To-night the T.A.S. and Campbellford teams will play the first semi-final Trent Valley League game in the Brock street rink. This will be a fast contest and doubtless a large crowd will be on hand to see how the team from the east shows up against the champions of last season.

WILBY WON FROM GEORGE KENNEDY.

At the Local Opera House Last Night—Hockey Jones Defeated Mason in Fifth Round—The P. A. C.'s "Smoker."

The Peterborough Athletic Club put up a good card of amusement at the opera house last night, and the event which has been awaited with some impatience for the past two or three weeks, was attended by a large crowd, the main feature being the billing of Max Riley, of Rochester, N.Y., and George Kennedy, of Montreal, for the 135 lbs. wrestling championship of America. Mr. Jos. Halpany's orchestra was in attendance and enlivened the evening with popular airs.

The programme was opened by Mr. Halpany with a recitation, which was given in his characteristic style, and was highly appreciated by the audience. The next event was a wrestling bout between two local amateurs, FitzWallis and Jeffries. The bout was for the lightweight championship of town, catch as catch can, and best two out of three falls. Jeffries won the first fall in two minutes, but on the next try FitzWallis got the better, and got his opponent's shoulders firm to the mat in two and a half minutes. The third fall was more exciting; after a hard struggle it was gained by Jeffries in nine minutes, he thus winning the match.

When Jack Mason of Montreal, ran up against Hockey Jones last night he probably did not expect what he got. It was a boxing bout of twelve rounds for the 133 lbs. championship of Canada, and a $100 purse. The rounds were each three minutes in length. Mason was not in the same class as Jones, and this became evident in the first round, when Jones with a sarcastic smile on his face did about what he liked with his opponent. In the second, third and fourth rounds the Montrealer's punishment became heavier, and finally in the fifth round a jab from Jones under the chin knocked him down and out, the Hamilton man thereby gaining the bout.

As Jack Kelly did not turn up, young FitzWallis took his place, and took up the gloves against Dave Belland. The bout was only an impromptu affair of six rounds and no decision was given.

The concert was brought to a close by the bout of the evening. In the wrestling match between Max Wiley, of Rochester, N.Y., and Geo. Kennedy of Montreal, for the 135 championship of America, a purse of $200 and a side bet of $500. It was a catch as catch can bout, the best two out of three falls. Both men were as evenly matched as could be found, and although Wiley won, it was no cinch. Wiley got two falls, which decided the event. George Gauthier of town, refereed. Seen by the Examiner after the match, Kennedy said he was beaten, and was not kicking.

At the conclusion of the bout Wiley made an open challenge to any 135 lbs. man, mentioning the names of Eugene Trombley, Johnnie Hazlip and George Gauthier. Previous to the bout challenges from the two former to the winner were read.

Sunlight Soap is recommended, by those who have investigated the different kind of soaps, as being the best and purest on the market. Those who have gone still farther and tried the different methods state that the Sunlight way of washing is greatly superior to ordinary methods because it requires much less work and makes the clothes whiter and cleaner. Because Sunlight Soap is quite pure and free from adulteration it will not injure delicate fabrics or the user's hands.

ENGLAND LOSES A DISTINGUISHED MAN.

Passing of Sir Leslie Stephen.

London, Feb. 23.—With the passing of Sir Leslie Stephen, K.C.M.G., president of the Ethical Society, who died yesterday, England loses one of her most distinguished men of letters. He was born at Kensington Gore, London, on Nov. 28, 1832, and was educated at Eton, King's College, London, and Trinity Hall, Cambridge, where he graduated B.A. in 1854 and M.A. in 1857. His first wife was Harriet Marion, youngest daughter of the great novelist, William Makepeace Thackeray. While at Cambridge he took holy orders, but afterwards relinquished them in the passing of the Clerical Disabilities Bill in 1870. Leslie Stephen settled ultimately in London and became a regular contributor to The Pall Mall Gazette and Fraser's, MacMillan's and The Fortnightly Magazine. In 1871 he took the chair as editor of The Cornhill Magazine. In 1882 he resigned the chair of Cornhill, and became the editor of The Colossal Dictionary of National Biography for the conception and plan of which he was largely responsible. At the distribution of coronation honors in 1902 he was made a K. C. B.

JAPAN CHARGED RUSSIA SQUEALS

Czar's Government Addresses Vigorous Note to the Powers.

LAW OF NATIONS VIOLATED

Two Instances Cited By Russia Against Japan in the Conduct of the War Up to the Present Time—Threatening Neutral Port and Attacking Port Arthur Before Declaration of War.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Russia is addressing to the powers a vigorous communication charging Japan with repeated violation of the law of nations. The note is to the following effect, although the text is not yet obtained:

"That the Russian Government, believing all civilized powers to be faithfully desirous that the law of nations shall be strictly adhered to in the present war, respectfully calls the attention of the neutral Governments to these two instances in which Japan has violated this law:

"In threatening the neutral port of Chemulpo, where warships of many nations were gathered demanding the departure from that port of the Russian men-of-war Variag and Korietz, under penalty of attack within the harbor, and

"In attacking the Russian fleet at Port Arthur on the night of Feb. 8-9, and, on the following day, these several attacks having taken place prior to a formal declaration of war and before the Japanese minister at St. Petersburg or the Russian minister at Tokio had left their posts.

"It is also claimed that the attack took place after a communication from the Japanese minister to the Russian Government, expressing the hope that the interruption of diplomatic relations would be brief."

In the diplomatic corps the news of Russia's intended address to the powers has caused great interest. A diplomat whose government is inclined to sympathize with Russia said that the Russian Government did not expect other nations to pass on the attack at Port Arthur, but as to the threatened attack on Chemulpo, he said, were reported to have protested against the action of the Japanese Government, and if it were true that the American commander refused to join with the other foreign commanders in protesting to the Japanese commander against his action, he thought it likely the action of the commander of the Vicksburg would be the subject of an exchange of views between the St. Petersburg and Washington Governments.

BARON HAYASHI'S OPINION.

Russia Not Prepared For War and Japs May Have to Wait For Troops to Fight Them.

London, Feb. 23.—The latest advices of Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister to Great Britain, lead him to believe that the Japanese troops may now wait possibly two or three months before undertaking aggressive operations in Manchuria. He said:

"We have found that Russia is so unexpectedly unprepared that I should not be surprised if the Japanese land forces contented themselves with establishing a thorough organization and advancing as the construction of the railroad towards the Yalu River progresses. Russia appears to be less prepared than was China in 1895.

"I believe that only three trains a day can be run through Manchuria. Supposing these are equally divided between troops and supplies, as would be necessary, Russia could not perceptibly strengthen her land forces before April. Japan's naval coup has been so unexpectedly successful that I rather think our troops will take their time. The shallow inlets are now frozen over, retarding the disembarkation of our forces. This is especially true at Port Arthur, where a near landing of troops is impossible, owing to the ice."

Baron Hayashi does not credit the report that 2,500 Russians have been killed in an outpost engagement at the Yalu River. He says there is no Japanese force in that vicinity large enough to inflict such a loss.

Bombardment Postponed.

Nagasaki, Feb. 23.—The steamer Stolberg has arrived here from Vladivostock with twenty white foreigners, 1,500 Chinese and fifty Japanese. She brings in addition forty survivors of the Japanese steamer Nakonoura Maru, which was sunk by the Russian cruiser squadron from Vladivostock on Feb. 11. Two men were drowned during their transport to the Russian ships. The survivors were well treated and provided with return passages. The Vladivostock squadron intended to bombard Hakodate, but a snow storm prevented the vessels from entering the Straits of Tsuruga.

Dowager Empress Dead.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 23.—Leaders of the Chinese reform party confirmed yesterday news of the death of the Empress Dowager of China and rejoice exceedingly at the fact. System Poisoned by Defective Kidneys.

Results of the Most Dreadfully Painful and Fatal Ailments Known to Man.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Of the food which is taken into the body, part is digested and assimilated and goes to form new blood and tissue, and a certain portion becomes waste matter which is poisonous to the system. Much of such matter is cast out or excreted by the kidneys in liquid form and passes from these organs through the ureters to the bladder.

When the kidneys become deranged this liquid poison forms into solid material, sometimes collecting in the joints and causing rheumatism, at other times in the kidneys, ureters or bladder, and becoming what is known as gravel or stone in the bladder, probably the most torturing and fatal ailments known to mankind.

Don't wait for symptoms of these horrible diseases, don't wait for Bright's Disease, diabetes, dropsy or apoplexy before beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, but prevent these results by taking warning from the first symptoms, such as headache, deposits in urine, loss of flesh, and any irregularities of the urinary organs.

Mrs. S. Derocher, 495 Bethune street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I was troubled a great deal with nervousness and began a treatment with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can say for a certainty that it is a splendid medicine for besides steadying my nerves it built up my system wonderfully and enabled me to rest and sleep well. We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and Ointment in our family for years and consider them excellent. For skin diseases I think the ointment cannot be equalled and the pills are a most satisfactory laxative."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Did he get well?" Katy asked, her eyes filling with tears at the picture Morris drew of Jamie Cameron, sitting all day long in his wheel-chair, and trying to comfort his grandmother's distress, when the torturing instruments for straightening his poor back were applied

"No, he died one lovely day in October, and they buried him beneath the bright skies of France," Morris said, and then Katy asked about the mother and sisters "Were they proud, and did he like them much?"

"They were very proud," Morris said, "but they were always civil to him," and Katy, had she been watching, might have seen a slight flush on his cheek as he told her of the stately woman, Wilford's mother, of the haughty Juno, a beauty and a belle, and lastly of Arabella, whom the family nicknamed Bluebell, from her excessive fondness for books, and her contempt for the fashionable life her mother and sister led.

It was evident that neither of the young ladies were wholly to Morris's taste, but of the two, he preferred Bluebell, for though imperious and self-willed, she had some heart, some principle, while Juno had none. This was Morris's opinion, and it disturbed little Katy, as was very perceptible, from the nervous tapping of her foot upon the carpet and the working of her hands

"How would I appear by the side of those ladies?" she suddenly asked, her countenance changing as Morris replied that it was almost impossible to think of her as associated with the Camerons, as she was wholly unlike them in every respect.

"I don't believe I shocked Wilford so very much," Katy rejoined, reproachfully, while again a heavy pain shot through Morris's heart, for he saw more and more how Wilford Cameron was mingled with every thought of the young girl, who continued: "And if he was satisfied, his mothers and sisters will be. Anyhow, I don't want you to make me feel how different I am from them."

There was tears now on Katy's face, and casting aside all selfishness, Morris wound his arm around her, and smoothing her golden hair, just as he used to do when she was a child and came to him to be soothed, he said gently:

"My poor Kitty, you do like Wilford Cameron; tell me honestly—is it not so?"

"Yes, I guess I do," and Katy's voice was a half sob. "I could not help it, either, he was so kind, so—I don't know what, only I could not help doing what he bade me. Why, if he had said, 'Jump overboard, Katy Lennox,' I should have done it, I know—that is, if his eyes had been upon me, they controlled me so absolutely. Can you imagine what I mean?"

"Yes, I understand. There was the same look in Bell Cameron's eye, a kind of mesmeric influence which commanded obedience. They idolize Wilford, and I daresay he is worthy of their idolatry. One thing at least is in his favor—the crippled Jamie, for whose opinion I would give all the rest, seemed to worship Uncle Will; talking of him continually, and telling how kind he was, sometimes staying up all night to carry him in his arms when the pain in his back was more than usually severe. So there must be a good, kind heart in Will Cameron, and if my Cousin Kitty likes him, as she says she does, and he likes her as I believe he must, why, I hope——"

Morris Grant could not finish the sentence, for he did not hope that Wilford Cameron would win the gem he had so long coveted as his own.

He might give Kitty up because she loved another best. He was generous enough to do that, but if he did it, she must never know how much it cost him, and lest he should betray himself, he could not to-night talk with her longer of Wilford Cameron. It was time, too, for Katy to go home, but she did not seem to remember it until Morris suggested to her that her mother might be uneasy if she staid away much longer, and so they went together across the fields, the shadows all gone from Katy's heart, but lying so dark and heavy around Morris Grant, who was glad when he could leave Katy at the farm-house door and go back alone to the quiet library, where only God could witness the mighty struggle it was for him to say: "They will be done." And while he prayed, Katy in her humble bedroom, with her head nestled close to Helen's neck, was telling her of Wilford Cameron, who, when they went down the rapids, and she had cried with fear, had put his arm around her trying to quiet her, and who once again on the mountain overlooking Lake George, had held her hand a moment while he pointed out a splendid view seen through the trees. And Helen, listening, knew that Katy's heart was lost, and that for Wilford Cameron to deceive her now would be a cruel thing.

CHAPTER III.

The day succeeding Katy Lennox's return to Silverton was rainy and cold for the season, the storm extending as far westward as the city of New York, and making Wilford Cameron shiver as he stepped from the Hudson River cars into the carriage waiting for him, first greeting pleasantly the white-gloved driver, who closing the carriage door, mounted to his seat and drove his handsome bays in the direction of No.—— Fifth Avenue. And Wilford, leaning back among the cushions, thought how pleasant it was to be home again, feeling glad, as he frequently did, that the home was in every particular unexceptionable. The Camerons, he knew, were an old and highly respectable family, while it was his mother's pride that, go back as far as one might, on either side there could not be found a single blemish, or a member of whom to be ashamed. On the Cameron side there were millionaires, merchant princes, bankers, and stockholders, professors and scholars, while on hers, the Rossiter side, there were LL.D.'s and D. D.'s, lawyers and clergymen, authors and artists, beauties and belles, the whole forming an illustrious line of ancestry, admirably represented and sustained by the present family of Camerons, occupying the brownstone front, corner of—— Street and Fifth Avenue, where the handsome carriage stopped and a tall figure ran quickly up the marble steps. There was a soft rustle of silk, a delicate odor of perfume, and from the luxurious chair before the fire kindled in the grate, a lady rose and advanced a step or two towards the parlor door. In another moment she was kissing the young man bending over her and saluting her as a mother, kissing him quietly, properly, as the Cameron's always kissed. home again; for he was her favorite She was very glad to have Wilford child; and brushing the rain drops from his coat, she led him to the fire, offering him her own easy-chair, and starting herself in guest of another. But Wilford held her back, and making her sit down, he drew an ottoman beside her, and then asked her first how she had been then where his sisters were and if his father had come home—for there was a father, a quiet, unassuming man, who stayed all day in Wall Street, seldom coming home in time to carve at his own dinner table, and when he was at home, asking for nothing except to be left by his fashionable wife and daughters to himself, free to smoke and doze over his evening paper in the seclusion of his own reading-room.

As Wilford's question concerning his sire had been the last one asked, so it was the last one answered, his mother parting his dark hair with her jeweled hand, and telling him first that, with the exception of a cold taken at the Park on Saturday afternoon, she was in usual health—second, that Juno was spending a few days in Orange, and that Bell had gone to pass the night with her particular friend, Mrs. Meredith, the most bookish woman in New York.

"Your father," the lady added, "has not yet returned; but as the dinner is ready I think we will not wait"

She touched a silver bell beside her, and ordering dinner to be sent up at once, went on to ask her son concerning his journey, and the people he had met, but Wilford, though intending to tell her all, would wait till after dinner So, offering her his arm, he led her out to where the table was spread, widely different from the table prepared for Katy Lennox among the Silverton hills, for where at the farm-houses there had only been the homely wares common to the country, with Aunt Betsy's onions served in a bowl, there was here the finest of damask, the choicest of china, the costliest of cut-glass and the heaviest of silver, with the well-trained waiter gliding in and out, himself the very personification of strict table etiquette, such as the Barlows had never dreamed about There was no fricasseed chicken here, or flaky crust, with pickled beans and apple-sauce; no custard pie with strawberries, and rich, sweet cream, poured from a blue earthen pitcher; but there were soups and fish, and roasted meats, and dishes with French names and taste, and dessert elaborately gotten up, and served with the utmost precision, and Mrs. Cameron presided over all with lady-like decorum, her soft, glossy silk of brown, with her rich lace and diamond pin in perfect keeping with herself and her surroundings. And opposite to her Wilford sat, a tall, dark, handsome man, of thirty or thereabouts — a man, whose polished manners, betokened at once a perfect knowledge of the world, and whose face, to a close observer, indicated how little satisfaction he had as yet found in the world. He had tried its pleasures, drinking the cup of freedom and happiness to its very dregs, and though he thought he liked it, he often found himself dissatisfied and reaching after something which should make life more real, more worth the living for. He had traveled all over Europe twice, had visited every spot worth visiting in his own country, had been a frequenter of every fashionable resort in New York, from the skating-pond to the theatres, had been admitted as a lawyer, had opened an office on Broadway, acquiring some reputation in his profession, had looked at more than twenty girls, with the view of making them his wife, and found them, as he believed, alike fickle, selfish, artificial and hollow-hearted. In short, while thinking far more of family, and accomplishments, and style, than he ought, he was yet heartily tired of the butterflies who flitted so constantly around him, offering to be caught if he would but stretch out his hand to catch them. This he would not do, and disgusted with the world as he saw it in New York, he had gone to the Far West, roaming awhile amid the solitude of the broad prairies, and finding there much that was soothing to him, but not discovering the fulfillment of the great want he was craving until coming back to Canandaigua, he met with Katy Lennox. He had smiled wearily when asked by Mrs. Woodhull to go with her to the examination then in progress at the Seminary. There was nothing there to interest him, he thought, as Euclid and Algebra, French and Rhetoric were bygone things, while young school-misses, in braided hair and pantalettes, were shockingly insipid. Still, to be polite to Mrs. Woodhull, a childless, fashionable woman, who patronized Canandaigua generally and Katy Lennox in particularly, he consented, and soon found himself in the crowded room, the cynosure of many eyes as the whisper ran round chat the fine-looking man with Mrs. Woodhull was Wilford Cameron, from New York, brother to the proud, dashing Juno Cameron, who once spent a few weeks in town. Wilford knew they were talking about him, but he did not care, and assuming as easy an attitude as possible, he leaned back in his chair, yawned indolently until the class in Algebra was called, and Katy Lennox came tripping on the stage, a pale blue ribbon in her golden hair, and her simple dress of white relieved by no ornament except the cluster of wild flowers fastened in her belt and at her throat. But Katy needed no ornaments to make her more beautiful than she was at the moment, when with glowing cheeks and sparkling eyes, she first burst upon Wilford's vision, a creature of rare, bewitching beauty, such as he had never dreamed about.

Wilford had met his destiny, and he felt it in every throb of blood which went rushing through his veins.

"Who is she?" he asked of Mrs. Woodhull, and that lady knew at once whom he meant, even though he had not designated her.

An old acquaintance of Mrs. Lennox when she lived in East Bloomfield, Mrs. Woodhull had petted Katy from the first day of her arrival in Canandaigua with a letter of introduction to herself from the ambitious mother, and being rather inclined to match-making, she had Katy in her mind when she urged Wilford to accompany her to the Seminary. Accordingly she answered him at once: "That is Katy Lennox, daughter of Judge Lennox, who died in East Bloomfield a few years ago. Pretty, is she not?"

Several Doctors Attended But Did No Good.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills CURED.

Read what Miss L. L. Hanson, Waterside, N.B., says: "I feel it my duty to express the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working and lie down for a while. Then I got so bad I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors attend me but they did me no good. I could get no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before I had used three quarters of a box I began to feel the benefit and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cure nervousness, sleeplessness, palpitation of the heart, skip beats, and all troubles arising from the heart or nerves.

How Health is Gained.

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little the form loses plumpness, the cheeks grow hollow and sallow, and they feel tired and worn-out all the time. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks, the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs Ann Quinn (Treasurer Woman's Athletic Club), of 622 Sycamore St., Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I took did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The next day took my first dose, and it was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman; my flesh which had been flabby became firm, complexion clear and my eyes bright. It was simply an indication of the great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness."

HOW WEATHER CONDITIONS AFFECTED BUSINESS.

Special Corresdondence Reviewing Business Prospects in Peterborough County.

In view of the fact that the present winter has been one in which weather conditions have been such as have never before been experienced by even the oldest settlers, the Examiner has arranged for special correspondence from different parts of the county in which the effects on business generally in the several localities are dealt with. A number of these special letters are published below:

OMEMEE MERCHANTS' BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

The Severe Winter and Blocked Roads Have Made Business Unsatisfactory.

Omemee, Feb. 22nd.—The oldest settler in this vicinity has no recollection of a winter in which such severe weather and depth of snow has been experienced, and the result of these unusual conditions has been that as far as business is concerned, the last few months have been unsatisfactory. Farmers have been unable to market their produce in many cases, on account of the blocked condition of the roads, and merchants have suffered to a correspondingly extent. Outside of the fact that the severe weather and blocked roads have made trips to market inconvenient, if not impossible in some cases, the farmers have not suffered materially. Of recent years the farmers have been improving the quality of their barns and stables, putting up cement walls, etc., and the result is that the cold weather has not been felt by the stock nearly as severely as it would have been had these improvements not been made. The residents of this town find that by reason of the weather conditions the farmers have been unable to bring in the usual quantity of wood, consequently, with the difficulties experienced by the railways in shipping in coal, and its high price, fuel of all kinds has been materially increased in cost.

The farmers are now predicting that the crops for the coming har will be excellent. They argue that after such a heavy fall of snow as has been experienced this winter, which will act as a fertilizer to the soil. They confidently expect that wheat this year will reach $2.00 per bushel—war prices.

PROSPEROUS WINTER FOR HAVELOCK.

Merchants Report that in Spite of Severe Winter, Business is Good.

Havelock, Feb. 23. — Now that the severe weather is almost over it is about time we were saying something of how it has left the village in general. The people in town are wishing the amount of snow which has fallen had been about one-eighth of what it is, as it is almost an impossibility to get wood, the snow being so deep the farmers cannot get it out, even if they could get into the woods to cut it, and ask just what they like for dry hardwood. It is easily seen it is very scarce as this week six dollars a cord is being offered for it. Of course the farmers all have smiling faces, whether it is on account of there being hardly any frost in the ground, or at the money they are getting for their wood. In almost every section of the country around here the frost has not got below two or three inches—four at the best, and the Electric Light Company, while putting in their poles, experienced little or no difficulty in this line whatever. The town people are preparing for the same thing next winter by getting in coal stoves and making arrangements for getting in coal by the car load, of course this will bring the price of wood down considerably. Although it has been a very hard winter some ways, it has not materially effected the business to any extent, as some of the business men of this place claim they have done a better business this winter than any preceeding winter they have had. Also it has not decreased the labour at all, in fact it has given everybody a job who wants to work; in fact it was impossible at some periods of the season to get enough men. The only draw back that is much seen and felt is the pleasure part of it, the weather being so cold it was impossible to go out; the roads being so bad for driving, and all the pleasures had to be of an indoor nature, and all we can say is that it has been a prosperous winter for the Village of Havelock.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS AT INDIAN RIVER.

The Severe Winter has had an Effect but has not Materially Influenced Business

Indian River, Feb. 22nd. — The unusual severity of the present winter has excited considerable comment among the oldest pioneers of the vicinity, who say that no winter since 1861 can compare with it in the intensity of the cold, while the great depth of snow, and the extraordinary crust of ice, all combine to make it the hardest they have ever known.

Notwithstanding the severity of the weather, business in general has not been retarded as much as might perhaps be expected in a small village. The merchants report their business to be in a comparatively prosperous condition. The local blacksmiths, although not rushed, are kept busy and during the past few weeks the grain dealers have had to hustle, while Mr. P. G. Walker has been in demand on his regular chopping days.

The farmers have not been able to get to the woods on account of the great depth of snow; and some of them have been contemplating the burning of coal. When the farmers are unable to obtain wood, what must it be in the towns and cities!

The railways have also been heavy losers on account of the breaking of wires, blockading of tracks, spreading of rails, scarcity of coal, etc., causing delays and suspensions without number.

Fast driving is totally out of the question on the roads around here at present. The narrowness of the track, the great depth of snow, and the hard sharp crust, which cuts a horse's legs like glass, are great obstacles.

The changeableness of the weather in the beginning of winter caused considerable sickness in the neighbourhood. Happy, indeed, is the one who has escaped the dreaded la grippe.

On the whole, if we may be allowed to express an opinion, the present winter has been very satisfactory to the business men of Indian River, although the farmers and others have suffered through lack of wood.

LAKEFIELD MERCHANTS' TEMPORARY SET-BACK.

Weather has Affected Them but the Conditions on the Whole

Lakefield, Feb. 20th. — There is no doubt that the long continued cold and stormy weather and lack of water has materially and adversely affected the general business of the community. Our manufacturing companies have found it very difficult to carry out the plans laid out for their winter campaign in their particular spheres of work. Damaged power lines, frozen pipes, blocked tramways, and great depth of snow, have worked together to bring about a condition not only inconvenient and annoying, but tending to greatly increase the cost of manufacturing their product. Indeed our lumbering firms have found it during the last month particularly, quite unprofitable to operate and consequently have prematurely closed some of their logging camps for the season. Fortunately, however, in the early part of the season good use was made of the favourable conditions in the woods at that time and we are told that the cut will be but little below the average in other winters.

Referring to our merchantile interests it can be said that these extraordinary conditions have had their effect on this otherwise prosperous class. In common with other parts of Canada our vicinity has been enjoying for the past five years a period of great prosperity, and up to the present this wave has had no setback, except what we hope will prove to be but a temporary check resulting from these existing weather conditions. Enquiry among several leading merchants has disclosed the fact that the volume of trade has shrunken noticeably during the last two months as compared with corresponding months in other years. Let us hope that, as intimated above, this will be but short-lived and that the opening up of spring will be accompanied by renewed activity in manufacturing and business circles, increased circulation of money and a "full dinner pail" for all.

WINTER CONDITIONS AT BLAIRTON.

Difficulty of Procuring Water for Cattle and Horses Springs Dried up.

Blairton, Feb. 20. — That the weather condition of the present winter has demoralized transportation business, and otherwise created an extraordinary state of affairs here as likely it has throughout Canada, is evident from what our sad experience justifies us in relating. We have had snow weather here almost continuously, month in and month out, and to-day the country is deluged with snow. About in the middle of the body of snow are two strata of ice, about ten inches apart, causing the matter of giving half of the road, or breaking roads, to be much dreaded, and injurious to teams. All swamps are as dry and as free from water as the fields. Nearly all the wells are dry, and in some cases a gallon of water is as precious as in a desert land. Springs, and in some small creeks, for the first time in our memory, are dried up. Cattle either suffer for water, or have to be driven a long way for it. Not a farmer around has been able to get out any surplus wood owing to the depth of snow.

To the severity of the weather, must be attributed the impossibility of one doing his ordinary work, such as preparing for building, getting out rails, milling business, and such like.

Crow Lake is so low that one has to go twenty rods out from the usual low water mark on shore to obtain water for cattle. In short, every branch of industry is impeded by the severity of the winter.

Of the fierce winds, the blinding snow, and the insufferable cold of this winter one is lead to think that Scripture is being fulfilled: Job 37, 9, "Out of the south cometh the whirlwind, and cold out of the north." Also Ps. 147, 16, "He giveth snow like wool.....Who can stand His cold?" So intense has been the cold and so continuous too, that it has often been a dread to one to leave the house.

The writer came to Canada in the year 1852, and with the exception of the winter of 1884, when mining in the wilds of Quebec, where that winter was very severe, he does not remember of any other so severe as the present one.

JAPANESE STEAMERS SUNK AT PT. ARTHUR

NO BATTLESHIPS DESTROYED

Official Story From St. Petersburg of how Russian Fire from Forts and Warships Prevented Japanese Success—Toga's Fleet Reported to Have Sailed from Port Arthur—A Jap Protectorate Over Corea.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25, 2.45 a.m. —A telegram from Viceroy Alexieff to the Czar says:

"At a quarter before three in the morning of February 24 numerous Japanese torpedo boats attempted to attack the battleship Retvizan and sink large steamers loaded with inflammables.

"The Retvizan was the first to observe the torpedo boats and opened a strong fire on them. She was supported by the land batteries. She destroyed two steamers near the entrance of the harbor. They were coming directly towards her. One of them went on the rocks near the lighthouse on Tiger Peninsula and the other sank under Golden Hill.

"The Retvizan observed the steamers in a sinking condition and eight torpedo boats departing slowly to join the waiting Japanese warships. A portion of the crews of the Japanese vessels was drowned. The grounded steamer is still burning. The enemy is observed in the offing of Port Arthur in two lines.

"The Japanese saved themselves in boats, and it is possible that some of them were picked up by some of the enemy's torpedo boats.

"I am proceeding to examine the coast. The entrance to the harbor is open. I attribute the complete derangement of the enemy's plan to brilliant action and destructive fire of the Retvizan.

"Floating mines are still visible in the roadstead. I have recalled the three cruisers sent in pursuit of the enemy, in order in the first place to clear the roadstead of floating mines.

"We had no losses."

Explains Earlier Telegrams.

This despatch modifies and explains earlier telegrams from St. Petersburg and Paris reporting an official announcement that four Japanese battleships and two transports had been sunk in a fresh attack on Port Arthur.

4 Steamers With Explosives.

London, Feb. 25.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from St. Petersburg, sent at 11 o'clock last night, says that on Feb. 24 the Japanese attempted to send four steamers filled with explosives among the Russian fleet in Port Arthur harbor. These fireships did no damage, and were themselves destroyed, two being sunk and two going ashore. Two Japanese boats escorting the fireships were destroyed by Russian ships.

Tried to Block the Harbor.

Paris, Feb. 25.—The Russian Embassy has received a communication to the effect that a Japanese squadron, during the night of Feb. 24, tried to block the entrance of Port Arthur harbor, at the same time attacking Russian warships there with torpedo boats and trying to set them on fire. The battleship Retvizan, supported by the coast batteries, repelled this attack, forced the Japanese to retire, and succeeded in sinking four of their vessels.

An Ineffective Bombardment.

Chefu, Feb. 25.—The bombardment of Port Arthur last midnight was ineffective, but details are still wanting. Regarding the land operations the Japanese military experts are inclined to countenance an extensive guerilla warfare with the object of wrecking the Russian lines of communication and impeding their transportation service. It is freely predicted here that there will be an important land battle in the vicinity of the Yalu River within a week.

Japs Move Toward the Yalu.

Wei-Hai-Wei, Feb. 25.—The Japanese force, which landed at Chemulpo and occupied Seoul, is now moving towards the Yalu River, and the advance is in full swing. Should the Russians resolve to hold the line of the Yalu River an engagement cannot be long delayed. The Japanese suffered terribly during the march on Seoul, but are now eager to encounter the enemy.

Chinese Engage Russians.

Shanghai, Feb. 25.—China is becoming more difficult to restrain, and it is feared it will be impossible to prevent the Chinese army from engaging in active hostilities against the Russian forces. The first clash has indeed already occurred, and the Chinese soldiers want openly to take the field in support of Japan. A settlement has been arrived at with regard to the Russian gunboat Mandjur, and she will cease to be actively participant in the war.

Kuropatkin Marries Away.

Paris, Feb. 25.—A despatch to The Figaro from St. Petersburg says Gen. Kuropatkin has advanced his departure and will leave for the Far East to-morrow.

JAPANESE PROTECTORATE.

Important Treaty Between Japan and Corea Regarded As Shrewd Move.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Secretary of State Hay has received information that Japan has negotiated a treaty with Corea whereby she guarantees the independence and integrity of Corea. This treaty is regarded here as one of the cleverest of the many startling diplomatic moves that have been made in connection with the whole eastern question. The effect is to place Japan on a high moral plane, for it is understood here that this treaty is an announcement to the world that even if she prevails in her struggle with Russia, involving military occupation of Corea, Japan will take no advantage of that fact, but will maintain the independence of the hermit kingdom.

The Russian Position.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Information received here through Russian channels leads to the belief that Japan is now seeking to secure the execution of a treaty, by the Emperor of Corea, giving Japan a protectorate over Corea. The prospect of this treaty was the main reason for Russia's protest to the powers against Japan's violating Corean neutrality, as Russia desires to reserve all rights against a Japanese protectorate over Corea, on the ground that it will be of no effect, being executed, while Corea was under duress. The situation from Russia's standpoint is likened to a man's signing a cheque under duress or fear.

Russian Fleet Bottled Up.

London, Feb. 25.—Viceroy Alexieff's despatch to the Czar concerning the last Port Arthur affair confirms the opinion that Admiral Togo made a daring attempt to bottle up the Russian fleet at Port Arthur, and although Viceroy Alexieff asserts that the entrance to the harbor of Port Arthur is still free, yet the fact that Admiral Togo's fleet, minus the vessels injured in the courageous exploit, was seen steaming at full speed in a southeast course from Wei-Hai-Wei, is interpreted as an indication of the Japanese Admiral's satisfaction with the accomplishment of his design.

The Troublesome Mandjur.

Shanghai, Feb. 25.—It is reported that the Chinese Foreign Office has agreed to allow the Russian gunboat Mandjur to remain at Shanghai on the condition that she dismantles her rudder and draws her fires. The Japanese cruiser Akitsushima, which has been lying in wait for the Mandjur, proceeded north yesterday.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

St. Luke's W. A. Held Meeting Yesterday Afternoon.

Reports Presented Showed Good Year's Work—New Officers Elected—President on for Another Year.

The annual meeting of St. Luke's Women's Auxiliary, was held in the Parish House yesterday afternoon, when there was a very large number of the members present. The reports of the year's work, presented by the different officers, showed that the year had been a successful one.

The new officers elected were:
Hon. Pres.—Mrs. E. A. Peck.
President—Mrs. W. Scott.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Langfeldt.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Phillips.
Soc.-Treasurer—Mrs. Gaskins.
Rec.-Secretary—Mrs. Boswell.
Dorcas Secretary—Mrs. Jameson.
Junior Supt.—Mrs. Sawyer.
Board of Management—Mrs. E. W. Turner, Mrs. G. W. Armstrong.

SEC.-TREASURER'S REPORT.

The report of the Secretary-Treasurer was presented by Mrs. N. Kidd, and ran as follows:—

During the past year we have held thirty-four meetings with an average attendance of thirteen; compared with thirty-six meetings and an average attendance of twelve last year.

Our membership is now 46, an increase of four over last year. We have lost one member, Mrs. Cassan who has removed to Hastings. We have 25 subscribers to the Letter Leaflet, an increase of two over last year, but we should have more when we consider that we have 46 members.

Twice during the year we attended Corporate Communion, March 1st and June 21st. On June 18th we had our annual picnic to Chemong. On July 2, a garden party was held at Mrs. Scott's Water street, at which we cleared $24.85 which sum has been used in purchase of material for our bales. We again took charge of the annual tea, Nov 26th, and realized $90, which we handed to the Wardens.

December 4th we shipped two bales, one to the Blackfoot home and hospital and the other to the Sarcee home, valued together at $91.76. The freight on these was $6.07, which will eventually be refunded.

The Auxiliary, and indeed the whole congregation should be more deeply interested than ever in missions, especially in the North West, where we are so well represented by Miss Alice Scott who is now assistant nurse in the Blackfoot hospital. Before leaving us, the Junior and Women's Auxiliaries had the pleasure of presenting her with a nurse's watch and chatelaine. Our pledges amount to $11 and are paid to the following places: Blackfoot Home, $5.00; Japan Medical Mission, $2.00; Educational Fund, $2.00; Temiscamingue, Mission, $2.00.

To the Chinese Mission in British Columbia we try to send 5c per member.

In addition to the above pledge we forwarded $5.00 to the relief of the Wasp-kom Mission which had suffered so badly from fire.

Money received from all sources during the past year, $92.84; expenditure, $82.67, leaving a balance on hand of $10.17. And now, in resigning this office which I have held for the past two years, and which I can assure you has been both a pleasure and an honour to me, I wish to thank you all for the kindness and consideration shown me during my term of office.

All of which is respectfully submitted
BELLE KIDD,
Secretary-Treasurer.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the ladies present took tea in the school room, and attended the evening service in the church.

ADDRESS ON THE THE NORTH WEST.

Rev. A. J. Vining Will Tell of His Experience in the Western Country

Rev. A. J. Vining, late Superintendent of North-west Missions, will give an address in Park street Baptist church at 8 o'clock this evening. There are few men in the Dominion with such a thorough knowledge of that vast western country. He was pastor of the Logan avenue Baptist church, Winnipeg, for two years. He resigned the pastorate to superintend the missions throughout Manitoba and the North-west. During his three years of service in that capacity he travelled thousands of miles each year by rail, trail and boat, visiting newly settled districts and also older settled districts, meeting all classes of people, foreign and native. His narratives of experiences of new settlers are thrilling and interesting, and an address by Mr. Vining on this subject, which is so well known to him, will be a rare treat to those who do not know much of the West concerning its possibilities and advantages, and they will be rewarded by listening to him this evening on this subject. Anyone desiring to know more of the West should not miss this opportunity.

INTERESTING ADDRESS AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. C. H. Brooks Spoke on "Rest and Refreshment Last Night.

The special Wednesday evening service in St. John's church last evening was a particularly helpful one. The address was delivered by Rev. H. C. Brooks, on "Rest and Refreshment." Mr. Brooks is well qualified to speak on this subject by reason of his temperament. The point made by the speaker was that while in this age, the busy, bustling business man, is the one who is looked up to, the Bible ideal man is the calm and quiet, self contained man. The subject was very ably handled by Mr. Brooks, and he enumerated some of the means which God had provided for the development of rest and refreshment, among them being, Prayer, Meditation and the Sunday.

The next address in the series will be given by Rev. Marmaduke Hare.

DOES THE HARD WINTER MEAN HARD TIMES?

Does the hard winter mean hard times? In many respects an affirmative answer to this question is readily recongized as appropriate. The unusual consumption of fuel this been and still promises to be a heavy tax upon the purse, but hard times have come to the poor who with an inadequate supply of fuel, with inadequate means of supplying it and inferior dwellings, have induced positive discomfort, if not actual suffering. But in the commercial sense the hard winter has brought, so it is said, or threatens to produce, hard times. It is asserted that the severe weather and impassible roads have prevented farmers from getting their produce to market. The country merchants have consequently suffered by diminution of patronage; this in turn has made remittances to wholesale houses slow and produced also a shortage of orders. Thus the dulness of trade acts and reacts through a widely connected circle of commercial and business interests. The extent or severity of the results of such conditions cannot be accurately estimated, but it is pretty certain that the hard winter has resulted in dulness of trade which, however, it is to be hoped will only be temporary.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

There is no philanthropic work more radical in its relation to the well-being of society, than that of the Children's Aid Society. It has a double function: to save children from physical ill-treatment, and from moral ill-training. Through the medium of this society there have been rescued hundreds of children, who but for its intervention, would be now inmates of our prisons, or on their way thither, a burden on the resources, and a menace to the safety, of society. The eleventh annual report of the Superintendent of Neglected and Dependant Children, was laid before the Legislature on Monday by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, and Hon. President of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society. The report shows that since and including 1893, homes have been found for 2,030 neglected and dependent children, the number for last year being 239, of which the Peterborough Society placed nine. In looking over the report it is a pleasure to note that Peterborough stands out prominently in respect of the interest shown in the work. Outside of Toronto there is no city showing in its annual report as liberal financial support as Peterborough. The total amount raised for the purposes of the society in Ottawa was $736.95, while in Peterborough the total contributions amounted to $767 36. It is a pleasure to note that philanthropic persons, of all religious denominations, actively and harmoniously co-operated in the excellent work of the local society.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mr. Tarte seems inclined to prevent no Monk-eying with the Conservative leadership of Quebec.

Russia has decided to make no showing at the St. Louis Exposition. No need to: Japan has made a big enough show of Russia to answer every purpose.

Misfortunes, the proverb says, never come singly. The poor man had to struggle all this long winter, against cold and scarcity of coal. Now, another blow has fallen. The diamond polishers have struck, and the price of diamonds will advance. the real diamonds are no more unreachable to many poor persons than the dusky diamonds of the coal men.

HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A very pleasing and instructive entertainment was held in the English church last Wednesday. Rev. J. Cooper Robinson gave an address on Japan, its people, customs and country in general.

An exciting game of hockey was played here on Friday afternoon between the employees of the C.P.R. and the town. The score was 5—3 in favour of the C.P.R. men. The line up was as follows:—

Town — Goal, Geo. Ritchie; point, P. Lancaster; cover, Chas. Robinson; forwards, Bert Easton, E. Bennett, G. Covernton, and W. Alger.

Mr. A. Innis acted as referee.

Miss D. Cromby, who has been the guest of Mr. Alex. Watson for the past week, returned on Monday to her home in Perth.

A meeting of baseball enthusiasts was held at the Dineen House on Monday evening. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—W. W. Webster.
President—W. Ritchie.
Manager—D. Ford.
Secretary—W. H. Thompson.
Treasurer—A. Innis.
Schedule Committee — Wm. Ritchie, D. Ford, and W. H. Thompson. Jas. Black was appointed a member of the protesting game committee.

A very enjoyable time was the leap year social given by the young ladies of the Methodist church on Monday evening. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of a very interesting programme. Miss Polton's reading on the origin of leap year, was very interesting. The "Unclaimed Treasure" by a number of the young ladies, was exceptionally good.

Mr. E. White, who called home for a day last week, was snow bound and did not return for four days.

The snow storm on Tuesday made it necessary for the man behind the plough to again get in his work, but by the looks of some of the fences the horse and plough have no regard for personal property.

The town will have the pleasure of being lit up by electricity in about three weeks at the outside.

TO A PIPE LOST IN STONY LAKE

(A Bachelor's Lament.)

The debtor may pay what he owes to his friend,
The broker turn honest by ceasing to lend,
And the woe-begone poet be famous in time.
There is hope for them all, whatsoever their stripe,
But there's none for your welcome return, oh, my Pipe

When I roamed thro' the forest or wandered at will Mid the sweet-scented meadows you solaced me still.
When I wooed the fair Muse, who is fickle as fair,
Soft visions would sweep thro' the smoke-laden air.
My men were chivalrous—my women the type
Of high honour when you were my comfort, sweet Pipe.

'Tis whispered that Love is the maker of men,
Giving light to true talent and point to the pen;
But though Phyllis is lovely as Phyllis may be,
She could fasten no corydon of fetters on me—
Though fairer than portrait of Reynolds or Cuyp,
She played second fiddle to thee, oh, my Pipe.

Perchance, in these depths you now peacefully lie,
Remote from the gloried of woodland and sky—
Perchance, to yon gold-gleaming beach in the West
The wild, wailing billows have borne you to rest.
You have gone in the fulness of years —you were ripe—
'Tis my one consolation;—farewell, oh, my Pipe!

—Fred M. De la Fosse.

SUCCESSFUL ICE CARNIVAL AT KEENE

Hockey and Curling News from Otonabee's Capital.

A Bright Pupil from Keene School Takes Honours at Peterborough News of a Personal Character.

It is to be regretted that the announcement in the Peterborough papers concerning the scholarship in form III. Collegiate Institute, is not entirely correct, and conveys a wrong impression. In the inner circles it is well known that the highest marks were obtained by Miss Irene Shaw, who was debarred from the scolarship by being in attendance at the Institute one year only. It is only fair to Miss Shaw that while she is denied the $30 in connection with the scholarship she be given the honour due to her ability and industry by the acknowledgment of her scholarly superiority. It is indeed complimentary to the Keene Public School in which Miss Shaw received her preparatory training, that one of its pupils attained such high results in one year.

The carnival on Friday evening, Feb. 19th, was very successful, both as regards the numbers in attendance and costumes. The prizes were awarded as follows:—

The annual hockey match between the Buffers and the Duffers was pulled off on Thursday evening before about 400 spectators, and proved an event teeming with thrilling incidents. Captain Fife made a desperate effort to make good his boast to snow Capt. Kennedy under, and was efficiently assisted by his goal keeper.

It is only justice to the Buffers to say that "Fady" in goal, and "Patterson," at point, and "Kitchener" on left wing was the stone wall against which the hopes of the Duffers were shattered. However, if "Pony" could have nailed on his skates, and clinched the nails and weighted down his feet, and put life preservers on his head, that he might have been able to retain the possession ordinary to mankind, there is no doubt but the Buffers would have won. As it is it is uncertain which won and it is to be hoped that the correspondent will be in possession of the information deciding the fact before the next letter is written.

"In days of yore, from Scotland's shore" it is said that good curlers came. So said some of Scotia's sons residing in Lang and thereby, challenged to curl any of Keene's crack rinks for an oyster supper. Dr. Shaw had the courage of his convictions in his ability to curl, and accepted the challenge. The date was fixed for Thursday afternoon and many assembled to see the contest. The "Old Timers" played "straight ice" with no turn," and had bad luck with no turn, the result being 25—10 in favour of Keene. Nothing daunted they challenged for another game in the evening and with the afternoon's practice and a substantial supper of oysters and better luck made good their pretensions and turned their opponents down by a score of 12—7. "All hail! to the Old Timers!"

Mr. William Clarry met with a painful accident on Saturday evening. While he was unloading ice a block slipped from the plank and fell on his foot, crushing it. It is to be hoped that the injuries are not as bad as anticipated and that he will soon be around again.

Mrs. Wm. Campbell is in Toronto this week on a visit to her sister, Mrs. J. H. Cruikshanks, and her brother, Mr. John Miller, who are leaving for Calgary, where they intentd to remain for a couple of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Renwick gave a delightful party to a number of their friends on Wednesday evening. A number from the village attended.

Two rinks of the Keene curlers participated in the Peterborough bonspeil this week.

Miss Willene Miller has entirely recovered from her recent illness.

We are pleased to be able to report that Mr. Harry Elmhirst is able to sit up again.

Miss Molly Shaw returned to her home on Monday, after a month's visit with friends in Lindsay.

Death has called away one of the oldest residents of the township in the person of Mr. George Wood, who died on Monday evening last. Mr. Wood has been ailing for quite a time yet the nd came rather unexpectedly. Mr. Wood at the age of six years, came to this country from Morebattle, Roxburghshire, Scotland, 68 years ago, and settled in Otonabee, where he has remained ever since, and during his long and useful life upheld the traditions of his native land as a thorough going and honest citizen. Forty-eight years ago he married Miss Jennie Redpath, who survives him.

We regret to announce the bereavement of Mr. and Mrs. Will Chapman by the loss of their baby daughter. Death occurred early on Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Thos. Laing of Toronto, is here caring for her son Will, who is suffering from a broken leg.

The funeral obseques of the late Mrs. William Foley were held in St. John's church here on Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. The Rev. Father Foley of Ottawa, her nephew, officiated, and was assisted by Rev. Father Phelan. After the ceremony the funeral proceeded to the Roman Catholic cemetery, Peterborough.

Mrs. John Gall is seriously ill with pneumonia.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Strain Caused by Heavy Lifting.

William Sharam Tells of his Precarious Condition, and his Happy Release From it.

Murray Harbour South P. E. I., Feb. 24.—(Special.)—William Sharam, who keeps a general store here, is one of many hundreds in Prince Edward Island who have been rescued from chronic sickness, and made round and well by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Sharam, who is always glad to say a word for the remedy that did so much for him, relates his experience as follows:—

"I sprained my back with heavy lifting, and the result was urinary and Kidney trouble that left me in a very weak state, and at times I got so weak that I almost fainted, and could scarcely hold up.

"After trying several other medicines without relief, I concluded that it was a Kidney Disease I had, and would find the cure in a Kidney remedy, and decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"The result was all that could be asked. I used ten boxes all told, and can now enjoy sweet sleep without being disturbed as heretofore, and my old troubles were banished."

Two Men Lost.

DRAINING OF THE GREAT CAVAN SWAMP

A Government Grant of $3,000 Will the Town Help? It Will Affect the Creek.

"The Township of Cavan," said a prominent citizen this morning, "is moving in the matter of draining the great Cavan swamp, which is one of the feeders of the town creek. This is a large job and will probably take some years. The Government has granted $3,000 towards it, and the United Townships of Northumberland Durham $600. An effort is being made to induce the town of Peterborough to raise a grant, and what is lacking will be made up under the municipal law, by the assessment of those lands which are benefitted.

"One large main ditch will be cut and private owners will be left to make connection with this ditch by lateral drains. The material that comes out of the main ditch will probably be thrown up to make a highway. This will be a short cut from Mount Pleasant to Peterborough, on the round trip of fully six miles. It will thus benefit the town by bringing that portion of Cavan nearer the market.

"As a result of these operations, the natural question arises, 'In what way will it affect the creek?' The natural reasoning is that if the waters which fall on this section of Cavan are led out quickly by a main drain, it will influence the creek by making it less steady, and subjecting it to large floods. It will thus seem to be of no real benefit to the town, as it would cause a large expense in flood time, and would cause the creek to run almost dry in summer, which would be a bad thing, as it is a valuable means of draining.

"It may be said against this that when the Grand Trunk Railway cut a straight channel through what was then called Lily Lake it is said to have made the creek steadier than before. The explanation of this is that the water which was formerly spread over a large surface and evaporated by means of channels, escaped by the creek and so made it steadier.

"The result of the draining, which is bound to come sooner or later, will doubtless be watched with great interest."

OBITUARY.

Death of Mr. J. B. Nicholls, Formerly of Town, in La Porte, Texas.

The La Porte. (Texas) Herald, of Feb. 6th, has the following on the death of Mr. J. B. Nicholls, formerly of Peterborough, and a brother of the Misses Nicholls, McDonel street:

Mr. J. B. Nicholls died at the home of his son, Raymond B., at 1.30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Funeral services were held in the Baptist church at 2.30 on Thursday, and were conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. Hall, of the Presbyterian church.

Mr. Nicholls was born in Peterborough, Ontario, where he lived until 1884, when he moved with his family to Beatrice, Neb. In 1896 he removed to La Porte, where he has since made his home. He leaves four children to mourn his loss, his wife having been called home in '96.

In early manhood he accepted Christ as his Saviour, united with the Baptist church and has ever since striven to live a consistant, Christian life. All through his illness, which lasted nearly two years, his confidence was in his Saviour who had been such a help and stay while in health. As he grew weaker and the end seemed drawing near, it became anxious for it to come. He had no fears; he was "only waiting" he he said. At last he fell asleep and quietly passed away.

Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep.
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Unbroken by the last of foes.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mrs. Walter Young left Tuesday last for Toronto to see her sister, who is dangerously ill in that city.

Mr. Will Young and wife of Enismore, spent a few days visiting friends here this week.

Mr. Robert Young and Pat Young, Jr., spent last Sunday with friends in Douro.

Miss Alice Wilson and Miss Primeau, of Peterborough, are visiting Mrs. A. Wilson this week.

Mr. Brisbin, of Lakefield, has a number of men employed here at present repairing the dam.

Mrs. McNaughton, Sr., who has had a very severe attack of pneumonia we are pleased to say she is improving.

Sickness still seems to reign in our little village, as quite a number are confined to the house trying to shake off la grippe.

If You Have These Symptoms

Send for My Book.

If you want to feel better,
If you want more strength,
If you lack ambition,
If you can't do things like you used to,
If you lack confidence in yourself,
If your nerve—your courage—is leaving you,
If you lack vim, vigour, vitality,
If something is eating away your constitution, write to me for the book you need.

The book tells of my discovery. Tells how after thirty years I found the cause of the symptoms given above—and of many others.

The book tells how by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality that the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves, the inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me. Now by any sick one

DR. SHOOP'S RESTORATIVE

Can be taken on trial. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send me no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month—then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubts as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this of you are at all sick.

If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it.

Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help. Get my book now—to-day.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest at Lakefield.

The annual carnival which was held in the rink on Tuesday evening, February 16th, owing to the severe weather and the badly blockaded roads, was not in point of numbers as successful as it would have been had the weather been more favourable.

Mrs. Morrow, of Peterborough, intends holding a concert in Lakefield in the near future. This should be a treat, and will be looked forward to with interest by all lovers of music here.

On Friday evening last the Epworth League of the Methodist church held what was termed a Scotch evening. Scotch songs, Scotch readings, and papers on Scotch characteristics, were rendered by the different members and friends of the society. A reading by Mrs. Robert Graham was deserving of special mention, as it was much enjoyed by all who heard it.

On Thursday evening of last week the Lakefield Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters held their annual at home in the Town Hall. After a musical programme and supper had been served the remainder of the evening was spent with games and dancing.

Rev. C. A. Campbell was called away on Sunday owing to the serious illness of his brother, near Smith's Falls.

Miss White of Peterborough, who was the guest of Mrs. Wes. Sherin for a short while, returned to her home on Tuesday.

Mr. F. A. Kilbourn is away making a business tour in the interests of the Lakefield Portland Cement Co.

A meeting of the patrons of the Lakefield Butter Co., will be held in the factory on Monday, Feb. 29, at 2 p.m., to settle up the creamery business for the season.

The death of Mrs. Dr. Johnson, which occurred on Tuesday evening, came as a shock to the community of Lakefield. Mrs. Johnson has lived in Lakefield ever since childhood, and her kindly disposition has won for her many friends, who will sympathize with Dr. Johnson in his severe loss. Mrs. Johnson was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, who with her husband are left to mourn her loss. The funeral took place on Thursday to the Lakefield cemetery.

RECOGNITION FOR ACT OF BRAVERY.

W. E. Cope, Formerly of Town, Awarded a Medal

For Saving a Girl From Drowning—The Gallant Rescue of Miss Rhoda at a Moonlight Excursion Last July.

Mr. Fred Cook has received the following press clipping giving an account of an heroic rescue effected by Mr. Wm. E. Cope, son of Mr. A. Cope, a wood turner and wood worker, who formerly did business in Ashburnham. Mr. W. E. Cope, has been of late living in Charlotte, N. Y., and his deed is reported as follows in the "Democrat and Chronicle" of that city:

"A despatch to the Democrat and Chronicle from Washington last night states that on recommendation of General Superintendent Kimball, of the Life Saving Service, a silver medal has been awarded to William E. Cope, of this city, "in recognition of his gallant conduct on the 23rd of July, 1903, in rescuing a woman from drowning in the harbour of Charlotte, N. Y."

"Mr. Cope is a wood turner in an Aqueduct street factory, and resides at No. 97 Bartlett street. The incident of the life saving last July did not gain general publication at the time on account of Mr. Cope's modesty and the efforts that were made to suppress the facts. It was an act thought by his friends to be worthy of credit, however, and it was brought to the attention of the life saving service, with the result that the medal has been awarded.

"On the night of July 23rd, the Gillies Class of the Corn Hill Methodist Church held a moonlight excursion on the steamer Arundel, leaving Charlotte in the evening. Everything went well until the return, when in spite of warnings from the boat's officers, people crowded to the gang plank before the pier was reached. Among the number was Miss Rhoda, of Clifford street, who was pushed to the front by the crowd and fell overboard.

"When the young woman fell into the river a semi-panic seized the passengers and had it not been for the presence of mind of Mr. Cope, she would have met instant death. He threw off his coat and hat and jumped into the water. He swam around for a moment waiting for the girl to rise to the surface, in the meantime calling for a rope from the steamer.

"Finally the young man dived to the bottom and groped around until he caught the dress of the drowning woman. He then rose to the surface, and with assistance from men on the pier, succeeded in lifting the almost lifeless form of the woman to safety. She was resuscitated in about ten minutes and taken to her home by her friends.

"At the time of the accident the boat was nearing the pier, and had not the engineer reversed the engine, both the rescuer and the victim would have been crushed to death. He is an athlete and expert swimmer, which, combined with personal bravery and cool judgment, aided him in bringing to a happy termination what might have proved to be a tragedy.

"Mr Cope is 32 years of age and a native of Peterborough, Canada. He has resided in this city since he was 14 years of age, attending No. 3 and No. 5 schools and later Mount Vernon Academy in Mount Vernon, Mass. He has long been identified with Corn Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, where he is assistant teacher of the Gillies Bible class and serves in some capacity in nearly all the departments of the church and Sunday school. He is a married man and is employed in the Lockhart Company's picture frame factory."

BUSINESS BRINGERS.

A Few Features That are Certain to Bring Results to Every Business Man.

"I'm not an artist, and I don't pretend to know much about ornamental sign writing, but what I have seen of Fred Cook's work, is equal to any in the large cities, and I've travelled a good deal."

This was the voluntary opinion expressed by a travelling representative of an American advertising novelty house, as he went through the town the other day and took notice of some of our merchants' signs. Doing things well is a characteristic of Fred Cook. Just at the first fling of spring, when effective store rejuvenating and decorating will be required, it must be a pleasure to business men to know that the town possesses an expert, capable of doing such high-class work.

As the public is hardly aware of the extent and variety of ornamental and ingenious sign work which Mr. Cook is prepared to execute, the following may be mentioned as among his specialties:—

Fine gold glass signs with embossed and chipped effects. These signs are suitable for A1 store fronts.

Wire Screen signs, so appropriate for banks, offices, etc.

Brass and copper signs, particularly effective for insurance companies, large stores, monetary institutions and other outside use.

Carved wood letters, ornaments, emblems, etc., suitable for any business.

Electric sign flashers, with very attractive and novel effects.

Advertising signs in quantities. For tacking up and used extensively by soap makers, cigar and tobacco manufacturers, dry goods men, etc.

Oilcloth and cotton signs, much in demand by clothiers, grocers, bankrupt stock dealers, etc.

Hand painted posters, where something novel and out of the ordinary is wanted by merchants. Mr. Cook has orders for these from all over the Dominion.

House and street numbers—in fact anything a man wants as an advertising sign specialty.

Mr. Cook employes several men on the road booking orders all the time. He recently secured the services of Mr. F. W. Joyce, a clever specialist in fancy sign writing on plate glass, as well as a practical all round man in other branches, specially proficient in finest gold and ornamental lettering and designing. Mr. Cook's 'phone number is 119.

LAMENTED DEATH OF MR. CHARLES CAMERON

Passes Peacefully Away at the Age of 73 Years, After an Illness of Short Duration.

The death of Mr. Charles Cameron at an early hour this morning, removes one of Peterborough's oldest and best known citizens, and makes one less of the few who remain of the active business men who were identified with the early history of the town, as far back as 1850-5.

The late Mr. Cameron was 73 years old. He had been singularly exempt from illness during his lifetime—being possessed of a rugged vitality and a cheerful temperament which made him always a very social neighbour and citizen. His recent illness was of a short duration, and lasted only eleven days. Bowel complication was the cause of his death.

The deceased was born in Elgin, Morayshire, Scotland, July 29th, 1830, and came to Peterborough about the year 1850. Shortly after he engaged in business as a partner in the firm of McKellar and Cameron, who enjoyed a prosperous trade for many years, until the premises were destroyed by fire, the building occupied being situated on the corner of George and Hunter streets, where the Bank of Toronto now stands. Mr. Cameron did not re-enter business, but has since been engaged chiefly in representing several fire, life and accident insurance companies.

About a year ago he received the appointment of local collector of His Majesty's mails, and it was while in the faithful discharge of these duties that he was stricken down with the complications which resulted in his death.

The late Mr. Cameron was married to Sophia Barron, of Lossiemouth, Morayshire, Scotland, who pre-deceased him thirty-one years ago.

By this marriage three sons and three daughters were born, all of whom are still living, except two who died in infancy. There are living A. J. Cameron, Provincial Land Surveyor, of town; Albert A. Cameron, engaged in mercantile pursuits in Scranton, Pa.; Sophie Cameron, now visiting with friends in Scotland, and Annie Cameron, who has been his faithful housekeeper since the death of her mother.

The deceased was a staunch Presbyterian and a member of St. Paul's church. He was a great admirer of the Psalmody of his church, and being possessed of a good voice took special delight in the singing of the old Scotch tunes. He was an excellent Bible student from his youth, having received, from pious parents, an early training that "age could not wither or custom stale." In politics the deceased was an intelligent and unflinching Liberal, always taking an active interest in the welfare of his country and party. For many years he was an efficient deputy returning officer at both political and municipal elections.

The late Mr. Cameron was best known as one of the most enthusiastic Scotchmen of Peterborough. He was one of the charter members of the St. Andrew's Society, formed nearly forty years ago, and continued to take an active interest in its meetings as long as it existed. He was also an honourary member of Camp Clan Alpine, Sons of Scotland, and held the office of secretary at the time of his death. In Free Masonry, the deceased occupied a unique position. He was the oldest living member of Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, and a Past Master. He was a Past Z. of Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter, and filled the office of Scribe E. for a long term. He was a Past Perceptor of Moore Perceptory and Priory, and his death leaves the office of Registrar vacant. As additional testimony to his worth in Masonic ranks, he has been honoured with positions as a Past Grand Officer in each of the three Orders mentioned.

Four brothers and one sister are also left to mourn deceased's death, viz.. John Cameron, of the Inland Revenue Department, town; Rev. Dr. George G. Cameron, Professor of Oriental Languages, Aberdeen; Rev. Alex. Cameron, Aberdeen; Rev. Richard Cameron, pastor of the Free church, of Jedburg, Roxburgshire, Scotland; and Mrs. Ross, wife of the pastor of Christ church, New Zealand. Two brothers and one sister died some years ago.

It may truthfully be said of the late Mr. Cameron that he had no enemies. He was a very inoffensive, kindly disposed man, harboured no malice, conscientious, and benevolent. He will not only be missed by his family and kindred but his death will be felt by a large number of sorrowing friends, who had a personal knowledge of his character.

The date of the funeral has not yet been arranged, awaiting intelligence from a son in Scranton, Pa. It is expected, however, that it will not take place until Sunday afternoon, when it will be conducted with Masonic honours.

CAMPBELLFORD LOST TO T. A. S.

First of Semi-Final Games Went to Home Team by 11—4.

Visitors Were Outclassed but Played a Good Fast Game—The Work of the Players.

If in the return game with Campbellford, the T.A.S. show anything like the form displayed by them last night, they will undoubtedly win the northern districts. The visiting team had but little chance of winning last night in the first of the series of semi-final games, played here this season. The T.A.S. were heavier than the opposing team, and faster, although the forwards of the Campbellford team were very active they could not penetrate the T.A.S. defence, while the T.A.S. forwards checked them closely. The visiting team, however, put up a good game, when the weight of the players is considered, and that they lost by the wide margin of 11—4 is a record of which they have no reason to be ashamed, as the T. A. S. team played better hockey last night, perhaps than they have ever played this season. They recognized the fact that they would be at a disadvantage when they met the Campbellford bunch on their own ice, which is an open rink, and put in their best efforts to run up a good big score. It looked at half time as if the visitors were going to be shut out, the score being 6—0 against them, and although they had shot on goal a number of times, McCoy stopped them all and the net was not punctured.

In the second half, however, while the home team added five, the visitors scored four, and seemed to stand the pace, which, until the last few minutes was fast, but during the last part of the game the play was a little slow, the defence contenting themselves with long lifts from end to end, which, however, were not prolific of scores.

Both teams played clean hockey, there was very little tripping or slashing, and less than half a dozen men were ruled off during the game for rough work. Tait and Parnell were each off twice for one minute for tripping. The players as a whole however, played good clean hockey, and that the best team won, and won on its merits none will care to deny. Quite a contingent of Campbellford supporters accompanied the team, and cheered lustily when their favourites made a brilliant play, which, indeed, was quite frequently.

The spectators found a little fault in a good natured way with the work of the referee, whose judgment of offsides did not meet with their approval. He showed no partiality to either team, however, and although he called offsides when it was doubtful if they were made, his work was fair to both teams.

The star of the Campbellford team was Blute, on left wing, who scored three of the four goals credited to his team. He is a fast skater, and a very pretty stick-handler, and but for his assistance the team would be weak in the scoring division. The visiting forwards were deficient in their shooting, and opportunities to score were missed by wide shots. Garvey, who played centre, put up a good game, checking closely, but he was too light for the man he was up up against. He was injured in the second half and had to retire from the game for some time, McGrath going off to even up. Shannon on the left kept after the puck closely, and handled his stick well, but was too closely checked to do much damage. Patterson is the only man on the team who looks to be over twenty years of age. He played rover, and proved to be of good service to his team. He was hardly fast enough for the opposing forwards however. The defence played a phenomenally good game, when their weight is taken into account. The point and cover point are both light men, but in spite of this they checked well. They contented themselves with playing this position, and had no ambition to make a rush and score, as the T.A.S. defense had. Lowery at point played a splendid game, and on more than one occasion broke up rushes which passed Tait at cover. The latter scored one of Campbellford's goals on a long lift from centre ice. There is no discounting the work of Shaw in goal. He certainly played a brilliant game. There were times when the T.A.S. forwards had succeeded in passing through the entire defense and shot on goal, with only Shaw to save the nets. He stopped a number of shots in this way.

The home team played a brilliant game throughout. The shooting of the forwards was particularly good, while the defence guarded the citadel well. George, Parnell and Lynch scored three goals each, while Crowley and McGrath each took one. The team as a whole played a clean, scientific game and if the present condition is maintained should finish near the top of the ladder. McCoy in goal played a splendid game, stopping some difficult shots, and his work excited the admiration of the spectators. Capt. Meagher at point, played most effectively, not only in his position, but assisted in some good rushes which meant damage for Campbellford.

The teams were:—

Campbellford.	T.A.S.

Shaw	McCoy

Lowery	Meagher

THE TORONTO CITY CHAMPIONS HERE.

The St. Georges Will Play Local Senior Team To-night.

Big Double Bill—The Davidsons' Fancy Skating and First Senior Hockey Match of the Season.

That there will be good ice for the game to-night is certain, and this is all that is necessary to ensure the fastest game of hockey seen here this season. The St. George's have sent word that they will send down their best team, which means that such men as Nasmith, Lamb, Irving, Ardagh, Chadwick and Hynes, will be on the ice, and the result will be that the game is bound to be full of excitement. A number of the St. George's players figured on the Iron Dukes, when that team held the undisputed senior O.H.A. championship, and played the Winnipeg Victorias for the Stanley Cup. This will be the first time the local team as it is now constituted, has played with a senior O.H.A. team, and no doubt there are many who will like to see how they show up together. It will be an opportunity of probing the truth of Chaucer Elliott's assertion that the Peterborough team is equal to any senior O.H.A. team. The St. George's team will arrive by the C.P.R. local, and will do their best no doubt to defeat the local men, of their ability to do which a great many in town have genuine doubts.

The team for to-night to represent the locals will be:—

Goal, Mercer.
Point, Howell.
Cover point, Cavanah.
Rover, Harold Armstrong.
Centre, Fred Whitcroft.
Right wing, Harry Morgan.
Mr. E. Wasson will referee.

In addition to the attractions of the hockey game, the Davidsons of St. Paul, will give exhibitions of fancy skating before the game and at half time. Mr. Davidson and his sister are the world's best fancy skaters and the local rink management is fortunate in securing them for an evening's exhibition.

This big double bill will be put on for the price of one admission, and will no doubt be the most interesting ice event of the season.

R Haratone	A Blade
G H Cuthbert	R J Frost
N F McSewyn	R Neill

LAXATIVE AND TONIC

780 Jefferson Ave., Detroit,
May 13, 1902.

For many years I suffered from constipation in its worst form, and nothing which I took gave me any permanent relief.

When your Tablets first came to my notice, last summer, I determined to try them. The results have been most gratifying. I have taken many laxatives, but no other can compare with yours so far as my personal experience goes.

The tonic properties of your remedy are most valuable, both in connection with its laxative action when desired, and for those who need a tonic only.

I cannot too strongly recommend Iron-ox Tablets, which I never fail to bring to the notice of my customers when appropriate. From those who have used them I hear nothing but praise.

Yours very truly,

FARM RE-FORESTRY

Hon. John Dryden's Plan to Establish Forest Tree Nursery.

WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT

Co-Operation, Organization and Education in Agriculture—Comprehensive Review By the Minister of What the Government Has Done For the Farmers of the Province—Budget Debate.

Hon. John Dryden's Speech.

The history of the practical work of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, as related by Hon. John Dryden in a most interesting and optimistic speech in the Legislature yesterday, can be summed up under the three heads, "Co-operation," organization, and education," these, together, having resulted in enthusiasm and pronounced success. Mr. Dryden reviewed the various educational influences originated and carried on by the department, and instanced the practical effect of this simultaneous instruction by the revolution that had taken place in the pork product of the Province and the consequent high place now held by Ontario bacon in the British markets. No class of agriculturist had been neglected in this educational work, he maintained, and the best evidence of farmers was that each declared the other had received full attention. Mr. Dryden explained his proposals respecting farm reforestry in older Ontario. On this proposal he said:

Tree Nursery at O.A.C.

Looking at the situation as it stands to-day, it seems strange that one generation has hardly passed away before we discover that large sections of the Province have been entirely denuded of these forest trees. Men everywhere are now wishing that some of it had been left. We are discovering that some of the land which has thus been cleared would produce far greater profits from timber than can be received from the growing of grain or from pasture. But the farmer is entirely without information how to proceed or what to do. At the present time it would be impossible for him to procure suitable trees for planting, so that there seems to exist a real need, and we are, therefore, proposing to immediately prepare to meet it. We shall set apart a small area at the Agricultural College Farm as a forest tree nursery, where suitable trees for planting may be grown. We expect to be able to commence the sowing of the seed for these trees within a few months, so that in the course of two or two and a half years we shall have our first lot of trees ready for planting.

An Education Campaign.

In the meantime we shall commence an educative campaign in this respect and effect such organization as may be needed in order to cover at least a portion of the country, and in such a way that the work may be enlarged year by year as the interests of the case demand. I shall not live to see its full fruition, but I have no doubt as to the beneficial influence it will exert upon the agriculture of this Province, as well as the added value it will give to the land itself. In this case we shall plant in order that others may reap, being satisfied that in this work we are only performing our part in adding to the future greatness of our country.

In conclusion, I want to say that I am proud of the farmers of Ontario, whom I specially represent in this Government; they have responded splendidly to the educational forces that have been set in motion—they no longer stand apart looking at each other with a jealous eye, but are united for the common good. At this present moment they have an impetus which nothing will for some time intercept; and if the same policy be pursued, for the future, this Province will certainly stand as the first agricultural district of North America and will more and more command the attention of the whole world. (Applause.)

Mr. Eilber made the feature of his speech a protest against the unfair discrimination practiced by the railways to the detriment of farmers living on branch lines.

Mr. Sam Clarke, (West Northumberland) went on till 10 o'clock and will finish to-day. After paying some attention to the previous speaker, he hit on a new idea, which was that it would be far better to build spurs to the Temiskaming Railway into districts desirable for settlement than to push on north just for the sake of going north. The Government did great things when it built the road. He was for Government ownership.

Mr. Pense, Kingston, presented a petition in the Legislature yesterday praying for some changes in the bill amending the charter of the Kingston Street Railway Co.

A number of bills were read a first time.

Daniel Derbyshire, president of the Eastern Dairymen's Association, called on the Minister of Agriculture yesterday to ask for an increased grant towards the payment of cheese instructors. The sum given last year was $4,000 for 22 instructors, and Mr. Derbyshire wants it doubled.

Modifying the Taxation Bill.

The special committee on assessment again grappled with the new taxation bill yesterday morning. There were several deputations present to argue for a change in the draft bill as it effects certain tax-paying classes.

It was agreed that malting should be treated on the basis of manufacturing concern and assessed at 50 per cent.

Hotels were reduced from a 50 per cent. to a 25 per cent. basis. Shops stay at 50 per cent.

Departmental stores will remain at 50 per cent.

The Attorney-General submitted an amendment to the bill providing that when a man is engaged in a business concern he shall be assessable on his salary and on his dividends from other companies, but not on dividends from his own company. This was adopted.

Morcton Frewen Estimates the Value of an Able-Bodied British Emigrant—The Fiscal Fight.

London, Feb. 24.—(C.A.P.)—Morcton Frewen, speaking at Nottingham, on the Empire and emigration, drew attention to the immense waste of the vital forces of the Empire, because, instead of being distributed by preference among the colonies, the emigrants of the past sixty years had been given over wholesale to our chief competitor—America. He estimated the value of an able-bodied British emigrant to Canada at £300, because, judging from the American returns the annual wealth product of this emigrant would be £100, and he would pay £15 a year to the federal local taxes. With ten emigrants as security, Canada could borrow £3,000, which would build and equip a mile of railway. Thus the Empire paid the railway built by emigrants not by financiers in Parliament.

Sir William Macdonald declared it was impossible to attract immigrants to Canada until the American fiscal system was adopted throughout the British Empire with the privilege of a free market, and the prerogative of citizenship. The country to-day was tired of the cosmopolitan altruistic experiment, and was eager for a national policy to benefit the Empire.

Seeley Against Protection.

London, Feb. 23.—(C.A.P.)—Major Seeley, M.P., speaking of protection and preference, and their relations to Imperial defence at a free trade meeting, said the results of protection were a smaller mercantile marine, less varied employment, less contented people. The British naval reserve has drawn from the British mercantile marine and it would be a strategic disadvantage to adopt a policy that would mean diminution of the number of ships. He saw a divided Empire: the result of a preference in time of war.

Sir John Gorst said there could be no greater guarantee for the peace of the world or the safety of Britain than that she was supplied with food by the United States. The Americans would never allow wheat so be considered contraband of war.

Metric System Favored.

London, Feb. 24.—(C.A.P.)—The bill making the metric system compulsory in Great Britain in two years passed its second reading in the House of Lords yesterday.

Lord Wolverton of the Board of Trade, said it was a duty to find simple English words, instead of kilometre designation.

Lord Rosebery believed the adoption of the system would do more to benefit traders than all the fiscal remedies.

KENNEDY ON TRIAL

BODY FOUND IN THE WILLOWS

Intense Interest Manifested By the Public and the Prisoner in the Evidence Concerning of the Doing-to-Death of the Little 8-Year-Old Girl—Kennedy's Double a New Point For the Defence.

Brantford, Feb. 24.—The trial of Joseph Kennedy, charged with the murder of Irene Cole in this city on Sept. 30 last, began yesterday morning before Mr. Justice Street. Some difficulty was experienced in selecting a jury. Louis F. Heyd, K.C., for the prisoner, challenged fourteen and James E. Day, Crown prosecutor, four. The following jury was finally sworn: A. Johnson, R. A. Hartley, Herbert Depen, Henry Cleater, John K. Martin, David Morrison, Robert McKay, David Cavin, W. Kemp, John G. Brown, Frank Lundy, William Hamburg.

The court room was crowded. Kennedy watched the proceedings with intense interest all day. He is looking the picture of health and evidently his four months of jail life have done him good. The flush of drink has disappeared from his face. He walks with a firm step. There is none of the nervousness which was so evident in the preliminary hearing. In fact, he is a new man. For the most part of the day the evidence was much the same as at the preliminary hearing.

In cross-examining Constable Chapman, Mr. Heyd brought out a new point, which may yet have a great deal to do with his effort for the defence. On the night previous to the murder, Constable Chapman said two men were in the police station, named Leonard and Jennings. They were released on the morning of the murder. Leonard had a very red face. When questioned if he looked like the prisoner, the constable said he could tell them apart if he saw them together.

Another new feature was concerning a biscuit box which was found in "The Willows" shortly after the crime. Mr. Heyd intimated that he wanted to find out who bought it and where it was bought. It is reported that counsel for the defence will connect this box with Leonard and [illegible] from nothing has since been heard.

Of the other witnesses yesterday afternoon, the Potter children swore they saw Kennedy on the dyke beckening to some one on the afternoon of the murder. Several employes of the Waterous Company said they saw the prisoner on the road near "The Willows" at noon on Sept. 30. William McIntyre swore he saw Kennedy turn down the path leading to "The Willows" shortly after noon. Other witnesses told of seeing the prisoner later in the afternoon coming from "The Willows."

William Stewart repeated his story of meeting the prisoner on the bridge and noticing his trousers were damp.

John Hartman, proprietor of the Butler House, told of Kennedy being in his hotel at 4.15 o'clock in the afternoon of the crime. He noticed nothing peculiar about him, except that he was drinking.

Mrs. Campbell repeated the story of Kennedy's attempting to buy a chicken for his little girl.

Crown witnesses will again be called to-day.

Mr. Day for the prosecution is of the opinion a verdict ought to be rendered by Thursday night.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Wilford did not answer her. He had neither eye nor ear for anything save Kitty acquiring herself with a good deal of credit as she worked out a rather difficult problem, her dimpled white hand showing to good advantage against the deep black of the board; and then her voice, soft-toned and silvery, as a lady's voice should be, thrilled in Wilford's ear, awaking a strange feeling of disquiet, as if the world would never again be quite the same to him that it was before he met that fair young girl now passing from the room.

Mrs. Woodhull saw that he was interested. It was time he settled in life. With the exception of wealth and family position, he could not find a better wife than Katy, and she would do what she could to bring the marriage about. Accordingly, having first gained the preceptress's consent, Katy was taken home with her to dinner. And this was how Wilford Cameron came to know little Katy Lennox, the simple-hearted child, who blushed so prettily when first presented to him, and blushed again when he praised her recitations, but who, after that forgot the difference in their social relations, laughing and chatting as merrily in his presence as if she had been alone with Mrs. Woodhull. This was the great charm to Wilford. Katy was so wholly unconscious of herself or what he might think of her that he could not sit in judgment upon her, and he watched her eagerly as she sported and flashed, and sparkled, filling the room with sunshine, and putting to rout the entire regiment of blues which had been for months harassing the city-bred young man.

If there was any one thing in which Katy excelled, it was music, both vocal and instrumental, a taste for which had been developed very early, and fostered by Morris Grant, who had seen that his cousin had every advantage which Silverton could afford. Great pains had been given to her style of playing while in Canaddaigua, so that as a performer on the piano she had few rivals in the Seminary, while her bird-like voice filled every nook and corner of the room, when, on the night after her visit to Mrs. Woodhull, a select exhibition was held, Katy shinging as the one bright star, and winning golden laurels for beauty, grace, and perfect self-possession, from others than Wilford Cameron, who was one of the invited auditors.

Juno herself could not play like that, he thought, as Katy's fingers flew over the keys, executing a brilliant and difficult piece without a single mistake, and receiving the applause of the spectators easily, naturally, as if it were an everyday occurrence. But when by request she sang "Comin' through the Rye," Wilford's heart, if he had any before, was wholly gone, and he dreamed of Katy Lennox that night, wondering all the ensuing day how his haughty mother would receive the young school girl as a daughter, wife of the son whose bride she fancied, must be equal to the first lady in the land. And if Katy were not now equal she could be made so, Wilford thought, wondering if Canandaigua were the best place for her, and if she would consent to receive a year or two years' tuition from him, provided her family were poor. He did not know as they were, but he would ask, and he did, feeling a pang of regret when he heard to some extent how Katy was circumstanced. Mrs. Woodhull had never been to Silverton, and so she did not know of Uncle Ephraim and his old-fashioned sister; but she knew they were poor, that some relation sent Katy to school; and she frankly told Wilford so, adding as she detected the shadow on his face, that one could not expect everything, and that a girl like Katy was not to be found every day. Wilford admitted all that, growing more and more infatuated, until at last, he consented to join the traveling party provided Katy joined it too, and when on the morning of their departure for the Falls he seated himself beside her in the car, he could not well have been happier, unless she had really been his wife, and he so much wished she was.

It was a most delightful trip, and Wilford was better satisfied with himself than he had ever been before in years. His past life was not all free from error, and there were many sad memories haunting him, but with Katy at his side seeing what he saw, admiring what he admired, and doing what he bade her do, he gave the bygones to wind, feeling only an intense desire to clasp the girl in his arms, and bear her away to some spot where with her pure, fresh life all his own, he could begin the world anew, and retrieve the past which he lost. This was when he was with Katy. Away from her he could remember the difference in their position, and prudential motives began to make themselves heard. Never but once had he taken an important step without consulting his mother, and the trouble in which that had involved him, warned him to be more cautious another time. And this was why Katy came back to Silverton unengaged, leaving her heart with Wilford Cameron, who would first seek advice with his mother ere committing himself by word. He had seen the white-haired man waiting for her when the train stopped at Silverton, but standing there as he did, with his silvery locks parted in the centre, and shading his honest, open face, Uncle Ephraim looked like some patriarch of old, rather than a man to be despised, and Wilford felt only respect for him until he saw Katy's arms wound so lovingly around his neck as she called him Uncle Eph. That sight grated harshly, and Wilford felt glad that he was not bound to her by any pledge. Very curiously he looked after the couple, witnessing the meeting of Katy and old Whitey, and guessing rightly that the corn-colored vehicle was the one sent to transport Katy home. He was very moody for the remainder of the route between Silverton and Albany, where he parted with his Canandaigua friends they going on to the westward while he stopped all night in Albany, where he had some business to transact for his father.

He was intending to tell his mother everything, except that he paid Katy's bills. He would rather keep that to himself, as it might shock his mother's sense of propriety and make her think less of Katy, so after dinner was over, and they had returned to the parlor, he opened the subject by asking her to guess what took him off so suddenly with Mrs. Woodhull.

The mother did not know—unless—and a strange light gleamed in her eye, as she asked if it were some girl.

"Yes, mother, it was," and without any reservation Wilford frankly told the story of his interest in Katy Lennox.

He admitted that she was poor and unaccustomed to society, but he loved her more than words could express.

"Not as I loved Genevra," he said, and there came a look of intense pain into his eyes.

In Wilford's voice there was a tone warning the mother that opposition would only feed the flame, and so she offered none directly but heard him patiently to the end, and then quietly questioned him of Katy and her family, especially the last. What did he know of it? Was it one to detract from the Cameron line, kept untarnished so long? Were the relatives such as he never need blush to own even if they came there into their drawing rooms as they would come if Katy did?

Wilford thought of Uncle Ephraim as he had seen him upon the platform at Silverton, and could scarcely repress a smile as he pictured to himself his mother's consternation at beholding that man in her drawing room. But he did not mention the deacon, though he acknowledged that Katy's family friends were not exactly the Cameron style. But Katy was young; Katy could be easily moulded, and once away from her old associates his mother and sisters could make of her what they pleased.

"I understand, then, that if you marry her you do not marry the family," and in the handsome matronly face there was an expression from which Katy would have shrunk, could she have seen it and understood its meaning.

"No, I do not marry the family," Wilford rejoined emphatically, but the expression of his face was different from his mother's, for where she thought only of herself, not hesitating to trample on all Katy's love of home and friends, Wilford remembered Katy, thinking how he would make amends for separating her wholly from her home as he surely meant to do if he should win her. "Did I tell you," he continued, "that her father was a judge? She must be well connected on that side. And now, what shall I do?" he asked playfully. "Shall I propose to Katy Lennox, or shall I try to forget her?"

"I should not do either," was Mrs. Cameron's reply, for she knew that trying to forget her was the surest way of keeping her in mind, and she dared not confess to him how determined she was that Katy Lennox should never be her daughter if she could prevent it.

"Let matters take their course for a while," she said, "and see how you feel after a little. We are going to Newport the first of August, and perhaps you may find somebody there infinitely superior to this Katy Lennox. That's your father's ring. He is earlier than usual to-night. I would not tell him yet, till you are more decided," and the lady went hastily out into the hall to meet her husband.

A moment more and the elder Cameron appeared—a short, square-built man, with a face seamed with lines of care and eyes much like Wilford's, save that the shaggy eyebrows gave them a different expression. He was very glad to see his son, though he merely shook his hand, asking what nonsense took him off around the Lakes with Mrs. Woodhull, and wondering if women were never happy unless they were chasing after fashion. The elder Cameron was evidently not of his wife's way of thinking, but she let him go on until he was through, and then, with the most unruffled mien, suggested that his dinner would be cold. He was accustomed to that and so he did not mind, but he hurried through his lonely meal to-night, for Wilford was home, and the father was always happier when he knew his son was in the house.

CHAPTER IV

Katy had waited very anxiously for a letter from Wilford, and as the weeks went by and nothing came, a shadow had fallen upon her spirits and the family missed something from her ringing laugh and frolicsome ways, while she herself wondered at the change which had come over everything. Even the light household duties she used to enjoy so much, were irksome to her, and she enjoyed nothing except going with Uncle Ephraim into the fields where she could sit alone while he worked near by, or to ride with Morris as she sometimes did when he made his round of calls. She was not as good as she used to be, she thought, and with a view of making herself better she took to teaching in Morris and Helen's Sunday School, greatly to the distress of Aunt Betsy, who groaned bitterly when both her nieces adopted the "Episcopal quirks," forsaking entirely the house where, Sunday after Sunday, her old-fashioned leghorn, with faded ribbon of green was seen, bending down in the humble worship which God so much approves. But teaching in Sunday School, taken by itself, could not make Katy better, and the old restlessness remained until the morning when, sitting on the grass beneath the apple-tree, she read that Wilford Cameron was coming; then everything was changed and Katy never forgot the brightness of that day when the robins sang so merrily above her head, and all nature seemed to sympathize with her joy. There was no shadow around her now, nothing but hopeful sunshine, and with a bounding step she sought out Helen to tell her the good news. Helen's first remark, however, was a chill upon her spirits.

THE ROOT AND THE FRUIT

Bu-Ju is not a remedy for symptoms. It is a cure for disease. Disordered Kidneys will produce many troubles, among which may be mentioned Rheumatism. Sick kidneys cannot properly perform their functions; hence the system is flooded with uric acid and rheumatism in its various forms is the result. Bu-Ju cures rheumatism, because it cures the cause of rheumatism, Disordered Kidneys; for same reason it cures dropsy, blood poison, weak heart, loss of ambition, sleeplessness, brain fag, failing memory irritable temper, sallow complexion, bad breath, lame back, and a hundred and one ailments that spring from disordered kidneys, which is the root of the evil. You may pluck the leaves of a rank weed, or cut its stem, but so long as you leave the root it bears new fruit and spreads until its extermination is almost impossible. If you are suffering from any of the above troubles you cannot afford to neglect them. Neglect means misery, for what joy is there in living without good health? Bu-Ju, the Kidney Pill, has restored thousands and it can do the same for you.

Dear Sirs:—I have used a box of Bu-Ju Pills and have been greatly benefited by them. I was troubled with piles for years and tried several kinds of medicine, without getting any relief, but I have had no trouble with them since I took the third box of Bu-Ju. I still take them whenever I can get them and I recommend them to all my friends. Yours sincerely,
MRS. GEORGE BOEHMAN.

Life at Stake

Somewhere in the world life is at stake every minute of the day. Right at our own doors, perhaps, is going on a struggle as grim and fierce as any fight or flight on record. You hear the hollow tearing cough; see the ooze of blood which tells of the wounded lungs; mark the emaciated body and hectic cheek, and know a life is at stake.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has saved many a life in just such a crisis. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, stops the hemorrhage, strengthens "weak" lungs, and restores the emaciated body to its normal weight and strength.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"I desire to send you this brief, unsolicited testimonial," writes Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Barium Springs, Iredell Co., N. C. "In 1898 one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs. I promptly gave her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. This experience caused me to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to my neighbors, who, without exception, used them with favorable results."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay customs and mailing only, or if cloth-bound volume is desired send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

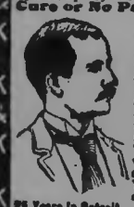
Cured When all Else Failed



"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially. I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

Six Doctors Failed to Cure Him.

ERYSIPELAS AND SALT RHEUM WAS THE TROUBLE.

Burdock Blood Bitters

DID MORE THAN SIX DOCTORS COULD DO.

Mrs. Theo. Newell, Argyle Sound, N.S., expresses her opinion of this wonderful blood remedy in the following letter:

"It is with the greatest gratitude that I can testify to the wonderful curative powers of Burdock Blood Bitters. For years my husband suffered terribly with Erysipelas and Salt Rheum. He was so bad at times that he could no sleep on account of the itching and burning. He had been under the care of six different doctors, but they failed to do him any good. I had read different times of the wonderful cures being made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so advised him to give it a trial. He did so, and after taking five bottles was cured without a doubt. I would strongly advise any person troubled with blood disorders to give B.B.B. a fair trial for I am sure it will cure them."

PROF. LYBARGER ON SINGLE TAX.

Interesting Lecture by Gentleman From Philadelphia.

The Theory of Henry George Expounded—His Definition of Labour and Wealth.

Those who were so fortunate as to attend the lecture by Prof. Lee Francis Lybarger, of Philadelphia, in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last evening experienced a rare treat in the line of oratory, and from an educational standpoint. The lecture was under the auspices of the Single Tax Association, and was largely attended. Prof. Lybarger is one of the most brilliant and clever speakers that has ever addressed a Peterborough audience, and he held the undivided attention of his hearers for nearly two hours with his stirring words of earnest endeavour to advance the principles of Single Tax. It was indeed a treat to hear him, regardless of one's views on the subject. The chair was occupied by Mayor Roger, who in a few brief remarks introduced the speaker.

Professor Lybarger's subject was "Land, Labour and Wealth." The reform of which he wished to speak was one proposed by Henry George, and was a most profound and radical one and the most far-reaching of any ever proposed. Its significance was not understood or appreciated by the present generation, or it would be more universally received. The lecturer had been an earnest student of the proposed reform for six years and was doing all in his power to propagate the movement.

Looking at the movement from a scientific standpoint, the speaker said that the universal process of nature was the process of transformation, nothing was permanent, all was changing and moving. This was the most profound fact within the realm of human reason. There were two orders of transformation, that due to nature and that due to man, or the works of nature and the works of man were the two foundations of this transformation. Sometimes these run closely together, and are difficult to be distinguished by the distant observer in space. In changing from the realm of philosophy to the realm of economics, we have in place of nature, land, and in place of war, wealth. The fact that the proper distinction between these words, land and wealth was not understood has caused many blunders in politics and elsewhere, and because they were not distinguished Henry George's plan did not grow as it should. Wealth, said the speaker, was anything man had detached from land; for example, the forest was land, but the tree lying hewn down by the woodsman's axe was wealth. Land was the source of all wealth, and all forms of wealth would in time decay and return to land. The intermediary agent between land and wealth was labour, for nothing could be wealth which labour had not taken from land. Labour was that which transforms land into wealth, and wages was wealth which had been transformed from land. Whether the labourer got this wages or wealth, or part of it, or none, it all was a different question, but the speaker simply wished to say that wages was all the wealth that labour produced, and not a part of it simply. By labour, the speaker included machinery which was necessary to carry on any labourious work. All wealth was produced by labour and should be the property of the labourer. It had been said that capital was one of the factors in the production of wealth, and the speaker was greatly surprised that many labour unions had agreed with this statement, but he wished to deny it emphatically. Capital was always idle and never worked nor produced work, neither could it invent, build or construct. Everything was produced by labour and not wealth, and the capitalists would all starve in a week if labour did not feed them.

There were two systems of wages, the natural, where the individual gets wealth and all the wealth which his labour produced, as was the case with the bee, the squirrel, the hunter, etc., and the artificial system, where the labourer gets less than the wealth he has produced. The fact should be appreciated that the tendency of the present age is that the labourer gets less and less, and the wages will go down until the labourer has a bare subsistence. Slavery, said the speaker, was the appropriation by one individual of another's labour, and where anyone was deprived of a part of his wealth he was a slave. The labourer of the present day may be better paid than those of 200 years ago, but he gets a less percentage for his work than was the case then. When all land was free and the labourer gets all that the land produces, then the natural system of wages would exist, and where there was private property in land and labour got only a part of his wages, the artifical system existed, and when all land was private property, the minimum of wages would prevail. Land only could give employment to labour, and not the employer, as was often stated.

Capital simply shortened the distance between seed time and harvest, and if these followed one another closely there would be no capitalists. When the distance between these is not even months, but even years, the labourer has not enough in store to supply his wants, and the capitalist steps in with the necessaries to keep him from seed time until harvest. Capitalists do not supply ouf food and clothing, but rather the labourers. Labour supplied the wants of the labourer and capital comes in to divide the wealth.

In closing the speaker touched briefly on municipal affairs, and stated that there could not be a strictly honest city council until there was taken from it the power to grant privileges to certain property owners, It was a universal fact that the holding of public office tended to degrade one. Before closing the speaker was asked what was his position in regard to free trade; did he mean absolute free trade or enough tariff to carry on the government, and where the expenses of the government would come from if he would adopt absolute free trade. In reply Prof. Lybarger said absolute free trade was the doctrine he was preaching, and that the expenses of government would be amply met by a tax on the rental value of land. The lecture was concluded by a recitation, dramatically and very effectively rendered by the speaker.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Mr. A. P. Poussette, who referred to the speaker as one of the most brilliant ever heard in Peterborough, and seconded by Mr. D. W. Dumble, was tendered the speaker for his delightful lecture.

BRITISHERS WILL ENTER THE MIDLAND LEAGUE.

Held a Meeting Last Night—Election of Officers.

There was a large attendance of Britishers at the meeting of the "Old Country Wanderers" Football Club, which was held in the Crown Hotel last night, with Mr. G. W. Allen presiding in the chair.

A rule made at the last meeting whereby all members of the team shall be men born in the old land, created considerable discussion, during which many ideas were given. Finally it was resolved that any man, no matter where born, as long as he was of British parents, is eligible for a place on the team.

There were four nominations for a vacancy on the Executive Committee. The vote was taken by ballot and Mr. Smiles elected. The Executive Committe now consists of Messrs. G. W. Allen, Strange, Hawkins, Halley, Smiles, McPhun and H. A. Littledale.

On motion of Mr. Hawkins, seconded by Mr. Halley, it was resolved that the Club colours be red, white and blue.

On motion of Mr. Halley, seconded by Mr. McPhun, it was resolved that the team wear blue knickers and white shirts, with a Union Jack and "O.C.W." on the left breast of the latter.

The following officers were elected: Patrons and Patronesses—Hon. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall.

Hon. President—Mr. E. G. Patterson.

Hon. Vice-President — Mr. Wm. Hamilton.

President—Mr. Jas. Kendry.

Vice-President—Mr. A. L. Sykes.

Chaplain—Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The secretary was instructed to gather particulars regarding the Midland Football League, which the Club proposes entering.

The secretary was also instructed to see Lt.-Col. Miller with a view of obtaining the drill hall for practice.

The subscription fee is $1, and should be paid as soon as possible to Mr. R. H. Jackson, Treasurer, at the Crown Hotel.

The meeting adjourned until next Wednesday night, Mar 2nd, at 8 o'clock.

WHICH TEAM WON?

Conflicting Reports of a Game Played Last Night.

Two reports of a game of hockey played last night between teams managed by W. J. O'Brien and F. R. J. McPherson, respectively, have been received at this office. The Examiner, in its endeavour to treat all fairly, publishes both reports, but upon a rigid investigation this paper finds that the Clan-I-Gals were victorious, but the score is still a mystery. The work of Mr. Deannard, as referee, is highly spoken of, and it is reported that he will be placed on the O. H. A.'s staff of official referees. The reports follow:

At the Brock street rink last night O'Brien's Clan-I-Gals defeated MacPherson's Electrics by a score of 7 to 3. Line-up of O'Brien's: Goal, John James Joseph Doris; point Seldom Swift Dannett; cover point, Lanky Nicholson; rover, Peas Odette; right wing, Tostick Mulligan; left wing, Tools Maurice; centre, Fire-fly Parnell; goal umpire, McCormac, of Bedella fame. Time-keeper, Geo Scott.

MacPherson's line-up: Goal, Bicycle MacPherson; point, Baldy MacPherson; cover point, Farmer Rose; rover, Wires Walker; centre, Sorrel Top McNichol; left wing, Migans Dunsford; roght wing, Palace Brooks; time keeper, Midget, Carey; goal umpire, W. Young. Mr. J. Deannard, a good and promising referee.

Report No. 2.—At the Brock street rink last night in a fast game the MacPherson "Electrics" defeated the O'Brien "Clan-I-Gals" by a score of 2 to 1. The Clan-I-Gals attribute their defeat to the fact that Captain O'Brien was off the team.

BOLD JAP MOVE IN MANCHURIA.

Strong Force Landed at Possiet Bay and Marching on Kirin.

SIXTY DAYS OF SUFFERING AHEAD.

Movements of Russian Troops—200 Russian Cavalrymen and Two Guns Arrive at Linlichang—Russian Gunboat Mandjur Remains at Shanghai—Baltic Squadron Will Leave for the Far East in June.

Newchwang, Feb. 26.—A strong Japanese force is reported to have landed near Possiet Bay, about twenty miles south of Vladivostock, and to have occupied Hunchun, a town twenty miles inland. The Japanese are now marching on Kirin, 150 miles south of Harbin, and the terminus of a branch railway from the Manchurian main line. Should the movement be carried out effectually it will result in the cutting of the Russian line of communication through Manchuria, but it is considered here that the real objective is Mukden, and that the movement will develop into a flank attack on that city in co-operation with the advance of the main army now approaching the Yalu River. In view of the risk attending the advance of a flanking force at such a distance from the main field of operations it is believed that the Japanese intelligence department discredits the strength of the Russian forces in Northern Manchuria, and is possessed of secret information which justifies the bold movement now being made and the result of which may have an important influence on the land campaign.

Possiet Bay is in Russian Manchuria, about 70 miles southwest of Vladivostock. Hunchun is on the left bank of the Tumen River and about 40 miles to the west of Possiet Bay. Kirin is a big Manchurian town, and lies about 220 miles inland and to the west of Possiet Bay. Kwangchengtsi is about eighty miles west of Kirin. Khabarovsk is about 400 miles to the north of Vladivostock, with which port it is connected by a railroad.

No Russians West of the Liao.

Yinkow, Feb. 26.—Foreign engineers on the Shanhaikwan-Newchwang railway say that according to their information their is no Russian force west of Liao River, with the exception of a guard of 25 Cossacks at Koupantzou.

60 Days Suffering.

Tokio, Feb. 26.—Storms are interfering with naval operations. The Yellow Sea is being swept by gales, heavy snow is falling, and the weather is bitterly cold. The forces of Japanese are going to the front splendidly equipped to withstand the cold, but despite their preparations, both sides will suffer much during the next 60 days.

Russians North of the Yalu.

Tien Tsin, Feb. 26.—A detachment of three hundred Russians, with two guns, is outside of Shinmingtung, which is a few miles north of Mukden, and considerably north of the Yalu River.

Two Hundred Russian Cavalry.

Pekin, Feb. 26.—The Director-General of Chinese railroads reports that 100 Russian infantrymen, an officer, a gun and a large supply of ammunition at Yaoyangho, and that 200 Russian cavalrymen and two guns have arrived at Liulichang. These towns are both on the west side of the Liao River. The Director-General reports that the Manchurian railroad is guarded by detachments of Cossacks of 30 men each, who occupy high watch towers at intervals of a mile.

Russian Bureau Withdrawn.

Yinkow, Feb. 26.—It is reported that the Russian Government Bureau at Vladivostock has withdrawn to Khavarovsk.

PAUL LESSAR'S FINE WORK.

Russian Gunboat Mandjur Still Remains at Shanghai.

Tokio, Feb. 26.—The question of stay of the Russian gunboat Mandjur at Shaghai remains unsettled. Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, is said to be trying to intimidate the Chinese Government in the matter, declaring emphatically that Japan has little chance of victory against a Russian army 500,000 strong. The court at Pekin is oscillating on this question. Russia is also pressing China to declare the neutrality of that portion of the Empire, which Russia also occupies.

Russian Baltic Squadron.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—It is now said that the Russian Baltic squadron, comprising eight battleships, two armored cruisers, three protected cruisers, two large transports, and thirty torpedo boats, will leave for the Far East at the end of June. It is added that it will be commanded by Rear-Admiral Rojestvensky.

KING EDWARD'S MESSAGE.

Russian Ambassador to Great Britain Sees His Imperial Master.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador, to Great Britain, who returned here a few days ago from London, had an audience yesterday with the Czar.

Manchuria Is Rising.

New York, Feb. 26.—According to a cable from Che Foo to The World, Manchuria is rising against the Russians. Five thousand Russian troops have been moved from Mukden to Sunnintung because in the villages along the west side of Liaotung Peninsula the natives are making active preparations to cut off small bodies of Russian troops there. Ten thousand Manchurians have already enrolled in the movement, which is spreading. Volunteers are plenty; there is no lack of ammunition or money, for the patriotic rich are subscribing.

GREAT BRITAIN'S POSITION.

London, Feb. 26.—Replying to Earl Spencer, the leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon, the first Lord of Admiralty, Lord Selborne, categorically denied the numerous stories recently printed of British partiality to Japan as against Russia. He said he feared there was some influence at work endeavoring to misrepresent the attitude of this country and to show that the British navy was not preserving the strict neutrality in regard to the war.

Lake Michigan Afloat.

London, Feb. 26.—The White Star liner Germanic, renamed the Labrador, has been taken over by the Dominion Line to ply to a Canadian port. The Lake Michigan has been floated, and is proceeding to London in tow.

JAPAN CONSIDERS DASH SUCCESSFUL.

Admiral Togo had no Idea of Reducing the Fortifications by a Sea Attack—Latest Despatches From the East.

(Special C. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

THE DASH WAS SUCCESSFUL.

Chee Foo, Feb. 26.—A report received from a Japanese source to-day states that while the ships sunk at Port Arthur on Tuesday do not block the channel sufficiently to impede destroyers and small cruisers, battleships will be unable to pass them.

To this extent the dash was successful. The recent attacks on Port Arthur by the Japanese are described as being merely efforts to cover the movements of transports. Admiral Togo is said to have had no idea of reducing the fortification by an attack from the sea.

PORT ARTHUR BLOCKED.

London, Feb. 26.—The Japanese Legation to-day gave out the following official despatch from Tokio dated Feb. 26: "Early in the morning of Feb. 24, four old vessels escorted by some torpedo boats were run into the entrance of Port Arthur for the purpose of blocking the mouth of the Harbour. The object of sinking these vessels was attained and the officers and crews returned safely. Although there is no report regarding our fleet direct from Admiral Togo no doubt can be entertained as to its safety."

A TERRIBLE FIRE IN ROCHESTER.

Conflagration now Raging, in Which $7,000,000 Damage has Been Done.

BALTIMORE DISASTER REPEATED.

Heart of City's Business Portion Scene of the Fire—Help Asked From Other Cities—The Fire Under Control.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Within the "sky-scrapers" in the heart of the city all was busy activity yesterday; to-day all is a seething mass of hungry flames, wrecked buildings and frozen water. Shortly after four o'clock fire was discovered in the basement of one of the departmental stores and at the time of wiring fully $10,000,000 damage had been done and the fire has not yet been got under control. In a little over six hours 176 places of business have been destroyed, and the fire seems to be raging more fiercely than ever, notwithstanding the fact that the city fire brigades have been materially reinforced from Buffalo and Syracuse. The city is all excitement, and it is impossible for the police to keep the crowd in check. What seems incredible is the fact that as yet it is believed no lives were lost.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 26. — A great fire here is beyond control. The losses, according to the Rochester Times, already exceed $8,000,000. Mayor Cutler has asked Buffalo and Syracuse for help. It looks like another Baltimore holocaust.

The fire started at 4.50 a.m., in the Beadle-Sherbourne Company's six story building on Main street, near St. Paul street. It was a department store, and burned rapidly.

The flames spread to the Sibley, Lindsay & Kerr Company. They occupy five floors of the eleven story granite building, the other floors being used for offices. This block is at East Main and St. Paul streets. The boilers blew up in this block.

The flames next spread to the six story department store of the Rochester Dry Goods Company; then it jumped to the wholesale house in the rear on Division street. Here the fire got great headway and got beyond control of the Flower City's excellent fire department.

Mayor Cutler at 8 a.m. wired to Buffalo and Syracuse for help. Many buildings have been consumed, and several were blown up to stop the spread of the fire. The fire is in the heart of the city's business section, about four blocks east of the Powers block.

S SPREADING RAPIDLY.

Rochester, Feb. 26.—(10 a.m.)—The fire is beyond control, the flames are spreading rapidly, the firemen are having some trouble now in getting water. The flames are eating up the business district, at this time it looks as though the fire would spread over the entire city. Excitement reigns supreme, men and women are rushing about panic stricken. Unless the flames are checked shorly Rochester will be compelled to ask for more help. The Buffalo fire special has arrived and the engines are being unloaded.

FIRE NOW UNDER CONTROL.

Rochester, N Y., Feb. 26. — 11.15.—The Commissioner of Public Safety announces that the fire is now under control. The fact that there was no wind accounts for the speedy mastering of the flames.

The burned district runs from a point in Main street east midway between Clinton avenue and St. Paul street, then east to Division street, and half way to Mortimer, the fire wall of the Cox building stopping the flames. On the north side of Division the burned district covers about half a block. The total area burned over covers about three acres. Estimates as to the number of persons thrown out of employment by the fire places the number between 2500 and 3000. No lives are reported lost. The total loss is estimated at about $7,000,000.

FIRE IN NICHOLSON.

(By McMillan & Maguire Wires.)

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 26.—The town of Nicholson is being swept by fire. Many buildings have been totally destroyed. Several Scranton fire companies were rushed to the spot. The flames are spreading rapidly.

COBOURG COUNCIL IN FINANCIAL STRAITS.

A Deficit of $9,000 Which has to be Met by Ratepayers.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—"A public meeting is to be held this evening in the court room to discuss the financial position of the town. The situation has become so strained that the Mayor has called a public meeting in order to take the ratepayers into the confidence of the council. A deficit of $9000 has been piled up, not in one year, but year after year, for several years, has the amount been forming. Whether it is better to face this sum, and this year place a rate high enough to wipe out this floating debt, which would incur a rate of thirty mills, or try and form a scheme to carry the amount over two or three years, should engage the attention of the meeting. The council have partially discussed it and now it is for ratepayers to face the situation.

BOLD JAP MOVE IN MANCHURIA.

Strong Force Landed at Possiet Bay and Marching on Kirin.

SIXTY DAYS OF SUFFERING AHEAD.

Movements of Russian Troops—200 Russian Cavalrymen and Two Guns Arrive at Linlichang—Russian Gunboat Mandjur Remains at Shanghai—Baltic Squadron Will Leave for the Far East in June.

Newchwang, Feb. 26.—A strong Japanese force is reported to have landed near Possiet Bay, about twenty miles south of Vladivostock, and to have occupied Hunchun, a town twenty miles inland. The Japanese are now marching on Kirin, 150 miles south of Harbin, and the terminus of a branch railway from the Manchurian main line. Should the movement be carried out effectually it will result in the cutting of the Russian line of communication through Manchuria, but it is considered here that the real objective is Mukden, and that the movement will develop into a flank attack on that city in co-operation with the advance of the main army now approaching the Yalu River. In view of the risk attending the advance of a flanking force at such a distance from the main field of operations it is believed that the Japanese intelligence department discredits the strength of the Russian forces in Northern Manchuria, and is possessed of secret information which justifies the bold movement now being made and the result of which may have an important influence on the land campaign.

Possiet Bay is in Russian Manchuria, about 70 miles southwest of Vladivostock. Hunchun is on the left bank of the Tumen River and about 40 miles to the west of Possiet Bay. Kirin is a big Manchurian town, and lies about 220 miles inland and to the west of Possiet Bay. Kwangchengtsi is about eighty miles west of Kirin. Khabarovsk is about 400 miles to the north of Vladivostock, with which port it is connected by a railroad.

No Russians West of the Liao.

Yinkow, Feb. 26.—Foreign engineers on the Shanhaikwan-Newchwang railway say that according to their information their is no Russian force west of Liao River, with the exception of a guard of 25 Cossacks at Koupantzou.

60 Days Suffering.

Tokio, Feb. 26.—Storms are interfering with naval operations. The Yellow Sea is being swept by gales, heavy snow is falling, and the weather is bitterly cold. The forces of Japanese are going to the front splendidly equipped to withstand the cold, but despite their preparations, both sides will suffer much during the next 60 days.

Russians North of the Yalu.

Tien Tsin, Feb. 26.—A detachment of three hundred Russians, with two guns, is outside of Shinmingtung, which is a few miles north of Mukden, and considerably north of the Yalu River.

Two Hundred Russian Cavalry.

Pekin, Feb. 26.—The Director-General of Chinese railroads reports that 100 Russian infantrymen, an officer, a gun and a large supply of ammunition at Yaoyangho, and that 200 Russian cavalrymen and two guns have arrived at Liulichang. These towns are both on the west side of the Liao River. The Director-General reports that the Manchurian railroad is guarded by detachments of Cossacks of 30 men each, who occupy high watch towers at intervals of a mile.

Russian Bureau Withdrawn.

Yinkow, Feb. 26.—It is reported that the Russian Government Bureau at Vladivostock has withdrawn to Khavarovsk.

PAUL LESSAR'S FINE WORK.

Russian Gunboat Mandjur Still Remains at Shanghai.

Tokio, Feb. 26.—The question of stay of the Russian gunboat Mandjur at Shaghai remains unsettled. Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, is said to be trying to intimidate the Chinese Government in the matter, declaring emphatically that Japan has little chance of victory against a Russian army 500,000 strong. The court at Pekin is oscillating on this question. Russia is also pressing China to declare the neutrality of that portion of the Empire, which Russia also occupies.

Russian Baltic Squadron.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—It is now said that the Russian Baltic squadron, comprising eight battleships, two armored cruisers, three protected cruisers, two large transports, and thirty torpedo boats, will leave for the Far East at the end of June. It is added that it will be commanded by Rear-Admiral Rojestvensky.

KING EDWARD'S MESSAGE.

Russian Ambassador to Great Britain Sees His Imperial Master.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 26.—Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador, to Great Britain, who returned here a few days ago from London, had an audience yesterday with the Czar.

Manchuria Is Rising.

New York, Feb. 23.—According to a cable from Che Foo to The World, Manchuria is rising against the Russians. Five thousand Russian troops have been moved from Mukden to Sunnintung because in the villages along the west side of Liastung Peninsula the natives are making active preparations to cut off small bodies of Russian troops there. Ten thousand Manchurians have already enrolled in the movement, which is spreading. Volunteers are plenty; there is no lack of ammunition or money, for the patriotic rich are subscribing.

GREAT BRITAIN'S POSITION.

London, Feb. 26.—Replying to Earl Spencer, the leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon, the first Lord of Admiralty, Lord Selborne, categorically denied the numerous stories recently printed of British partiality to Japan as against Russia. He said he feared there was some influence at work endeavoring to misrepresent the attitude of this country and to show that the British navy was not preserving the strict neutrality in regard to the war.

Lake Michigan Afloat.

London, Feb. 26.—The White Star liner Germanic, repaired the Labrador, has been taken over by the Dominion Line to ply to a Canadian port. The Lake Michigan has been floated, and is proceeding to London in tow.

JAPAN CONSIDERS DASH SUCCESSFUL.

Admiral Togo had no Idea of Reducing the Fortifications by a Sea Attack—Latest Despatches From the East.

(Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

THE DASH WAS SUCCESSFUL.

Chee Foo, Feb. 26.—A report received from a Japanese source to-day states that while the ships sunk at Port Arthur on Tuesday do not block the channel sufficiently to impede destroyers and small cruisers, battleships will be unable to pass them.

To this extent the dash was successful. The recent attacks on Port Arthur by the Japanese are described as being merely efforts to cover the movements of transports. Admiral Togo is said to have had no idea of reducing the fortification by an attack from the sea.

PORT ARTHUR BLOCKED.

London, Feb. 26.—The Japanese Legation to-day gave out the following official despatch from Tokio dated Feb. 26: "Early in the morning of Feb. 24, four old vessels escorted by some torpedo boats were run into the entrance of Port Arthur for the purpose of blocking the mouth of the Harbour. The object of sinking these vessels was attained and the officers and crews returned safely. Although there is no report regarding our fleet direct from Admiral Togo no doubt can be entertained as to its safety."

A TERRIBLE FIRE IN ROCHESTER.

Conflagration now Raging, in Which $7,000,000 Damage has Been Done.

BALTIMORE DISASTER REPEATED.

Heart of City's Business Portion Scene of the Fire—Help Asked From Other Cities—The Fire Under Control.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 26.—Within the "sky-scrapers" in the heart of the city all was busy activity yesterday; to-day all is a seething mass of hungry flames, wrecked buildings and frozen water. Shortly after four o'clock fire was discovered in the basement of one of the departmental stores and at the time of wiring fully $10,000,000 damage had been done and the fire has not yet been got under control. In a little over six hours 176 places of business have been destroyed, and the fire seems to be raging more fiercely than ever, notwithstanding the fact that the city fire brigades have been materially reinforced from Buffalo and Syracuse. The city is all excitement, and it is impossible for the police to keep the crowd in check What seems incredible is the fact that as yet it is believed no lives were lost.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 26. — A great fire here is beyond control. The losses, according to the Rochester Times, already exceed $8,000,000. Mayor Cutler has asked Buffalo and Syracuse for help. It looks like another Baltimore holocaust.

The fire started at 4.50 a.m., in the Beadle-Sherbourne Company's six story building on Main street, near St. Paul street. It was a department store, and burned rapidly.

The flames spread to the Sibley, Lindsay & Kerr Company. They occupy five floors of the eleven story granite building, the other floors being used for offices. This block is at East Main and St. Paul streets. The boilers blew up in this block.

The flames next spread to the six story department store of the Rochester Dry Goods Company; then it jumped to the wholesale house in the rear on Division street. Here the fire got great headway and got beyond control of the Flower City's excellent fire department.

Mayor Cutler at 8 a.m. wired to Buffalo and Syracuse for help. Many buildings have been consumed, and several were blown up to stop the spread of the fire. The fire is in the heart of the city's business section, about four blocks east of the Powers block.

SPREADING RAPIDLY.

Rochester, Feb. 26.—(10 a.m.)—The fire is beyond control, the flames are spreading rapidly, the firemen are having some trouble now in getting water. The flames are eating up the business district, at this time it looks as though the fire would spread over the entire city. Excitement reigns supreme, men and women are rushing about panic stricken. Unless the flames are checked shorly Rochester will be compelled to ask for more help. The Buffalo fire special has arrived and the engines are being unloaded.

FIRE NOW UNDER CONTROL.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 26. — 11.15.—The Commissioner of Public Safety announces that the fire is now under control. The fact that there was no wind accounts for the speedy mastering of the flames.

The burned district runs from a point in Main street east midway between Clinton avenue and St. Paul street, then east to Division street, and half way to Mortimer, the fire wall of the Cox building stopping the flames. On the north side of Division the burned district covers about half a block. The total area burned over covers about three acres. Estimates as to the number of persons thrown out of employment by the fire places the number between 2500 and 3000. No lives are reported lost. The total loss is estimated at about $7,000,000.

FIRE IN NICHOLSON.

(By McMillan & Maguire Wires.)

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 26.—The town of Nicholson is being swept by fire. Many buildings have been totally destroyed. Several Scranton fire companies were rushed to the spot. The flames are spreading rapidly.

COBOURG COUNCIL IN FINANCIAL STRAITS.

A Deficit of $9,000 Which has to be Met by Ratepayers.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—"A public meeting is to be held this evening in the court room to discuss the financial position of the town. The situation has become so strained that the Mayor has called a public meeting in order to take the ratepayers into the confidence of the council. A deficit of $9000 has been piled up, not in one year, but year after year, for several years, has the amount been forming. Whether it is better to face this sum, and this year place a rate high enough to wipe out this floating debt, which would incur a rate of thirty mills, or try and form a scheme to carry the amount over two or three years, should engage the attention of the meeting. The council have partially discussed it and now it is for ratepayers to face the situation.

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period — how to avoid pain and suffering and remove the cause by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To Young Women:—I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—Miss Agnes Miller, 25 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The monthly sickness reflects the condition of a woman's health. Anything unusual at that time should have prompt and proper attention. Fifty thousand letters from women prove that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regulates menstruation and makes those periods painless.

READ WHAT MISS LINDBECK SAYS:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has greatly benefitted me. I will tell you how I suffered. My trouble was painful menstruation. I felt as each month went by that I was getting worse. I had severe bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen.

"A friend advised me to try Mrs. Pinkham's medicine. I did so and am now free from all pain during my periods."—Jessie C. Lindbeck, 1201 6th Street, Rockford, Ill.

COMMISSION AND THE CANAL.

In the Globe of Wednesday appears a paragraph, stating that Mr. J. Alex Culverwell, "of Peterborough," who has been in correspondence with the chairman of the Royal Commission of Transportation, Mr. John Bertram, has been notified that the Commission will be ready to have a sitting in Peterborough, to take evidence in regard to the advisability of completing the Trent Valley Canal. There is a lesson in this fact, if it is a fact. There is not the slightest objection to Mr. Culverwell's taking a particular interest in the promotion of this great public work. He is rather to be commended for the activity he displays, which puts to shame the zeal of many prominent citizens, who would naturally be considered as having a greater claim for taking active interest in advancing the enterprise. But it seems to be somewhat humiliating to allow an outsider, with no extensive material interests in Peterborough, the one resident of a city that has shown hostility, or at least has never shown any particular friendliness towards the Trent Valley Canal, to become the champion in chief of the work. It would seem that the proper medium of communication with the chairman of the Commission would be, or have been, the Board of Trade or the Town Council. Certainly the representations of either of these corporate bodies, the natural representative of the town and its interests, would of necessity carry greater weight with the commissioners; would more powerfully impress the Government, the commission and public opinion, than those of an outsider, no matter how well qualified in other respects to present and urge the cause of the canal. If the people of Peterborough and district, through their natural representatives do not show a live interest in the promotion of the enterprise, then is there not lacking some ground for infering that those who should be most vitally concerned have but a lukewarm feeling towards canal completion. Some time since the Examiner, in the discharge of its duty to the public, called the attention of the Board of Trade to the necessity of having everything in the shape of evidence and argument in favour of the prompt completion of the canal, ready for submission to the commission when it should sit in Peterborough. This suggestion by the Examiner has evidently borne fruit, as it is understood that the matter has been taken up and a number of the town's prominent business men are at present preparing evidence to submit to the Commission when it sits. The citizens, as a whole, however, will not take very kindly to the misguided enthusiasm which Mr. Culverwell has shown in this matter. The public bodies of Peterborough are as deeply interested in the canal as Mr. Culverwell, and when the proper time comes will have arguments to present to the Commission which will doubtless have greater weight than anything which Mr. Culverwell might have to say. But it would be unwise to have the Commission meet here in a few weeks as has been suggested. The plan proposed here is to have the members go over the route of the canal, which cannot be done at this time of the year. This is a matter which should not be neglected — the Transportation Commission should be shown that Peterborough is in earnest in its desire for the completion, for navigation purposes, of the Trent Valley Waterway.

FARMING AND FORESTRY.

One of the significant and valuable contributions to the budget debate in the Legislature on Tuesday was the speech of Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture. He spoke of the excellent results that have followed the measures adopted by the Government to promote the interests of agriculture. The largely increased products of the farm have not come from a larger area cultivated but from better results on practically the same area, due to improved methods following upon the educational propaganda, conducted by the Government, through the three-fold medium of organization, co-operation and education. One very important section of the Minister's address was his reference to encouragement of tree planting in older Ontario. In times past, the farmer entering upon a new farm, was anxious above all things to remove the tree crop from the soil so that the latter could be devoted exclusively to cereal crops. This of course was necessary but not to the extent to which it has been carried. But if the farmers of the earlier days could have foreseen the conditions as they now exist there would have been a little judgment as to removing and retaining trees. The country has become so baked of trees that the climate has been affected—rain fall has become spasmodic—streams have been dried up except in the flood times of spring and autumn, through the reservoirs represented by dense forest and fallen leaves, having been destroyed. The removal of forest trees has given free course to the winds which sweep fiercely over the country, scorching crops, levelling standing grain or injuring fruit trees. The farmer, as the experience of this winter especially shows, is put to great inconvenience from lack of water for their stock. Streams which, in the days when forests covered the country to a greater extent, were large enough to run a mill, have entirely disappeared. The scarcity of wood for fuel purposes has become a serious question for many farmers, who would gladly, if they could, restore some of the original forest growth, which would now be far more valuable to them from a practical point of view, acre for acre, than a corresponding area of cleared land, even the best on a farm.

If farmers could be persuaded to seriously undertake tree planting, the trouble and expense would, in time, be well repaid. On nearly every farmstead there are considerable areas of land, which from being either stony or rough or otherwise defective will not pay for cultivation. Trees have a way of adapting themselves to almost any soil and situation, and these otherwise undesirable portions of the farm, not to speak of better portions, could profitably be planted to trees.

The difficulty in a great many sections is to procure trees suitable for planting at a moderate cost. This, Hon. Mr. Dryden proposes to overcome, by establishing a nursery at the Agricultural College, Guelph, for the supply of forest trees for farm planting. If the farmers of the province take advantage to a general extent of this nursery, this single one will not long furnish sufficient supplies, and it might not be amiss to arrange that under proper municipal control, a nursery might be established in each township. This perhaps could be so arranged that the cost of maintenance would be only nominal, and also that the cost of the trees supplied farmers would only be nominal, if not altogether free. In view of the great benefits to be received, it would not be perhaps unwise to devote a considerable portion of the provincial revenue to encourage general tree planting on farms.

We have made a mistake in the past in sweeping away the original forest growth with too reckless a hand. What is done, is done, and cannot be remdied, except by reforestry, by tree planting. But we can deal better with our new areas. If it were made a condition in the granting of a patent or deed, for any section of forest-covered farm land that, in clearing, a belt, say, 100 feet in width, must be reserved as a wind break on exposed sides of the farm, the advantage would be incalculable. By cutting only the matured timber in such belts for fuel or building purposes these belts would have a continuous existence, and this condition prevailing over an entire district, would retain and maintain many of the conditions, climatic and otherwise, almost always associated with the existence of more or less dense areas of forest growth.

To secure good results the educational propaganda proposed by Mr. Dryden, should be vigorous, so that, so to speak, the ground may be made ready for planting as soon as the trees in the nursery at Guelph are sufficiently grown. There is, however, not so much necessity for education, for the average farmer is intelligent enough to see all the advantages of tree planting, but the difficulty is to get him to take definite action. His intentions even may be good, but for some reason he cannot be got to act in time—before the season passes.

MAKING GOOD CANADIANS.

The Canadian System Succeeds Even With our "Yankee" Incomers as Subjects.

Montreal Herald.

"When I go into a country I do not look to see if there are good Laws, but whether they live up to those they have; for there are food laws everywhere," wrote Montesquieu. There have recently been a number of compliments made in the press of Great Britain and the United States upon the manner in which Canada has opened up the North-west Territories and the Yukon. On both sides of the Atlantic surprise has been expressed, although it comes a little late, that Canada has done such a workmanlike job of nation building. Both Great Britain and the United States have had experience in this sort of thing, and they praise with a knowledge of the difficulties of the undertaking. It is true that wherever our frontier has advanced our laws have gone, and no place has been too remote for their proper administration. The Minister of the Interior and the Minister of Justice, with the North-west Mounted Police as a weapon against offenders, have impressed respect for our statutes and institutions in the most remote places in the mountains and on the plains, upon red, white and black men. Everywhere and at all times in Canada, life and property have been safe. We have no lynchings, no serious riots, no hanging for horse stealing, and very little of the stealing. We have cowboys, but they have not been permitted to "shoot up" settlements. We have had mining camps, but they have been without lawlessness and license. In fact we have shown how a country should be settled.

The New York Sun has recently discovered that Canada has kept the peace while settling a wilderness, and characteristically claims the credit is due to the intelligent and law-abiding American settlers who are going in. It would be pleasant if this were so, but it is not. The Canadian Northwest had law and order before the Americans had begun to come. In fact it had a good deal more than it has had since. The Canadian, the Doukhobor, and the Gallacian, who had preceded the American, had learned to respect the law before they saw the Canadian West. The aboriginal red man had been taught to respect it. He has found it good, and multiplied under it. The American settler, we are sorry to say, has come to Canada with a certain contempt for the law, and he, too, has had to learn a lesson of respect.

There are good laws in the United States, but they are in many places loosely administered. There is not a day but some outrage is chronicled which would not have been perpetrated if the people had the respect for the administration of the criminal law, which exists in Canada, and the certainty that punishment would follow. The American settler comes to Canada with the feeling he acquired at home, accentuated by the knowledge that he is the representative of a great nation, who has come to make his home in a small one. He feels that he can take a big boy's liberties. Since the American invasion begun the North-west Mounted Police have had twice as much business on hand as they had before. The judges, the juries and the lawyers in the North-west have been twice as busy, and offences against law and order twice as numerous. However the law stands, and it is being administered in the old way. The American settler is intelligent, and has good though occasionally too aggressive stuff in him, and he will learn. No doubt the law and its administrators will prove equal to the task of turning all the Americans who cross the line into the best of citizens. An occasional example to show that we do things differently on this side of the line is all that is necessary to restrain the few high steppers who cross with their more sober-minded fellows. Let them all come.

CHINESE MUST OBEY VICEROY.

An Extraordinary Proclamation By Alexieff to People of Manchuria.

Yinkow, Feb. 25.—Viceroy Alexieff has caused a proclamation to be issued throughout Manchuria notifying the Chinese that Russia is at war with Japan on account of Japan's treacherous attack on the Russian fleet. This proclamation is under six headings.

The first warns the inhabitants that they must prevent the encroachments of Chinese on Russian boundary.

Second, Russian and Chinese interests are declared to be identical, but, as China says she wishes to maintain neutrality, therefore, all officials in Manchuria, instead of hindering, must assist the Russian army.

Third, the people shall continue their occupations, and shall treat the Russian troops with confidence.

Fourth, the railroad telegraphs are left to the protection of the people, who will be held responsible in case they are injured.

The fifth heading warns the people not to obey the threats of the banditts, but assist the troops to exterminate them; if they do not assist in this, they also will be treated as robbers.

Sixth, if the people antagonize the troops or show them hatred they will be exterminated without mercy. The Government is taking all steps, in any event, to protect its interests.

The proclamation makes an earnest appeal for the sympathy of the people in the present crisis, when, it says, "Russia must put her back to the wall."

SLEEP IS PRICELESS.

But It can be Obtained by Simple Methods.

Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day's labour, and instead of retiring to bed with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose, do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable itching of the rectum? Do you then endeavour to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion?

If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Milbury, 70 Pearl street, Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching, which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it tonight, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to well to write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

Berlin, Feb. 24.—Col. Luetwein, governor of German Southwest Africa, cables that a number of Ovambos, under Capt. Nechale, attacked the police post at Amatoni on Feb. 2, and were repulsed with a loss of 60 men killed. A division under Lieut. Schultze had a fight with the Hereros at South Tsumana on Feb. 8, in which the enemy lost 10 men killed. The Germans sustained no casualties.

All Powers Impressed.

Paris, Feb. 24.—As a result of recent representations to the Porte, it is asserted authoritatively that Turkey, as well as the Balkan states, recognizes the Austro-Russian reforms as being in force, and will aid in their execution. All the powers are impressed with the importance of acting together in order to prevent war.

News too Good to Keep

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived from them that they tell the good news to their neighbours. THREE DUTIES OF THE CHRISTIAN.

Sermon by Rev. G. R. Beamish M. A., of Belleville, at St. Luke's Church.

Visiting Divine Gave a Thoughtful Discourse Wednesday—Duties Enjoined on all Men Special Lenten Service.

At the special Lenten Wednesday evening service held in St. Luke's church last night the speaker was Rev. George Ross Beamish, M. A., rector of St. Thomas' church, Belleville. The service was largely attended and all thoroughly enjoyed the eloquent sermon preached by the eminent divine. Rev. Mr. Beamish said in part:

In the 6th chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel we find these words: "When thou prayest," "when thou fastest," "when thou dost alms." These are the three notable duties enjoined by our Lord on all men. Prayer, the attitude of the creature to the Creator. Almsgiving the relationship to all our fellow-beings. Fasting, having ourselves in relation to all the opposing forces that men encounter—the devil, the flesh, the world. Prayer against the devil; almsgiving relation in the world. These three main duties call on us at the beginning of Lent. In the wilderness to-day we separate ourselves in some measure; it is this that I wish to bring before you to-night, these three Christian duties in all our conversation, in all our inward thoughts, in all our business of life. Prayer.—Be not afraid to pray aright. More things are wrought by prayer than this world thinks of; so I want to present it in its widest aspect—the soul at communion to God; not a form of habit, but in penitence, recognizing our relations to God, recognizing our relations to a personal God which is the very essence of all relation, especially what we call in our holy church. What a meaningless formula our church's service is if not used aright in our prayers! What did our first parents do? Went and hid themselves from God; so man is ever doing when he falls astray, hides himself from God. As the Jews,—their burnt offerings and sacrifices, the Holy of Holies, all ordained by God; but when they fell astray after other gods, they hid themselves. Love, self-sacrifice,—So when God is taken out of life, relations become an empty form. Prayer is in the fullest sense the personal contact to us to Creator. God is everywhere. This is not Pantheism. God fills it all. All is held by God. Even we are held in the hollow of his hand. Prayer realizes in you that you never take his name in vain. There is that empty worship in our churches. Our psalms and our chants which we sing and utter with listless voice. Surely this is not the use of such prayer, for the power of his Holy Spirit is in his church; it makes the water healing and the bread and wine channels for His Grace. Barren is our worship here; men are influenced by our worship which is infectious. You realize the power of God when you hear His Word. "God is a spirit and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." Prayer must be a homoury to God and its power must be a realization upon us.

Almsgiving. What shall I give? Give freely; give thyself. Almsgiving not in a narrow sense to relieve, but give each such individual soul, for in the image of God we are created. And again, our image is born in heaven through the incarnation, and we hope, through that beatific vision, a resurrection in the Person of Christ. You are your brother's keeper, as neighbours, as citizens, as friends, even made out of the same common clay, and Christ took that nature and sitteth on the right hand of God with it. Almsgiving is the recognition of it and the giving up of ourselves. Almsgiving, the giving of your power. Is a man ever clutching and drawing to self? Who are they? They who give freely of themselves to the world. Prayer, the personal relation of a person God in us to the God above us. Almsgiving, thegiving to God the best of ourselves. Look at the Jews; their temple which they built at a cost in our currency of eight million dollars, a self-offering. Witness the cathedrals of Europe, interior and exterior, most beautiful works of art and sculpture, and their insignia, "To the Glory of God." "All Glory to the Most High." Knights of old gave themselves freely, What for? Not for gain or gold, but for the glory of God. That must be the spirit in our churches if we are to hasten his coming; it must be the first thought of our lives. The church of England makes almsgiving an act of worship, truly a part as any other part of her service. The Rubric says: "Receive, present place on the holy table." It is an act of worship and in our prayers, we ask God to receive these alms and oblations; therefore you offer the gifts to God. Now, brethren, I ask you, when you put your hand into your pocket and give something which costs you no thought, and you ask Almighty God to receive it; it is either one of two things: It is either a great sacrifice or it is that religion is a farce. Without a thought you do this! Therefore I ask you to look upon this act of the Church of England which she provides and puts with her oblations on the holy table. Ask God to receive your alms; your alms prevail just as much in heaven as your prayers. Fasting—It is not to chasten the flesh, but to get the spirit free. St. Bernard says: "If the body sin let the body fast; if the tongue sin, let the tongue fast; if the ear sin, let the ear fast; likewise the hand." Will is the central power of man representing the will of the Most High; let that will rule the parts of the lower nature. We do well to constrain our nature. We shall not conquer by "Thou shalt not," but by putting the higher nature before the lower; not by shutting our ears with wax or our hand in fetters, but by being sons of God in governing our wills. As sons of God we shall be like Him when He shall appear. "Lord, incline Thine ear to me" I humbly pray for these four things: My wants, my nothingness; my sins; my contritions.

O TEMPORA! O MORES!

To the Editor of the Examiner:

The other day the Chief of Police at the instance of the local branch of the Lord's Day Alliance laid information against three millwrights for doing certain work of their ordinary calling on the Lord's day. To-night's Examiner has an advertisement:

"Wanted, singers for St. Andrew's church, Peterborough; tenor, alto and bass soloists to begin at once. Testimonials regarding character ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY. Applications stating salary expected to be addressed, etc. ——Clerk of Sessions."

They have a kist o' whustles in that church—a religious fiddle—and they want professional singers, of GOOD CHARACTER, mind you—to do work of their ordinary calling on the Lord's Day for wages.

I wonder if Mr. Potter knows of it. Will the chief lay informations against the three singers? Will the magistrate rule that the work of the tenor, the alto and the bass singers are works of necessity?

Poor Mr. Packersham swore he was a member of a Christian church. If the tenor, the alto and the bass join the Kirk will it be airight—religious fiddles you know.

As An Act of Humanity

I ask you to tell me a friend who needs help. That is all—just the cost of a penny. Tell me to-day the name of some sick one.

Tell Me the Book to Send.

Then I will do this: I will arrange with a druggist near him so that he may take six bottles of Dr Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost is $5.50. If it fails I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

It is but a trifle I ask of you—just a minute's time—a penny postal. And I ask it to aid a sick friend.

It is a remarkable thing that I do in return—something that no other physician ever offered. And I do it for a stranger.

Won't you do that little—and to-day—if I will do the rest?

You ask what good it will do.

That month's test will tell. It is true that my Restorative may fail. There is sometimes a cause—like cancer—which medicine cannot cure. But the very fact of my offer must prove that failures are rare, for if they were common the offer would ruin me.

In the past twelve years I have supplied my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on just those terms, and 39 40 have paid gladly, because they got well. I have found that the cured ones are four—and not a penny is wanted from the rest.

A sick one who neglects such an offer is unkind to himself, for success means health, and 39 out of 40 secure it. Failure means nothing lost.

My boundless faith in this remedy is born of a lifetime's experience. I have tested it in hundreds of the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. I have watched it succeed—countless times—when the best of other treatments failed.

I know what it will do.

My success comes from strengthening the inside nerves. I bring back the nerve power which alone operates all the vital organs.

I don't doctor the organs, for the best results of that method are only temporary. I give those weak organs strength to do their duty by restoring the only power that makes them act.

There is no other way. You cannot restore a weak engine by doctoring the machine. You must give it more steam—and inside nerve power is the steam of the body.

Tell me a friend who needs this help. The test will harm no one under any condition. And it may be that the sick one can otherwise never get well.

REPORT OF LABOUR FROM PETERBOROUGH.

Ald. W. J. Johnston's Correspondence to Labour Gazette

A Review of the Labour Conditions—Manufacturers are Presperous—Detailed Reports.

Ald. Johnston, who was appointed correspondent for the Labour Gazette in Peterborough, has submitted his first report which appears in the last issue of the Gazette. A portion of the report follows:

With the exception of the several building trades, labour is fairly well employed. From the beginning of 1903 to the end, work was never better, the demand in all departments far exceeding the supply, and the prospects being good for 1904. The building of the concrete dam for the American Cereal Company, and the large building for the manufacture of beet sugar were actively carried on during the past season but are now suspended until next spring. There is no exceptional activity in any of the trades at present. Railway transportation, however, is very active here, both in exports and imports. Bank clearing in all branches was reported good and both wholesale and retail trade were good, particularly in the grocers and clothing stores. There have been no changes in the rates of wages or hours of labour, or differences between employer and employees during the month. In nearly all places, excepting some of the large factories, nine hours per day is the rule.

There has never been a serious strike in this town; there have been some small strikes in the past, but they were all settled inside of two or three days.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Agriculture.—Agriculture is in first-class condition; the industrial fair, held in September last, was a good proof of this, there being a fine exhibition of the products of the district, vegetable and animal. Farmers from all parts report splendid yields of all kinds of grain, and market prices good. Good markets were reported for the month, though, owing to the severe cold and the roads being blocked by snow, the markets were not so large as they would have been had the conditions been otherwise.

Manufacturing.—In all the woodworking and ironworking shops trade is good.

Railroad Construction and Employment.—The building of a spur line from the Canadian Pacific Railway into the large cereal works, which is to be connected with a similar line from the Grand Trunk Railway, is giving the cereal company good facilities from both railways for the benefit of its business.

CONDITION OF PARTICULAR TRADES

Building Trades.—Bricklayers and masons are not very well employed at this time of the year. Carpenters and joiners on outside work are indifferently employed with quite a number of men idle. Lathers and plasterers are quiet just now. A few painters, decorators and paper hangers keep working, but the majority are idle. Plumbers are very busy just now; the past year has been the best the trade has experienced. Gas and steamfitters have been, and are, busily employed. Builders' labourers are quiet.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades.—Iron moulders are quite busy at present. Iron workers and helpers fairly well employed. Coremakers find work brisk, with a demand for good men. There is not much demand for machinists and engineers. Electrical workers are active, and there exists a demand for first-class men. Linemen are quite busy erecting poles and wires. Blacksmiths and horseshoers are busy. Bicycle workers find trade dull. Jewellers are doing a good, steady trade.

Woodworking and Furnishing Trades. All inside woodworkers fairly busy. Upholsterers find trade fair. Varnishers' and polishers' trade is good in some shops. Carriage and wagon makers are all doing a very brisk trade. Pattern-makers are busy. Coopers have one shop here which is very busy. Gliders are not much in demand here.

Printing and Allied Trades.—Printers are busy, with better wages and shorter hours than a year ago. Pressmen are fairly busy. Bookbinders are fairly well employed.

Clothing Trades.—Journeymen tailors are very dull at this season of the year as all persons are well supplied with warm clothing and will not require lighter clothing until spring, when the tailors will become more actively engaged. Not a great deal of ordered footwear is made here; nearly all cobbling and mending is done by a few men, who are generally kept fairly busy.

Food and Tobacco Preparation.—Bakers and confectioners are all doing a steady business. Butchers and meat cutters are very active. Ice cutters and drivers are very busy now getting ice packed ready for the summer business. There is only one firm of cigar makers doing business here, which in addition to home trade, does a fairly good export trade.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers are all busy. Prices have been raised 5 cents on a haircut, i.e., from 15 to 20 cts., a shave costs 10 cts. Broom-makers, of which there are two factories here, are doing a steady local and export trade. Clerks and stenographers are busy and in demand. Delivery employees are very actively employed. Furriers are doing an excellent business this winter. Hotel and restaurant employees find business very good. Laundry workers, both English-speaking and Chinese, are very busy; there are five or six Chinese laundries.

Transport.—All of the railways running into Peterborough are doing a brisk business, and all employees, in consequence, are busily employed. Cab drivers, hackmen, carters and draymen are not doing a very brisk business. Teamsters and expressmen are all busy.

Unskilled Labour.—There is little employment, especially in out-door work, just now for this class of labour.

FORMATION OF LABOUR ORGANIZATIONS.

There has been formed an organization termed "Peterborough Federation of Majority Rule." It is not really a labour organization, but one which will materially affect the working classes. It deals with public questions in such a manner that if a municipal council be presented with a petition signed by a certain percentage of the voters or electors asking that a referendum shall be taken on such questions as franchises, public contracts (large ones), or any other matters that the people think should be submitted to the votes of the people before being enacted upon by the municipal council, such a vote must be taken, and the opinion of the ratepayers thus expressed shall govern the action of the council. The society will be fully organized this year.

Said to be Steve Doyle.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Steve Doyle, burglar, convict and desperate crook, who escaped from the Toronto police in the daring break for liberty last summer, made by himself and two companions—Quackenbush and Murphy—has been located. He is in his grave in London, where the bullets of the detectives of that city put him as the sequel of a dramatic battle with pistols two weeks ago when the surviving robber, "Texas," was captured. This is the conclusion of the persistent efforts of the provincial authorities to locate and capture the bold crook since he disappeared like a lightning streak the afternoon of Aug. 18, 1903, on the banks of the Don where he was so hotly pursued by the officers whom he so cunningly evaded.

POSSIBILITIES OF THE POSTAL SYSTEM.

Cheap Mail Facilities One of the Chief Factors in Our Prosperity and Progress.

"Common is the commonplace." The most valuable of civil benefits is such a commonplace matter, that we scarcely give it a thought. It would take a winter on a whaler nipped in an ice floe to make us truly appreciable of the worth of the postal service. What a wonderful thing it is! Wonderful in its organization, with its vast machinery for the collection and distribution of letters, its railway mail cars, its route riders, the unfailing order and precision of its methods. Wonderful it is too in its results. It knits together families widely separated. It carries across the sea some tender lover's message or perhaps a little flower picked from the daisied grave of an English churchyard. Every hour of every day the mail bag is packed with words which waken love and laughter, and words which deepen the furrow in the cheek and dim the failing sight with bitter tears.

But with all this there is going on through the mail service a dissemination of human knowledge, a reaching out of human help which is one of the crowning blessings of our century. The correspondence schools led by Chautauqua, are sending to every village and hamlet the broader knowledge which is so eagerly craved by many who are shut in to the homely duties of a humble life. Without the mail system this plan of education would be impracticable.

Every mail, too, carries from the great centers, the advice of great physicians, which it would be impossible for the distant public to obtain were it not for the mails. Few people realize how many thousand people depend on the mail service for medical treatment. Not long ago when some postal affairs were being discussed in connection with the erection of the new postoffice building in Buffalo, N. Y., some light was thrown on this subject by the statement that the mail by Dr. R V. Pierce amounted daily to something over 1,500 pieces. Of course this is not a common case, because Dr. Pierce's relation as chief consulting physician to Buffalo's famous institution, The Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, makes his advice and that of his staff of nearly a score of skilled and experienced specialists much sought after, especially by women, to the treatment and cure of whose special diseases Dr. Pierce has devoted over thirty years of almost constant labor. But though this example is out of the ordinary, it may serve as an evidence of the amazing benefits reaped by the public from the mail service. It puts every outlying hamlet in touch with the most advanced medical specialism of the day. It gives at a cost of a two-cent stamp, the skill and experience that it has taken years to acquire. Literally at the cost of a two-cent stamp, since Dr. Pierce invites sick women to consult him by letter without charge. And this would seem to be one of the most remarkable services rendered by the postal system, perhaps the supreme service of all. For while it is a splendid thing to be able to shop in New York while living in Kansas, and a grand thing to be able to command the learning of great professors while working in the Michigan woods, it is a still grander thing that by means of this cheaply supplied service, men like Dr. Pierce, who have the disposition to be helpful, are enabled to place their skill and knowledge at the disposal of those who are being dragged down by disease, without the possibility of help from those about them. When one contemplates the vast and far reaching benefits of the mail service, so briefly touched upon in this article, it makes the familiar gray uniform of the postman the most glorious of all uniforms, for it is worn by the soldiers of the army of peace. It makes one feel like taking his hat off to the on-rushing mail train, and cheering the work and wisdom of Uncle Sam.

BRITISH TROOPS

Will Operate Against Subhai Tribe in Aden Hinterland.

London, Feb. 24.—A column consisting of 200 of the Buffs, 150 of the 123rd Bombay Rifles, and two guns, all under Major Ravenhill, left here last Friday, telegraphs an Aden correspondent under date Feb. 8. Another column, composed of 200 of the Hampshire and 150 of the 102nd Bombay Grenadiers, with two guns, all under Major de Winton, left Musemir the following day.

Both are operating against the Subhai tribe in the Aden hinterland, which recently attacked a surveying party.

Troops Ordered From India.

A wing of the 94th Native Infantry, with six British officers, nine native officers and 340 men, under Major Whittal, has been ordered from India to Aden to support the escort of the boundary commission working in the hinterland.

"PEACE RESTORED TO THE CHURCH."

Interesting Meeting of T. A. S. Ladies' Literary Association.

A very successful literary meeting was held last evening by the Ladies Literary Association of St. Peter's T.A.S. The series of papers on "Church History," was brought to a close by an interesting and instructive paper read by Miss Susie Kelly. Miss Kelly dealt with the subject, "Peace Restored to the Church," and sketched beautifully and carefully the different stages of persecution undergone by the Church during the first three centuries of her existence. She next made a brief reference to Constantine and his career prior to his becoming the ruler at Rome. His victory so triumphantly won underneath the banner of the Cross, and the influence he subsequently made use of in restoring Peace to the Church and abolishing the cruel intolerance with which Christians had been treated, were specially interesting features of the essay. Miss Kelly's paper was an excellent close to the series of papers that have been dealing with the subject of Church History during a certain portion of the season.

During the evening, Miss Coleman, who presided at the meeting, introduced a short programme, consisting of an intrumental duet excellently rendered by Misses Corkery and Lewis, and an exceptionally well given recitation by Miss Mamie Kennaley. Miss Kennaley's response in encore to her first recitation was received with almost equal applause, showing the very pleasing impression she had made on the audience.

The Association will meet Thursday, March 10, when a paper on "Father Mathew, the Apostle of Temperance," will be read by Miss M. Casey.

PROGRESS OF THE CANADIAN WEST.

Interesting Address on North West by Rev. A. J. Vining.

Increasing Rapidly in Population The Influx of Americans Spread of the Gospel in the Newer Canada.

At the Park street Baptist church last night, Rev. A. J Vining, late superintendent of North-west Missions, delivered an enlightening address on the spreading of Christianity and the preaching of the Gospel, amongst the foreign thousands who have settled during the past few years in Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan and the Canadian North-west generally. In a convincing manner, Rev. Mr. Vining laid before the fairly large audience which had gathered there facts regarding the work in general, the progress made in the past, and the endless task for the future. In well chosen words he outlined the character of the foreigners now met with in the North-west; the ignorant Doukhobor, marching for his Saviour, the persecuted Russ and Pole, frightened to reveal his very thoughts of religion, the Swedes, Norwegians, Germans, Hungarians and many others. For two years Rev. Mr. Vining was the pastor of the Logan avenue Baptist church, and for three years as superintendent of North-west Missions, travelled over the boundless plains by foot or horseback, rail or canoe. This alone shows that Mr. Vining spoke from actual experience.

Rev. Mr. Brace, the pastor of the church, officiated at the meeting, which was opened with devotional exercises.

Rev. Mr. Vining spoke in a thrilling tone for over an hour, and began by showing how much larger the North-west was than was generally believed. He pointed out its extreme importance to the British Empire generally and after showing its vast resources, passed on to the ever-increasing influx of Americans. Last year 50,000 persons had crossed over from the other side of the line and entered the Canadian North-west. This year, he predicted, the number would be doubled at the least. He scouted the idea that the Americans would before long outbalance the Canadians in numbers, and by voting make Canada a part of the United States. He knew that the laws of this country were better than those of the United States, that none would prefer to return to the worse method of government.

At some length Rev. Mr. Vining dwelt on the methods of spreading the Gospel among the non-English speaking races who had settled in the North-west. In conclusion he made a forceful appeal to Baptists to help to forward this Christian movement.

At the conclusion of the address a collection was taken in behalf of North-west Missions.

UNIQUE DINNER GIVEN BY MRS. STRATTON.

Pleasing Event Took Place in Toronto on Wednesday.

A List of the Guests Toasts Proposed and Honoured Ladys' Dinner Proved a Unique Success

The Toronto News referring to the dinner given by Mrs. J. R. Stratton, in the Speaker's Chamber on Wednesday night, says:—

Mrs. Stratton was the hostess of a most unique dinner Wednesday evening, comprised solely of ladies. The idea probably envolved itself out of the fact that this is a leap-year, and Mrs. Stratton must be complimented on her originality, for it was in every way a success. Ladies' luncheons are common but a dinner is entirely new. At 7.30 the handsome reception room, decorated with pink flowers of every variety, and beautiful palms, commenced to fill up with a bevy of handsome and well-groomed women. An orchestra stationed in the hall played all evening. Mrs. Stratton received at the entrance, wearing a lovely gown of white net, richly embroidered in silver sequins, over white satin, a green and white wreath in her hair, and diamond ornaments. Mrs. Mortimer Clark, the guest of honour, was on her left, and was beautifully gowned in black Chantilly lace over white, a dainty wreath in her hair, and a necklet of carbuncles and pearls. Hon. Mr. Stratton welcomed the guests in his usual genial manner, but when dinner was announced, followed by laughter and witticisms from the fair sex, he slipped away. A long table was arranged in the dining-rooms, with eighteen seats on either side, three at one end and two at the other. Down the entire centre, billowy diamond tulle was placed over pale green silk, on which stood vases of various heights, filled with the loveliest of white flowers, roses, carnations, lilies and hyacinths, fringed with fern; the candelabra shaded in green. The colour scheme was white and green throughout, and was really bridal in effect. The walls were draped in green and white, and the sideboard banked with flowers, added to the beauty of the room. Conversation flowed merrily, and many a clever story was told to appreciative listeners, whose musical laughter sounded above the noises of others seated beyond. At the end of the dinner, Mrs. Stratton, cleverly following her role, proposed "The King and Queen." All standing, sang the National Anthem, the orchestra chiming in; "The Hostess" followed, to "For He's a Jolly, Good Fellow"; "The Guest," Mrs. Clark, when all again sang "God Save our King," "Peterborough," the home of the hostess, was proposed by Mrs. Forsythe Grant, about which place she gave some pleasant reminiscences. A move was then made to the reception room, and a little later, the Hon. the Premier, the Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Latchford, Hon. Mr. Harcourt, the Hon. the Speaker, Hon. Mr. Stratton, Mr. John Foy, Mr. Denis Murphy, M.P.P., Mr. Graham, M.P.P., Mr. Walter Beardmore, President Loudon, and the husbands of the various guests appeared and a great deal of quizzing went on, over which much merriment was displayed. Mr. A. A. Haston, a protege of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Janes, gave several songs, which were thoroughly appreciated. Those invited to this original dinner were: Mrs J K Kerr, Mrs W D Matthews, Mrs Melvin Jones, Mrs S H Janes, Mrs E F B Johnston, Mrs Rolland Hills, Mrs A B Aylesworth, Mrs J V Teetzel Mrs (Judge) Johnston, Mrs (Dr) Jamieson, Mrs H M Mowat, Mrs W G Falconbridge, Mrs W Mackenzie, Mrs D D Mann, Mrs J T Gilmour, Mrs T Gilmour, Mrs C D Warren, Mrs Mackenzie Alexander, Mrs W Claude Fox, Mrs J M Gibson, Mrs W A Charlton, Miss Milligan, Mrs G Mitchell, Mrs G P Graham, Mrs Cattanach, Mrs Walter Barwick, Mrs George Warwick, Mrs G H Watson, Mrs E W Cox, Mrs Forsyth Grant, Mrs W B McMurrich, Mrs Walter Beadmore, Mrs McMahon, Mrs F Polson, Mrs C H Ritchie, Mrs Glackmeyer, Miss Ross, Miss Widdifield, Mrs Carveth, Miss Jennings, Mrs Alfred Denison, Mrs G G S Lindsay, Mrs Geo A Cox, Mrs T Eaton, Mrs Jas Loudon, Mrs R A Grant, Mrs E T Malone, Mrs (Dr) James, Mrs C N Smith, Mrs John Dryden, Mrs Charles McGill, Mrs R Jaffray, Mrs J T Ellis, Mrs A E Ames, Mrs R A Pyne, Mrs J E Atkinson, Mrs E R Wood, Mrs John Foy, Mrs G Shepley, Mrs T H Preston, Mrs S W McIntyre, Mrs F G Cox, Mrs C Matthews.

Toronto, February 26, 1904.

My Dear Sir,—I am favoured with your letter of the 24th, inst., with reference to holding a session of the Transportation Commission in Peterborough, and would say that on the 20th inst., I instructed the Secretary of the Commission to see my colleague in Montreal and arrange with him when the work could be resumed and arrange for a session at the different ports in the lakes next month. I also asked him to communicate with Mr. Mayor Roger at what date during the month of March it would be convenient to hold a meeting in Peterborough. If he has not already done so it will be done in a few days. Whether we will visit the district personally after navigation opens or send a competent engineer will depend on the nature of the evidence submitted. Irresponsible newspaper reports need give you no concern.

Yours Truly,
JOHN BERTRAM,
Chairman.

From the above letter it would seem that the reports industriously circulated in the Toronto papers to the effect that by the efforts of a Toronto gentleman the Commission had been induced to hold a meeting here are hardly correct and that the negotiations have been conducted through the proper medium, that of the Mayor of the town, in whose hands the matter will be safe.

ONLY BOXER BANNER NOW IN AMERICA

Is in Possession of Rev. W. E. Smith who is Well Known Here.

The gentleman referred to in the following article, taken from the Toronto Star, is well known here, and the flag referred to was shown here when Mr. Smith gave an address some months ago:—

The only Boxer flag in America, and one of the few which have been captured from the Chinese rebels, is in the possession of Rev. W. E. Smith, a returned Methodist missionary. He is home on furlough, and temporarily residing with his family on Davenport road.

The flag is a very interesting object. It is a three-cornered, triangular affair, green in colour, for the most part, with a fringe of red several inches wide around it. It is disfigured by hundreds of good-sized spots, and on enquiring of Mr. Smith it was found that these were blood stains. Some of these may possibly have splashed upon it during battle, for it was taken from the Boxers after a terrible defeat at the hands of Government troops near Chentu, Sze Chuen Province, but another explanation is more likely. The Boxers boast that before going into battle one of their number offers himself a willing sacrifice, and his blood is sprinkled over the flag to signify devotion to death on the part of all. The leader of the Government troops gave the trophy to Mr. Smith, who values it the more highly because Boxers destroy their colours rather than allow them to fall into the hands of the enemy.

Mr. Smith has a number of valuable curios in his collection. One which he parted with yesterday was a solid bronze goddess of Mercy, as worshipped by the Lolos, the aborigines of China. They are a separate race, speaking a tongue of their own, and live in settlements in various parts of China. They are a very exclusive people, and unfriendly to the Chinese, who have to maintain an armed force in their vicinity. It appears that the prices of curios have stiffened recently, since the Rothschilds attempted to "corner" the market. John Chinaman, who is a good business man, now stands out for better bargains.

HONOURS FOR FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN.

Mr. Robert Elder, Prominent in Masonic Circles in California.

A copy of the Modesto, California, Morning Herald, of a recent date, received by Mr. H. Rush, contains the following reference to Mr. Robt. Elder, a former citizen of Peterborough, which will be of special interest to his Masonic friends:—

Friday night at the rooms of the Masonic Lodge in Modesto, Modesto Chapter No. 49, R. A. M. and Stanislaus Lodge No. 206 F. and A. M., held a joint installation of officers and banquet which was an enjoyable and notable occasion in the history of the Orders, as well as one of the most pleasant lodge events ever held in this city. The first event of the evening was the combined installation of officers, for the R.A.M., P.G. H.P.A. Hewel assisted by P.H. P. Robt. Elder having charge of the installation rites; and Geo. T. McCabe, Inspector of the 36th Masonic District, assisted by Grand Marshal Robt. Elder, conducting the rites for the F. and A. M. Among the officers installed Mr. Elder's name appears as Marshal of Stanislaus Lodge, No. 206, F. and A.M.

Following the installation rites Attorney W. H. Hatton, in behalf of the lodge members, presented Robt. Elder and G. R. Stoddard each with a massive gold High Priest's emblem or badge, making an eloquent and touching presentation speech, which was feelingly responded to by Mr. Elder and Mr. Stoddard in turn. Mr. Elder has been High Priest for two years, retiring last night, while Mr. Stoddard filled a like office prior to the incumbency of Mr. Elder.

The emblems presented are massive gold triplet triangles, bearing in the centre a design emblolic of the breatplate worn by the old Jewish priests in the Tabernacle, its twelve subdivisions symbolic of the twelve tribes of Israel. The emblems were engraved on the reverse side with inscriptions signifying the regard of the lodge members for their past officers.

FOR BRITISH NAVY

Construction Program for Present Year is Outlined.

NAVY TO EQUAL ANY 2 POWERS

Total Estimates For This Significant Work Amount to $181,115,000—$58,270,880 Provided For New Construction—Orders Placed For Nine New Submarines To Ensure Security For People's Food.

London, Feb. 25.—The British naval estimates for 1904-05 total $181,115,000, a net increase of $12,-169,000 over the estimates for 1903-4. More than half the increase in the estimates is due to the determination to pay the entire balance due on the recently purchased Chilian battleships, on April 1, and to provide them with ammunition for the next year. The remainder of the increase arises from expansion of the fleet, increase in pay of the personnel and material.

The estimates provide for a total of $58,270,880 for new construction, of which $3,240,115 will be devoted to the commencement of new ships. The admiralty will devote $9,050,000 to the purchase of armor. Orders have already been placed for nine submarine vessels in this year's program, but the preparation of special designs for the tenth submarine has delayed the placing of the contract.

The construction will be begun during the present year of two battleships, four armored cruisers, ten submarine vessels and fourteen torpedo boat destroyers.

In submitting the estimates the Earl of Selbourne, First Lord of the Admiralty, said the admiralty was aware that the estimates were large, but Parliament must remember how great is the responsibility caused the board of admiralty in providing the country with a navy strong enough to sustain a struggle with the navies of any two powers, and to ensure reasonable security for the country's vast seaborne trade and the food supply of the people.

The Popular Vote of 1904

Is Unanimously in Favour of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—They are the Nation's Favourite.

No article on the market, whatever be the purpose for which it was created, can be a phenomenal success, and be universally popular, unless it possesses great and unfailing merit. Inferior and worthless articles may flourish for a limited time if their praises are sung by sufficiently clever and catchy advertising; but their days are numbered from the start, and their finish is a foregone conclusion. This is an age of the survival of the fittest and only articles of true merit endure.

The unparalleled and phenomenal success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from a business standpoint, is not unnatural and not surprising. It is due directly to their unparalleled and phenomenal success in curing multiplied thousands of cases of dyspepsia throughout the English-speaking world.

The reason of the wonderful success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is so plain and simple that a child can understand; it is this and nothing more; they are natural in their workings and effects. They take up the effects of the worn and wasted stomach, and do it just as the stomach did it when it was well and strong and able. They actually digest the food and do it thoroughly, completely and independently, thus giving the weak and weary stomach an opportunity to renew and regain its wasted strength. You forget that you have a stomach just as you did when you were a healthy boy or girl, and Nature restores and heals that organ and makes it well and strong.

A St. Louis business man says:—"I was a confirmed dyspeptic for years. What I ate had to be forced down as I most of it soured or lay like lead in my stomach and did me no good. I was in constant misery both in mind and body and came to be cranky, morose and irritable. My natural disposition, which was cheerful and pleasant, left me and I was alienating all my friends. The doctors did me no good. I got so I hated the sight or name of a doctor. My wife finally worried me into buying a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which I began taking under protest, as I had no faith in anything or anybody. I was sore on creation.

"I had not taken a third of that box before I noticed a decided and most welcome change. I could enjoy a good meal and feel no bad effects following it. I forgot my stomach and had a chance to think about something else. I went ahead with my business in ease and comfort. Six boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at a total outlay of $3.00 cured me completely and I have not suffered a pain from dyspepsia for two years. I have an appetite like a sixteen-year-old boy. I wish everyone who suffers from dyspepsia could know what a change this great remedy made in me."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by druggists everywhere at 50 cents a box. All druggists carry them and the best doctors are prescribing them. You need not fear that you will ever be unable to get them; for, because of the good they have done mankind and the suffering they have relieved and the happiness they have caused, the fame and the success and the popularity of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets from generation unto generation will endure.

IRENE COLE'S MURDER.

Crown Concludes Its Strong Circumstantial Case Against the Prisoner Kennedy Charged With the Crime.

Brantford, Feb. 25.—The Crown's case against Joseph Kennedy, charged with having outraged and murdered little Irene Cole last fall, was practically closed last night. Two days were consumed and some thirty witnesses have been examined. To-day the defence will begin the introduction of about the same number of witnesses. The prisoner hopes to escape by a partial alibi and the casting of suspicion upon the two tramps—Leonard and Jennings—who were in "The Willows" where the victim's body was found about the time the appalling crime was committed.

A strong case has been presented against the accused, but almost wholly circumstantial. Sentiment is divided as to the man's guilt, and probability of conviction. Mystery attaches to some phases of the case, and this veil may prove too strong to permit the return of a verdict that would mean death. The very enormity of the offence charged, therefore, may prove the salvation of the accused. If Joseph Kennedy is not guilty the tragedy in the Brantford willows will go down in criminal history as on a parallel with that which involved little Glory Whalen at Collingwood, a year ago. It is scarcely possible that the police will look for the murderer if Kennedy is discharged.

BIG PROFITS OF RAILWAYS.

Gross Earnings For One Year Nearly $100,000,000.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The gross earnings of Canadian steam railways in Canada for the fiscal year ending June 30 were $96,061,527, an increase of $12,398,024 over the year previous. The working expenses totaled $67,481,521, an increase of $10,137,932. The net earnings totaled $28,583,003, or $2,260,092 more. There were 22,148,742 passengers carried by steam railways, or 1,468,768 more than the previous year. There were 17,373,417 tons of freight carried, being a gain of 4,996,890 tons. The total mileage on July 1 was 19,077, of which 18,-711 miles were in operation. There were 209 miles built during the year.

Gross earnings of electric railways amounted to $7,228,677, a gain of $737,239 over the year previous. The working expenses were $1,472,-858, or $670,003 more than for the year ending June 30, 1902. The net earnings aggregated $2,760,819, as compared with $2,683,583. The passengers carried by electric railways totaled 155,662,812, a gain of 17,-981,410. There were 371,286 tons of freight carried, an increase of 105,104. The mileage on July 1 last was 729, showing that 201 miles were constructed during the year.

ONE POINT IS STOCK.

Grand Trunk Want Terms of Railway Contract Modified.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—(Globe Special.)—It is learned that one of the points of the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement with the Government of which modification is sought is in reference to the $25,000,000 of common stock to be held by the Grand Trunk. The agreement as worded would prevent money being raised on any part of this stock. It would be locked up in the company's vaults, but could not be hypothecated. It is not improbable that some modification of the agreement may have been consented to, in order to allow the Grand Trunk to pledge some part of the stock as security for money advanced.

PANAMA CANAL TREATY.

United States Gets Wide Strip Across the Isthmus.

Washington, Feb. 24.—The Panama treaty has been ratified. The vote was 66 to 14.

The United States exercises sovereignty over this territory, polices it and provides its law.

In return for these concessions the United States guarantees and will maintain the independence of the Republic of Panama.

Washington, Feb. 24.—As soon as he learned of the ratification by the United States Senate of the Panama canal treaty, M Bunau-Varilla, the Minister from Panama, sent the following cablegram to President Amador of the Republic of Panama: "The Senate has ratified the Hay-Varilla treaty. This great historical fact insures the completion of the Panama Canal and the protection of Panama Republic."

IDEA TO PROTECT INVESTORS

Would Also Supervise the Flotation of Companies and Civic Agreements With Companies Operating Public Utilities—Discussion in Legislature on the Companies Act—Debate on the Budget.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—A bill to amend the Ontario companies act, introduced by Mr. W. H. Hoyle, led to an interesting discussion in the Legislature yesterday afternoon on the necessity for further protecting the investing public. Mr Hoyle's bill was declared lost on a division, owing to the fact that it was not suited for inclusion in the present act. Incidentally the Attorney-General made the important suggestion that the House should consider whether the time had not arrived for the appointment of a Provincial board of experts of, say, three members, similar to the English Local Government Board, whose duty it would be to supervise the flotation of companies, examine into all agreements between municipalities and corporations operating public utilities, and deal with many other important questions that cropped up during the year. Several bills were advanced a stage, and at the evening session the budget debate was continued. A division probably will be reached to-night.

The Proceedings.

Dr. Jessop's motion, that a memorial be presented to the Dominion Government praying that the export of natural gas to the United States be prohibited, and Dr. Nesbitt's, declaring against the granting of aid to railways except on the express condition that the passenger rate upon such road shall not exceed two cents a mile, were allowed to stand until after the debate on the budget.

Dr. Routledge gave the House a description of the operation of docking a horse's tail, while asking that his bill to prohibit the practice be given a second reading.

The bill goes to the Agriculture Committee.

Mr. McKay's bill giving an officer of the law power to take a pedlar before a magistrate, if the pedlar cannot produce his license on the spot, was read a second time.

Several municipal act amendments, proposed by Messrs. Brown, Rickard, Preston, Beck and Fox, were referred to the Municipal Committee.

Col. Matheson again asked when the Temiskaming accounts would be submitted, and Mr. Latchford said they would be ready during the present week.

A deputation representing 23 county councils waited on the Government yesterday morning and opposed the proposal to return to the old method of electing county councils.

Investigation Suspended.

Toronto, Feb. 24.—The civic investigation has been temporarily abandoned, waiting the decision of Justice Britton on Richard Lane's injunction application. Judge Winchester declared that he did not feel like continuing the case while the proceedings were pending in a higher court. Mr. Riddell had Sam Thompson ready to go into the box.

There is Pneumonia on Every Hand.

Three Deaths in one Family Recently Arises From Neglected or Uncontrollable Colds.

Pneumonia is second only to consumption in the number of deaths which it causes and like consumption always has its beginning with a cold.

At this season you can scarcely glance over a paper without seeing the record of several deaths from this dread disease.

Cold in the head, fever and chills, a cough which gradually becomes dry, and more painful in the chest, rapid, difficult breathing, feelings of exhaustion and depression—these are symptoms of pneumonia.

You can prevent and cure pneumonia by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the greatest of all treatments for the throat and lungs.

The only safe way is to regard every cold as serious. Think of the dreadful possibilities which accompany every cold. Remember that pneumonia and consumption are the frequent outcome, and cure the cold before it gets beyond your control. By frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can quickly break up the cold and guard against dangerous developments. No treatment was ever so successful for this purpose.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine 25 cents a bottle, family size (three times as much) 60 cents, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Wilford Cameron coming here? What will he think of us, we are so quite 'done'?"

Wilford's letter had been delayed so that the morrow was the day appointed for his coming, and never was there a busier afternoon at the farm-house than the one which followed the receipt of the letter. Everything not spotlessly clean before was made so now. Aunt Betsy in her petticoat and short gown going down upon her knees to scrub the back door-sill, as if the city guest were expected to notice that. On Aunt Hannah and Mrs. Lennox devolved the duty of preparing for the wants of the inner man, while Helen and Katy bent their energies to beautifying their home and making the most of their plain furniture.

The "spare bed room," kept for company, was only large enough to admit the high-post bed, a single chair, and the old fashioned wash-stand, with the hole in the top for the bowl, and a drawer beneath for towels, and the two girls held a consultation as to whether it would not be better to dispense with the parlor altogether, and give that room to their visitor. But this was vetoed by Aunt Betsy, who, having finished the back door-sill, had now come round to the front, and with her scrubbing brush in one hand and her saucer of sand in the other, held forth upon the foolishness of the girls.

"Of course, if they had a beau, they'd want a t'other room, else where would they do their sparkin'?"

That settled it. The parlor must remain as it was, Katy said, and Aunt Betsy went on with her scouring, while Helen and Katy consulted together how to make the huge feather-bed more like the mattresses to which Wilford must be accustomed. Each head being the more suggestive, solved the problem first, and a large coal scuttle was brought from the box in the garret and folded carefully over the bed, which, thus hardened and flattened, "seemed like a mattress," Katy said, for she tried it, feeling quite well satisfied with the room when it was finished. And certainly it was not uninviting with its strip of bright carpeting upon the floor, its vase of flowers upon the stand, and its white fringed curtain sweeping back from the narrow window.

"I'd like to sleep here myself," was Katy's comment, while Helen offered no opinion, but followed her sister into the yard, where they were to sweep the grass and prune the early September flowers.

This afforded Aunt Betsy a chance to reconnoitre and criticise, which last she did unsparingly.

"What have them children been doin' to that bed? Put on a quilt, as I'm alive! It would break my back to lie there, and this Carmon is none of the youngest, accordin' to their tell, nigh onto thirty, if not turned. It will make his bones ache, of course. I am glad I know better than to treat visitors that way. The comforter may stay, but I'll be bound I'll make it softer!" And stealing up the stairs, Aunt Betsy brought down a second feather-bed, much lighter than the one already on, but still large enough to suggest the thought of smothering. This she had made herself, intending it as a part of Katy's "setting out," should she ever marry, and as things now seemed tending that way, it was only right, she thought, that Mr. Carmon, as she called him, should begin to have the benefit of it. Accordingly two beds, instead of one, were placed beneath the comfortable which Aunt Betsy permitted to remain.

"I'm mighty feared they'll find me out," she said, taking great pains in the making of her bed, and succeeding so well that when her task was done there was no perceptible difference between Helen's bed and her own except that the latter was a few inches higher than the former, and more nearly resembled a pincushion in shape.

There was but little chance for Aunt Betsy to be detected, for Helen, supposing the room to be in order, had dismissed it from her mind, and was training a rose over a frame, while Katy was on her way to Linwood in quest of various little things which Mrs. Lennox considered indispensable to the entertainment of a man like Wilford Cameron. Morris was out on his piazza, enjoying the fine prospect he had of the sun shining across the pond, on the Silverton hill, and just gilding the top of the little church nestled in the valley. At sight of Katy he rose and greeted her with the kind, brotherly manner now habitual with him, for he had learned to listen quite calmly while Katy talked to him, as she often did, of Wilford Cameron, never trying to conceal from him how anxious she was for some word of remembrance, and often asking if he thought Mr. Cameron would ever write to her. It was hard at first for Morris to listen, and harder still to keep back the passionate words of love trembling on his lips—to refrain from asking her to take him in Cameron's stead—him who had loved her so long. But Morris kept silence, and as the weeks went by there came insensibly into his heart a hope, or rather conviction, that Wilford Cameron had forgotten the little girl who might in time turn to him, gladdening his home just as she did every spot where her fairy footsteps trod. Morris did not fully know that he was hugging this fond dream until he felt the keen pang which cut like a dissector's knife as Katy, turning her bright, eager face up to him whispered softly: "He's coming to-morrow—he surely is; I have his letter to tell me so."

Morris could not see the sunshine upon the distant hills, although it lay there just as purple and warm as it had a moment before. There was an instant of darkness, in which the hills, the pond, the sun setting, and Katy seemed a great way off to Morris, trying so hard to be calm, and mentally asking for help to do so. But Katy's hat, which she swung in her hand, had become entangled in the vines encircling one of the pillars of the piazza, and so she did not notice him until all traces of his agitation were past, and he could talk with her concerning Wilford; then playfully lifting her basket he asked what she had come to get.

This was not the first time the great house had rendered a like service to the little house, and so Katy did not blush when she explained that her mother wanted Morris's forks, and salt-cellars, and spoons, and would he be kind enough to bring the caster over himself, and come to dinner to-morrow at two o'clock, and would he go for Mr. Cameron? The forks, and salt cellars, and spoons, and caster were cheerfully promised, while Morris consented to go for the guest; and then Katy came to the rest of her errand, the part distasteful to her, inasmuch as it concerned Uncle Ephraim—honest, unsophisticated Uncle Ephraim, who would come to the table in his shirt sleeves! This was the burden of her grief—the one thing she dreaded most, because she knew how such an act was looked upon by Mr. Cameron, who, never having lived in the country a day in his life, except as he was either guest or traveler, could not make due allowance for these little departures from refinement, so obnoxious to people of his training.

"What is it, Katy?" Morris asked, as he saw how she hesitated, and guessed her errand was not all told.

"I hope you will not think me foolish or wicked," Katy began, her eyes filling with tears, as she felt that she might be doing Uncle Ephraim a wrong by admitting that in any way he could be improved. "I certainly love Uncle Ephraim dearly, and I do not mind his ways, but—but—Mr. Cameron may—that is, oh, Cousin Morris, did you ever notice how Uncle Ephraim will persist in coming to the table in his shirt sleeves?"

"Persist is hardly the word to use," Morris replied, smiling comically, as he readily understood Katy's misgivings. "Persist would imply his having been often remonstrated with for that breach of etiquette; whereas I doubt whether the idea that it was not in strict accordance with politeness was ever suggested to him."

"May be not," Katy answered. "It was never necessary till now, and I feel so disturbed, for I want Mr. Cameron to like him, and if he does that I am sure he won't."

"Why do you think so?" Morris asked, and Katy replied: "He is so very particular, and was so very angry at a little hotel between Lakes George and Champlain, where we took our dinner before going on the boat. There was a man along—a real good-natured man, too, so kind to everybody—and, as the day was warm, he carried his coat on his arm, and sat down to the table right opposite me. Mr. Cameron was so indignant, and said such harsh things, which the man heard I am sure, for he put on his coat directly and I saw him afterward on the boat, sweating like rain, and looking so sorry, as if he had been guilty of something wrong. I am sure, though, he had not?"

This last was spoken interrogatively, and Morris replied: "There is nothing wrong or wicked in going without one's coat. Everything depends upon the circumstances under which it is done. For me to appear at table in my shirt sleeves would be very rude, but for an old man like Uncle Ephraim to do so is a very different thing. Still, Mr. Cameron may see from another standpoint. But I would not distress myself. That love is not worth much which would think the less of you for anything outre which Uncle Ephraim may do. If Mr. Cameron cannot stand the test of seeing your relatives as they are, he is not worth the long face you are wearing," and Morris pinched her cheek playfully.

Morris had little hope of breaking a habit of years, but he promised to try if an opportunity should occur, and as Mrs. Hull, the housekeeper, had by this time gathered up the articles required for the morrow, Morris took the basket in his own hands and went with Katy across the fields.

"God bless you, Katy, and may Mr. Cameron's visit bring you as much happiness as you anticipate," he said, as he set her basket upon the door-step and turned back without entering the house.

Katy noticed the peculiar tone of his voice, and again there swept over her the same thrill she had felt when Morris first said to her: "And did Katy like this Mr. Cameron?" but so far was she from guessing the truth that she only feared she might have displeased him by what she had said of Uncle Ephraim. Perhaps she had wronged him, she thought, and the good old man, resting from his hard day's toil, in his accustomed chair, with not only his coat, but his vest and boots cast aside, little guessed what prompted the caresses which Katy lavished upon him, sitting in his lap and parting his snowy hair, as if thus she would make amends for any injury done. Little Katy did he called her, looking fondly into her bright, pretty face and thinking how terrible it would be to see that face shadowed with pain and care. Somehow of late, Uncle Ephraim was always thinking of such a calamity as more than possible for Katy, and when that night she knelt beside him, his voice was full of pleading earnestness as he prayed that God would keep them all in safety, and bring to none of them more grief or pain than was necessary to fit them for himself. And Katy listened to him, remembering the talk down in the meadow, when she sat on the rock beneath the butternut tree. But the world, while it held Wilford Cameron, as he seemed to her now, was too full of joy for her to dread what the future might have in store for her, and so she arose from her knees, thinking only how long it would be before to-morrow noon, wondering if Wilford would surely be there next time their evening prayers were said, and if he would notice Uncle Ephraim's shocking grammar!

CHAPTER V.

Wilford had made the last change of cars, and when he stopped again it would be at Silverton. He did not expect any one to meet him, but as he remembered the man whom he had seen greeting Katy, he thought it not unlikely that he might be there now, laughing to himself as he pictured his mother's horror, could she see him riding along in the corn-colored vehicle which Uncle Ephraim drove. But that vehicle was safe at home beneath the shed, while Uncle Ephraim was laying a stone wall upon the huckleberry hill, and the handsome carriage waiting at Silverton depot was certainly unexceptionable; while in the young man who, as the train stopped and Wilford stepped out upon the platform, came to meet him, asking if he were Mr. Cameron, Wilford recognized the true gentleman, and his spirits rose at once as Morris said to him: "I am Miss Lennox's cousin, deputed by her to take charge of you for a time."

Wilford had heard of Dr. Morris Grant and of his kindness to poor little Jamie, who died in Paris; he had heard too that his proud sister Juno had tried her powers of coquetry in vain upon the grave American; but he had no suspicion that his new acquaintance was the one until Morris mentioned having met his family in France and inquired after their welfare.

After that the conversation became very familiar, and the ride seemed so short that Wilford was surprised when, as they turned a corner in the sandy road, Morris pointed to the farm-house, saying: "We are almost there—that is the place."

"That!" and Wilford's voice indicated his disappointment, for in all his mental pictures of Katy Lennox's home he had never imagined anything like this.

Large, rambling and weird-like, with something lofty and imposing, just because it was so ancient, was the house he had in his mind, and he could not conceal his chagrin as his eye took in the small, low building, with its high windows and tiny panes of glass, paintless and blindless, standing there alone among the hills. Morris understood it perfectly, but without seeming to notice it, remarked: "It is the oldest house probably in the country, and should be invaluable on that account. I think we Americans are too fond of change and too much inclined to throw aside all that remains of the past. Now I like the farm-house just because it is old and unpretentious."

"Yes, certainly," Wilford answered, looking ruefully around him at the stone wall, half tumbled down, the tall well-sweep, and the patch of sun-flowers in the garden, with Aunt Betsy bending behind them, picking potatoes for dinner, and shading her eyes with her hand to look at him as he drove up.

It was all very rural, no doubt, and very charming to people who liked it, but Wilford did not like it, and he was wishing himself safely in New York when a golden head flashed for an instant before the window and then disappeared as Katy emerged into view, waiting at the door to receive him and looking so sweetly in her dress of white with the scarlet geranium blossoms in her hair that Wilford forgot the homeliness of the surroundings, thinking only of her and how soft and warm was the little hand he held as she led him into the parlor. He did not know she was so beautiful, he said to himself, and he feasted his eyes upon her, forgetful for a time of all else. But afterwards, when Katy left him for a moment, he had time to observe the well-worn carpet, the six cane-seated chairs, the large stuffed rocking-chair, the fall-leaf table, with its plain wool spread, and lastly the really expensive piano, the only handsome piece of furniture the room contained, and which he rightly guessed must have come from Morris.

"What would Juno or Mark say?" he kept repeating to himself half shuddering as he recalled the bantering proposition to accompany him made by Mark Ray, the only young man whom he considered fully his equal in New York.

"I received your letter some time ago with advice about your wonderful medicine," writes Miss Stella Johnson, of 28 Brady Street, Dayton, Ohio. "I was troubled with severe pains every month when I wrote to you for advice. I was induced through a friend to write to you and follow your kind advice. I thank God and Dr. R. V. Pierce for the health I now enjoy. I shall urge other women who suffer as I did to use your medicine."

DEFENCE AN ALIBI

PRISONER'S WHEREABOUTS.

Pretty Well Accounted For From 12 Till 1.30 on the Day of the Murder In the American Hotel at Four O'Clock—Strong Testimony of a Cobbler—Mr. Fowler on the Willows Dyke.

Brantford, Feb. 26.—One of the most singular trials in Canadian jurisprudence will close to-day, when a jury will be asked to impose the death penalty on Joseph Kennedy, a tramp, for the murder of Irene Cole, an eight-year-old child. The Crown and defence have concluded their evidence. The arguments of Messrs Day, Wilkes and Heyd will probably consume Friday and the jury will receive the court's charge in the evening. The defence is an alibi of considerable strength. Kennedy was not put in the witness box.

Dr. Ellis of Toronto, who examined supposed blood stains on the clothes of the prisoner was the last witness for the Crown yesterday. Pieces of Kennedy's clothing on the day of the murder were sent to Dr. Ellis. The spots he unhesitatingly pronounced to be blood. The prisoner said this was the blood of a chicken he had killed that day. In this case Dr. Ellis thought he could swear that the samples were probably human blood.

This was the slender thread on which Kennedy's life was hung. Mr. Heyd, counsel for the prisoner, observed to the press men, shortly after his side of the case began, that the jury exhibited signs of sympathy, and he felt confident of an acquittal or a disagreement.

Among the witnesses were Robt. Hunter, Peter and George Scran, John Young, W. Morrow, John Melton, Jarvis Grigg, John Duncan, W. Clement, Charles Preley, Ben Spenser, Chas. Lewis, Clyde Bowman, Frank Fowler, Geo. Syninton, W. Beazley, M. J. Lawler, Fred Webber, D. Gladiator and Jailer Wilson.

An interesting witness was little Mamie Mattice, a child with big brown eyes and bright face, about the age of the murdered girl. She was a belated witness for the Crown. "He is the same man, except his face is not red," observed the little witness, deliberately looking straight at the jail-bleached prisoner.

Geo. Syninton, a cobbler, supplied information tending to establish an alibi. The murder is fixed between 1.30 and 3 p. m. Syninton relates that he was in a part of town remote from the scene of crime at 2 p.m. A man was sitting by the roadside reading. Trying a cobbler he noticed closely the man's boots. They were of the "old country" pattern. Being from the "old country" he looked the man over more closely—thought he might be an acquaintance. He did not see his face. A pair of coarse, well worn boots were exhibited. The witness said they were the same this man wore that day. They had been taken from the prisoner.

William Beazley, a barber, was certain the prisoner was in his shop between 1 and 2 the day of the crime. At 4 o'clock of that day John Duncan said the man was in his saloon.

Charles Preley saw Kennedy drinking in another saloon between 3 and 4. Wesley Clement verified Preley's statement.

D. Gladiator testified that he had seen and talked with the prisoner at 5 p.m. that day. He exhibited no signs of excitment. There was no blood on his clothing. M. J. Lawler at 4.30 saw the prisoner in a saloon. This must have been less than two hours after the child was killed, but the witness observed nothing unusual in his condition.

J. C. Drummond, caretaker of the Y.M.C.A., said that between 12 and 3 that day Kennedy had been in the rooms and had secured from him a pen and ink. He was there from 1.30 to 2. He was sure of this. This would unquestionably establish an alibi. Drummond made an excellent witness. He is a mechanic. For a week he was confined in jail for fighting. There he met the man whose life his testimony is calculated to save.

Joseph Simpson swore he had seen the man in the Woobine Hotel at 1.30 the day of the murder.

Frank Fowler testified that he went along the dyke at 1.15 on the afternoon of the crime.

The significance of Mr. Fowler's evidence is that the witness somewhat resembles the prisoner, Kennedy, being similar in features, of florid complexion, but of slightly lighter build. At 1 o'clock, witness left his house on Park avenue and proceeded along Erie avenue and mounted the dyke. Going along he saw Mrs. Page in her yard pulling cabbages, but he did not see her at first. Witness went along to a point in the rear of Cole's yard and then went back and again looked in Page's yard to see if Mr. Page was there. He had just come out of the house. In passing Potter's yard he saw the two Potter children playing together. This was about 1.15, the witness judging the hour by the time it took him to walk from his house. He saw no one else on the dyke.

After the murder witness thought it his duty to report the affair to the magistrate and he did.

The witness touched his hat while on the dyke and when he did so the Potter children stared steadily at him. He had a gun in his hand, but it was hidden by the bushes. He proceeded down the dyke and some distance below met W. Secord.

VOTE STOOD 47 TO 44.

End of the Budget Debate in the Legislature Hon. Mr. Gibson Explains—Mr. Whitney Concludes Debate.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—The Legislature reached the end of the budget debate last night at 7 o'clock, and the vote, which was taken on an amendment by Mr. Foy disapproving of the payment of salaries to the officers at the "Soo," resulted in a Government majority of three. The vote stood 47 to 44.

Mr. Milton Carr opened the afternoon session, making a short and amusing speech, in which he dealt chiefly with the Temiskaming Railway.

Mr. Foy confined his remarks largely to the budget, claiming that it was not sufficiently specific, and that no idea could be obtained from it of the exact condition of the Province's finances.

Hon. J. M. Gibson spoke for about half an hour, during which he justified the Government's action in paying the wages of the officers of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, and showed that the Province was amply protected and could not lose a cent. The Government was to some extent concerned in the reorganization plans. He believed they would be successful, and if so the Government's duty would be to bring down a proposition to the House for its approval in that connection. Mr. Whitney wound up the debate. To-day's session will be taken up with non-contentious matters, and on Monday Mr. Pettypiece is expected to introduce his railway taxation bill.

While in committee the House passed an item of $3,640, for Government House and adjourned.

MR. BELCOURT FOR SPEAKER.

A Coming Honor For the Liberal Member For Ottawa.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—The Prime Minister has not yet indicated who is to be the Government choice for Speaker, but there is little doubt that the honor is in store for Mr. N. A. Belcourt. The Liberal member for Ottawa will make a worthy successor to Mr. Brodeur, who was undoubtedly one of the best Speakers Canada has had since confederation. Mr. Belcourt has now been several years in Parliament, and is thoroughly familiar with the rules of procedure and the work of the House. He has a charming personality, and speaks French and English fluently. Mrs. Belcourt will give her husband excellent support in the social duties attached to the office.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—The Deputy Minister of Finance, J. M. Courtney, is on his way to England to arrange for meeting Dominion 4 per cent. loans that are falling due on April 1 and May 1. The aggregate amount of these loans is in round numbers $20,000,000.

SECOND ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR

Admiral Togo's Fleet Gave Battle Again on Thursday.

A THIRD ATTACK IS EXPECTED

Russian Official Reports Declare the Attack Was Everywhere Repulsed—Japs Say Nothing But Shoot Shells and Torpedoes—Kuropatkin Intends to Exterminate the Japs Who Left Their Country.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—6 p.m.—Rumors are in circulation here this afternoon to the effect that a bombardment of Port Arthur is now going on.

Japs Everywhere Repulsed.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—6.32 p. m.—Major-General Pflug (the chief of staff of Viceroy Alexieff) telegraphs as follows under to-day's date: "The enemy again attacked Port Arthur from 1 to 3 a.m. and was everywhere repulsed. Details follow."

To Bottle Up the Fleet.

Following the despatch of Major-General Pflug saying the Japanese has again attacked Port Arthur Thursday morning and had been repulsed, Viceroy Alexieff has sent an identical report to the Czar. The fact that the Japanese have renewed the attack is interpreted here to mean that they are determined to bottle up or destroy the Russian fleet at Port Arthur in order to give themselves freedom for land manoeuvres to cut off or invest the city, or as a feint to cover a movement elsewhere.

Third Attack Expected.

Paris, Feb. 26.—In a despatch from St. Petersburg, a correspondent of The Echo de Paris says the last, or second, Japanese attack at Port Arthur was repulsed brilliantly. He says the Japanese were again obliged to quit the roadstead. It is presumed that the entire squadron joined in the second attack hoping to avenge the repulse of the preceeding day. The Japanese are supposed to have incurred further losses during this long fight. Admiral Stark has telegraphed that he expects a third attack.

War to the Death.

Continuing, the correspondent says that Gen. Kuropatkin had started for his home to take leave of his mother before going to the East, and he quotes the general as having said: "This war may last eighteen months, but every arrangement has been made that no Japanese after having landed shall return to his country."

These reports may safely be taken with much latitude, as they came wholly through Russian sources, and Russian reports of victories have an irritating way of starting off big but being whittled down fine as the days go by.

BURNED A WHOLE VILLAGE.

Pekin, Feb. 26.—Private advices from Newchwang confirm the reports of the ill-treatment of Japanese refugees at the hands of the Russians while they were journeying through Manchuria, and declare, moreover, that some of the refugees were without doubt cruelly murdered. The Russian soldiery at Newchwang is so undisciplined that that place is unfit for European women.

Even Women Were Killed.

London, Feb. 26.—In a cablegram from Shanghai, a correspondent of The Daily Mail reports the arrival there of the Japanese cruisers Idsumo, Sama and Akitsushima.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of The Standard sends in a report from a native source that the Russians have burned a large village, including the women, in revenge for an attempt to wreck the Sungari bridge.

Admiral Togo Succeeded.

London, Feb. 26.—No further news of an attack at Port Arthur after the engagement in which the Japanese attempted to block the harbor entrance, has reached London. English newspapers, in discussing Viceroy Alexieff's reports, incline to the belief that Admiral Togo succeeded in making the channel impassable for large battleships, even if it is still free to smaller craft, and presume that the reported second attack, if it did occur, was devoted to an attempt to sink further obstacles to navigation.

Canadian Order of Foresters.

Brantford, Feb. 26.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian order of Foresters yesterday afternoon the following officers were chosen: John A. Stewart, Perth, Ont., high chief ranger; Clevis Laporte, Montreal, high vice-chief ranger; George Faulkner, Ottawa, high secretary. The change was necessitated owing to the death of the late Thomas White, high secretary.

In consequence, we are in a position to offer all the following lines of Cotton Goods practically.

At Old Prices

PRINTS	WASH FABRICS
GINGHAMS	LAWNS
PRINTED DUCK	MUSLINS
FACTORY COTTONS	SHEETINGS

COREAN ARMY TO JOIN THE JAPS.

New Development in the Campaign in the Far East.

LAST PORT ARTHUR ATTACK.

Viceroy Alexieff Tells the Story of the Engagement in a Report to the Czar—Japanese Forced Russian Cruisers to go Into the Inner Harbour—Torpedo Boats at Pigeon Bay Bombarded.

Seoul, Feb. 27.—The Corean Government has decided to order the Corean troops to join the Japanese forces in the field. The port of Wiju was opened to foreign trade last night. The limitations to be placed on trade and other matters will be passed later. The action necessitates a harbor. Yongampho has been decided upon. There are 17,000 of troops in the Corean standing army, 8,000 of them in Seoul, 5,000 on the northern frontier, and the rest are scattered throughout the country. They are well armed with 10,000 of the latest pattern Japanese rifles, 10,000 Gras rifles, and an equal number of an older pattern Russian rifle.

ALEXIEFF REPORTS.

Russian Story of the Latest Attack on Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—(2 a.m.)—A copy of a telegram from the Viceroy of the Far East, Admiral General Adjutant Alexieff, to His Majesty the Emperor, has just been given out. It is dated Feb. 25. The place whence it is sent is not stated, but it is supposed to be Mukden. The message is as follows:

"A squadron of the enemy's vessels, numbering sixteen, approached the fortress at about 11 o'clock this morning and opened a bombardment on the cruisers Askold, Bayan and Novik, which were in the outer harbor, and also on the fortress. The firing continued for half an hour. Then our cruisers went into the harbor. The enemy fired for several minutes on one of our batteries and then began to leave. They stopped within sight of the fort, but out of range of fire.

"At this time four of the enemy's cruisers detached themselves from the squadron and proceeded to Pigeon Bay, where they quickly opened fire on our torpedo boats that were cruising there. They directed also a strong cannonade against the shore. The commandant consequently sent troops to Pigeon Bay. The firing there lasted for thirty minutes, but no landing was made. The Japanese cruisers then departed. Several measures have been taken to oppose a possible effort on the part of the enemy to creep up by sea.

"(Signed) Alexieff."

Jap Torpedo Boat Sunk.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—Viceroy Alexieff again reports to the Czar concerning the attack on Feb. 24. He then adds: "On the night of Feb. 25 our torpedo boats proceeded seawards. The same night the Japanese torpedo boats again reappeared in the roads, and the battleship Retvizan and the fort batteries opened fire on them. Battery No. 18 reports having sunk one of the enemy's torpedo boats."

Landing Expected Soon.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—A despatch received here from Port Arthur, dated Feb. 26, says: "At 1 o'clock yesterday morning several Japanese torpedo boats were sighted from here with their sails set for the purpose of disguising their character. The battleship Retvizan and the shore batteries opened fire on them, and continued firing until daybreak without any visible results. After daybreak a Japanese squadron, apparently convoying transports, were sighted at 11.15. This squadron came nearer, and an engagement, which lasted forty minutes ensued. There was no damage, few shells fell in Port Arthur. It is expected here that the Japanese will attempt a landing soon."

Pending the receipt of the official report of Vice-Admiral Togo, the navy declines to make any announcement regarding the affair. The five merchant vessels, which were prepared for sinking were the Jinsen Maru, 7,331 tons, the Tien Tsin Mari, 2,193 tons, the Hokoku Maru, 2,776 tons, the Buyo Maru, 1,609 tons, and the Bunshik Maru, 1,399 tons. Each carried five men, two steering and three firing and running engines.

TOGO'S "BOTTLE" TRICK.

Japanese Got Off Easy in a Dangerous Though Exciting Attempt.

Tokio, Feb 27.—Vice-Admiral Togo's attempt to bottle up the Russian fleet at Port Arthur by sinking a fleet of stone-laden merchant steamers in the mouth of the harbor, evidently failed, though the venture caused no loss of life, and the vessels lost were of no great value.

Five ships were prepared by Vice-Admiral Togo for the attempted blockade. Four are reported to have been sunk, but the fate of the fifth is unknown here. It is presumed that it withdrew with the other Japanese vessels. The five vessels were filled with stones, so as to make the obstruction permanent, and were manned by volunteer merchant crews.

Accompanied by four battleships, nine cruisers and numerous vessels of the torpedo flotilla, the stone-laden steamers reached Port Arthur on Wednesday. While the fleet engaged the shore batteries, the steamers made a dash for the mouth of the harbor, directly under the Russian guns. Details of the attack have not been received, but it is evident that the Russian's fire sank the steamers before they reached the points planned for their foundering by the Japanese.

It is said that all the crews of the four vessels escaped in boats and were picked up by the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers. The report that two of the torpedo boat destroyers were sunk by the Russians is denied. The naval department has received a brief despatch from the commander of one of the torpedo boat destroyers, saying that no lives and no warships were lost, and that no damage was inflicted by the Russians.

Loaded With Kerosene.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—An inspection of the Japanese fire-ships sent into this harbor, Feb. 24, shows they were loaded with coal and kerosene, and that electrical infernal machines had been placed in the midst of their cargoes.

Mines Have Stopped a British Boat.

Aden, Arabia, Feb. 27.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer stopped and boarded the British India Company's steamer Mombassa in the Red Sea, Feb. 22. The destroyer fired a gun, which the Mombassa disregarded, but a second shot caused the liner to stop. A Russian officer boarded the Mombassa, and examined her papers, after which she was allowed to proceed.

North Squadron Moves.

Paris, Feb. 27.—The Times' St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs that the warships Poltava, Novik, Askold and Diana have completed the repairs necessitated by the injuries they sustained in the first battle off Port Arthur. He adds that all the ships damaged are now available for active service, and that the Vladivostock squadron makes frequent sorties from that port, which remains open. Admiral Makaroff is expected to arrive at Port Arthur about March 1.

Czar to Kuropatkin.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—A stirring manifesto to the army was issued by the Czar yesterday in the form of a message to Gen. Kuropatkin, the commander-in-chief of the Russian army in the Far East.

FOUR MILLIONS LOST.

Bad Day For Rochester—Retail Drygoods District Razed to the Ground By Fire.

Rochester, N.Y., Feb. 27.—The sun set last night, with ten engines pouring streams of water on the ruins of what was practically the retail drygoods district of this city, for three out of five of the department stores were consumed in yesterday morning's disastrous fire, the largest of which was the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co.

Insurance men are still figuring on the loss, which they now place at $4,000,000. Of this amount, $750,000 represents the loss on buildings and the balance the loss on stocks of goods and to occupants of offices. In addition, it is estimated that 2,500 people are thrown out of work, temporarily at least.

The burned district lies on the north side of Main street, between St. Paul street and Clinton avenue, north, running from St. Paul street almost the entire length of the block. The fire started on the eastern end of the block, in the store of the Rochester Drygoods Co., and worked west, taking but one store east of this establishment, that of the Walkover Shoe Co., before its progress was checked in that direction. Next west was the store of the Beadle Sherburne Co., which was destroyed, then the Marble block, occupied by the Lindsay, Sibley & Curr Co., also destroyed, and finally, the 13-storey granite building, the lower part of which was occupied by the Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co. and the upper part by offices. Only the front wall of the Marble building was standing last night. The shell of the Granite building is intact, and the floors are in place, but the building was gutted.

Assistant Chief Frank A. Jaynes was struck by a flying nozzle and received some bruises.

Granite building, $300,000; Marble building, $75,000; Buell estate, $20,000; Cornwall building, $60,000; Kirley building, $35,000; Walkover Shoe Co., $10,000; Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., $250,000.

The loss on the stock was as follows:

Sibley, Lindsay & Curr Co., retail, $250,000; wholesale, $1,250,000; tenants in Granite building, $200,000; Beadle & Sherburne Co., $350,000; Rochester Drygoods Co., $150,000.

The smaller losses foot up to $80,000.

Business Portion Wiped Out.

Scranton, Feb. 27.—Fire yesterday destroyed the business portion of the town of Nicholson, 20 miles west of here. Seventeen buildings, all of them frame structures, were burned, causing a loss estimated at $40,000. An overheated stove was the cause of the fire.

Infant Was Burned.

Bracebridge, Feb. 27.—The home of E. A. Pelletier, the oldest building in town, was burned yesterday. Two were saved, but an infant, two months' old, was burned to death. The loss is placed at $2,000.

Two Burned to Death.

Sherrington, Que., Feb. 27.—E. Beaudin, aged 75, and his brother, aged 83, were burned to death here Thursday.

A QUEBEC EXPERIMENT.

Public Ownership in Drunkards May Lead to Their Reform.

Quebec, Que., Feb. 27.—Hereafter a new system will be practiced in connection with drunkards frequently brought before the recorder's court. An approbation system has been adopted, which will offer one a cure for drunkenness at no cost, the expense being borne by the Provincial Government. A prisoner before the court for drunkenness will be offered a treatment for the drink mania and an officer appointed to see that the directions are followed. The patient may take the cure while at work, sentence being suspended by the court in the meantime. The system has worked successfully in the United States and other countries.

STARVATION AT PORT ARTHUR.

City of Dalny Practically Deserted—French Minister at Seoul is Given His Passports—Latest War Despatches.

(Special G. N. W. Des Maguire Wires.)

Chefoo, February 27. — Several Japanese officers and sailors landed here from an open boat early to-day. They refused to give any information as to whence they came. At the Japanese consulate it was given out that they belonged to a gun boat which was damaged in a fight off Port Arthur, and which sank trying to reach this port.

Rome, Feb. 27.—A despatch from Chefoo says it is reported there that twenty Japanese ships have begun a blockade of Vladivostock.

London, Feb. 27.—St. Petersburg sends a report to the effect that the Japanese Minister at Seoul has requested the Corean Government to hand the French Minister his passports.

Harbin, Feb. 27.—Only fifteen inhabitants remain in Dalny. It is stated that the Japanese intend to bombard the city. The Chinese who remain at Port Arthur are starving. After the bold attempt of the Japanese to block the channel at Port Arthur a great naval fight took place. It is stated here that 28 fighting vessels were in the Japanese fleet. The attack last fourteen hours, but the Japanese failed to achieve their purpose, being repulsed by the forts. Several Japanese vessels were sunk.

LORD MORPETH'S SUCCESS.

The Liberal-Unionists Retain South Birmingham—Largest Majority on Record.

London, Feb. 27.—(C.A.P.)—The Conservative press glows to-day over the victory of Lord Morpeth in the South Birmingham bye-election. The main issue of the election was a preferential tariff to the colonies. The Morning Posts calls attention to the fact that majority of 3,076 is the largest on record.

The London Daily News and The Chronicle say there is no denying that the influence of Mr. Chamberlain won the election.

South Birmingham has been represented by a Liberal-Unionist since 1886.

THE SESSION.

The vote on Thursday night last, which closed the debate on the Budget, marked the end of the sixth week of the session. The length of time thus consumed in what was principally mere talk, was largely due to the tactics of the Opposition. True there were good and pertinent speeches delivered on both sides of the House, but it is safe to say that at least two-thirds, or at least a very large proportion, of the speeches of the Opposition, either on the address in reply, or on the Budget debate, were not directed in the slightest degree to the subject in hand. They introduced immaterial subjects and side issues, more or less trivial, and largely controversial. The extravagance of statement which characterized them, naturally provoked, and demanded, reply on the part of Government members, and the debate therefore of necessity, trailed away in byways, and was thus unnecessarily and unprofitably prolonged. Nor did the Opposition evolve any new ideas or subjects worthy of serious consideration. They contented themselves with threshing out old straw, revamping exploded scandals, etc., etc. This attitude on the part of the Opposition, practically amounted to an election eering expedient, for there was l le or no hope that the issue on w ich a division was demanded, would operate to the detachment of any members of the Government from their allegiance. The chief object to be served was, it is not unfair to assume, to have reported Opposition campaign speeches made in the House. The amendment on which the division was taken, which objected to the action of the Government in regard to the payment of the "Soo" workmen, deserved the defeat sustained; for it was well justified by the circumstances. The Govern did not expend in the payment of the back wages of workmen engaged in the "Soo" industries, one cent of the public money. The banks advanced the funds on the strength of the Government guarantee, and the province has the most ample security for the repayment of the moneys advanced. As Attorney-General Gibson pointed out, the province holds as security the lands granted to the Algoma Central Railway, but not yet handed over. These lands have been very greatly increased in value by the construction of the railway and have a value far in excess of the amounts the province authorized the banks to pay on account of wages to the "Soo" workmen.

MISREPRESENTATIONS OF THE OPPOSITION.

In default of legitimate and valid grounds of fault finding, the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature grasp at any triviality no matter how unfounded, in order to try to make good a charge. So anxious have they shown themselves to be in this regard, that they rush into positions where they become lost. They fail to inform themselves as to facts, assuming for truth anything that will, in their view, serve to embarass the Government, or discredit the Liberal party. In dense or wilful ignorance of the matters they criticise they replace reliable knowledge with reckless misrepresentations.

A case in point. On Tuesday Mr. D. Sutherland, M.P.P., for South Oxford, in a desperate attempt to discredit the Government, and, especially, Hon. Mr. Stratton, during the course of his speech in the budget debate, Mr. Sutherland read what he said was an extract from the Wine and Spirit Journal, stating that the Provincial Secretary was to address a series of meetings throughout the province in the interests of the liquor dealers, and endeavoured to create the impression in the House that the Provincial Secretary of Ontario was so deeply interested as to go to the extent of addressing meetings in the liquor interest. Mr. Sutherland should have known — if he did not, he should have informed himself —that the Provincial Secretary referred to in the extract he read, was not Hon. Mr. Stratton, but the Provincial Secretary of the Licensed Victuallers' Association. It was only when this was pointed out by the Provincial Secretary of Ontario, Mr. Stratton, that the member for South Oxford was shamed into apologizing to the Legislature, and withdrawing the statement as applying to Mr. Stratton. But the misrepresentation had been launched, and some part of the purpose of Opposition tactics s rved. This is a sample of the misrepresentation the opposition resort to in order to discredit a Minister of the Government.

Another example of misleading insinuation, founded on neglect to learn the truth, was the suggestion in the House of Mr. Eilber, of South Huron, that the boys at the Penetanguishene Reformatory, should be employed to reforest the province. His lack of knowledge is exhibited by this suggestion. Mr. Eilber should have known — if he did not, he should have informed himself before speaking—that all the boys at the Reformatory are usefully employed. A certain number of hours daily is given to school work, under two teachers. When not in the school rooms, the lads are put at occupations intended to teach them useful trades — some in the bakeshop, some in the laundry, some in the carpenter shop, and some at tailoring — making the clothing for the inmates—some at gardening and some at farming. It is thus seen that these lads are taught useful trades, and that on leaving the Reformatory they will be more or less fully equipped (according to the length of detention) with trades. The boys at the Reformatory are kept fully occupied in acquiring knowledge that will permit them a livelihood, and become useful citizens, instead of being a burden upon society, and the province. Yet Mr. Eilber, by his remarks, sought, or at least the tenor of his remarks was, to create the impression that the boys in the Reformatory were maintained in idleness.

Here we have two samples of the tactics of the Opposition in dealing with public questions. When there is not deliberate misrepresentation of the acts of the Government, there is, what amounts to the same thing, misleading comment founded upon culpable ignorance of the matters with which they attempt to deal.

RAILROAD MAN HAD HIS TRIALS

Was run Down and Laid up, and the Great Kidney Remedy Made him Strong and Vigorous Again.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 26. — (Special) —One of the best known and most popular locomotive engineers running out of Winnipeg on the C. P. R., is Mr. Ben Rafferty, who lives at 175 Maple street. And Mr. Rafferty gives some advice to railway men that in these days of blockades and strain and worry none can afford to overlook. That advice is "use Dodd's Kidney Pills." Mr. Rafferty says:

"Years of long runs on the railway had broken down my constitution. My back gave out entirely, sharp cutting pains would follow one another, till I felt as if I was being sliced away piece meal.

"I would come in from a run tired to death. My sole desire would be to get rest and sleep, and they were the very things that I could not get. Finally I got so bad I had to lay off work.

"After being laid up for ten days I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. The first night after using them I slept soundly. In three days I had thrown away the belt I had used for years and now I have not the slightest pain in the back. I sleep soundly and wake up joyous and refreshed, and Dodd's Kidney Pills did it."

SOO REORGANIZATION.

Province Guarantees Loan of $2,000 000 —Starts With $9,000,000 Capital—Will Have $1,000,000 Cash.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—By an arrangement with the Ontario Government, the Consolidated Lake Superior Company will emerge from its financial troubles within a very few days, and by the opening of navigation the rehabilitation of the vast industrial enterprises at Sault Ste. Marie will be an accomplished fact. This eminently satisfactory statement was made last night by the gentlemen connected with the reorganization.

The Government has decided to guarantee a loan of $2,000,000 for two years, and to this end Premier Ross will introduce a bill in the Legislature on Monday or Tuesday "to aid the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway." Notice of the bill was given by the Premier in the Legislature on Friday.

This will give the reorganized company $9,000,000 to put the concern on its feet again. In order to lift the Speyer loan about $5,500,000 will be required. This provides for the original $5,050 000 and the accrued interest. The capitalization of the rehabilitated organization will be as follows: Capital stock, $40,000,000; income bonds, $3,000,000.

The company will start afresh with a cash working capital of $1,000,000; materials on hand, $1,000,000; first mortgage bonds in the treasury, $2,000,0000.

All debts will be funded with fixed charges of about annually, $600,000.

Already Had Experience.

Stories about the late Lord Salisbury not knowing some of his Parliamentary supporters recall the fact that Lord John Russell, when British Prime Minister many years ago, made the acquaintance of the late Earl of Stair, then Lord Dalrymple, at a country house, and was immensely taken with his amiable manners. "I am very pleased to have made your acquaintance," he said, shaking him warmly by the hand. "You must come into the House of Commons and support me there." "I have been doing that for the last ten years," was the quiet rejoinder.—M.A.P.

The Grip Leaves Thousands in its Path
Weak, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Catarrh Wrecks.

"For Grip and the after effects like debility, nervousness, dyspepsia and other catarrhal conditions resulting from the Grip, in the entire Materia Medica I have found no remedy that equals Peruna for prompt action."—Dr. S.B. Hartman, President The Hartman Sanitarium.

From N.Y. Journal. "During the recent Grip epidemic, claiming a million victims or more, the efficiency of Peruna in quickly relieving this malady and its after-effects has been the talk of the continent."

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks.

Victims of catarrh of the head, catarrh of the throat, catarrh of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the pelvic organs, are to be counted by hundreds of thousands. Grip is epidemic catarrh, and sows the seed of chronic catarrh within the system.

This is so true that few grip sufferers are able to make a complete recovery until they have used Peruna.

Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal eulogies as Peruna.

A New York Alderman's Experience.

Hon. Joseph A. Flinn, alderman Fifth District, writes from 104 Christopher street, New York City, as follows:

"When a pestilence overtakes our people we take precaution as a nation to preserve the citizens against the dread disease.

"La grippe has entered thousands of our homes this fall, and I noticed that the people who used Peruna were quickly restored, while those who depended on doctor's prescriptions, spent weeks in recovering, leaving them weak and emaciated.

"I had a slight attack of la grippe and at once took Peruna, which drove the disease out of my system in a few days and did not hinder me from pursuing my daily work.

"I should like to see our Board of Health give it official recognition and have it used generally among our poor sick people in Greater New York."—Joseph A. Flinn.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barber's Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be affected badly all over. I suffered with a severe backache, indigestion and numerous ills, so I could neither eat nor sleep, and I thought I would give up my work, which I could not afford to do.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. I used it faithfully and felt a marked improvement. During the next two months I took five bottles, and then felt splendid. Now my head is clear, my nerves steady, I enjoy food, and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Mr. O. H. Perry, Atchison, Kansas, writes:

"Again, after repeated trials of your medicines, Peruna and Manalin, I give this as my expression of the wonderful results of your very valuable medicine in its effects in my case after repeated trials.

"First, it cured me of chronic bronchitis of fifteen years' standing by using two bottles of Peruna in January, 1894, and no return of it.

"After I was cured of bronchitis I had la grippe every winter for several winters. But, through the use of Peruna, it got gradually weaker in its severity, until it dwindled down to a mere stupor for two or three days. Now the stupor does not trouble me any more."—O. H. Perry.

A Congressman's Experience.

House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.
Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.
Gentlemen—"I am more than satisfied with Peruna, and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."
Very respectfully, George H. White.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip,) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Workman Instantly Killed.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 27.—A fatal accident occurred at the Junckes Machine Works yesterday. Several men were working on a derrick swung with a large piece of steel placing it in position in the Ontario Power Company's water conduit, when something went wrong with the boom. It gave way, falling with its load to the ground, catching one of the men, William Flynn, from St. Philippe, Que., crushing his head, and killing him instantly.

Will you help a Sick Friend?

Get My Book for Him Now.

Which Shall I Send?

Book 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book 2 on the Heart.
Book 3 on the Kidneys.
Book 4 for Women.
Book 5 for Men (sealed.)
Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Send me no money.

Only tell me which book to send.

You certainly know of someone who is sick—some sufferer who will be grateful for the help that my book offers.

And that book tells of a way to help. Tells of a way so certain that I, as a physician, offer that help on trial. The book tells how for 30 years in hospitals and at bedsides I searched for a way to cure deep-seated and difficult diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began. Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves.

That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the real truth of my discovery, the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me. Now by any sick one

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Can be taken at my risk. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk. Send no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do.

No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this if you are at all sick. If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it. Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help.

Get my book now—to-day. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

A GRUESOME TOPIC

Disposal of Unclaimed Bodies at Charitable Institutions.

DOCTORS ALL OPPOSE CHANGE

Mr. Hislop's Bill Discussed in the House, and the Proper Provision of "Subjects" for Medical Colleges Received an Airing. Mr. Sam Clarke Thought Chances of "Body-Snatching" Preferable to Present Law.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The disposal of the bodies of indigent persons formed the only topic of discussion in the Legislature yesterday. It was introduced by Mr. Hislop, who asked for the second reading of his bill to amend the Ontario Anatomy Act, which provides that in case of the death of an inmate of a house of refuge the body shall not be delivered to the inspector of anatomy without the consent of the warden or other head of the municipality and the inspector of the house of refuge and these officers may, in lieu of delivering the body to the inspector of anatomy, make an order for the burial, and the costs shall be paid by the county or municipality. Mr. Hislop briefly explained the provisions of the amendment, and asked for its adoption.

Interested in "Subjects."

Dr. Willoughby, in opposing the bill, said it would necessitate medical schools resorting to the old practice of procuring subjects for the dissecting room. No hardship resulted from the present practice.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said he had a good deal of sympathy for the bill, but if it went into effect the medical colleges would be deprived of 50 per cent. of their subjects for dissection. When a request was made by an inmate of a house of refuge that his or her body be not sent to the School of Anatomy that request was respected.

Dr. Barr thought the bill ought to be withdrawn, and the Attorney-General, while agreeing that the discretion should not be given to the warden, said the committee might be able to get some valuable ideas from the bill.

Dr. Reaume advised the House to drop the sentimental aspect of the question, and Mr. Sam Clarke thought body-snatching was better than the present method, because the subject stolen from the grave had no previous knowledge that he would not be decently buried. He had not heard of any doctors bequeathing their own bodies to medical schools in the interest of science.

The bill went to the committee.

Two other bills were given a second reading, one by Mr. Dickenson to amend the Statute Law Amendment Act; the other, also by Mr. Dickenson, "respecting innkeepers." The latter provides that every keeper of a livery or boarding stable shall have a lien on every horse or vehicle left with him for his reasonable charges for board and caring Common School Lands Receipts.

In reply to a question of Mr. Reid, as to the receipts from common school lands since Confederation, Premier Ross gave the following information: Total receipts, 1867-1903, $1,383,819; the amount retained for management, $83,030; distributed to municipalities re. land improvement fund, $240,021; of the $121,685 held by the Dominion in trust for the land improvement fund, $123,368 had been paid out to the municipalities between 1882 and 1887, and interest was also paid in 1886-7, to the amount of $94,475.

Interest Withheld By Dominion.

Premier Ross replied in detail to Mr. Foy's request for information as to the amounts of interest withheld by the Dominion Government 1900 to 1903. These were: 1900, $31,827, 1901, $90,499; 1902, $92,200. For 1903 and up to the present in 1904 the interest had been paid in full. The amounts so withheld had been applied by the Dominion in diminishing the debt owed by Ontario.

Mr. Backus' Associates.

In reply to Col. Matheson, Hon. Mr. Davis said the department had received no official knowledge as to the parties associated with E. W. Backus of Minneapolis in the purchase of the water power at Fort Francis on the Rainy River for $5,000. The department had no knowledge of any member of the Legislature being interested in the agreement.

Foul Brood Act.

In reply to Mr. Eilber the Minister of Agriculture said the department had received from the secretary of the Ontario Bee-Keepers' Association a copy of suggested amendments to the Foul Brood Act, but no decision has yet been reached. Complaints had been received of a lack of enforcements of the present law, notably in the Counties of Norfolk and Simcoe.

No Change in Pulp Agreements.

Mr. Foy asked: Has the Lieutenant-Governor in Council fixed any price to be paid, by any person or company, for spruce, poplar, whitewood, and Banksian or jack pine, different from the sums named in the pulpwood agreements entered into by the Crown, during the past three years? If so, what was the price so fixed, and when.

The Premier said: No change of rates has been made with respect to any pulp concessions which have been granted.

Mr. Davis told Mr. Foy that $1,500 had been received by the Crown in 1903 on account from pulpwood under agreements made with various persons or companies.

Hon. Mr. Davis replied to Mr. Hendrie showing the amount of timber cut in 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903 by the Lake Superior Power Co. or its allied or subsidiary companies on lands in Algoma.

In Committee Stage.

The House went into committee on several private bills.

A number of bills were read a first time.

Hon. Mr. Stratton presented reports of the inspector of prisons, the inspector of insane asylums and the game warden.

Mr. Gamey secured an order for a return of correspondence with the Government, or other person, relating to the appointment of one Kelly, as constable or peace officer, in and about Killarney, together with copies of all correspondence between the Government and one Charles Noble in connection therewith.

Mr. Ross moved the appointment of a committee to control the library. It is the same committee as last year.

Train Crashes Into Central Prison.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—While the G. T. R. train of three coaches from North Bay was coming into the city yesterday morning a misplaced switch sent it rushing on a spur line into the Central Prison grounds, the engine crashing through the staunch oak gates and the train bringing up finally in the centre of the yard. The passengers were shaken up a bit. Every car was searched by officials before leaving the precincts, as the prison yard was full of convicts.

Murder and Suicide.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Henry L. Schwartz of the law firm of Baker & Schwartz, was shot and fatally wounded in his office yesterday by H. A. Knowles, a well-known business man, who, ten minutes later, shot himself dead in the presence of Chief of Detectives Taylor and Detective Sergeant O'Connor. The shooting is said to have been the culmination of business troubles.

HOW IT'S DONE.

Undigested food ferments for lack of gastric juice. The fermentation and putrefaction in the stomach and alimentary canal are the main causes of disease.

It upsets the nerves.

It poisons the system.

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill increases the necessary supply of gastric juice in quantity and quality to insure perfect stomach action. It has similar action on bile formation. Anyone can prove this for himself By addressing WILSON-FYLE Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample.

There was a fair sized market this morning, farmers being in town in greater numbers than on Saturday last. Prices were high and remained firm throughout the day. THE CLASSES WERE LARGELY ATTENDED

The Beehive Annual Silk Embroidery and Lace Classes.

These classes have become quite a feature in connection with the Beehive, and are looked forward to by the ladies of Peterborough and surrounding country with keen interest.

This year notwithstanding the most inclement weather which prevailed, they were very numerously attended.

The ladies of Peterborough are noted for their artistic ambitions and the teachers who come here annually speak very highly of their ability in this direction.

A new feature has been introduced in connection with the classes this year, viz., evening classes. This has been found so convenient for many whose engagements prevent them from coming through the day that it has been decided to continue them in the future.

Half of the large mantle room, which extends over the whole length of the store, was cleared out and seated for the class.

The room being carpeted and thoughtfully arranged made a very comfortable class room.

Any lady who through the year will indicate to the Beehive that they would like to join the classes, will be notified in due time for next year's class.

There is no charge made in connection with the class.

CLEAN YOUR CHIMNEYS AND PREVENT A FIRE.

During the past week, the fire brigade has been troubled with several insignificant chimney fires, which cause far more trouble than they are worth. They are a source of annoyance to both householder and firemen, and would not occur if the citizens generally conformed with the bylaws of the town. Bylaw 395, section 35, reads: "That the occupant of every house within the said town (Peterborough) shall cause every chimney and flue in his or her house in which a fire is commonly made and kept, to be properly swept at least twice between the first days of October and April of every year, and in case of chimney in daily use in manufactories, once in every eight weeks throughout the year."

As the bylaw is not enforced it is not obeyed with the result that the chimney fires commonly occur every week in the year."

OBITUARY.

Death of George Wood, of Otonabee at 74 Years.

In the death of George Wood, at the advanced age of 74 years, another of the pioneer settlers of Otonabee has passed away. The deceased was a native of Scotland, being born in Roxboroughshire, in the year 1829. At the age of six years he emigrated to this country with his father, who, with others who came here at an early day, know well the privation and hardships incident to pioneer life. He leaves surviving two brothers, John and James, of Otonabee.

Mr. Wood married Miss Jessie Redpath, a native of Scotland. By this marriage he had a family of four sons and two daughters.

The remains were interred in the Keene cemetery, on Thursday, Feb. 25th. The funeral, which was largely attended, marked the esteem in which he was held. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. D. D. Macdonald, of the Keene Presbyterian church of which the deceased was a member.

SYNDICATE BUILDS NEW RIVER STEAMER

For Operations on the Otonabee River.

Mr. C. J. Snyder Chief Promoter of the Scheme Boat Will be Running in May Next.

Mr. C. J. Snyder, of Simcoe street, is at the head, and chief promoter of a mostly local syndicate organized for the purpose of placing a new steamer on the Otonabee River. The boat will be of the most modern river going steamer type, and will be named the "Sovereign." At present she is being built at Point St. Charles by William Hickey, the ship builder, and the frames are already out and the boat is being set up. She is a flush deck vessel, measuring seventy feet over all, with a fourteen foot beam, and four feet six inches draught. She will be driven by a fore and aft compound engine, of about ninety horse power, and it is expected that she will be in running order some time in May. At present no figure as to the number of passengers she will be allowed to carry can be given, as that remains in the hands of the inspector.

The engineer will be Mr. James Logan, but at present no captain has been decided upon, but negotiations are in progress.

The boat, according to Mr. Snyder's statement, will eclipse anything as yet placed on the river, and it is expected will have a speed of thirteen miles per hour, which is considerably faster than any boat at present running out of Peterborough. Her engines are being built by the Bertram Engine Works of Toronto.

There will be three decks, a main a promenade and a hurricane, while the cabin accommodation will be spacious. The interior will be fitted up in a luxurious manner, and everything will be made as comfortable as possible. By having a wide beam the boat will be steadier, and she will be so built as to go perfectly smoothly when in motion.

Should the steamer prove a success from a financial point of view, the syndicate will place others on the Otonabee waters.

The "Sovereign" will be the sixth boat on the river, the others being "The City of Peterborough," "The Water Lily," "The North Star," "The Rainbow," and "The Beaver."

BETTER CONVENIENCES FOR RAILWAY PASSENGERS

In Regard to the Morning C. P. R. Local Train.

If the travelling public do not divide their passenger patronage more evenly between the Grand Trunk and the C.P.R., the latter will have to improve its facilities, especially in the morning local train west, at 7.12. [illegible] needs to be more than one [illegible] this train, especially on mornings. Last Monday [illegible] was positive discomfort for passengers. Before the train reached Toronto the seating capacity was exhausted and many had to stand. A passenger who pays fare for the privilege of riding comfortably seated, feels that he has a legitimate grievance if he has to stand and be knocked about, as is liable to happen at this time of the year when the winter has made the road-bed rougher than usual.

It is to be hoped that the railway authorities will take the hint and provide sufficient coach accommodation to give the travelling public comfortable service. Attention is not called to this matter in a spirit of gratuitous fault-finding, but that the railway authorities may know that the public demand better coach service on this line, on the train mentioned.

MORE TELEGRAPH WIRES FOR PETERBOROUGH.

Canadian Pacific Telegraph Will Enlarge its Facilities.

A despatch from Montreal to the Toronto Star, says:—"In order to provide for the rapidly-increasing business in every portion of Ontario, the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Company has decided on a number of additions and improvements. 'An additional wire will be strung from Toronto to Peterborough, and one from Toronto to Windsor,' said Mr. Jas. Kent, the manager, to-day. He added that the company had decided on extensions that would give it the largest system in Canada, with control of 66,000 miles of wire. The additions would include the placing of another copper wire between Montreal and Winnipeg and another between Winnipeg and Regina.'

THE T. A. S. LOST TO CAMPBELLFORD

But are Still in the Championship Running

In the Trent Valley League Campbellford won 6-4—T. A. S. Played New Men.

In the Trent Valley League semi-finals at Campbellford yesterday afternoon the T.A.S. were defeated by the team of that place by a score of 6 goals to four. The match began about five o'clock and was attended by an unusually large crowd. There was some delay at the beginning owing to the fact that the official referee had failed to put in an appearance However both clubs agreed upon having Mr. Fred Smith, of Campbellford, who proved perfectly satisfactory to both sides

The game was a good exhibition of clean, fast hockey but the locals were handicapped in that they were playing two strange men, McCabe and Callaghan, while Meagher at cover, was working in a new place At half time the score was tied, both teams having scored 3 goals Seventeen minutes after the beginning of the second period the T. A. S. scored, but were followed by Campbellford tallying three goals in succession The rink was very small and placed the T. A. S. at a distinct disadvantage. The teams lined up as follows: T. A. S.—Goal, McCoy; point, McCabe; cover, Meagher; centre, J Callaghan, rover, W. Parnell; right, Lynch, left, McGrath

Campbellford — Goal, Shaw; point, Lowry; cover, Tate; forwards, Blute, Patterson, Shannon and Garvey.

Goal umpires, McPherson, T. A. S., and McKee, Campbellford Time-keepers, D. DeVine, T. A. S, and Reeser, Campbellford Referee, Fred Smith

Although the T. A. S lost yesterday's game they are still in for the championship, as goals count and Campbellford were beaten Wednesday 11 to 4 The goals thus total 15 to 10 in favour of T A S

TEAMS ENTERING THE MIDLAND LEAGUE.

Football Season Will Open with Annual Meeting Next Month.

That there will be some interesting football games in Peterborough this season seems assured The "Old Country Wanderers" have organized a club and will place a team in the Midland League, and the contests between this team and the fast Y. M. C. A. bunch will be interesting to witness. The "O. C. W.'s" have some first class players and may be able to show the Canadians something about football. Other town teams will be represented in the League and the probabilities are that a larger number of outside teams will enter this year than were in the series in 1903.

The Stratton cup will be put up for annual competition until won by one team for three successive years when it becomes that team's property. The Y.M.C.A. won the trophy last year and will make a big attempt to repeat their success in 1904

The annual meeting of the league will be held during the month of March, which will give all the towns which desire to enter the league ample time to become organized before the season opens. The President, Dr. Morgan, or M. J. Hutchinson, acting secretary, will be glad to receive word early from all clubs wishing to enter the league.

WEST VS. EAST.

Proposal to Pick Team From West to Play Easterners' Fast Seven.

A despatch to the Mail and Empire says: The most interesting local hockey announcement this season is that Galt has decided to take up the suggestion of playing a picked team from this district against the best seven that can be secured in Toronto east and north. It is expected that all arrangements will be completed to-morrow. The team to represent the west will be composed of some of the best players in the game and will be as follows: Goal Pete Maltman, Woodstock; point, Roy Brown, Paris; cover point, Will Twalts, Galt; rover, W. Taylor, Brantford; right Munn, Paris; centre, M. Preston, Galt; left, Harry Peel, London.

All the players but one have consented to take part, and he will answer definitely to-morrow. The first practice will be held in Galt on Monday night, and the first game is likely to take place here on Wednesday, with the return on Thursday or Friday, in Toronto or Peterborough.

The suggestion is made that if the intention is to put the western team against the representative eastern intermediate team, either Belleville or Peterborough teams could be chosen and would give the best the west can produce hard run

PUCKERINGS.

Sporting editor,—A picked team from the Wm. Hamilton works trimmed the Wood Butchers of the C. G. E. on Thursday night by 5 to 3. The butchers lacked the services of Uncle Angelo Rider, who could not come out that evening. He is playing centre for Scugog's of Lindsay, to-night. The management has also signed Joe Panter, formerly goal man for the Sky-rockets, of Montreal. Bill Frost cannot play because of cold weather, but Billy Hill has signified his intention of doing so.

On Thursday night the Peterborough Collegiate Institute hockey team defeated the Peterborough Business College team by a score of 4 to 1. The High School boys excelled in their defence work, and their forwards followed up faster and shot more accurately than their opponents. This ruins the chances of the P. B. C. in their coming game with the winners of the Sidways League The winners lined up as follows:—Goal, O'Brien; point, Quinlan; cover point, Henry; centre, Todd; rover, Ovcrend; right wing, Wood; left wing, Robinson Roy Armstrong referred to the satisfaction of both teams

GENERALLY SPEAKING

THE EXPERIENCE of Rochester, Baltimore and a few other cities which have been visited recently by fires of disastrous characters, should, and no doubt will, prove beneficial to the hundreds of towns and cities which possess fire-fighting apparatus and appliances, of varying degrees of efficiency. That the rapid spread, and wide extent of the two large fires which are still fresh enough in the public mind to serve as lessons, can be attributed to inefficiency in the fire-fighting appliances, perhaps none will care to assert, but there is no doubt that had the brigades, apparatus and appliances been perfect, (which such things never are) the number of persons ruined, and homeless to-day by the recent conflagration, would not be nearly as large as it is. While modern buildings are being built in such a manner that they are becoming more difficult of destruction by fire, the systems for lessening the danger of spread should also be improved. Peterborough, is to-day in the stage of practical cityhood, and while this article is not written for the purpose of asserting that this town is not as well equipped in respect to the fire fighting system as other places of an equal size, the suggestion is made that even that perhaps may not be good enough. Nothing less efficient than the best should satisfy the city fathers. The recent fires in Peterborough, which, fortunately have been but minor affairs, and have inflicted but little damage, have taught at least one lesson, and that is that the present system of notifying the firemen not on duty at the fire hall of the fact that a fire alarm has been sent in, is not what it should be, and the statement is made that at least on one occasion the hose reels were delayed in reaching the scene of the fire, because of the fact that there were no firemen to man the hose. An opinion, which seems to be rather general, is to the effect that the present alarm system is not what it should be. Another necessary branch of the system which should receive attention this cold weather is that of the hydrants. In a number of towns the discovery is being made that when the hydrants are needed they are frozen up. This may not be the case with Peterborough, but at any rate it would do no harm to be sure that they are all in good order.

• • •

IT SEEMS TO BE a generally accepted opinion that a new Collegiate Institute is something needed in Peterborough, and the probabilities are that within a short time some action will be taken to bring the proposal to erect one, to a point where the ratepayers may vote on the question. The subject which is engaging the attention of the members of the Board of Education just at the present time is, what kind of a building it will be desirable to build, and on this point, perhaps, the town of Peterborough may learn a lesson from the village of Omemee. A short time back a fire destroyed the only public school the place boasted, and plans are now afoot to erect one to replace it. The Board before deciding what sort of a building they will erect will send deputation to other towns to inspect the schools and get ideas which may be incorporated in the plan for the new school there. This is a splendid proposal, and one which it is thought Peterborough might adopt with respect to its Collegiate Institute with considerable profit. The school buildings possessed by the town a present are not what the size and importance of the town demands, and now that an Institute is about to be erected care should be taken to have it the best in regard to efficiency, that the town's finances will permit.

PRINTER'S INK has probably done more to effect the success of modern business institutions than any other single factor. John Wanamaker, the great Philadelphia merchant, has attributed his success to advertising, and what is true with regard to a business is also true in Communities. Perhaps the city in Ontario that has done the greatest amount of advertising, is Hamilton, and the result is that there have been attracted there a number of very large industries, which most probably would have gone to some other place had not the business men of Hamilton, through the Board of Trade and City Council, persistently advertised the advantages which they claimed the city possessed.

THE TOWN COUNCIL of Peterborough has taken a move in this direction, and the Manufacturers' Committee has been instructed to prepare a small pamphlet, with maps, setting forth the advantages possessed by Peterborough as a location for manufacturing establishments, and industries of all kinds. There can be no doubt that if the matter is taken up in the proper way, the results obtained will more than justify the action of the Council. Some American cities have adopted a regular system of advertising, which, although it costs considerable money, has brought results highly satisfactory.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT in yesterday's issue of this paper of the fact that on Monday the package department of the American Cereal Company would re-commence operations, will be received with genuine satisfaction by the hundreds whom the announcement will affect. When the fire occurred, which made the shutdown necessary, various lengths of time were given as being the earliest date on which operations would be resumed. But the company, with its characteristic enterprise, will start work at an earlier date than any one had thought of suggesting at the time of the fire. Every resident of Peterborough will rejoice to learn that the period of shut-down of the Cereal Works will be much shorter than had been anticipated, and the company is to be congratulated on the rapidity with which the preparations to resume work have been made.

STEP OF PROGRESS IN YOUNG MEN'S GUILDS.

Proposal to Form a Dominion Guild Made by Local Societies

Peterborough the Birthplace of Young Men's Guilds' Their Importance to the Work of the Church.

For a number of years the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, was the only organization of its kind in Canada, and it is doubtful if at the present time there is a place in Canada corresponding to this town in size, in which there are as many Young Men's Guilds, as there are in Peterborough. This town has been looked upon as the birthplace of the Guilds in Canada, and St. Andrew's Guild the father of them all. That this movement is one which is destined to grow, and become an important factor in influencing the young men of Canada is a fact apparent to all who have studied the subject, and the rapidity with which Guilds are being organized throughout Canada is evidence of its permanence. Requests come frequently to St. Andrew's and other Guilds in town for copies of the constitution and other particulars regarding the Guilds, from other towns, where similar organizations are in course of formation, and the probabilities are that in a short time Young Men's Guilds will be as much recognized as a part of the church as the Sunday School, Christian Endeavour or Epworth League Societies, and the work which they may accomplish is as far-reaching as either of these institutions.

In order that the Guilds may reach the highest state of efficiency the proposal has been made, emanating from St. Andrew's Guild, that a Dominion, or at least, Provincial Guild be formed, to which all the Guilds at present in existence or that may afterwards be organized would be affiliated. This would include the young men from all demonations, and annual or bi-ennial gatherings might be held, which representatives from each Guild would attend, and in which questions relating to the work of the Guilds might be discussed. It is probable that the various Guilds in town will take the matter up in the near future, and that an effort will be made to form a Dominion Guild.

The churches are recognizing the fact that it is important in the best interests of the church that the young men should be interested in the enterprises of the church, and there seems to be no more effectual way of inspiring this interest than through the medium of the Young Men's Guild. Epworth Leagues and Christian Endeavour Societies have done and are doing a good service in holding the young people in the church, but the Guilds are doing work which as yet the other societies have been unable to do, and for this reason they should be given every encouragement.

The proposal to form a central Guild could come from no more fitting place than Peterborough and it is to be hoped that the project will be carried to a successful issue.

THE MULE AND THE MAN

The mule he is a gentle beast;
He's satisfied to be the least,
And so is man.
Like man, he may be taught some tricks;
He does his work from eight to six.
The mule, when he gets mad he kicks.
And so does man.

The mule he has a load to pull.
He's happiest when he is full,
And so is man.
Like man, he holds a patient poise.
And when his work's done will rejoice.
The mule he likes to hear his voice,
And so does man.

The mule he has his faults, 'tis true,
And so has man.
He does some things he should not do,
And so does man.
Like man, he doesn't yearn for style,
But wants contentment all the while.
The mule he has a lovely smile,
And so has man.

The mule is sometimes kind and good,
And so is man.
He eats all kinds of breakfast food,
And so does man.
Like man, he balks at gaudy dress
And all outlandish foolishness.
The mule's accused of mulishness,
And so is man.

EDITOR GIVES THE REASON WHY

He is Shouting the Praises of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—They Cured his When Everything Else had Failed.

"Do you know Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets? I the undersigned know them as the best thing for Dyspepsia. Every person suffering from this malady, ought to use them, and I am sure he would be satisfied.

"ALPHONSE CARON."

The above clipping is from The Echo, published at Montmagny, Que. It is the freewill tribute of Editor Caron to the remedy that rescued him from the miseries of Dyspepsia. Asked as to why he voluntarily published this statement, Editor Caron said:

"I suffered for many years from Dyspepsia. I spent a great deal of money on different medicines, but without any success. An advertisement led me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the change they made in me was wonderful. I am completely cured."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are an insurance policy against discomfort. One or two of them taken after eating is a safeguard against indigestion.

Something Was.

Rivers was smoking a cheap cigar.

"Seems to me," said Brooks, "I smell something like cloth burning."

But Rivers was game.

He touched the lighted end of his cigar to his shirt sleeve.

"No wonder," he said, exhibiting the burned spot.

A Strict Grammarian.

"You think a great deal of your husband, don't you?" said the visiting relative.

"You have the wrong preposition," answered Mr. Meekton's wife, with the cold tones of the superior woman. "I think for him."

MARRIAGE AGE RISING.

Fewer Early Marriages in England Than in Days Gone By.

The London Daily Express has discovered that the average age for matrimony in Britain is steadily rising, and as its authority quotes from the Government reports as follows: "Between the years 1876-80 the number of male 'infants,' as the law calls them, was 77.8 out of every 1,000 marriages, and of child wives there were 217 per 1,000. Every year since then the number has dropped. The last statistics (for 1901) give only fifty husbands and sixty wives who were registered as 'under age' out of every 1,000."

The Express continues: "Among the very poor child marriages are still rather numerous, and in the ranks of the wealthy there are also many girls wives. In the one case, extreme poverty is a direct incentive to early marriage, because there is none of that sense of 'keeping up a position' which acts as a preventive among the middle classes, and a working wife is looked upon as an additional source of income. On the other hand, of course, a wealthy man finds no drawback to his position by marrying young. In the middle class, on the contrary, men with limited incomes are becoming more and more chary of plunging into an 'extravagance' of matrimony. The thousand little luxuries of modern days are now looked upon as necessities, and these make life more expensive. Women also are not content with the same modest households and the same quiet life which satisfied their mothers. Consequently the average age of marriage is constantly rising."

All of which does not seem to alter the fact that lovers are as numerous as ever, and that when the right man asks the right girl an experiment in house-keeping usually follows. This year it is, of course, the privilege of the girls to do a little asking themselves.

What to Eat With the Fingers.

A man who has forgotten to get married and is consequently obliged to dine about town in various restaurants says that he can readily pick out persons not accustomed to dining away from home from their inexperience in using their fingers. At table d'hote places especially things are served as courses which are expected to be eaten with the fingers. No idea as to what is right can be obtained from the waiters, for it is the custom to put cutlery enough for the entire meal on the table with the soup.

Olives should be eaten with the fingers, though many of the uninitiated try to split them with a fork. Asparagus should be eaten with the fingers. That is why the cook does not throw sauce over the root ends. Green corn should be eaten with the fingers and not scraped from the cob with a knife. Spaghetti should be eaten with a fork and a crust of bread. In Italian restaurants a man who cuts his spaghetti into small pieces with a knife, as he would salad, is looked upon as a rank outsider.

The Peanut.

The home of the peanut, or ground pea (also often called pindar and goober), is believed to be Brazil, although it very soon spread to Africa, China, Japan and India and was recognized as a valuable agricultural product in these countries long before it was cultivated on a large scale in its native soil, which was not until the year 1870. In the old world, however, it has always been planted and harvested for the sake of the oil that it yields. This is said to rival olive oil in quality and to be used for the same purposes. The nuts raised in the east are far richer in oil than the American varieties.

The most popular of the American peanuts is the "Virginia running variety." The pod and nut of the Virginia variety are twice as large as those of the North Carolina or African peanut. The Spanish nuts, usually sold only after being shelled and salted, are still smaller, but of excellent flavor. Tennessee has two varieties, called the white and the red, the kernels of the latter having a dark red skin.

Founder of Methodist Missions in Western China in 1891.

Burlington, Feb. 25.—Rev. Dr. Hart for many years superintendent of the missions of the Methodist Church in China, died at his residence here last evening at 7 o'clock in his 64th year.

Rev. Dr. Hart was born in the United States, and first went to Wuhu and Tukiang, in Central China, under the auspices of the American Methodist Episcopal Church, 37 years ago. When the Methodist Church in Canada undertook mission work in western China in 1881, Rev. Dr. Hart was here on furlough, having returned practically from the field and he was offered and accepted the superintendency. He went to Szchuan, near the borders of Thibet. After the riots of 1895 he returned to Canada, going back to China in 1897, when he took the first printing press into Western China. During the Boxer outbreak in 1900 he returned home and has since lived in retirement. He was the author of a book on Western China, and another on Confucianism.

Dr. Hart is survived by a widow, four sons and a daughter.

To Revolutionize Salmon Fishing.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 25.—It was reported here last night that the Dominion Government had at last agreed to allow the erection of fish traps at a point near Victoria. The incoming salmon from the sea to the Fraser strike a point in the Straits of Fuca, near Victoria and could be taken there by fish traps in such numbers as to render useless the traps at the American station. The establishment of traps here would revolutionize the salmon canning industry of the northwest.

News too Good to Keep

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived from them that they tell the good news to their neighbours. There is no medicine which so promptly awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels, as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and for this reason they are unapproached as a family medicine. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

Explosion Kills Two.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 25.—Five miners were killed by a cave-in of rock and earth in the Minnie Healey mine yesterday. The accident occurred on the sixth floor of the 1,000 foot level.

We Shall Buy a Million

Bottles of Liquozone and Give Them to the Sick.

We have purchased for $100,000 the American rights to Liquozone. We thus control the only way to kill germs in the body and end a germ disease. We want the sick to know this product, and at once. So we make this remarkable offer. We will buy a million 50c bottles and give them to a million sick ones. Will you—if you need it—let us buy one for you?

Costs $500,000

We publish this offer in every great newspaper in America. The cost of the offer, we expect, will reach $500,000. We pay that price because it seems the only way to quickly let the sick know what Liquozone does.

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Liquozone does in germ troubles what all the drugs, all the skill in the world, cannot do without it. It cures diseases which medicine never cures.

Acts Like Oxygen

Liquozone is the result of a process which men have spent over 20 years in perfecting. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality. Liquozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. But germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter. Yet this wonderful product which no germ can resist, is, to the human body the most essential element of life.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, wherever they are, and the results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destoying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

DENIAL BY PREMIER BALFOUR.

Spain and Great Britain Are on Most Friendly Terms.

London, Feb. 26.—Premier Balfour on his first appearance yesterday in the House of Commons since his illness, was greeted with warm cheers. Replying to a question, he confirmed the statement that there was no truth in the reports that Great Britain intended to seize certain points on the Spanish coast in the event of a continental war. He said:

"I am glad to say that the relations between this country and Spain are, and are likely to remain, of a most friendly character."

War Office Denies This.

London, Feb. 26.—The War Office says there is no truth in the rumor published by The Manchester Despatch that the first (British) army corps had been ordered to hold itself in readiness to depart for India within a few days.

CAPE COLONY'S FUTURE.

Agriculture to Be the Main Feature of Dr. Jameson's Program.

London, Feb. 26.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Jameson of Cape Colony, speaking at a Cape Town banquet said that agriculture would be the main feature of the Government program. The Government were not creating anything in the nature of a new policy, but were following in the footsteps of the late Cecil Rhodes.

Uncle Sam Would Quit.

The Morning Post says that despite Mr. Hay's diplomacy it is doubtful whether the United States would go to war in defence of their Far East interests over which Americans are not aroused, as they are over the Monroe doctrine, the Alaska case, and the Canadian fisheries.

Russians Detained at Ceylon.

London, Feb. 26.—Asked in the House of Commons yesterday by what authority it was proposed to detain at Ceylon the 325 Russian sailors rescued after the fight off Chemulpo, Premier Balfour said the Japanese Government had now intimated that it was willing the sailors should return to Russia on giving their parole not to participate further in the war. British Government was now in correspondence with Russia with the view of settling the question on this basis.

Will Memorialize Government.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—The Western Good Roads Association discussed the proposal to introduce wide tires in lieu of the present narrow tires yesterday. It was moved by R. F. Miller and C. E. Lundy that the Western Good Roads Association memorialize the Provincial Government to amend section 132 of the Municipal Act of 1903 by giving power to county engineers, or to a Government engineer, to examine bridges affected by said section from time to time as they require to be built or repaired, and to determine what should be the proper length and that the engineer's award shall be binding upon the township and county alike. The motion was unanimously adopted. Toronto was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Investigation to Resume.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—The civic investigation will be resumed this morning. Mr. Justice Britton has decided that Richard Lane's objections to the enquiry were not of sufficient importance to warrant the granting of an injunction, and the motion was dismissed with costs.

Yankees Know a Good Thing.

London, Feb. 26.—American business houses apparently fully realize the value of the facilities accorded by Lord Strathcona's office in introducing new business. Recently applications have been received asking the intervention of the London office in their behalf.

Farmer's Sudden Death.

Newtonville, Feb. 26.—A sudden death took place Wednesday near Port Hope when John Brightwell, a prosperous farmer of this place, who, in company with a neighbor, was driving cattle to Port Hope, after running quite a lot, suddenly dropped dead.

No Evidence Was Offered.

Brockville, Feb. 25.—James A. Hutcheson, K.C., who created a sensation about two weeks ago, by a confession of embezzlement and a voluntary surrender to justice, appeared before Judge Macdonald yesterday afternoon. No evidence was offered, and the case was dismissed.

THE ROOT AND THE FRUIT

Bu-Ju is not a remedy for symptoms. It is a cure for disease. Disordered Kidneys will produce many troubles, among which may be mentioned Rheumatism. Sick kidneys cannot properly perform their functions; hence the system is flooded with uric acid and rheumatism in its various forms is the result. Bu-Ju cures rheumatism, because it cures the cause of rheumatism, Disordered Kidneys; for same reason it cures dropsy, blood poison, weak heart, loss of ambition, sleeplessness, brain fag, falling memory irritable temper, sallow complexion, bad breath, lame back, and a hundred and one ailments that spring from disordered kidneys, which is the root of the evil. You may pluck the leaves of a rank weed, or cut its stem, but so long as you leave the root it bears new fruit and spreads until its extermination is almost impossible. If you are suffering from any of the above troubles you cannot afford to neglect them. Neglect means misery, for what joy is there in living without good health? Bu-Ju, the Kidney Pill, has restored thousands and it can do the same for you.

Preston, October 7, 1903.

The Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.
Dear Sirs.—I have used a box of Bu-Ju Pills and have been greatly benefited by them. I was troubled with piles for years and tried several kinds of medicine, without getting any relief, but I have had no trouble with them since I took the third box of Bu-Ju. I still take them whenever I can get them and I recommend them to all my friends. Yours sincerely,
MRS. GEORGE BOEMAN.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Wilford knew these feelings were unworthy of him, and he tried to shake them off, listlessly turning over the books upon the table boo's which betokened in some one both taste and talent of no low order.

"Mark's favorite," he said, lifting up a volume of Schiller; and turning to the fly-leaf he read "Helen Lennox, from Cousin Morris," just as Katy returned with her sister, whom she presented to the stranger.

Helen was prepared to like him because Katy did and her first thought was that he was very fine looking, but when she met his cold, proud eyes, and knew how closely he was scrutinizing her, there arose in her heart a feeling of dislike which she could never wholly conquer. He was very polite to her, but something in his manner annoyed and irritated her, it was so cool, so condescending, as if he endured her merely because she was Katy's sister, nothing more.

"Rather pretty, more character than Katy, but odd and self-willed, with no kind of style," was Wilford's running comment on Helen as he took her in from the plain arrangement of her dark hair to the fit of her French calico and the cut of her linen collar.

Fashionable dress would improve her very much, he thought, turning with a feeling of relief to Katy, whom nothing could disfigure, and who was now watching the door eagerly for the entrance of her mother. That lady had spent a good deal of time at her toilet, and she came in at last, flurried, fidgety, and very red, both from exercise and the bright hued ribbons streaming from her cap and sadly at variance with the color of the dress. Wilford noticed the discrepancy at once, and noticed too how little style there was about the nervous woman greeting him so deferentially, and evidently regarding him as something immensely superior to herself. Wilford had looked with indifference on Helen, but it would take a stronger word to express his opinion of the mother. Morris, who remained to dinner, was in the parlor now, and in his presence Wilford felt more at ease, more as if he had found an affinity. Uncle Ephraim was not there, having eaten his bowl of milk and gone back to his stone wall, so that upon Morris devolved the duties of host, and he courteously led the way to the little dining-room where the table was loaded with the good things Aunt Hannah had prepared, burning and browning her wrinkled face, which nevertheless smiled pleasantly upon the stranger presented as Mr. Cameron.

About Aunt Hannah there was something naturally ladylike, and Wilford recognized it at once; but when it came to Aunt Betsy, of whom he had never heard, he felt for a moment as if by being there in such promiscuous company he had somehow fallen from the Camerons' high estate. By way of pleasing the girls and doing honor to their guest, Aunt Betsy had donned her very best attire, wearing the slate-colored pongee dress, bought twenty years before, and actually sporting a set of Helen's cast-off hoops, which being too large for the dimensions of her scanty skirt, gave her anything but the graceful appearance she intended.

"Oh, auntie!" was Katy's involuntarily exclamation, while Helen bit her lip with vexation, for the hoop had been an afterthought to Aunt Betsy just before going in to dinner.

But the good old lady never dreamed of shocking anyone with her attempts at fashion, and curtsying very low to Mr. Cameron, she hoped for a better acquaintance, and then took her seat at the table, just where each movement could be distinctly seen by Wilford, scanning her so intently as scarcely to hear the reverent words with which Morris asked a blessing upon themselves and the food so abundantly prepared. They could hardly have gotten through that first dinner without Morris, who adroitly led the conversation into channels which he knew would interest Mr. Cameron, and divert his mind from what was passing around him, and so the dinner proceeded quietly enough, Wilford discovering, ere its close, that Mrs. Lennox had really some pretentions to a lady, while Helen's dress and collar ceased to be obnoxious, as he watched the play of her fine features and saw her eyes kindle as she took a modest part in the conversation when it turned on books and literature.

Meanwhile Katy kept very silent, but when, after dinner was over and Morris was gone, she went with Wilford down to the shore of the pond, her tongue was loosed, and he found again the little fairy who had so bewitched him a few weeks before. And yet there was a load upon his heart, a shadow upon his brow, for he knew now that between Katy's family and his there was a social gulf which never could be crossed by either party. He might beat Katy over, it was true, but would she not look longingly back to her humble home, and might he not sometimes be greatly chagrined by the sudden appearing of some one of this low-bred family who did not seem to realize how ignorant they were or how far below him in the social scale? Poor Wilford! He winced and shivered when he thought of Aunt Betsy, in her antiquated pongee, and remembered that she was a near relative of the little maiden sporting so playfully around him, stealing his heart away in spite of his family pride, and making him more deeply in love than ever. It was very pleasant down by the pond, and Wilford kept Katy there until the sun was going down and they heard in the distance the tinkle of a bell as the deacon's cows plodded slowly homeward. Supper was waiting for them, and with his appetite sharpened by his walk, Wilford found no cause to complain against Aunt Hannah's viands, though he smiled mentally as he accepted the piece of apple pie Aunt Betsy offered him, saying, by way of recommendation, that "she made the crust but Catherine peeled and sliced the apples."

The deacon had not returned from his work, and Wilford did not see him until he came suddenly upon him, seated in the woodshed door, resting after the labor of the day. "The young man was welcome to Silverton," he said, "but he must excuse him from visitin' much that night, for the cows was to milk and the chores to do, as he never kep' no boy." The "chores" were done at last, just as the clock pointed to half-past eight, the hour for family worship. Unaccustomed as Wilford was to such things, he felt the influence of the deacon's voice as he read from the word of God, and involuntarily found himself kneeling when Katy knelt, noticing the deacon's grammar it is true, but still listening patiently to the lengthy prayer, which included him together with the rest of mankind.

There was no chance of seeing Katy alone, that night, and so full two hours before his usual custom Wilford retired to the little room to which the deacon conducted him, saying, as he put down the lamp: "You'll find it pretty snug quarters, I guess, for such a close, muggy night as this."

And truly they were snug quarters, Wilford thought, as he surveyed the dimensions of the room; but there was no alternative, and a few moments found him in the centre of the two feather beds, neither Helen nor Katy having discovered the addition made by Aunt Betsy, and which came near being the death of the New York guest. To sleep was impossible, and never for a moment did Wilford lose his consciousness or forget to accuse himself of being an idiot for coming into that heathenish neighborhood after a wife when in New York there were so many girls ready and waiting for him.

"I'll go back to-morrow morning," he said, and striking a match he consulted his Railway Guide to find when the first train passed Silverton, feeling comforted to know that only a few hours intervened between him and freedom.

But alas for Wilford! He was but a man, subject to man's caprices, and when next morning he met Katy Lennox, looking in her light muslin as pure and fair as the white blossoms twined in her wavy hair, his resolution began to waver. Perhaps there was a decent hotel in Silverton; he would inquire of Dr. Grant; at all events he would not take the first train, though he might the next; and so he staid, eating fried apples and beefsteak, but forgetting to criticize, in his appreciation of the rich thick cream poured into his coffee, and the sweet, golden butter, which melted in soft waves upon the flaky rolls. Again Uncle Ephraim was absent, having gone to mill before Wilford left his room, nor was he visible to the young man until after dinner, for Wilford did not go home, but drove instead with Katy in the carriage which Morris sent round, excusing himself from coming on the plea of being too busy, but saying he would join them at tea, if possible. Wilford's mind was not yet fully made up, so he concluded to remain another day and see more of Katy's family. Accordingly, after dinner, he bent his energies to cultivating them all, from Helen down to Aunt Betsy, who proved the most transparent of the four. Arrayed again in the pongee, but this time without the hoop, she came into the parlor, bringing her calico patchwork, which she informed him was pieced in the "herrin' bone pattern" and intended for Katy; telling him further, that the feather bed on which he slept was also a part of "Catherine's setting out," and was made from feathers she picked herself, showing him as proof a mark upon her arm, left there by the gray goose, which had proved a little refractory when she tried to draw a stocking over its head.

Wilford groaned, and Katy's chance for being Mrs. Cameron was growing constantly less and less as he saw more and more how vast was the difference between the Barlows and himself. Helen, he acknowledged, was passable, though she was not one whom he could ever introduce into New York society; and he was wondering how Katy chanced to be so unlike the rest, when Uncle Ephraim came up from the meadow, and announced himself as ready now to visit, apologizing for his apparent neglect, and seeming so absolutely to believe that his company was desirable, that Wilford felt amused, wondering again what Juno, or even Mark Ray, would think of the rough old man, sitting with his chair tipped back against the wall, and going occasionally to the door to relieve himself of his tobacco juice, for chewing was one of the deacon's weaknesses. His pants were faultlessly clean, and his vest was buttoned nearly up to his throat, but his coat was hanging on a nail out by the kitchen door, and, to Katy's distress and Wilford's horror, he sat among them in his shirt sleeves, all unconscious of harm or of the disquiet awakened in the bosom of the young man, who on that point was foolishly fastidious, and who showed by his face how much he was annoyed. Not even the presence of Morris, who came about tea time, was of any avail to lift the cloud from his brow, and he seemed moody and silent until supper was announced. This was the first opportunity Morris had had of trying his powers of persuasion upon the deacon, and now, at a hint from Katy, he said to him in an aside, as they were passing into the dining-room: "Suppose, Uncle Ephraim, you put on your coat for once. It is better than coming to the table so."

"Pooh," was Uncle Ephraim's innocent rejoinder, spoken loudly enough for Wilford to hear, "I sha'n't catch cold, for I am used to it; besides that, I never could stand the racket this hot weather."

In his simplicity he did not even suspect Morris's motive, but imputed it wholly to concern for his health. And so Wilford Cameron found himself seated next to a man who willfully trampled upon all rules of etiquette, shocking him in his most sensitive points, and making him thoroughly disgusted with the country and country people generally. All but Morris and Katy—he did make an exception in their favor, leaning most to Morris, whom he admired more and more, as he became better acquainted with him, wondering how he could content himself to settle down quietly in Silverton, when he would surely die if compelled to live there for a week. Something like this he said to Dr. Grant, when that evening they sat together in the handsome parlor at Linwood, for Morris kindly invited him to spend the night with him.

"I stay in Silverton, first, because I think I can do more good here than elsewhere, and secondly, because I really like the country and the country people; for, strange and uncouth as they may seem to you, who never lived among them, they have kinder, truer hearts beating beneath their rough exteriors, than are often found in the city."

LAXATIVE AND TONIC

780 Jefferson Ave., Detroit, May 13, 1902.

For many years I suffered from constipation in its worst form, and nothing which I took gave me any permanent relief.

When your Tablets first came to my notice, last summer, I determined to try them. The results have been most gratifying. I have taken many laxatives, but no other can compare with yours so far as my personal experience goes.

The tonic properties of your remedy are most valuable, both in connection with i laxative action when desired, and for those who need a tonic only.

I cannot too strongly recommend Iron-ox Tablets, which I never fail to bring to the notice of my customers when appropriate. From those who have used them I hear nothing but praise.

Yours very truly,
T. H. RICHARDS,

Good Boys

Are the bad boys very often. The boy that's good for anything is generally pugnacious. He's a healthy animal, and the healthy animal will always fight for his rights.

When a boy shuns the rough sports of his companions he is apt to be a weakling, and to be conscious of the fact.

A great many mothers have testified to the wonderful curing and strengthening power of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. All strength comes from food after it has been perfectly digested and assimilated. By curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, "Golden Medical Discovery" enables the perfect nourishment of the body, which is thus built up in the only way a body can be built up—by food.

There is no alcohol in "Discovery," and it entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"Dr. Pierce's medicine has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Dewster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and has not had one in over a year. My younger son had scrofulous sores on his neck; had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper cover, sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. For cloth binding send 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Brantford Jury Says Kennedy Did Not Kill Irene Cole.

JURY WAS OUT FOR 4 HOURS

The Charge of Mr. Justice Street Was So Fair That It Could Not Be Said to Be For or Against Prisoner—How Kennedy Received the Verdict in the Intense Court Room.

Brantford, Feb. 27.—Joseph Kennedy, charged with the murder of Irene Cole, and who has been on trial for his life since Tuesday last, was last night found not guilty by the jury at 10.15 o'clock.

Mr. Justice Street had finished his charge to the jury at 6.15. The jury retired shortly afterwards. A little after 10 o'clock Kennedy entered the court room, walking directly to the prisoner's box. The nerve-racking trial of the week had begun to tell on him. His face was pale and careworn, yet he stepped briskly and with the usual erect military bearing. His lips were tightly drawn and he appeared ready for any emergency.

Mr. Justice Street entered shortly afterwards, the jury being already in the box. The silence was intense.

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you arrived at a verdict?" asked the clerk.

"Not guilty," returned the foreman.

All eyes immediately turned toward the prisoner. A faint trace of contentment spread over his face, but he otherwise remained cool and collected.

His Lordship then addressed a few words to Kennedy, telling him that he was now a free man. He warned him against the evil of drink, saying that the present trouble ought to be a lesson to him in future.

Mr. Heyd opened his address at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. He spoke for three hours and forty minutes and made a powerful appeal for the prisoner Kennedy.

Jas. E. Day, the Crown Counsel, spoke for one hour and twenty minutes. He pointed out the duty of jurors in simple language.

At 5.15 yesterday afternoon Mr. Justice Street commenced his charge, and spoke for a full hour. In closing, His Lordship said that if, after consideration, the jury had any reasonable doubt that the prisoner did not commit the crime, he should receive the benefit of it. His Lordship made little or no comment on the evidence and neither charged for or against the prisoner.

It is not likely Kennedy will take advantage of his liberty for a few days as there is still much strong sentiment against him.

SKIRMISHING NEAR PINGYANG

Advance Guards of Russians and Japanese Forces in Combat.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM A VICTORY.

Japanese Official Report Say the Russians were Compelled to Retreat—Unofficial Reports Say Russians Were the Victors —Russians Defeated Some Corean Troops — Heavy Fighting Expected.

London, Feb. 29.—The following official despatch was received at the Japanese legation here: "Tokio Feb. 28.—(9 a.m.)—A number of the enemy's cavalry appeared at a point 700 metres north of Pingyang, Corea. Our infantry firing on them, caused them to retreat."

At Over 1,000 Yards.

Seoul, Feb. 29.—Details of a skirmish at Pingyang last Friday show that fifty Russian cavalrymen approached the north gate of the Japanese camp and fired at a distance of 1,000 metres. A sharp fusillade took place, and the Russians retired. All foreigners are safe.

Corean Soldiers Beaten By Russians.

Tokio, Feb. 29.—Corean soldiers on the Hamyeng frontier have been attacked and dispersed by Russian troops.

Japs Compelled to Flee.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—A despatch from Liaoyang, dated Feb. 28, says that Chinese on the Yalu River report that an advance guard of Russian cavalry, which has penetrated Corea for a distance of about 200 versts (150 miles) across the river had an encounter with a detachment of Japanese and that the Japanese were compelled to retreat and fled, leaving their horses, which were seized by Cossacks. Gen. Linevitch despatched cavalry and a body of infantry in pursuit with an order to occupy Northern Corea.

Fight News Expected.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—The official announcement by Major-Gen. Pflug, chief of staff to Viceroy Alexieff, that Russian cavalry has crossed the Yalu River, is expected to be followed shortly by news of rather heavy land fighting, as according to seemingly trustworthy reports, Gen. Linevitch has sent a whole army corps of infantry to support the Cossacks, who have penetrated to a point below Anju, and who are reported to have beaten the Japanese in several skirmishes.

Vladivostock Blockaded.

London, Feb. 29. — Vladivostock has been blockaded by a Japanese fleet since Thursday, according to a Daily Mail despatch from Hakodate, which adds that incoming steamers report Russian cruisers on the east coast of Kinkwasan, in the Bay of Sondai, Japan. Japanese warships have been reported in the vicinity of Vladivostock, but this report of a blockade, although considered probable, has not yet been confirmed from other sources.

One Russian Boat Sunk.

Tokio, Feb. 29.—The official report of the attempt made last Tuesday night to block the entrance of the harbor of Port Arthur reached Tokio last night (Friday). The report was written by Vice-Admiral Kamimura, division commander under Admiral Togo.

The Japanese cruiser squadron discovered two Russian torpedo destroyers at the foot of Lacteche Hill and gave chase. One of the destroyers escaped, but the other was pursued into Pigeon Bay, where it was sunk. Vice-Admiral Kamimura reports that the Japanese fleet sustained no damage and did not lose a single man.

All Quiet at Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 29.—An official despatch, dated yesterday, from Major-General Pflug, Viceroy Alexieff's chief of staff, says:

"The night of Feb. 27 passed quietly at Port Arthur. The enemy's squadron keeps in this vicinity. Reports are coming in of movements of Chinese troops west of the Liao River, and, according to rumors, about 10,000 Chinese troops, under Gen. Ma, are on the road between Tungchu and Choajan. The military guard on the Sinmintu Railway has been reinforced, from 50 to 60 Chinese soldiers having been placed at each place. Our mounted troops have entered Corea, and the attitude of the population is friendly toward us."

There has been no change in the situation here during the past two days. A gale blew from the north yesterday, accompanied by thunder and lightning. The sea is very rough, rendering attempts to land impossible.

Landing Not Confirmed.

Tientsin, Feb. 29.—Chinese officials say that the reported landing of Japanese troops at Possiet Bay has not been confirmed.

Japs in Corea.

London, Feb. 29.—The Times' Chemulpo correspondent, under date of Feb. 27, via Wei-Hai-Wei, via wireless telegraphy, says that the Japanese disembarkations of the last few days were confined to supplies for transports corps and to 4,500 ponies. The total number of troops landed is 20,000, including the twelfth division and a portion of the second division. The guards have not yet arrived. The artillery consists of six batteries, belonging to the twelfth division. Another disembarkation, believed to be on a smaller scale, is occurring immediately south of Haiju, whence the troops will advance parallel to the Pekin road, joining those in the neighborhood of Hwangja, thus effecting a gain of five days on the march. It is supposed, says the correspondent, that 8,000 troops with a few guns, are now advancing beyond Seoul toward Pingyang.

30,000 Russians There.

Paris, Feb. 29.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says that every day and night 5,000 men are traveling toward Port Arthur. The garrison at that point is said now to number 30,000.

Chinese Troops Move.

Pekin, Feb. 29.—Since Feb. 21 four troop trains have left Paotingfu for the north-western frontier. The last contingent left yesterday on two trains, completing the force of 10,000 men. These troops are all regulars and their equipment is excellent. They will be replaced by troops from Shantung Province.

FRESH REVERSES FOR RUSSIANS.

Japanese now Fully in Control of Korea Where They Have 200,000 Troops.

Belief That Chinese Will Join Japanese in a Few Days—Japanese Forces Rout Russian Garrisons.

(Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

JAPAN CONTROLS COREA.

New York, Feb. 29.—A cable from Chefoo to the Herald says that 120,000 Japanese troops have arrived at Seoul up to the present date, consisting of cavalry and infantry, but with no artillery. Altogether 200,000 have passed through Seoul and 40,000 through Gensan within a fortnight, northward bound, via Ping Yang. The harbour of Chemulpo and the approaches to the mouth of the Han River, leading to Seoul, are filled with submerged torpedoes. The army base is thereby protected from a sea attack. Japan fully controls Corea and the Government is rendering assistance in the military operations.

RUSSIAN GARRISON ROUTED.

Shanghai, Feb. 29.—It is reported here that a Japanese force has routed the Russian garrison at Hunchun, on the north-east frontier of Corea, and is now marching on Kirin. The Russians at Mukden are said toi be demoralized. Most of the Russian troops are concentrated on the Yalu River. A Russian force is near Simmintinig, and threatens to seize the Chinese branch of the railway. The Russian Minister at Pekin has threatened to ignore China's declaration of neutrality, unless China controls the mounted bandits in Manchuria. The Japanese have destroyed a large Russian store of provisions and forage at Kenchow, thirty miles from Port Arthur,

CHINESE REJOICE AT JAPANESE VICTORY.

Chee Foo, Feb. 29.—There is great excitement among the Chinese here because of an unconfirmed report that Port Arthur has fallen. The Chinese show the wildest joy and permit, no doubt, of their sympathy for Japan. The foreign consuls here in discussing this are of one mind in saying that the first land victory for Japanese arms will sweep away Chinese neutrality. A telegram from Tien Tsin says 10,000 Chinese soldiers have passed through by rail bound for Western Manchuria, and it is predicted here that troops will be in conflict with the Russians at the first provocation.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1904.

CANADA'S FOOD PRODUCING ABILITY.

One of the most powerful enemies to moral, commercial or national progress is ignorance. The ignorance of otherwise able and intelligent publicists and journalists of Great Britain, is a serious obstacle to a better understanding or a consequent closer union between Canada and the Mother Land. As prominent a journal as the Liverpool Mercury has written an article asserting that even if Canada should grow enough wheat to supply British needs, it would have to reach the seaboard, five months of the year, through American channels, and would be taxed in transit to the amount of any preference given by the Mother Country to Canadian cereals. The absurdity of this contention is self-evident to every Canadian who knows that on the contrary a large bulk of American wheat reaches the seaboard through Canadian canals. The construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific will help to increase Canada's wheat carrying capacity, and if the Trent Valley canal be added our possibilities of transportation will be very largely increased. As to Canada's wheat growing possibilities, Mr. George Johnson, Canada's clever statistician, has pointed out that a little ribbon of land, five miles in width, on each side of the existing 2,100 miles of railway in the North-west, would, at the rate of eighteen bushels per acre, produce 520,000,000 bushels. In 1902, the total imports of wheat made by Great Britain, was: 151,061,654 bushels. There is enough wheat land in our North-west, if brought under cultivation, if it only yielded one bushel to the acre, to doubly supply the food needs of Great Britain. Within a century or two, some dense Britishers will gather some little idea of the tremendous possibilities of Canada's resources.

INTEMPERATE ZEAL.

The Copper Cliff Courier of a recent date keenly criticizes Rev. Dr. Chown, of Toronto, in regard to statements made in a letter written by the reverend gentleman to the Globe. This letter refers to the "abomination of desolation" caused by the furnaces of the nickel smelting works, which the Courier says, though they are injurious to vegetation are not hurtful to human health. The letter also attacks the Canada Copper Company as an organization which "fears not God, nor regards His Sabbath law." The Courier points out that the reverend doctor writes in ignorance of the conditions. The nature of the industry requires that the furnace fires be kept going without interruption in order to prevent great loss. This applies also to other industries, glass making for instance, when days or weeks are required to bring the furnaces to the necessary temperature—at which they must be kept. The Courier describes the statement in Dr. Chown's letter that the meetings of management of the Copper Company are "unually held on the Sabbath," as a ridiculous and base falsehood. It also repels as a libel the attack in the letter upon the character of Copper Cliff, and points out that the place has no hotels or improper houses, and invites Dr. Chown to give more attention to lessening the iniquity which abounds in Toronto. The deduction to be made from the Courier's criticism seems to be that Dr. Chown has shown greater zeal than discrimination between facts and surmises, and if the reverend gentleman wishes to retain his influence with the public, he will readily see that this is not to be done by making attacks based upon inference even though the motives be moral and commendable. Even alleged evil doers have rights to this extent, that they are not legitimately subject to condemnation, unsupported by facts.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Toronto is about to submit a million dollar bylaw for the extension of the water service, to popular judgment. Judging by the investigation into the electoral crookedness of the good city, an abundant supply of water, and soap, also, cannot be provided any too soon.

The matron of the Mercer Reformatory says that, thanks to a paternal Government, the inmates of that institution are better housed and fed than when they are at liberty. There is a volume of lesson in this. The early training, or lack of training, the unfortunate inmates have had, and the consequent life they led when at liberty, make this statement easily true. It is safe to say that, if the inmates of the Mercer had in their early days, been subjected to the influences the Children's Aid Society of to-day asserts, and had been provides with virtuous homes, such as the Society provides for neglected, dependent children, in vicious environments, they would not now be inmates of an instituton for fallen women.

FAILURES IN THE PAST YEAR.

A classified record of failures in Canada and the United States has been published in a neat pamphlet by the Bradstreet Company. In the United States there were 9,775 failures out of 1,272,909 firms and individuals in business, as compared with 9,973 failures out of 1,238,973 in business in 1902. In Canada there were 958 failures last year out of 108,215 engaged in business, as against 1,095 failures out of 106,099 business concerns during the previous year. Of the 10,733 failures in both countries last year 86.6 per cent., or 9,290, had very moderate or no credit rating. While the prosperous condition prevailing generally in 1903 tended to lessen the pressure that causes business embarrassments, it was also a temptation to unwise expansion. In the United States lack of capital or the effort to do too large a volume of business for the capital employed was the cause assigned for 32.5 per cent., nearly one-third of all failures. This sustains the average of 30.6 per cent. in 1902, 30.3 per cent. in 1901, and 32 per cent. in 1900. Incompetence, as a particular cause, accounted for 20.5 per cent. of the number failing in 1903, one-fifth of all in the United States, as against 20.4 per cent. in 1902, 19 per cent. in 1901 and 17.9 per cent. in 1900. Looking back four years further there is found a marked growth in the proportion due to this cause from such years as 1896 and 1897, when the percentage was 12 and 12.3, respectively. Lack of capital and incompetence together accounted for 53 per cent. of all American suspensions. Inexperience, with 6.4 per cent. of all failures, and unwise credits accounting for 3.4 per cent., show only trifling expansion from earlier years. Speculation, with 1 per cent.; neglect, with 2.8 per cent.; extravagance, with nine-tenths of 1 per cent., and fraudulent disposition of assets, with 10.4 per cent. of failures in the United States, are among the fairly constant causes showing little fluctuation from year to year, and but little affected by the events of the past four years.

In Canada the main cause of failures has been lack of capital. In 1903 this cause accounted for 69.6 per cent. of all Canadian casualties, as against 67 per cent. in 1902, 70.6 per cent. in 1901, and 68.5 per cent. in 1900. Incompetence, though less hurtful than in the United States, still accounted for 6.5 per cent. of the failures of 1903, as against 5.5 per cent. in 1902. Failures, due to the shortcomings of the trader himself, made up 94.9 per cent. of the total, which is a very much larger proportion than that exhibited in the United States. Of the remaining five per cent. of failures, specific conditions, which seem to have smaller play than in the United States, accounted for 4.3 per cent. Of the liabilities, in 1903, 57.4 per cent. were chargeable to lack of capital and 11.5 per cent. to incompetence, while speculation, which accounted for only one per cent of the failures, produced 12.1 per cent. liabilities. Taken as a whole, it might be noted that Canada reported 12 per cent. decrease in failures, and 2 per cent. decrease in liabilities from 1902. It is customary to exaggerate the significance of failures, especially the proportion of business concerns that at some time find it necessary to compromise. A business that is a means of livelihood for years is classed with the failures if involved in difficulties on a single settlement day. While no fault can be found with estimates based on such classification, they certainly magnify the unfavourable symptoms of business conditions.—Globe.

THE WAR IN THE EAST

West, North and South That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Waging Against All Forms of Stomach Trouble. Can Only End One Way.

Dyspepsia Will Be Driven off the Earth.

The great and effective work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is no longer confined to America. They are being used now all over the world, for their fame has spread throughout foreign countries and they cure dyspepsia in all lands and all climates just as well as they do at home. In fact, surroundings and conditions never interfere with the successful work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, not even the conditions of the stomach itself. They go ahead of their own natural way regardless of the stomach, and digest the food that the bad stomach cannot digest and permit that organ to do just as it pleases, rest, take a vacation, get well or what not. The stomach, however, always makes it a point to get well when it has nothing else to do. That's what stomachs always have done and will continue to do when they have the opportunity.

A prominent Detroit physician says: "I prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all cases of stomach trouble. I have tried many prescriptions, including a number of my own, but find nothing which gives such universal relief as this remedy. They are natural, harmless and perfectly effective in their work, and while I have a natural antipathy to patent medicines, I do not hesitate to prescribe and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on all occasions."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at fifty cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great, that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. The testimonial of the physician is no exception. In fact physicians are prescribing them all over the land and if your doctor is real honest with you he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH DIED IN EVANSTON.

Was Formerly a Resident of Town — An Eccentric Character.

An Evanston, Ill., paper, of recent date tells of the death of Captain John Smith, a man who at one time lived in Peterborough, where he was a well known figure. John Smith was employed as a corporation worker on the streets, and was familiarly dubbed "pants."

The report of his death is as follows:—

Close search in the squalid room where he lived like a hermit for 18 years, and finally committed suicide, has failed to reveal the identity of Capt. John H. Smith, for whose familiar figure Evanston, Ill., people now look in vain.

Smith, who was better known as "The Turk," was a character in Evanston, where his huge and ponderous figure had earned him the reputation of being a giant. It was his boast that he was the biggest man in the world.

An examination revealed the fact that he was a small man, and that his apparent great size was entirely due to the immense number of garments that he wore. His hat alone weighed fifteen pounds. Four suits of heavy clothes and enormous boots made up his usual street garb. His waist measurement when he was dressed was almost seventy inches, and he boasted that he weighed over 400 pounds. His dead body weighed only a little more than 100 pounds, and his waist measure was less than thirty inches. Smith was born in England, and came to this country from Canada twenty years ago.

TRADE IN CANNED AND EVAPORATED GOODS.

A Foreign Demand for Canadian Fruits.

Some Points Which Must Be Observed — Canadian Lobsters Popular.

Mr. A. W Grindley, agent of the Department of Agriculture in Great Britain, gives the following information in regard to the trade in canned and evaporated goods during 1903:

FRUIT PULPS.

There is a good demand for the following pulps which can be put up in Canada: — Strawberry, raspberry, gooseberry, black currant, peaches, pears, apricots.

The above fruits are largely used in jam factories in Great Britain.

Canadian packers of fruit pulps should observe the following points:

1. Use a heavy grade of charcoal tin plates for making the cans.

2. Do not use resin for soldering the inside seams as the least portion imparts a bad flavour to the contents.

3. One gallon tins are preferable to cans holding five gallons, chiefly because there is less loss in case of a puncture or other cause of damage.

4. For coloured pulps an internally lacquered tin is very much preferred.

5. No colouring matter or preservatives of any kind should be added.

6. Have cases holding cans made strongly and with tight covers, not slats.

There is a good demand in Great Britain for tinned meats, but complaints are made that Canadian tinned meats, etc., are often discoloured next the tin by some acid action. This may be caused by using light grade tin plates for making the cans. These plates are rolled after being tinned, and so much of the tin being taken off the iron is exposed in spots and a chemical action sets in shortly after the goods are packed. Some British firms who import heavy lines of canned goods from Canada furnish the tin plates from which the cans are made and also have an expert representative to supervise the packing of their goods during the season, the result being general satisfaction, and increased demand for the brands.

The quality of Canadian beef and mutton is preferred to the imports from other countries, the packs of which countries are often filled with meats from which extracts have been taken to make fluid meat preparations.

Most of the Canadian tinned beef and mutton is put up in tins holding not over two pounds of meat. There is a good demand for tins holding not over six pounds, especially for War Office and Naval Stores.

TINNED LOBSTERS.

There is a good demand for Canadian tinned Lobsters, if properly put up. Only heavily tinned plate should be used for making cans, (lobster works quickly on light plates) the inside of which should be lined with heavy parchment paper, and the lobster packed while thoroughly fresh. This requires large packing factories. Small factories do not as a general rule employ skilled labour, and as they cannot pack as fast as supplies come in during the packing season, the result is that stale, or partially stale goods are packed which go off flavour very quickly.

DESSICATED VEGETABLES.

There is a growing demand for dessicated vegetables in Great Britain, not for home consumption, but for Naval Stores and the War Office.

THE CALL TO A USEFUL EXISTENCE.

Sermon Preached by Rev. J. L. Holah, L. S. T., in St. Luke's.

An Exposition on the Signs of the Times the Duty of All Christ an An Eloquent Sermon.

Yesterday morning in St. Luke's church, the acting Rector, Rev. J. Holah, L.S.T., preached a sermon on the following text:—

"Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of Heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father which is Heaven." St. Matt, vii; 21.

A condensed report of Mr. Holah's sermon is as follows:—

We have all seen in the summer twilight hemipterous insects, insects which give forth a phosphorescing glow, flashing and hovering about purely as their pleasures suits them. In that land of the "Rising Sun"—Japan—their ladies gather them into silken gauzy bags and suspend them as lanters. I cannot but think of these insects; how they remind me of a certain class of Christians who occasionally, flash on Sundays, busy they are the entire week, but when all is quiet and repose they shine; sintillating a savour of godliness, with their phosphorescent glow that becomes a deadweight; yea, a stumbling-block on the sinews of the Church-Militant. How their cry goes forth in ostentatious demonstrations, "Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in Thy name? and in Thy name done many wonderful works?" You meet in your daily walks of life those who are always wishing you well. They greet you, "Hope you will succeed." They wish your enterprise success; they wish your work "Well." They wish your Church well; They wish your choir well; they wish its finances well. Everything and everybody has their well-wishes. There it stops. It stops! This class, of men and women, young and old, are like chaff from the winnowed corn, barren they are, and light and unstaple, driven to and fro by a wind. There is no seed in them and inconsistent, simply giving forth a phosphorescent illumination, cry, "Lord, Lord," expecting an entrance into the kingdom of Heaven. What we need in life, what we need in this religion of our Lord Jesus Christ, and what it demands is, not this mere well-wishing, this negative well-wishing, this indolent fraternization of society; but some uprising, some indications that when quickened by the Son of Righteousness through His Spirit; these dormant buds of ours may have clusters to bring forth fruit, and to yield it more abundantly. You are not here in life to be simply without offence, to take the talent and fold it up, but are called "to be a partaker of holiness," "for without holiness no man shall see the Lord." Surely, Brethren, this holiness ought to be inscribed just as much in our market places, in our exchanges, and on the little of the door posts of our houses as in the Sanctuaries of your Churches, where you gather together a few pieces of straw, and weave them into a garland, imagining that you will wear a crown in the eternal world. To these the world is everything; the soul is nothing. God's praises are but airy phantoms. The flattering prophecies of the world are ever sounding their acclamations, crying "Peace, peace," as the Prophet Jeremiah says, "when there is no peace." They are a "sounding brass and a tinkling symbol." Oh! how these false prophets of the demigogue of Satan, arrayed in sheep's clothing, assure their large companies following with delusive forms of corruption, that "all is well," extending and multiplying one great apostasy and falling away from Christ. Let us therefore brethren be on our guard against this mere profession in our religion, this outward cloke of holiness, this sentimental semblance and worldly enunciation. "Lord, Lord," when we do not the will of Him who is in heaven. Instead of Christians being guided in their conduct and actions by the word of God, what do we find?". We find godless numbers within the inclosure making it defile with its worldly spirit. Why should we expect to find the position of the Christian of to-day different from what it was in our Lord Jesus Christ's time? The world hated Him and He assured His disciples that the world would hate them. The Christian or the church that is loved by the world has lost its Christ. Where is that love of complacency? Where does this gratification terminate? Not other than God-less, Christ-less Christians, or a church, because he that loveth the world, the love of the father is not in him, because he doeth not the will of my father which is in Heaven. No man knows what he is, or in what does his being consists until he has risen beyond the heights of worldly arts and literature, with its rounds of social activities. He does not know what his soul is capable of being or able to feel, and what triumphs it can make, until he or she is brought under the influences of God. To some minds the reward of religion is purely confined to the idea of "getting to Heaven." But there is just one thing for you to remember: That the kind of a heaven we all shall enjoy shall depend very much, yes, very much, on the manner and the degree of our imitation of Christ, and only so. Those characteristics of life which distinguish men and women here one from the other, follow into the next. Neither does Heaven depend on a reward of merit! To him who strives after holiness there is no such thing "that Heaven is a merit ticket for being good." Heaven is not a prize, liken unto a reward book given to the clever boy at school. It is like that mental culture which the child has received, and afterwards he comes to appreciate more than the reward itself. It is only those who count the beads of their rosary, those who set out on long pilgrimages, those who think of worship and prayers as so much service rendered to God, those who give to Christian objects in the same spirit as they pay their taxes, those who would thus of buying as some profane Simony, the gifts of glory and eternal bliss from their Creator. Mere actions in themselves possess only a relative value, not an absolute goodness. Their merits as their demerits depend on the motives which stimulated and prompted. Mere forms of worship and devotions, listlessness, whispering and talking in our services, requires no spiritual effort, yea, no spiritual effort to bend the knee, mere external worship, giving forth mechanical intonation, but it does demand the consecration of all our mental and spiritual energies to offer to God that sacrifice which is well pleasing in His sight. What shall be said of those Christians which have the form of godliness with out power? Ah! The root of religion is not mere feelings, sudden emotions, a man does not pass, when in good health, from fainting into convulsions, and convultions into fainting; neither is religion a rapid series of spasms, but a steady progressive growth of holiness. We hear some one say, "He's got religion," as if it were some morsel to be digested. Conversion through some spasmodic excitement or ministerial eloquence working the human tension to an inequality of temperment, is not at all in accordance with scriptural truth and her teaching. Our Bible teach us, "Not by power nor by might but by my Spirit saith the Lord However humiliating it may be to hear, yet it is a Christian verity, that no man hath ever "conv ed" his own soul or that of his fellow creatures. True conversion comes forth from the heart, as that only came forth from Him, who was Our Lord and Saviour, in Gethsemene, a resignation of the Human Soul to the Will of Thy Divine. "Not my will but Thine be done." When our soul shall respond in watchfulness, when our spirit shall ascend in prayers, and our will accede in resignation to the Will of Our Father which is in Heaven, then may we expect, and not till then, that the deadness of our personal individual Christianity be quickened, and as sincere children of God we may cry, "Abba Father," through Jesus Christ Our Lord. "For not everyone that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of Heaven, but he that doeth the will of My Father, which is in Heaven."

RE-ELECTED OFFICERS AT THE CHEESE BOARD.

Annual Meeting Held on Saturday Afternoon.

In the Town Council Chamber—Mr Sommerville on the Cool Curing Method.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board was held in the Town Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 27th, beginning, at 2 o'clock.

The treasurer's report showed that $27.75 had been received and $17.25 expended, leaving a balance on hand of $10.50. The report was adopted.

Moved by Mr. E. M. Elliott, seconded by Mr. T. Young, that the Board engage an Instructor at the annual fee of $15 for instruction and 75 cents for Board fees, to be collected by the Treasurer.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. Costello, Mr. Ryan was appointed Board arbitrator.

On motion it was decided that the first meeting be held on Wednesday, May 18th.

The following officers were on motion re-elected:

President—Mr. J. M. Drummond.
Vice-President—Mr E. M. Elliott.
Secretary—Mr. John Riddell.
Treasurer—Mr G. F. Galvin.

Some heated opinions were expressed regarding the rules of the Board and the manner in which they had been broken. The action of buyers in asking for a rebate when the price of cheese fell from the time of purchase to delivery, was a point in which much interest was hinged.

Finally Mr. Sam Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Costello, moved that the sum of $100 be deposited with the salesman of each factory or selected by the buyer at the time of the sale, and that the said deposit be satisfactorily made.—Carried.

The Business over, Mr. Somerville, of Brockville was called upon for an address on the cool curing of cheese.

Mr. Somerville introduced his subject with a few remarks regarding the very successful year dairymen had experienced in 1903. He expected that the fairy business this year would be even better. He believed that all milk before being sent to the factory should be cooled to below 60 degrees, and, proposed that the patrons of the cheese factories store their ice in winter to cool their milk in summer. Mr. Somerville, who has charge of the Brockville cool curing factory, said that this method of the cool curing of cheese was very beneficial to the individual dairyman. By aid of charts he made a comparison between the quality, shrinkage and weight of cheese, cured at a regulated temperature by means of the cool curing room and those made in the usual manner. The figures showed that by his method the shrinkage was less and the quality of the cheese superior.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Somerville was given a hearty vote of thanks.

BIBLE AND HYMN BOOK FOR TEACHER.

Mrs. Caldwell Given a Tangible Expression of Pupils Good Wishes.

On Friday night the members of the Sunday school class taught by Mrs. Caldwell, at Bethel church, in Emily township, gathered at her residence to spend an evening with her before she and her husband removed to Peterborough. During the evening, the following address was read, and Mrs. Caldwell was presented with a handsome indexed Bible, and a Morocco-bound Methodist Hymn book, as a mark of appreciation for the services rendered by Mrs. Caldwell. The following is a copy of the address:—

Bethel, Feb'y 26, 1904.

To Mrs. Caldwell:

Dear Teacher,—It is with pleasure, but still with a feeling of sorrow that we meet with you to-night—pleasure because it is such to be in your presence, but regret because the tie that binds us as teacher and pupils will soon be severed on account of your going to reside in Peterborough.

Your patient, painstaking, self-sacrificing efforts in class No. 7 of which we have the pleasure of being members, have indeed won our highest esteem. We therefore gladly take advantage of this opportunity of expressing in some tangible form our appreciation of the untiring efforts you have put forth to instil into our minds the great truths of the Bible to form a higher conception of life, of Jesus Christ and of religion. And now, as a slight memento of our affection for you we take pleasure in presenting you with this gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a token of our esteem. Hoping you will long be spared to help along others as you have helped us, also your husband in his untiring efforts for the Master.

Signed by your class,

ISAAC GUTHRIE, ALLAN CASEY, TRUMAN BROWN, LEONARD ATWELL, WILFRED HAMILTON, MELVILLE McCARRELL.

Mrs. Caldwell, to whom the whole affair was a genuine surprise, expressed in a few words her hearty thanks for the gifts, and her appreciation of the kindly spirit, which prompted them. She also expressed a hope that her teaching had not been in vain, and that some results would come from her labours in the class. She assured the donors that the members of the class would always be remembered by her, and that she should wait with great interest the progress made by them. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell will remove to Peterborough shortly to reside.

THE CEREAL WORKS RESUME OPERATION.

Package Department Started this Morning to finish Product.

Large Staff at Present Employed Preparing the Mills for Working at Full Capacity—A Shut-Down of Only Thirteen Days.

After having been shut down for just thirteen working days, the package department of the American Cereal Company resumed operations this morning. When the fire occurred on February 17th, it was generally thought that the large mills would, of necessity, be idle for at least some months, and it was only due to the prodigious energy of the management that preparations to resume work have been pushed forward so rapidly.

The works will run with a decreased capacity for a short time, but product will be turned out to partially supply the demand until the mills are ready to resume full work, which, at the present rate of progress, will be only a short time. A large staff of men is at present employed in rehabilitating the mills, and within a short time the works will be running at full capacity.

ANNUAL MEETING OF BOARD OF TRADE.

To Be Held To-morrow Night—"Water Conservation" and "Fire Protection."

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be held to-morrow night in the Council Chamber, when two subjects will come under discussion—"Trent Valley Water Conservation" and "Fire Protection." There is hardly any doubt that since the Ontario Government has finally decided to hand over the small lakes and streams connected with the Trent System, to the Dominion Government, the cherished project of conserving the waters at the time of the spring flood should at once be taken up. Every citizen is aware of the fact that the life and prosperity of our town as a commercial centre depends upon the water power, which has seemingly been neglected owing to peculiar circumstance. Now there is a chance to save that which has previously gone to waste. Neither mere speculators nor others whose interest is merely of that nature, should be allowed to interfere with the general prosperity of this town.

The Board of Trade, under Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, has shown not only energy, but an ability to push forward definitely things which benefit the town and county, and of course, the country generally.

It is to be hoped that a successful administration of the Board's affairs may be continued in order that the community may be benefitted by work of a practical and positive nature.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED BY MASONIC ORDER.

Late Chas. Cameron Buried Yesterday Afternoon at Little Lake Cemetery.

The funeral of the late Charles Cameron took place yesterday afternoon, from his late residence, corner of Aylmer and Edinburgh streets, to the Little Lake cemetery, and was conducted under the auspices of the Masonic Order, about 150 members heading the procession. Some 75 vehicles conveyed other friends to the cemetery, the cortege extending some blocks in length.

The pallbearers were W. Bro. R. Logan, W. Bro. W. J. Martin and R. W. Bro. H. Rush of Peterborough Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, and V. Wor. Bro. H. C. Winch, W. Bro. H. C. Rogers, and V. W. Bro. A. Dawson, of Corinthian Lodge.

The impressive Masonic service at the family residence was conducted by Wor. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson, Master of Peterborough Lodge, assisted by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. H. Walkey. The beautiful Masonic ceremony at the grave, committing deceased's body to the dust and his spirit to God who gave it, was conducted by Wor. Bro. J. G. M. Wilson,, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush, Wor. Bro. H. C. Rogers, and Rt. Wor. Bro. W. H. Walkey. Bro. D H Moore officiated as Conductor of Ceremonies, and Bro. T. Tucker acted as Chaplain, a position filled for many years past at Masonic interments by the deceased, who seldom failed attendance at the obsequies of a departed brother.

The deceased was a conscientious member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and Rev. Dr. Torrance also officiated at the house and graveside.

Conspicuous among the many floral tokens of regard were a square and compass from the deceased's Masonic brethren, an anchor from the Sons of Scotland, a basket from the post office staff, and a star of flowers from Hon. J. R. Stratton.

VALUABLE WOOD LAND A BEGGING.

A Famine in Wood, but No One Purchases a Large Tract Offered for Sale.

Some Incidents of the Present Scarcity of Fuel Situation—Children Haul Coal on a Sleigh.

A sale of timber lands was advertised to take place on Friday at the Munroe House, when a large plot of land, about 18 miles from town, on which stood thousands of cords of hardwood, was offered for sale, but found no buyers. This is rather a remarkable fact when it is remembered that there is said to be, and in reality is, a wood famine. A local dealer received a shipment of wood on Saturday, and within half an hour of its arrival, the whole quantity had been disposed of, principally to persons whose orders had been in weeks ahead, and there were dozens of women who came to that particular wood office during Saturday morning almost begging to be sold wood, but there was none to be had.

It seems strange that with such a wood famine as is at present prevailing, the sale of this woodland should have excited so little interest that only a few insignificant bids were made for it. The woodland in question is easily accessible, the G.T.R. running through it, and the Trent waters forming a boundary for the property. This would give an alternative shipping route to Peterborough, and might reasonably have been supposed to be an additional inducement to purchase it. The statement is made that wood can be cut on this property, shipped to Peterborough, and sold at five dollars a cord at the highest, and in addition give a good margin of profit. If this is the case it would seem that 88 per cord, the present price, is a little high.

A gentleman told the Examiner that he saw a boy and girl, both under 12 years of age, hauling a small bag of coal from a local coal yard the other day, a sight seen only in hard times. This quantity of fuel, with the most careful husbanding, would furnish fuel for only a few hours in severe weather, and it seems a pity that with an abundance of fuel so easily obtainable consumers should be obliged to pay famine prices for wood.

PETERBOROUGH LADY'S EXCITING EXPERIENCE

Is Made the Target for a Stick of Wood, But the Aim was Wide and She was Uninjured.

The present scarcity of wood was the cause of one young lady going through rather an exciting experience the other night. About seven o'clock in the evening, the young lady in question went out to the wood shed which adjoins the dwelling, to replenish the wood-box, as it happened to be one of the many cold nights which have been experienced this winter. She did not take a light with her as she was familiar with the place, having performed the same duty every night. As she went into the place where the wood was stored, she heard a noise, which at once indicated the fact that there was someone in the shed before her. Calling her dog, which had followed her out, she sit him on the intruder, who immediately fled, not, however, before he had thrown a large stick of wood at the young lady. Fortunately, his aim was a little wide, and the stick barely touched the brave girl. Had it hit her in the head, as it was evidently intended that it should, the result might have been serious. As soon as the man had thrown the wood he fled rapidly, leaving littered along the path evidence of the fact that plunder had been his object, as an armful of wood was left lying on the snow. The night was hardly light enough for the young woman to identify her assailant, but she stood her ground well and deserves credit for the presence of mind she displayed in what was an exceedingly unpleasant situation.

Wood had been missed from this particular shed for some time, but it was not thought that the person taking it would get in his work so early in the evening. Needless to say this particular store of wood is being guarded a little more closely than formerly.

LATEST SPORT

PETERBOROUGH TEAM STILL IN RUNNING.

Will Play Midland in Semi-Final Game To-morrow Night.

Belleville Team Suspended and Peterborough Takes Its Place—A Fast Game for To-morrow.

The Globe this morning said :—"The O. H. A. Executive held a seven-hours' session on Saturday to dispose of the investigation into the status of "Reddy" McMillan and the Belleville Club. The result was the passage of a resolution that McMillan should be suspended and the Belleville Club's games cancelled.

Picton having disbanded, the Peterborough Club was declared the winners of the group, and ordered to play off with Midland in Peterborough on Tuesday, and in Midland on Thursday. The winner will play off with Stratford for the intermediate championship.

"Mr. E. Guss Porter, of Belleville resigned his membership in the Executive on account of the action in disposing of the Belleville case. The resignation was not accepted, but Mr. Porter declared that no matter what course was taken with it he was no longer a member."

The action of the Executive in placing the Peterborough team again in the running for the championship will come as a pleasant surprise both to the Peterborough public and members of the team, and the outcome of the remaining games will be awaited with interest. The local team is not in as good condition to play hockey as they were in their games earlier in the season. After the close of the series in this district, when they considered themselves out of the running, the members have done but little practising, only sufficient to keep themselves in shape to play exhibition games, and since the last game here with Picton, the team has played only one game. It will thus be seen that the team will not be in a condition to do itself justice. But the members will get back into the game, and do their best to end the season with credit to themselves and the town.

The game here to-morrow night should prove an interesting one. Midland surprised Belleville on Friday night, by defeating them by 10-7, and will no doubt make a good showing against the local team to-morrow night, when the first of the semi-final games will be played. Miller and Kemp, two Norwood players are on the Midland team this season, and are said to be fast men. In the second half of the game Friday night the Midlanders shut Belleville out, and those who saw the game say the easterners could simply do nothing with the Midland team at all. A team that can beat Belleville is not to be laughed at, and with such a team here to-morrow night the game is sure to be a fast one. Chucer Elliott will referee, which is a guarantee that the game will be clean. The team to represent Peterborough will be chosen to-night. The Executive will meet to-night at 9 o'clock at the Examiner office.

ANOTHER DEADLOCK IN THE TRENT VALLEY.

Napanee Want to Play at Night on Open Air Rink.

There is a deadlock in the schedule of the Trent Valley League. Napanee and T.A.S. are in the finals, and the championship should be decided by home and home games. Napanee has an open air rink, and the rules of the League say that in such cases games shall be played in the afternoon. Napanee however claims that their rink is excellently lighted, and desiring to get a good gate want the game to be played in the evening. The T.A.S. on their part feel that to play on an open air rink after night would be a great disadvantage to them, as no matter how well lighted an open air rink may be it is difficult to see after night.

Prior to going to press, Secretary Clarry received word from Napanee that they were agreeable to play a sudden death game in Peterborough. The match has been fixed for Thursday night at eight o'clock. Mr. Chaucer Elliott, of Kingston, will referee.

PUCKERINGS.

Ontario Hockey teams, according to the Toronto Telegram, might as well give up all hopes of securing the Stanley cup. As F. C. Waghorne tersely puts it, "Unless you can get a team of Hambers together there is no use in trying to beat Ottawa," and he is right for obvious reasons. A team to win at Ottawa has either to be composed of men like Phillips, who can out-skate the cup-holders so much as to run rings around them and can at the same time rough it, or of men like Hamber, who, by dint of hard knocks, can beat them into subjection.

CURLING.

The following games for the second draw for the Kendry Cup must be played to-night :

Clegg vs. Jeffries.
Neill vs R. Kerr.
Knapman vs Ray.
In the third draw C. Rutherford and Waddell will play.

Games in the points competition will be played this afternoon and evening.

POLICE COURT.

Only two offenders faced the Police Magistrate at the Court this morning. On Saturday night in order that he might obey the Commandment and do no work on the Sabbath Day, John Loucks got into a state of insensibility through excess of intoxicants. He was lodged in a cell over Sunday, and this morning his board bill amounted to $2.

Robt. J. Wolstenholm was charged with driving a team of horses and a sleigh on a planked sidewalk, contrary to bylaw No. 395. He was assessed to the tune of $2.

A few personal friends cannot allow it to pass unnoticed; therefore on behalf of the undersigned we ask you to accept this china tea, set of dishes, not for their intrinsic value, but for the love and esteem we have for you, and pray that you and your esteemed husband and little son Orville may be spared many years to use and enjoy them. There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

BRITISH GENERAL ELECTIONS.

Dissolution Predicted Within Six Weeks and Appeal to the Country.

London, Feb. 27.—The Associated Press is in a position to declare that there will be a dissolution of Parliament within six weeks, and if, as it is expected, the Liberals are returned to power, King Edward will summon Lord Spencer (Liberal leader in the House of Lords) to form a Cabinet.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The confession of Samuel Thompson of ballot stuffing in sub-division 9, Ward 4, for Controller Richardson, Ald. S. A. Jones and S. W. Burns, in the last elections, and of similar practices in the interests of C. C. Robinson, Ald. Hubbard and S. W. Burns, the year previous; the sudden termination of the investigation in the afternoon through the absence out of town of George Maguire and a notice of motion to serve a certiorari on Col. Denison, by counsel for Maguire and his poll clerk, W. Loudon, were the developments yesterday in the election frauds investigation.

NO SECRET.

There is no secret about Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The label tells the whole story. There is a knack in making it. The only secret about it is the secret of its success.

This year, when cod liver oil is very scarce and high, all kinds of cheap, inferior oils are used to take its place, and all sorts of things presented as substitutes. Think of petroleum being taken as a substitute for cod liver oil! —too absurd. Think of the so-called wines, extracts and cordials of cod liver oil! —they are simply the shadow without the substance; no food value in them.

Its quality and purity can be absolutely depended upon at all times.

BRITAIN'S ARMY ESTIMATES.

London, Feb. 29.—War Secretary Foster's explanatory statement of the army estimates was issued Saturday night. The estimates for the coming year will be $144,500,000, against $172,500,000 last year. The principal reduction is in this year's statements for South Africa, which total $3,070,000. Secretary Forster's estimates make no provision for expenditures in Somaliland, owing to the impossibility of forecasting the duration of operations there. He announces that it has been decided to concede the priority of India in the supply of new pattern rifles and quick-firing equipments for horse and field artillery. The equipment of the whole army will be completed in March, 1907.

Kidney Disease Results From Colds

Exposure of the Back to Drafts not an Infrequent Cause of This Dreadfully Painful Ailment

The kidneys are very susceptible to cold, so much so that a current of cold air on the back is sufficient to cause congestion of these organs.

It is also a very common thing for heavy colds to settle on the kidneys and give to the most complicated diseases.

While teamsters, railroad men and others whose work subjects them to more than ordinary exposure are especially liable to be overtaken by kidney disease, it is also frequent among indoor workers.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so wonderfully prompt in their action on the kidneys that they are especially valuable in cases of kidney disease which arise from colds.

Backache, highly coloured urine, pain or smarting when passing water, headache, cramps in the legs, constipation alternating with looseness of the bowels, fickle appetite, vomiting and general feelings of discomfort are among the most common symptoms.

The record of cures effected by means of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has not been equalled in the history of medicine. In the majority of the homes of Canada these pills are always at hand as an indispensable family medicine.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

WAR OFFICE REFORM

Further Recommendations of the Esher Commission.

SOME VERY DRASTIC CHANGES

Army Corps and Linked Battalion System Abolished—Generals to Be Freed From Routine Duty—General Staff Will Devote Undivided Attention to Military Problems in the Widest Sense.

London, Feb. 29.—(C.A.P.)—The second report of the Lord Esher commission has been issued and gives details of the proposed war office reforms. The most important recommendation of the committee is the creation of a general staff, which, in the words of the committee, "consists of a department devoting undivided attention to military problems in the widest sense and a body of officers occupied in time of peace in training all ranks of the army, and prepared to direct operations in the field."

Other important recommendations are the organization of the army by brigades instead of army corps, the creation of five "generals commanding-in-chief," commanding troops in five districts, freed from routine work which henceforth will be entrusted to eight administrative districts under major-generals and the abolition of the linked battalion system.

With a view to insuring the infusion of new blood the committee urges four years as the maximum period during which an officer shall serve as a military member of the army council. He should then resume active service or at least one year before again serving in the council. The same rule, the committee urges, should be enforced throughout the military staff of the war office.

In order to emphasize the allegiance of the army to the King, the committee recommends that nobody except the King or his representatives abroad, should hold levees, and the committee also urges that no levees should be held excepting by royal command.

The feature of the report which meets with general approval is the final disappearance of the Broderick system involved in the abolition of the army corps, with the exception of the first or expeditionary army corps, at Aldershot, which is still retained.

They Agree on 9 Points.

London, Feb. 29.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Sir John Brodrick, Secretary of State for India, speaking at Manchester, objected to the fiscal question being the only question before the country. He regretted that men in agreement on nine points with the Unionist party should band themselves with the Duke of Devonshire on the tenth point. The issue was not free trade against protection, but the policy of not lying down under protection. The conduct of the Unionist party in connection with John Morley's amendment would have the sure result of the defeat of the party at the polls. He protested against the fiscal question being made a test question by any section of the Unionist party.

Let the Majority Rule.

London, Feb. 29.—(C. A. P.)—Sir John Forrest, Minister of the Interior for the Commonwealth of Australia, speaking at Melbourne, said he wanted an electoral law allowing Government by majorities instead of as at present by minorities.

Colliers Strike.

London, Feb. 29.—(C. A. P.)—The colliers at Newcastle, New South Wales, have struck work. The question of a wages scale will be submitted under the Arbitration Act.

London Dailies.

London, Feb. 29.—(C.A.P.)—The Daily Mail and Daily Express refused to insert the advertisement of the reduction of the price of The Daily Chronicle to one cent. The Daily News declined unless it was permitted to revise the advertisement but The Morning Leader published the full announcement.

Preference Doomed.

London, Feb. 29.—(C. A. P.)—A writer in The Fortnightly Review says that the break in the Tory ranks has only occurred among the leaders. Mr. Chamberlain's coffers are full, and his wonderful organization will draw the Conservatives and secure him the Premiership. The colonial preference is doomed through the action of the landowners, led by the Duke of Devonshire. The colonial Governments will never consent to let their budgets depend on the varying moods of the British electorate. Nor will the British people tie their hands by having to consult half a dozen colonies whenever any fiscal changes have to be made.

Temporary Aberation.

London, Feb. 29.—(C. A. P.)—The Hon. Henry James Anson's suicide was attributable to temporary aberration, supervening an attack of influenza.

Where Australia Stands.

London, Feb. 29.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Josiah Symon, the leader of the Opposition in the Australian Senate says that Australia is not extending her arms to welcome any trade proposals or preferences which would likely involve reductions in her own protective duties in favor of England.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

This was Morris's reply, and in the conversation which ensued Wilford Cameron caught glimpses of a nobler, higher phase of manhood than he had thought existed; feeling an unbounded respect for one who, because he believed it to be his duty, was, as it seemed to him, wasting his life among people who could not appreciate his character, though they might idolize the man. But this did not reconcile Wilford one whit the more to Silverton. Uncle Ephraim had completed the work commenced by the two feather beds, and at breakfast next morning, he announced his intention of returning to New York that day To this Morris offered no objection, but asked to be remembered to the mother and sisters, and then invited Wilford to stop altogether at Linwood when he came again to Silverton.

"Thank you; but it is hardly probable that I shall be here very soon," Wilford replied, adding, as he met the peculiar glance of Morris's eye, "I found Miss Katy a delightful traveling acquaintance, and on my way from Newport thought I would renew it and see a little of rustic life."

Poor Katy! how her heart would have ached could she have heard those words and understood their meaning, just as Morris did, feeling a rising indignation for the man with whom he could not be absolutely angry, he was so self-possessed, so pleasant and gentlemanly, while better than all, was he not virtually giving Katy up? and if he did might she not turn at last to him?

These were Morris's thoughts as he walked with Wilford across the fields to the farm-house, where Katy met them with her sunniest smile, singing to them, at Wilford's request, her sweetest song, and making him half wish he could revoke his hasty decision and tarry a little longer. But it was now too late for that, the carriage which would take him to the depot was already on its way from Linwood; and when the song was ended he told her of his intentions to leave on the next train, feeling a pang when he saw how the blood left her cheek and lip, and then came surging back as she said timidly: "Why need you leave so soon?"

"I have already overstayed my time. I thought of going yesterday, and my partner, Mr. Ray, will be expecting me," Wilford replied, laying his hand upon Katy's hair, while Morris and Helen stole quietly from the room.

"Yes," and Katy's blue eyes were lifted pleadingly to the young man, who had never loved her so well as at that very moment when resolving to cast her off.

For a moment Wilford was strongly tempted to throw all pride aside, and ask that young girl to be his, but thoughts of his mother, of Juno and Bell, and more than all, thoughts of Uncle Ephraim and his sister Betsy, arose in time to prevent it, and so he only kissed her forehead caressingly as he said good-bye, telling her that he should not soon forget his visit to Silverton, and then, as the carriage drove up, going out to where the remainder of the family were standing together and commenting upon his sudden departure.

It was not sudden, he said, trying to explain. He really had thought seriously of going yesterday, and feeling that he had something to atone for, he tried to be unusually gracious as he shook their hands, thanking them for their kindness, but seeming wholly oblivious to Aunt Betsy's remark that "she hoped to see him again, if not in Silverton, in New York, where she wanted dreadfully to visit, but never had on account of the 'bominable prices charged to the taverns, and she hadn't no acquaintances there."

This was Aunt Betsy's parting remark, and, after Katy, Aunt Betsy liked Wilford Cameron better than any one of the group which watched him as he drove from their door. Aunt Hannah thought him too much stuck up for farmers' folks; Mrs. Lennox, whose ambition would have accounted him a most desirable match for her daughter, could not deny that his manner towards them, though polite in the extreme, was that of a superior to people greatly beneath him; while Helen, who saw clearer than the rest, read him aright and detected the struggle between his pride and his love for poor little Katy, whom she found sitting on the floor, just where Wilford left her standing, her head resting on the chair and her face hidden in her hands as she sobbed quietly, hardly knowing why she cried, or what to answer was Helen asked what was the matter.

"It was so queer in him to go so soon," she said, "just as if he were offended about something."

"Never mind, Katy," Helen said, soothingly. "If he cares for you he will come back again. He could not stay here always, of course; and I must say I respect him for attending to business, if he has' any. He has been gone from home for weeks you know."

This was Helen's reasoning; but it did not comfort Katy, whose face looked white and sad, as she moved listlessly about the house, almost crying again when she heard in the distance the whistle of the train which was to carry Wilford Cameron away and end his first visit to Silverton.

CHAPTER VI.

Katy Lennox had been very sick, and the bed where Wilford slept had stood in the parlor during the long weeks while the obstinate fever ran its course; but she was better now, and sat nearly all day before the fire, sometimes trying to crochet a little, and again turning over the books, which Morris had brought to interest her—Morris, the kind physician, who had attended her so faithfully, never leaving her while the fever was at its height, unless it was necessary, but staying with her day and night, watching her symptoms carefully, and praying so earnestly that she might not die, not, at least, until some token had been given that again in the better world he should find her, where partings were unknown, and where no Wilford Cameron could contest the prize with him. Not that he was greatly afraid of Wilford now; that fear had mostly died away just as the hope had died from Katy's heart that she would never meet him again.

Since the September morning when he had left her, she had not heard from him except once, when in the winter, Morris had been to New York, and having a few hours' leisure on his hands, had called at Wilford's office, receiving a most cordial reception, and meeting with Mark Ray, who impressed him as a man quite as highly cultured as Wilford, and possessed of more character and principle This call was not altogether of Morris's seeking, but was made rather with a view to pleasing Katy, who, when she learned that he was going to New York, had said inadvertently: "Oh, I do so hope you'll meet with Mr. Cameron, for then we shall know that he is neither sick nor dead, as I have sometimes feared."

And so Morris had sought his rival, feeling repaid for the effort it had cost him, when he saw how glad Wilford seemed to meet him. The first commonplaces over, Wilford inquired for Katy. Was she well, and how was she occupying her time this winter?

"Both Helen and Katy are pupils of mine," Morris replied, "reciting their lessons to me every day when the weather will admit of their crossing the fields to Linwood. We have often wondered what had become of you, that you did not even let us know of your safe arrival home," he added, looking Wilford full in the eye and rather enjoying his confusion as he tried to apologize.

He had intended writing, but an unusual amount of business had occupied his time "Mark will tell you how busy I was," and he turned appealingly to his partner, in whose expressive eyes Morris read that Silverton was not unknown to him.

But if Wilford had told him anything derogatory of the farm-house or its inmates, it did not appear in Mark Ray's manner, as he replied that Mr Cameron had been very busy since his return from Silverton, adding: "From what Cameron tells me of your neighborhood there must be some splendid hunting and fishing there, and I had last fall half a mind to try it."

This time there was something comical in the eyes turned so mischievously upon Wilford, who colored scarlet for an instant, but soon recovered his composure, and invited Morris home with him to dinner.

"I shall not take a refusal," he said, as Morris began to decline. "Mother and the ladies will be delighted to see you again. Mark will go with us, of course."

There was something so hearty in Wilford's invitation that Morris did not again object, and two hours later found him in the drawing room at No. — Fifth Avenue, receiving the friendly greetings of Mrs Cameron and her daughter each of whom vied with the other in their polite attentions to him

Morris did not regret having accepted Wilford's invitation to dinner, as by this means he saw the home which had well-nigh been little Katy Lennox. She would be sadly out of place here with these people, he thought, as he looked upon all their formality, and contrasted it with what Katy had been accustomed to. Juno would kill her outright was his next mental comment, as he watched that haughty lady dividing her coquetries between himself and Mr. Ray who being in every way desirable, both in point of family and wealth, was evidently her favorite. She had colored scarlet when first presented to Dr. Grant, and her voice had trembled when she took his offered hand, for she remembered the time when her liking had not been concealed, and was only withdrawn at the last when she found how useless it was to waste her affections upon one who did not prize them.

When Wilford first returned from Silverton, he had, as a sure means of forgetting Katy, told his mother and sisters something of the farm-house and its inmates; and Juno, while ridiculing both Helen and Katy, had felt a fierce pang of jealousy in knowing they were cousins to Morris Grant, who lived so near that he could, if he liked, see them everyday. In Paris, Juno had suspected that somebody was standing between her and Dr. Grant, and with the quick insight of a bright, smart woman, she guessed that it was one of these cousins—Katy most likely, her brother having described Helen as very commonplace—and for a time she had hated poor, innocent Katy most cordially for having come between her and the only man for whom she had ever really cared. Gradually, however, the feeling died away, but was revived again at the sight of Morris Grant, and at the table she could not forbear saying to him:

"By the way, Dr. Grant, why did you never tell us of those charming cousins, when you were in Paris? Brother Will described one of them as like a little water-lily, she is so fair and pretty. Katy, I think, is her name. Wilford, isn't it Katy Lennox whom you think so beautiful, and with whom you are more than half in love?"

"Yes, it is Katy," and Wilford spoke sternly, for he did not like Juno's bantering tone, but he could not stop her, and she went on.

"Are they your own cousins, Dr. Grant?"

"No, they are removed from me two or three degrees, their father having been only my second cousin."

The fact that Katy Lennox was not nearly enough related to Dr. Grant to prevent his marrying her if he liked, did not improve Juno's amiability, and she continued to ask questions concerning both Katy and Helen, the later of whom she persisted in thinking was strong-minded, until Mark Ray came to the rescue, diverting her attention by adriotly complimenting her in some way, and so relieving Wilford and Morris, both of whom were exceedingly annoyed.

"When Will visits Silverton again, I mean to go with him," she said to Morris at parting, but he did not tell her that such an event would give him the greatest of pleasure. On the contrary he merely replied:

"If you do you will find plenty of room at Linwood for those four trunks which I remember seeing in Paris, and your brother will tell you whether I am a hospitable host or not."

Biting her lip with chagrin, Juno went back to the drawing-room, while Morris returned to his hotel, accompanied by Wilford, who passed the entire evening with him, appearing somewhat constrained, as if there was something on his mind which he wished to say; but it remained unspoken, and there was no allusion to Silverton, until, as Wilford was leaving, he said:

"Remember me kindly to the Silverton friends, and say I have not forgotten them."

And this was all there was to carry back to Katy, who on the afternoon of Morris's return from New York, was at Linwood, waiting to pour his tea and make his toast, she pretended, though the real reason was shining all over her telltale face, which grew so bright and eager when Morris said:

"I dined at Mr. Cameron's, Kitty."

But the brightness gradually faded as Morris described his call and then repeated Wilford's message.

"And that was all," Katy whispered sorrowfully as she beat the damask cloth softly with her fingers, shutting her lips tightly together to keep back her disappointment.

When Morris glanced at her again there was a tear on her long eyelashes, and it dropped upon her cheek, followed by another and another, but he did not seem to see it, and talked of New York, and the fine sights on Broadway until Katy was able to take part in the conversation.

"Please don't tell Helen that you saw Wilford," she said to Morris as he walked home with her after tea, and that was the only allusion she made to it, never after that mentioning Wilford's name or giving any token of the love still so strong within her heart, and waiting only for some slight token to waken it again to life and vigor.

"I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life."

That is the statement of a woman who had never been well until she was made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There are a great many other women in like case. They have always been sufferers from disease. They have never known the joy of perfect health.

For all such women Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription holds out the prospect of perfect and permanent health, by the cure of the womanly diseases which weaken women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"It gives me pleasure to let you know of the great benefit received from Dr. Pierce's medicines and the advice which you so kindly sent," writes Mrs Bertie Parker, of Bonham, Fannin Co., Texas. "I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and followed your advice regarding the 'Lotion Tablets' and am cured. I had been treated by different doctors and spent one hundred dollars for treatment and medicine, but received very little relief. I have only spent seventeen dollars and fifty cents for your medicine and it has cured me in three or four months of ulceration and falling of uterus. I suffered severe misery in my back, also irregular periods. Had bearing-down in lower portion of body and great pain all through my body. Pain in uterus was very severe. Had smothering spells, breath was very short all the time, had pain in stomach, pain in my thighs, pain in breast also between my shoulders. Bowels constipated. I am well now and enjoying better health than ever before in my whole life. Am happy to tell you that I was cured by your good advice and good medicines, the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Pleasant Pellets' and 'Lotion Tablets.' These medicines cured me and will cure others also."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels.

PORT HOPE WANTS LOCAL TERMINUS.

First Annual Meeting of the Association.

Assurance of an Independent Government Survey—Attention of the Transportation Commission to be Drawn to the Trent Valley and Port Hope Route.

The Toront oGlobe has the following report of the first annual meeting of the Port Hope Canal Association:

The first annual meeting of the Port Hope Canal Association which was held in the Town Hall here this evening, was largely attended. The chair was occupied by Dr. L. B. Powers, president of the association. Mr. J. A. Clark, second vice-president, gave a comprehensive synopsis of the past year's efforts of the association in directing the attention of the Dominion Government and the Canadian public in general to the desirability of an early completion of the Trent Valley Canal and the advantages of the ports on the routes as the southern outlet into Lake Ontario. The Government had been again approached on the matter, and th speaker assured the meeting that an independent survey would be made as promised in the first place.

The chairman, Dr. Powers, then gave further details as to the association's labours in the past, and urged the present as an opportune time to press for a consideration of the claims of the Port Hope route by the Royal Commission on transportation. He read a letter from Mr. J. Alex Culverwell, who has been in correspondence with Mr. John Bertram, of Toronto, Chairman of the Royal Commission on Transportation, expressing the general desire existing among the interested municipalities of having the commissioners take up the question and examine into the advisability of completeing a large natural link in the transportation system of the Dominion, and if decided favourably to take prompt action towards construction of the same.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. L. B. Powers; vice-presidents, H. A. Ward, M. P., and Mr. J. F. Clark; secretary, Harold Barrett; treasurer, Thomas Long; executive Committee, Mayor Quinland and town council. S. Purser, Dr. R. A. Corbett, Wm. McLean, R. Deyell, Robt. Gray, Thos. Garnett, G. M. Furby, J. H. Helm, R. A. Mulholland, H. H. Chisholm, Jno. Curds, T. B. Chalk, W. Williamson, A. A. Jordan, J. F. Honor, A. H. C. Long, and H. T. Bush.

A committee, consisting of Dr. Powers, J. F. Clark, and H. Barrett, was appointed as a deputation in the interests of the Port Hope association to attend the sitting of the Royal Commission on Transportation to be held shortly in Peterborough, and to extend an invitation to the commissioners to hold a sitting in Port Hope and go over the route.

SKIRMISHING NEAR PINGYANG

Yinkow, Feb. 29.—Four trains of Russian refugees from points south of Taschischias went north Saturday. One American and two British subjects who were expelled from Port Arthur without being given the right to remove their property declare they were expelled because of alleged relations with newspaper correspondents, which charge, they say, was unjustifiable.

The authorities say that they are justified in expelling all civilians who are not required for defence. The authorities have refused to permit the British Captain Riddell and his ship, Foxton Hall, to sail for Che Foo. It is understood that if the ship is released a Russian skipper will be sent with her for the purpose of preventing intelligence of the Russian operations being given to the Japanese blockaders.

Nineteen Japanese Captured.

Yinkow, Feb. 29.—The first reports by eye-witnesses of the engagement at Port Arthur in the early morning of Wednesday last have been received here. They say one Japanese coal hulk was sunk and one was beached near the Retvizan, and that nineteen Japanese in civilian clothes escaped ashore, where they were afterwards captured. The Askold and Bayan approached the Japanese fleet, and then returned, being unable to entice the enemy to engage them. From long range two shells struck in the city.

The Retvizan is serviceable as an auxiliary fort, but the foreign engineer, who has been at work on her, has abandoned the hope of raising her, as the patching on the forty-foot cleft made by a Japanese torpedo has given way, and because the Russian engineers have interfered with the original plans for raising the vessel. The Czarevitch is kept afloat by constant pumping, the Novik has been repaired, and the Pallada has been docked.

Repeated attacks by the Japanese during the past week have resulted in the constant shifting of the troops, including the naval contingent organized from the crews of the disabled and idle warships, to all parts of the defences and also to the hinterland. Refugees arriving here Saturday report that the Russians momentarily fear land invasions of Port Arthur from Pigeon Bay.

Took Three British Ships.

Paris, Feb. 29.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Figaro telegraphs that the Russian cruiser Dmitri Donskoi has captured three steamers flying the British flag, which were taking 15,000 tons of coal to Nagasaki. The Russian cruiser has been in the Red Sea since the war began. The correspondent further assets that Russia's plan for campaign contemplates the retirement of Russian troops without opposing the Japanese landings; and, when sufficient reinforcements arrive, the offensive will be taken and Port Arthur will be relieved.

Mysterious Shot Fired.

Signals made with red and white lights have been seen on the hills near the Gherountschou line, but they disappear upon the approach of Russian scouts.

It is reported from Nadachi that a Russian sentinel stationed near a small tunnel was fired upon. He returned the shot, but did not hit his man.

Armed persons in disguise have appeared near Datsan, just over the frontier.

Will Wait For Russians in Corea.

Paris, Feb. 29.—The Matin yesterday publishes information which it declares to be reliable, to the effect that the recent Japanese attacks at Port Arthur were preliminary to the execution of a plan which includes the investment of Port Arthur, the renewal of the attack by land and sea until the place is reduced, the occupation of Corea and the erection of fortifications there. The Matin continues, Japan will await operations on the part of the Russians. In any event the Japanese will not venture into Manchuria, but await their adversaries in Corea.

One Jap Was Lost.

Che Foo, Feb. 29.—Japanese soldiers, who landed here Sunday, are from the Jinsen Maru, and the Bushiu Maru, two of the merchant vessels with which Vice-Admiral Togo attempted to block the entrance to Port Arthur on Feb. 24.—Lieut. Saito, commanded the Jinsen Maru, and Lieut. Tarisaki the Bushiu Maru. Each steamer was manned by 30 men, 29 of whom are here. One man of Lieut. Saito's command was killed while lowering a boat on the Jinsen Maru.

THE CHURCHES.

PARK STREET BAPTIST.

The ordinance of Baptism was again observed at the Park street Baptist church yesterday. The day's services were full of interest, and the night congregation taxed the building to its utmost capacity. The evening subject was "Believe and Pays." The preacher congratulated the church on its liberal offering, and suggested how they could still improve on it.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

At All Saints' yesterday, the Rev. William Major of Toronto, took the services and preached two excellent sermons, which delighted the more than ordinarily large congregations. The reverend gentleman took for his morning text, Mark iv, 38, "And he was in the hinder part of the ship asleep on a pillow." During the offertory Mr. and Mrs. Greenslade sang with much sweetness, the duet, "Saved by Grace." At the evening service the preacher took for his text Gen. xxviii, 12, "And he dreamed and behold a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven, and he beheld the angels of God ascending and descending upon it." At this service the choir rendered the anthem "Send out thy Light," by Gounod, which was beautifully rendered the phrasing showing excellent training and judgment.

JAPANESE MAKE FRESH ATTACKS.

Port Arthur Being Bombarded From Land and Sea.

CZAR TO LEAD HIS TROOPS.

Has a Desire to go to the Front and Thinks His Presence Would Inspire His Troops—Russian Cruisers and Torpedo Boats Damaged.

(Special G. N. W Despatch to the Examiner.)

ATTACKS ON PORT ARTHUR.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—The report has spread in all parts of the city that the Japanese have made a great combined attack by sea and land on Port Arthur, that fighting is going on now and that there have been further naval losses.

THE CZAR'S DESIRE.

Vienna, March 1.—The Zeit publishes a St. Petersburg despatch stating that the Czar himself desires to go to the far East, much against Gen Kuropatkins wishes. The newspaper says this statement is confirmed by an exalted military authority who declares the Russian Emperor is anxious to maintain the fighting traditions of his ancestors and is convinced of his own military ability. Besides he desires by his presence to encourage his troops and to check dissention among his chief officers.

RUSSIAN CRUISERS DAMAGED.

London, March 1. — The Daily Telegraph correspondent at Yin Kow says the Japanese fleet battered Port Arthur for a couple of hours yesterday, and forced back into the harbour the cruisers Novik, Askold and Bayan, which came out to meet them accompanied by several torpedo boats. The Askold and Novik were badly damaged, and a torpedo boat was sunk, while the Retvizan was damaged again.

For a week now there has been no authentic information from Vladivostock, and the belief is growing that a Japanese squadron is off that port, and has bottled up the Russian cruisers after the example set at Port Arthur.

There are no new developments in the Corean situation. The Coreans, according to the Times' cables, welcome the Japanese and believe in the honesty of their intentions. From various quarters come reports of Russian unreadiness to undertake a campaign in Corea and it is evident that their will be no serious fighting until the Japanese seek to cross the Yalu. The country in which operations are being conducted is buried deep in snow.

GIRL SUICIDES IN BELMONT TOWNSHIP.

Edith Garow Takes Her Own Life by Taking Diamond Dye.

No Case Given for Her Act—The Coroner Investigating the Affair.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Havelock, March 1st.—The community this morning was greatly shocked and grieved to hear of the tragic death of Edith Garrow, who lived about ten miles from here. She is a twin and has a half sister living at Coe Hill. The young lady has been visiting at Mr. Mike McNichols and returned to Mr. D. Monroe's, about eight miles from the village. On Saturday afternoon Mrs. Monroe and Harold came into Havelock, (Mr. Monroe and the hired man were working in the woods) leaving Edith alone in the house. When Mr. Monroe returned to the house about 6.30, he found his empty razor case lying on the table, the fire out and the house in darkness. He went upstairs and found the girl lying dead across the bed. Coming down he met Mrs. Monroe returning from the village. The girl was lying across the bed, her face, hands and mouth purple. It is supposed she took Diamond Dye, part of a package which had been in the house, was lying empty. She had also broken into and obtained strychine from a trunk belonging to Mr. Monroe. There was blood on the razor and on each side of her neck, but no other sign that the razor had been the means of her death. The package of strychine had apparently not been touched. To all appearance she died from the Diamond Dye. No reason can be given why she should take her life, except that three years ago her mother died, and since then she has several times expressed herself as not wishing to live. No other reason can be accounted for it.

Dr. Gray, the Coroner, was notified of the affair and made preparation to leave for Havelock last night. But as the trains were not running was unable to reach that village. He will goon the first train.

CANADA LIFE'S PROGRESS.

The 57th Annual Report Indicates a Record Year.

Some idea of the magnitude of life insurance business may be gathered from the statement that the Canada Life now carries assurances amounting to well nigh one hundred million dollars—over $95,500,000, to be more definite. When it is further stated that the sum of about $27,000,000 has already been paid out to policy-holders and their heirs by the Canada Life, one is impressed with the vast benefits that result from this great modern method of systematized saving and protection.

That the Canada Life has done well by its clients is evident from its remarkable record of having already paid or credited to policyholders $114 for every $100 paid by them.

The public's practical appreciation of this Company's successful and liberal management is evident from the amount of new business paid for during 1903. This was more than $10,000,000 in amount, an increase over even the remarkable showing of the preceding year.

The assets of the Company now stand at over $27,000,000, on the most conservative valuation. The Company's policy reserves are computed on the strongest basis employed by any old-established Life Company on the Continent. This means absolute security and increased interest-earning funds that will contribute largely to the future surplus of policyholders.

Among the many passengers who were snowbound in Peterborough today was Sir Charles Tupper, the veteran Conservative an ex-Leader of the Opposition in the Dominion House. Sir Charles said in his opinion, there was no doubt on that point.

UNION LABEL PETERBOROUGH

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 1904.

MR. SOMMERVILLE'S ADDRESS ON CURING.

Delivered at the Cheese Board Annual Meeting.

Case Curing for Cheese is a Necessity if Highest Quality of Produce is Desired—An Instructive Address.

At the meeting of the Cheese Board on February 27th, Mr. Somerville of Brockville, took up the question of cheese curing rooms, of which the essence is that cool curing rooms for cheese were a necessity. A great saving was effected by a progressive system of this kind in the manufacture of cheese, in order to save the shrinkage, and to obtain the best quality, which can not be obtained otherwise. But while this subject has been under discussion for some years past, there has not been as much progress along the line of cool storage for cheese as was expected.

Therefore, something more had to be done to convince those who were engaged in the manufacture of cheese that it was a matter of economy, if nothing else, to spend sufficient money for the improvement of cool curing rooms, or curing-warehouses, to ensure proper control of the temperature at all seasons of the year. With this object in view, four illustration stations were established by the Dairymen's Department of Agriculture, sufficiently large enough to attract the general attention and to get a comparatively large number of people directly interested in the results. At these four illustration stations over three million pounds of cheese were collected during the season of 1903, from some forty factories. As these cheese were collected from the different factories a number from the same vat from each factory was set aside each week.

After being carefully weighed, one was plated in the curing room, and the mate to it put in the upper story, where the temperature was not controlled. When the cheese of the corresponding week were shipped, these cheese were again weighed as before, and the difference in shrinkage noted.

From this difference the saving in shrinkage was shown on the whole lot by a diagram that Mr. Somerville had with him. This table shows the actual saving of shrinkage on all the cheese handled at these four cool curing stations this last season, viz.:

	lbs. shipped weight	lbs. shrinkage saved	value
Woodstock	1,128,442	15,823	$1,501.59
Brockville	741,599	9,689	1,011.39
Cowansville	1,337,159	13,694	1,497.44
St. Hyacinthe	711,076	6,816	6,99.76
Total average	3,758,276	16,022	$4,813.08

Hence we see the total value of the saving is $4,813.08, which would represent the interest at six per cent. on about $80,000 capital stock invested by forty factories at $2,000 to each factory. Then as we all know, the past season was very cool, and a moist atmosphere prevailed all summer. How much greater would the shrinkage saved be in the ordinary summer! But the saving in shrinkage is only one consideration, the main question being the improvement of the cheese in quality in order that we may obtain the highest price possible.

It has been proven by experiments that a high temperature has a tendency to make the texture of the cheese rough and mealy, and in some cases it will also show a greasiness which is undesirable, or in other words it destroys that silkiness of texture. A bad flavoured cheese is intensified at a high temperature, but may be saved from going off flavour, while their mate in cool cured state remain sound.

The time has come when cool cured cheese will not only increase the cheese industry, but will help to increase the consumption of the same, thus affording a much better market, and forcing our prices to a much higher point than has been yet obtained.

The day is not far distant when we will have cold storage ware houses to benefit the cheese industry at large, and giving a much greater stimulus to the trade.

Mr. Somerville also showed what might be gained by parafining cheese but he thought better to go slow on this point at present.

DWYER'S CORNERS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Bad roads, and lots of snow, is the order of the day.

Miss Mary Catherine Henn of Asphodel, was the guest of Miss Mary Ellen Henn, on Sunday last.

Mr. John Christie, our local hog buyer, is doing a rushing business in hogs. Jack says that the market is low and the roads very bad.

Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Collins were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Clancy of Asphodel, on Sunday last.

Mr. John J. Dalton and Andy Allan cut two cords of maple and beech in one day last week for Mr. William Henn, of Asphodel? Who can beat this record?

Miss Agnes Ross has returned home looking hale and hearty from Mr. William Barry's, of Hastings, where she has been employed for the last six months.

Mr. John Dalton, of Dummer, is busy drawing wood to the Boundary School, and in a week or two expected to have it completed if the roads keep good.

Mr. Thomas Christie of Asphodel, is at present drawing straw from the premises of Mr. Patrick Cavanagh. It is without doubt a bad time of winter to run short of straw.

Mr. Wilfrid Quinlin is busy cutting wood on his new farm every day, and says he has as much as two years' wood cut.

SLEEP IS PRICELESS.

But It can be Obtained by Simple Methods.

Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day's labour, and instead of retiring to bed with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose, do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable itching of the rectum? Do you then endeavour to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion?

If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Mowry, 70 Pearl street, Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching, which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it tonight, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to well to write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

LAMENTED DEATH OF MOTHER ST. FRANCIS.

Was in Charge of St. Joseph's House of Providence for Some Time.

Her Death Occurred in Port Arthur on Feb. 11th—A Self-Sacrificing Sister.

On Thursday, Feb. 11th, just as the morn was breaking, and the first glimmer of light in the east, heralded the approach of day, the soul of Mother M. Francis, of Fort William, passed away from earth to greet the eternal dawn. Like a child falling asleep without a struggle or sign, she departed. He last words, addressed to a Sister who had performed some little service were,—"May God reward you for your kindness." "Mother Francis is dead," may not mean much to many who kno wher not. But to her Sisters in religion, and to any one who has once felt the influence of her loving heart they came with a great shock.

Mother Francis was Miss Norah Burke, of Pickering, Ont., and thirty-one years ago entered the Novitiate of St. Joseph's Convent, Toronto. Her amiable disposition soon endeared her to all her fellow Religious. Many of the pupils of the Convent in those days will remember her. How could they forget the gentle footsteps and kindly smile, the ready sympathy and helping hand of the good Sister. When a pupil, lonely and homesick, after her first separation from her loved ones, sought for comfort, she was sure to find it in the loving words of this sympathetic Nun.

In 1885, when the Sisters were asked to take charge of the Indian Mission at Fort William, this self-sacrificing Sister volunteered to go, and offered for the conversion of one near and dear to her, the severing of all the ties she had formed in the Convent. God blessed her desires and her good-will by giving her such an interest in her work, that it became a labour of love. She would gladly have spent her life among her dear Indians. In 1896 failing health obliged her to come easty, and she was stationed at St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, where notwithstanding her own sufferings she was always bright and cheerful. Her next mission was Lindsay, where her memory as an amiable, humble, self-denying religious will live for many a day. Night or day her services were at the command of all who needed them. She never seemed to mind the nature or difficulty of the work to be done. Her patience was unbounded and her life so mortified, that no one ever heard her complain of what was served her. In 1902, she was placed in charge of the House of Providence, Peterborough, where she was indeed indefatigable in her labours for the sick and poor. Last September the desire of her heart was granted, and she was sent back to her beloved Indians at Fort William Mission. God accepted the dedication of her life and has called her home to her reward. A weak heart left her unable to combat the dread disease, pneumonia, and the day came when she saw the sun set, never again to see it rise. She died at Port Arthur Hospital, where she had been taken for treatment.

The funeral was held at the Mission Church on Friday morning, 12th inst., at 9 o'clock. The church was heavily draped, and the solemn services of the dead were very impressive. The Rev. Fathers LeMarche, Dugas, Argin, and La Fortune were in the sanctuary. The Mayor of Port Arthur and many of the prominent merchants of both towns were present. There was great grief among the Indians, who filled every available space in the sacred edifice. They have lost in Mother Frances a true friend, and surely He, who has said that He will reward a cup of cold water given in His name, will welcome her home, and forgive her faults for the greatness of her love, and not detaining her long from the sight of His glory in Heaven.

CLYDESDALE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The snow is very deep here, and the roads are impassible in many places. Traffic is almost suspended. A train only gets to Coe Hill once a week. Mail seems a thing of the past, it is so long getting here. The lumbering camps are sending away their hired teams, as the snow is so deep they cannot make it pay.

This vicinity is threatened with a famine in flour is the present conditions remain much longer, as no freight is moving at all, and the business men cannot get in a fresh stock. Feed is getting scarce also.

The jobbers are becoming discouraged. Some are striving to get tan bark to Coe Hill. Among them are Messrs. Trotter & Co.

Mr. Tom Trotter has retired for the winter.

The Misses Gouley from Peterborough, are home visiting.

Mr. P. Gouley is preparing to erect a large frame barn in the spring, as is also Mr. M Hobbins. Mr. John Trotter has returned home again, and it took him four days to make the trip from Warsaw.

RUSH POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We have had a great depth of snow here, but the great traffic keeps the roads in very good condition.

Mr. J. Harnden is out from the woods again.

Mr. Thomas Dwyer is under the doctor's care.

An oyster supper will be held in the Round Lake church on Wednesday, March 2nd.

Wood is a good price here now. Dry hardwood sells for $6 per cord; green, $5 per cord. But little is being taken out, it being very scarce, and the snow making it almost impossible to get into the woods.

The Canada Life Assurance Company.

57th ANNUAL REPORT.

The Directors have pleasure in submitting their Fifty-seventh Annual Report, showing the transactions of the Company for the year ending 31st December, 1903.

The Year's Business The new business of the year was the largest ever submitted to the Company, and the figures in tabular form together with those for 1902, are as follows:—

	1903.	1902.	Increase.
Number of applications received	6,863	5,022	1,841
Amount of Assurances applied for	$13,881,960	$10,687,672	$3,194,288
Policies issued	12,635,032	9,734,002	2,901,030
Policies paid for	10,122,139	8,398,386	1,723,753
Total business in force	95,531,110	89,170,575	6,360,535

Of the applications received, 266 for Assurances of $693,716 were declined, as not conforming to the Company's standard.

The Income The gross premium and Annuity income was $2,847,559.74, and the income from interest, including $30,757.20 profit on sale of securities, reached the handsome sum of $1,176,374.33. Together these make the total gross income (exclusive of payments on account of Capital Stock), $4,023,934.07.

The Payments The death claims paid during the year amounted to $1,227,414.43. The matured endowments and death claims, (including bonus additions), and annuities paid in 1903, amounted to $1,528,420.46, while $145,273.40 was paid as cash dividends and surrender values to policyholders, making total payments to policyholders $1,673,693.86.

The Assets The total assets at the 31st December, 1903, as shown by the balance sheet, amount to $27,180,007.21, being an increase of $1,215,074.71 over 1902—a growth that your Directors think is very satisfactory. The usual conservative practice of the Company has been followed in the valuation of its assets.

The growth of the Company's assets in the past twenty years is shown by the following table:—

TOTAL ASSETS.

In 1883	$5,664,000	In 1893	$14,313,000
In 1888	8,954,000	In 1898	20,038,000

IN 1903, $27,180,000

The Liabilities. In the valuation of the policy liabilities, the Company's own standard has again been employed, viz.: the Institute of Actuaries' Table, with interest at 3½% for all business prior to January 1st, 1900, and the same table with 3% interest for policies issued since that date. The total net Reserve by this valuation standard amounts to $25,093,374. In addition to this the Company holds Reserves of $32,315 for lapsed policies subject to revival, and $55,028 for instalment claims fund. After providing for these Reserves and for all liabilities, except Capital Stock, there remains a surplus on policyholders' account of $1,861,367.32. A large section of our business was valued on the new table known as the Om Table, and the Reserves brought out amounted to 99.7% of the Reserves required by the table now in use by the Company. So that it would appear that no material change in Reserves would result by the adoption of the more recent tables of mortality. So far as is known this is the first occasion upon which these new tables have been used in a valuation in Canada or the United States by any Company having an established business.

A full report of the meeting will appear in the Company's paper, Life Echoes.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. Thos. J. Small and Miss Lucy Tate.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Huycke, of Hastings, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Feb. 24th, when Miss Lucy Tate, sister of Mrs. Huycke, was united in marriage to Rev. Thos. J. Small, of Glendale, Manitoba, in the presence of about forty guests. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Steele, assisted by Rev. Mr. Thompson, both of Hastings.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, wore a becomingly gown of white organdie, and was attended by Miss Leper, her cousin, as bridesmaid. The bride carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white roses. Mr. Martin, of Peterborough, nephew of the groom, aided as best man.

The presents were numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the young couple are held. The groom's gift to the bride was fifty dollars in gold; to the bridesmaid was presented a handsome opal pin. The groom was presented with two purses of money from his friends and acquaintances in Dummer.

The Methodist church and Sunday School in which the bride had been a very faithful worker for several years, presented her with a handsome silver set, accompanied by an appropriate address which spoke in the highest terms of Miss Tate as a Christian worker and loving friend, she won a warm place in the affections of those with whom she came in contact, and will doubtless prove an efficient helpmeet in the truest sense. Those who know Mr. Small best know him as a very sincere and earnest Christian.

The host of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Small extend hearty congratulations and best wishes and bespeak for them a life of usefulness and prosperity in the noble work they are undertaking. After the wedding dejeuner the happy couple left on the 8 p.m. train for Toronto. They will visit Detroit and Chicago before taking up their home in Glendale, Man.

INDIVIDUAL INSTRUCTION.

Continuing the series of articles describing the new system of education known as the Batavia, or Individual Instructor System, the third article is published to-day. Mr. Hartley, chairman of the local Board of Education, had an interview with Mr. Kennedy, the originator of the system, and through the kindness of Mr. Hartley, the information thus obtained is published through the Examiner. Mr. Hartley states that while the system may not be adopted in all the departments at once, it is probable that it will be tried in one room, and if it proves successful, it may be adopted in the whole school. The last article follows:—

The slow child is at the core of the modern educational problem. It is only recently that the slow child has entered into the educational problem at all. Formerly he was quietly ignored; dismissed as incapable to remain a clown and useful drudge. Education scented out the quick boy, the boy of "parts;" and ere long he was a Scotus Eugene, a William of Wykeham, the artist Giotto, the purveyor of omniscience Mirandola, or the combiner of omniscience and omnipotence the Admirable Crichton.

There was buoyancy in the results of such a system greatly intensified by a contrast with the dark background of untouched dullness. It was a spectacular feudalism of education as well as chivalry. It was the era of the master and the man in all directions and under all aspects; the era of haughty self-assertion on the one hand and of cringing servility on the other.

The result was brilliant; but it was not successful from any point of view, not even from that of the elect. It was gratifying to find Hodge not only submitting to a master but even craving one. But when they found him utterly indiscriminating in his choice of a master, it was not so gratifying; when they found him as ready to rush after a Jack Cade or a Robespierre, as after a Bolingbroke or a Wat Tyler, they realized that stupid-up dullness is the greatest possible peril.

It was realized that Hodge and Jaques must be educated away from men to principles, if society was not to bleed and groan forever under a succession of tyrants. Education for all became the shibboleth of liberty. Of course education for all assumes that all can be educated. But can they be? Very few would deny this verbally; but very many are denying it in their practice. They look upon the presence of the slow boy as a necessary evil to be tactfully tolerated. They plan to have him obstruct their work as little as possible during the brief time that he will remain in school. They put their endurance against his, knowing that the final victory must be in their favour. He is the one that must finally go; he is the one that must be driven to the wall. In many schools, perhaps in most schools, the attitude of the teacher toward the slow boy has been at best that of endurance; but from that it has passed down through every stage of hostility, even to tank persecution. It must be plain to the dull boy that he has no friends, that for him there is only secret or open hostility. The pressure is more than his powers of endurance can support; he disappears and leaves no lamentations behind. The only red mark that they have for him is the day he finally left school. It is little satisfaction to him to learn later on that the teacher who persecuted him the most bitterly never recovered from the sleepless nights that he caused her; little satisfaction to know that she had to follow him out of school in consequence of the loss of patience and of strength that he has caused her.

There are two motives to patience; one is the noble one of sympathy, the other is the selfish one of self preservation. "Angry," said a bright business man, "I have not been angry for years. I cannot afford to get angry." It is really an open question as to which is the greater delinquent, the teacher who frankly yields to anger, or the teacher who refrains from prudential considerations. A very worthy person may be explosively unjust; it taxes something like a fiend to be calmly cruel. We have no right to be angry with weakness; and we have no right to despise or detest it. Anger has its only justification in offense. Weakness is not an offense; it is a misfortune. It is distressing to find punishment inflicted upon any stage of misfortune; it is horrible to find it inflicted upon the misfortunes of tender childhood. The roaring Wackford Squeers is only outdone by the self-contained cruelty that calmly selects the most tender spot for the rankling arrow of sarcasm, and that follows its victim persistently and diplomatically. The rearing wretch is likely to encounter the manly interposition of a Nicholas Nickleby; but where is the champion for the child who is persecuted artistically, who is done to death without the breach of any formal statute?

Under the old order the slow child was quietly ignored; under the new order he is openly deluded. Under the new order he is allowed the right of entering school; but he is denied the right of pursuing and completing a course of education. He is left in to be kicked out. He is a new phase of Hodge and Jaques. He is Hodge and Jaques with their native good nature unsettled; he is Hodge and Jaques with their milk of human kindness very much curdled. He is Hodge and Jaques endowed with the awful power of reading. He has been "most traitorously corrupted in a grammar school." The agents of the evil can now reach him through his eye as well as his ear.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing."

The state of society in which only the bright people are educated is bad enough; but it is a worse state of society in which there has been a pretense of education for the dull people. To put the bright boy and kick the dull one is considered to be a fearfully immoral procedure; and it requires no phenomenal penetration to see that this also fearfully impolitic. The world needs these dull boys and needs them sadly. They are not only not bad boys, but they are exceedingly good boys. Their leanings are to goodness. The brighter boys are more easily corrupted and unsettled in their moral principles. Innate solidity of character seems to be in an inverse ratio to brilliancy of intellect. And practical judgment seems to be in the same inverse ratio. Those so-called dull boys are the very hope of modern society; they are its incipient statesmen, steadying officers, local philosophers and guiding pillars. Then how impolitic it is to brand or demoralize such an element! It is as unnecessary as it is impolitic; and it is as foolish as it is unnecessary.

The dull boy can be educated. He is not incapable. He not only has intellectual powers, but he has extraordinary intellectual powers. Sir Isaac Newton and Sir Walter Scott were noted examples of this. Those powers may be latent and unresponsive at first; but when they do begin to respond it is something like the awakening of a lion. A noble animal is shaking off a lethargy; and he stands at last in forceful wakefulness, never to drowse again. The aroused dull pupil never relapses. But nothing is more common than the lapsing of native brilliancy. Teachers are at their wits' end to sustain the interest of their brightest pupils. And the slightest retardation to their progress is fatal to that interest. Hence the teacher becomes fiercely impatient with the slow pupil who is dragging others down to ruin. But better than fierce impatience is it to go at that slow pupil and teach him. Sound the incantation that shall charm away his lethargy; be the hypnotist that shall call him out of his sleep. Teachers are paid to teach; and teaching distributes itself in the order of need. There is a breach of duty and a breach of sacred contract if that slow boy is not reached and brought on to sing the song of triumph with the rest. What if the case is a stubborn one? Where is the hero that ever counted the cost? When told of the countless numbers of the Persians, Leonidas replied that the honour of victory would be all the greater on that account. Of all vocations teaching is the last one in which to look for points of least resistance. The point of greatest resistance is the first point to attack, until it ceases to be the point of greatest resistance. This is the only dictum that will evade that awful nemesis, a teacher with wrecked health, and a roomful of children wrecked in every way. It is sweet to see the children win and it is wholesome to see the children win. No teacher injures her health or theirs by making the children win. No teacher can make children win without improving her health and theirs; and no teacher can lead children to victory without growing in grace and loveliness of character; and no children can be led to victory without growing in grace and loveliness of character. How consoling such statements as these must be when we recall how many children are wrecked in schools. Children are wrecked in schools; but they are not wrecked by sound education. Children are forced and strained in schools; but they are not forced nor strained by vigorous and productive education. Schools are dangerous places; but education is not a dangerous thing. It remains for philanthropists to see that schools and education are synonymous; to see that there are no places in any community where the children can be put into any kind of peril. The schools in which children suffer any kind of injury will be attended by the very advancement of humanitarian reform. Schools have furnished many a little funeral; and people have shuddered at the reflection that schools are a necessary peril in order to ward off greater perils. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Nothing could be more sanative or wholesome than a properly conducted school, than a school that is carrying its children forward to victory.

Blooming health should imply great work and great advancement. There is no peril in educational success; on the contrary sound education is conducive to sound vitality as well as to the culture of the sensibilities, the intellect, and the soul. There is no need that any child shall toss on a sleepless couch; there is no need that any child shall raise the cry of anguish in the night; there is no need that any child shall moan in nervous fever; there is no need that any distracted household shall watch by little beds of pain, where suffering has been the donative of the school; there is no need that broken hearts shall deck a little mound with flowers because some mandate of home or state compelled the little darling to cross the threshold of a school. There is no need that years of life should be taken from the father or the mother because they had undertaken to discharge their duty according to their light in the education of their children. There is no need that schools should be in any way disease centres; and I fully believe that schools that are such will be abated. I believe that there is a providence in this organization of mothers' clubs that is springing up throughout the country. Who can be depended upon to be the friends of the children if not the mothers of the land? You will look with critical eyes into the entire environment of your dear ones, and you will tear your way to their rescue whatever mountains of obstacles intervene. I can ment is the beginning of the end; and assure you that the sob of discouragement is the beginning of the end; and I can assure you from personal knowledge that the sob of discouragement is absolutely unnecessary. But I am persuaded that if you would get that sob out of the schools, and with it all the multiform evils of which it is the germ, a very material reorganization of the schools will be necessary. At least we have found this reorganization necessary in our town; and we believe that we are reaping rich rewards for having yielded to it.

I have alluded to the teaching that misses the mark, the teaching that leads to all forms of disaster. But I would not be understood as laying the blame entirely or even mainly on the teacher. Our teachers as a rule are noble men and women; men and women who are willing, if need be, to offer themselves up as a sacrifice to their great calling; men and women whose motives are often multiform disaster. I attach the blame to the system; to a system that demands that the children shall get on without making provision for the getting of them on. And if there is any lash in my remarks, it comes about my own shoulders with about as sharp a sting as about anybody's else. Up to five years ago I was carrying on the system which I now condemn. I was organizing children into little troops and putting them under special taskmasters. I was fiercely demanding results. I was calling upon the educational machine to yield me up the largest possible output of educational results. I was working the machine with the full consciousness that machines wear out and must be replaced with new ones. I was putting children, teachers, and parents into peril. But I must say this in my defense that I did not do these things with a conscious knowledge of the evils involved. I believe that every superintendent that has ever been in charge of schools has been on the alert to check evils rather than promote them. I believe that every superintendent has mitigated to a very great degree the inherent harshness of the system over which he has presided. I could not now in conscience, however, return to the old system because I think that I see its inherent and necessary harshness. And I believe that I am now presiding over a system that has no inherent or necessary harshness in it. I believe that I am now presiding over a system that has no possible harshness in it. And that is why you have invited me to address you this evening. Whether I am correct, or not the public will decide for itself in due time. Many a man announced a discovery, and the public has given him a candid hearing, only to write his so-called discovery down as a fad in the end. I cannot tell what will be the final judgment here or elsewhere of the system which I am here to explain. But it seems to me a blessed thing; and I have great faith in it. There have been several schemes devised and put into operation for disengaging the brighter pupils and promoting several rates of motion. But what is this but ungrading the schools? If it is wise to establish three rates of motion, why is it not still wiser to establish forty or fifty? If it is an advantage for one to be unchained, why is it not for all? Is it not a concession that the graded school is a failure? Then why not concede it openly and frankly, and let the institution disappear as one of the unfortunate mistakes of the ages? That is the logical conclusion of any disintegration. But we believe that the graded school is one of the greatest inventions of the ages. We are vindicating the graded school. We are demonstrating that the graded school will work; that no disintegration is necessary; that there are no chains in a rivalry that extends throughout the line; that no child needs to be branded with the stigma of inferiority; and that no child needs to be inflated with a sense of belonging to a superior race. We are preserving our country from aristocracy; we are preserving that great maker of democracy, the public graded school. But at all events we are preserving what I regard as the best educational device ever contrived by man. The graded school must be individualized or else it must disappear into the limbo of unsuccessful experiments. It will not disappear. We have repeated our experiment nine times in the interim with the same blessed results, confirming us in our conviction that we have caught the working principle of the graded school, and the great fundamental principle of all education. This principle is that there is a time to lead and there is a time to drive. If the leading be omitted there will be harshness, danger, ruin; if the driving be omitted the highest training will not be achieved. There is a time for the helping hand; and there is a time for the resolute demand. The helping hand only leads up to the welcome demand. He is a tyrant who denies the one; he is a coddler who refrains from the other. The joy of getting out of leading strings is quite as great as the joy of getting out of the depths of despair. Individual teaching does not take the children out of the class; it takes them into the class. It is in the class that their victories must be won; the individual teaching makes them victory winners; the individual teaching makes them stout-hearted soldiers; makes them all victory winners.

We have not been able yet to put individual teaching there; not by discontinuing class instruction altogether, but by discontinuing it half the time. And we are getting results by the second system that compare favourably with the first. Where it is not feasible to get two teachers into a room one teacher can make a safe and successful room by doing both forms of work. It is better perhaps to have classes going on all the time and it is better perhaps to have individual teaching going on all the time. Our two-teacher system is a corollary of it. Large rooms with two teachers will, I think, be the school system of the future.

In these remarks I have tried to give some idea of what was called the Batavia Experiment, but what is coming to be called the Batavia System. After five years of most satisfactory experiment it would seem entirely safe now to declare that it has come to stay.

What Tea Does to Rheumatics.

When you next take tea think of this.

Tea contains 175 grains of Uric Acid in every pound.

Meat contains only five to seven grains.

Rheumatism is Uric Acid in the blood.

Uric Acid accumulates from food when the digestive apparatus cannot create enough Alkaline elements (like soda) to neutralize it.

This Acid collects urea, or worn-out waste matter from the system.

That Urea enters the blood when Alkaline action has not previously dissolved it.

By and by the waste matter reaches the joints and muscles, through circulation of the blood.

There it gradually deposits in solid particles, like granulatted sugar.

This grinding causes irritation and pain.

These in turn may develop inflammation and swelling. That inflammation bestirs Nature to help herself.

She proceeds to coat the hard Uric particles over with cushions of pulpy mucous, like the first healing strata of an outer sore.

This pulpy covering grows to the bones, as well as to the particles deposited. There it hardens like plaster or sealing wax. Then we have "bony joints," almost inflexible, and usually fixed in a bended position, from the pain and inflammation.

That is rheumatism at its worst.

It is bad enough before it gets that far.

There is but one sure way of curing Rheumatism. The first step is to neutralize the Uric Acid already in the system. Next, to dissolve, and carry away, the hard deposits that grind between the joints. Then get the digestive apparatus into such healthy condition that it will, unaided, produce less Uric Acid and more Alkalines.

This is what doctors generally have failed to do.

It is what I studied a lifetime to accomplish and achieved only after many failures and thousands of experiments.

At last I found in Germany, a Solvent which was not only effective, but absolutely safe to use.

My discovery, now called "Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure," acts directly, but internally, upon Uric Acid in the joints and muscles.

It dissolves and carries off the painful deposits, producing an immediate Alkaline condition of the blood, and neutralizing the Acid in it which would have fed the Rheumatism and extended the disease.

It won't restore bony joints to flexibility and it can't undo, in a week, the damage caused by years of rheumatic condition.

But it will benefit every case, and it will entirely cure most cases of Rheumatism.

So sure am I of this that I will supply Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, to any sick one who writes me for it, on a month's trial, at my risk.

If it succeeds, the cost to him is only $5.50 for the six bottle treatment.

If it fails, I bear the whole cost myself.

And,—he alone shall be the judge—shall decide who shall pay.

Surely you will not continue to suffer when you can thus get well, at my risk.

It is free to Rheumatic people.

Write me a post card for it to-day. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 947, Racine, Wis.

P.S. Simple cases often yield to one bottle of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure. (Druggists $1) But all druggists do not supply it on a month's trial. You must write to me for that. C. I. S.

A SCHOOL TEACHER AND HIS SCHOLARS.

Pleasant Affair at Residence of Mr. A. W. Irwin Last Night.

A pleasant affair took place last night at the residence of Mr. A. W. Irwin, who leaves to-day for Moosejaw, Assa. Mr. Irwin was surprised by a visit from his class of young ladies from the Charlotte street Methodist church Sunday School, who presented him with a handsome locket accompanied by an address which ran as follows:—

Dear Teacher,—Please accept this gift as a slight token of our deep regard for you.

Wishing you a happy and prosperous future. From your Sunday School Class,—Aggie Carr, Mary Ruth, Alice Hopkins, Maud Morton, Ethel Oliver, Gertrude Pollard, Clara Collins, Maria Hopkins, Edna See.

In reply Mr. Irwin thanked his scholars very much for their present, and dwelt briefly on the pleasant hours they had spent together. He hoped they would give his successor as faithful support as they had always given him.

MR. DENNISTOUN GAVE AN ADDRESS.

Which was Highly Appreciated by St. John's Young Men Guild.

At the meeting of St. John's Young Men's Guild, which was held in the Guild Room last night, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun read a most interesting paper, "The Story of the Argonauts." The stormy weather prevented many from turning out, but those who did face the stormy elements were more than repaid for their venture. That the paper was a highly entertaining one was evidenced in the active discussion on the Greek mythology which followed. Mr. Dennistoun was tendered a hearty vote of thanks for his very pleasant address.

The next meeting of the Guild will be held on Monday, March 14th, at 8 p.m.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Macdonald will conduct a meeting Sunday afternoon at 4.15, in the Y.M.C.A. parlours.

On Tuesday evening, March 8th, a reception will be given at the home of Mrs. A. L. Davis to all the young women of the town, in the interest of the Association work.

YESTERDAY'S STORM IS THE WORST YET.

Railroads are Hopelessly Tied up Again.

Many Trains Were Cancelled and Others are Fast in the Snow Drifts.

As March came in like a lion there are some who expect it to go out like a lamb, in accordance with a grandmother's saying.

About five o'clock yesterday evening snowflakes began to fall, and within an hour the storm had become bad, with signs of continuing more than abating. About six o'clock a strong wind arose, and as time wore on, blew with increased vigour, driving the heavy falling snow before it. By eight o'clock the snow lay some three inches deep, while in some places so readily had it drifted before the tempest, it was knee-deep. So fierce was the storm that after eight o'clock hardly a living soul walked the streets. Towards midnight the snow changed to rain, but too little fell to prevent the fallen snow drifting. The wind continued to howl all night, and when the town clock announced the arrival of March the wind was sweeping the streets, taking the snow from the middle of the road and embanking it against the doors and other openings.

The storm was the worst experienced by the railways this winter, which is saying a great deal, as during the last month the freight and passenger traffic of both railways were badly put out of working order. Along the lines the storm was at its worst, and last night all trains were cancelled for to-day. On the C. P. R. a freight got stuck in the snow near Pontypool, and blocked the line for the local train and the midnight, and this morning all three were snowed in. The 5.10 a.m. C. P. R. came in in two sections from the east at a late hour, and is still at the station, unable to continue on its way, and the company billeted the passengers at the different hotels. Among them was a large party of English girls under the charge of Mrs. Birt. At the time of going to press no trains had arrived from Toronto.

The Grand Trunk service was even more hopelessly crippled, and no train passed through on their line.

The railways will have to spend thousands of dollars before they are able to get their trains running according to scheduled time.

The trouble seems to be the worst between here and Toronto, and the storm was far more severe to the west than to the east.

ST. ANDREW'S CHOIR WERE ENTERTAINED.

Mr. H. M. Lloyd, Retiring Choirmaster Made Recipient of Gift.

Notwithstanding the terrific storm last night St. Andrew's choir braved the elements and assembled in St. Andrew's manse, where they were entertained by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Potter. The bright jovial party was in strong contrast to the raging storm without, and a very pleasant evening was spent. After refreshments Mr. Potter expressed his pleasure at having an opportunity of mentioning his appreciation of the work of Mr. Lloyd, and his own sense of regret that he had found it necessary to retire from the conduct of the choir, in which position it had been a delight to be associated with him. He was however pleased to know that as a manager of the church Mr. Lloyd would continue to have an interest in choir work and in choir development. He attributed to his suggestion the suggestion of the Music Committee to secure the very best talent for the praise service of the sanctuary, that they might give the very best to God.

Mr. Stewart Ferguson then presented the following address:

To Mr. H. M. Lloyd:

Dear Sir,—We, the members of St. Andrew's choir, desire to express our heartiest good-will to you as you lay down the office of organist and choirmaster.

We deeply regret that the duties of your profession have caused you to feel that time did not permit you to continue the interest you have taken in us, and for the welfare of the choir. We desire to express our high appreciation of your uniform courtesy and of the kindly way in which you have conducted the practices from week to week. We feel personally indebted to you for the care you have taken, for the patience you have had with us, and we desire to assure you of our best wishes towards you. We trust that you and Mrs. Lloyd may be long spared to live the useful and exemplary lives, such as you have manifested among us, and our comfort at a time such as this is that we shall continue to have your presence and sympathy with us in St. Andrew's. Will you kindly accept this simple pledge of our esteem and believe us to be ever your sincere friends,

Signed on behalf of choir.

(MRS.) VIDA KERR,
President, Choir Association.

Miss Mamie Thompson presented the gift, which was a beautiful onyx inkstand, heavily mounted.

Mr. Lloyd was taken by surprise, and expressed his appreciation of the evidence of esteem in which he had been held by the choir, and felt that he had in no sense deserved any such recognition. He bespoke loyalty and devotion to his successor, and urged a close attention to the practice night as being essential to the success of any choir. He thanked them for all that those present had done to make his experience with them in any sense a help to the church, and closed with a kindly reference to the ability of Miss Miller as soprano leader.

Mr. Peter Kerr voiced the sentiments of the company in expression of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Potter for the hospitality extended to the choir on the occasion and this was followed by hearty applause.

The happy evening was brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," and the choir dispersed to find that March was coming in with all the raging fa kon.

IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR WAR.

Action of the Street Authorities in Getting Ready for Spring Floods, a Commendable One.

It is many years since there has been so much snow on the ground as there is at present. Last year at this time there was no sleighing in town, and very little in the country. The large quantity of the "beautiful" on the ground at the present time must go away some time, and when that time comes, particularly if it goes away rapidly, floods will surely result. The town authorities have taken a wise step in cutting trenches along the sidewalk, in the hope that they will carry away the surface water. The inlets to the drains constructed, should also be opened, so that as much as possible of the water may be carried away under the ground, otherwise the cellars of a great many George street merchants will suffer. Of course it will cost something, but the convenience of the public and the safety of property, will represent good value. The extraordinary severity of the weather has thrown great additional expense and trouble upon everybody, and the corporation should not expect to be exempt. Toronto, so far this winter has spent $6000 in dealing with the snow on its streets, and it is expected that the expenditure will reach $10,000 before the winter is over. Peterborough should be prepared. If the snow should disappear with a rush, it is probable that not only will there be trouble on the streets but the creek passing through the town will also demand attention.

CONTRIBUTORS TO S. A. BAND FUND.

List of Those Contributing Fifty Cents and Upwards.

An Open Letter in Which Estimates of Receipts and Expenditures are Quoted What the Band Needs.

Bandmaster Greene, of the Salvation Army Band, has supplied the following list of contributors to the $500 Band Instrument Fund, which was raised to purchase a new set of instruments. All the members of the band were engaged in collecting for this fund, and all contributions under 50 cents were classed together, and, although each contributor was sent a receipt, no record has been kept of their names. There is a possibility, Mr. Greene states, of their being a few names omitted from this list, of those who have given over 50 cents, but the omission is purely unintentional, and the list is complete as far as possible. It will be noticed that there are a large number of subscribers from other cities.

In connection with the above, Mr. Greene has issued an open letter to the citizens which is as follows:—

It takes a great amount of work to keep bands in proper running order, especially when none of its members receive pay. At present we have 33 members with one clarinet player for whom we have no instrument, and three bandsmen sailing from England March 3rd, making 37 members. Averaging 35, it cannot be financed on anything less than $300 a year. The cash estimate below will show how much it will take this year to keep things floating and also the way we propose to raise the said sum, which only leaves $65.00 to make improvements and buy new instruments, music and outfit for bandsmen who will be coming in. We cannot lie idle. We must do our best. We are entrusted to the positions we hold and as the duty and responsibilities fall on us, we must go forward to make the very best of our time, for life is very short and the place that knows us now shall soon know us no more. Our success is no glory to ourselves for if we are given the ability and talent to perform and do this work, it is only our reasonable service and all glory to Him, who has entrusted this particular branch of works to us, and for whose kingdom we are working to restore. We intend asking the Mayor and his honourable body to grant us this year $100 to assist us in our work, praying we may have the same granted us. The sum of $65 for a year is a very small margin to work on above the ordinary expenses, and to keep up to the standard, and the reputation of Peterborough as a leading musical town.

We cannot get along without the sum which we propose to raise and spend in the following manner:

Receipts.

Grant from council	$100 00
From Band League	75 00
Serenading	75 00
Concerts, etc.	50 00
	$300 00

Expenditures

Depreciation in instruments per year	$125 00
Music	25 00
Pouches	10 00
Belts	10 00
Insurance	6 00
Repairs	25 00
Rent of Band Room	12 00
Assistance to Corps	10 00
Postage, paper, printing, etc	12 00
Regular expenses	$235 00
For improvements	$ 65 00
	$300 00

LATEST SPORT

GAME POSTPONED TILL TO-MORROW.

Midland Team Snow Bound at Orillia Will be Here To-morrow Night.

The secretary of the Hockey Club received a telegram this morning from W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., giving the information that the Midland team will not be able to be here to-night, as they are snow bound in Orillia. The game has therefore been postponed until to-morrow night, by which time it is expected that the team will be able to reach here.

Peterborough seems to be rather unlucky this season with games. This is the second game that has been postponed because of the fact that storms have prevented the visiting team from reaching here. Picton was the first team to be stalled, and Midland seems to be bring similar luck.

The team to represent Peterborough to-morrow night in the game with Midland will be:—

Goal—Mercer.
Point—Howell.
Cover point—Cavanah.
Rover—Harold Armstrong.
Centre—Whitecroft.

GAME TO DECIDE THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Napanee and T. A. S. Will Battle for It on Thursday Night.

The tangle in the Trent Valley League seems now to be in a fair way of being straightened out. Napanee and the T.A.S. have at last agreed upon a course which is mutually satisfactory. The teams will play here on Thursday night, a sudden death game to decide the championship of the League. At first home and home games were scheduled, the first to be played yesterday at Napanee. This could not be arranged satisfactorily to both teams, and a second course of action was decided upon, that of playing a sudden death game in Peterborough, at the Brock street rink, in which each team would have an equal advantage. The game will be played on Thursday night, and should prove interesting. The Napanee team has had a good season so far, and have been winning nearly everything, consequently it will be a game worth witnessing.

THE FIRST SEMI-FINAL GAME HERE.

To Be Played To morrow Night Between Midland and Peterborough.

Perhaps the fastest game of hockey to be seen in Peterborough this season, will be that in which the local seniors and Midland team will participate to-morrow night, in the O. H. A. Intermediate semi-finals. The local team held a practice last night, and will be in better shape than they were in the game with St. George's on Thursday. They will have a harder proposition to go up against, too, judging by the showing Midland made against Belleville on Friday night.

The Midland team has had a successful season thus far, and has shown the teams in their district, and other districts for that matter, things about playing hockey. Bill Hanley, the famous goal keeper of the Toronto lacrosse team, plays goal for the Midland hockey team, and anything that gets beyond him is pretty hard to stop. He will be in goal to-morrow, and it will be interesting to see what he does with Harold Armstrong's shots.

Great pleasure is being expressed in town at the fact that the local team has been placed in the running for the championship and there is no doubt that a large crowd will be on hand to see the boys perform to-morrow. Chaucer Elliott of Kingston, who expressed his opinion that the Peterborough team was the best Intermediate team in the O.H.A., will referee the game. He is a strict and impartial official and the boys must play hockey with Chaucer handling the bell. The game will be called at 8.15.

PUCKERINGS.

Miller and Kemp of the Midland team are in town, and will remain over until the game here to-morrow night. These players are former Norwood boys and last year played on the Trent Valley team of that town. They are paying a visit to their old home.

• • • •

The T.A.S. will practice to-night from 7 to 8.

CURLING.

A local morning paper contained the statement that Mr G. H. Giroux had challenged Mr. J. D. Flavelle, of Lindsay, to a game. Mr. Giroux states to the Examiner that this is not supported by facts, and that he knows nothing whatever of any challenge. Had he wished to issue one he would have made it through the proper source, and while he has no objection to playing Mr. Flavelle's rink, he has issued no challenge.

FIRE ON A STEAMER

Two of the Queen's Lifeboats Capsized by Huge Waves.

FOURTEEN LIVES WERE LOST

Disaster to a Steamer Bound From San Francisco to Victoria, B.C.—It Was a Choice of Death Either By Fire or Drowning, and Captain Ordered Lifeboats to Be Launched—No Canadians in List.

Port Townsend, Feb. 29.—After suffering the most harrowing experiences from fire and storm, the steamer Queen yesterday put in here to report the loss of 14 lives. The dead

Second-class passengers—D. Newsbury, Texas; S. Buckley, both drowned.

Crew—A. Neilson, J. Neilsen and H. Freitus, stewards; F. H. Eneman, M. Somers, H. Douglas, A. Donnelly and —. —. Raymond, engineering department; Peter Mullin and M. Flynn.

About 3.15 Sunday morning, while off the mouth of the Columbia River, fire broke out in the after saloon. The cause of the blaze is not known. The fire gained headway rapidly, and soon threatened to envelop the whole ship.

The heavy seas meant death to any passengers sent away in the lifeboats. The flames became more and more threatening until, when it seemed but a choice of death either by fire or drowning, Captain Cousins ordered the lifeboats launched. They were manned and a number of women and children were lowered into them. Hardly had the boats been cast loose than two of them were capsized by huge waves. Those of the passengers and crew who remained on board continued their fight against the flames with increasing success until at 7.40 a.m. the blaze was brought under control. When it was seen that the danger from fire was past, Capt. Cousins recalled the lifeboats and their occupants were taken on board.

The Queen was headed for the mouth of the Columbia, and about 9 o'clock the steamer Santa Monica was sighted. The Queen signalled, and asked the vessel to stand by until temporary repairs could be made. When everything had been made safe, the Queen continued on to the mouth of the Columbia, only to find the seas too rough to allow passage in. The distressed craft was pointed toward Puget Sound, when bad fortune still pursued, and when she rounded Cape Flattery she encountered a terrific electrical storm. With difficulty she weathered the gale, reached here without further mishap and proceeded to Seattle, where she arrived about nightfall.

Mr. Ed. J. Harris, Newbridge, Ont., was in poor health, but has now been restored to full health and vigor. Here is what he writes us: "Last spring I was in a very critical condition, my system was all run down. I felt drowsy and miserable, and thought I would surely die if I did not get something to build me up. After reading one of your almanacs I decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I had taken two bottles I had gained ten pounds in weight, and am now in perfect health, and I can certainly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to build up the system."

SUICIDES ARE ALL DYSPEPTICS

Terrible Despondency the Worst Feature of Stomach Trouble—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Safeguard and Cure.

The pains and aches of indigestion are the smallest part of it. It is the despondency the disease breeds that makes it such a fearful menace to the human race. It is said by an expert that if the stomach of every suicide were examined, it would be found every one of them was a dyspeptic.

A dyspeptic loses confidence in himself; loses hope for the future. He just wants to give up. Take the case of Henc Trudel, a student of Three Rivers, Que. He says:—

"My indigestion made alarming progress to the extent that I was discouraged and weak. Every day saw me in despair. I was resolved to give up my studies."

But Mr. Trudel did not give up his studies, he used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Listen to what he says of the result:—

"To-day I have no headache, no pain, no weariness. I am cured. I continue, however, to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets in order to prevent a return of my terrible trouble. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have brought sunshine into my life."

Two Tragedies.

George Clinton, the lawyer, rode downtown the other morning with W. S. Jackson of the district attorney's staff and B. B. Daggett, who is with the Consolidated Telephone company. Mr. Daggett sat in the middle. The car was full. To keep up the conversation the three sometimes had to raise their voices. So it happened that, though the three afterward pledged secrecy, the story is out.

"That was a terrible crime that young fellow committed the other day, Mr. Jackson," said Mr. Clinton, leaning past Mr. Daggett. "And to think that the victim was his own father!"

"About the most depraved wretch I ever heard of," called back Mr. Jackson. On every face roundabout was a big question. Mr. Daggett looked from one side to the other. "What happened?" he asked in startled tones.

"Why, a young fellow took his father apart to tell him something and couldn't get him together again," was the shouted reply.

It is said Superintendent Bull afterward heard the story too.—Buffalo Express.

A Showdown.

Three young men attired in faultless manner, escorting two charming and well dressed young ladies, boarded a Main street car the other evening, evidently bound for the theater. The young fellows were full of life and could not contain themselves with the degree of complacency with which their fair companions carried themselves. One of the gallants, who was apparently doing the honors of the occasion, produced five tickets as the conductor approached and, arranging them like a hand at cards, remarked "A full hand." "Yes," replied the knight of the bell rope. "Three jacks and a pair of queens."—Columbus Dispatch.

Change of Front.

The cautious employer shook his head.

"No," he said to the low browed employee whom he had discharged, "I cannot recommend you"—

The employee grasped the inkstand in one hand and took a step forward.

Enough For Her.

"Young Faddlethwaite doesn't seem to have any moral courage," said her father.

"I don't know anything about that," she answered, "but he has splendidly fitting clothes and three automobiles."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

This was in the Winter, and Katy had been very sick since then, while Morris had come to believe that Wilford was forgotten, and when, as she grew stronger, he saw how her eyes sparkled at his coming, and how impatient she seemed if he was obliged to hurry off, hope whispered that she would surely be his, and his usually grave face wore a look of happiness which his patients noticed, feeling themselves better after one of his cheery visits. Poor Morris! he was little prepared for the terrible blow in store for him, when one day early in April he started, as usual, to visit Katy, saying to himself, "If I find her alone, perhaps I'll ask her if she will come to Linwood this 'summer,'" and Morris paused a moment beneath a beechwood tree to still the throbbings of his heart, which beat so fast as he thought of going home from his weary work and finding Katy there, his little wife—whom he might caress and love all his affectionate nature would prompt him to. He knew that in some points she was weak, but then she was very young, and there was about her so much of purity, innocence, and perfect beauty, that few men, however strong their intellect, could withstand her, and Morris felt that in possessing her he should have all he needed to make life desirable. She would improve as she grew older, and it would be a most delightful task to train her into what she was capable of becoming. Alas for Dr. Morris. He was very near the farm-house now, and there were only a few minutes between him and the cloud which would darken his horizon so completely. Katy was alone, sitting up in her pretty dressing-gown of blue, which was so becoming to her pure complexion. Her hair, which had been all cut away during her long sickness was growing out again somewhat darker than before, and lay in rings upon her head, making her look more childish than ever. But to this Morris did not object. He liked to have her a child, and he thought he had never seen her so beautiful as she was this morning, when with glowing cheek and dancing eyes, she greeted him as he came in.

"Oh, Dr. Morris!" she began holding up a letter she had in her hand, "I'm so glad you've come! Wilford has not forgotten me. He has written, and he is coming again. If I will let him; I am so glad! Ain't you? Seeing you knew all about it, and never told Helen, I'll let you read the letter."

And she held it toward the young man leaning against the mantel and panting for the breath which came so heavily.

Something he said apologetically about being snow-blind, for there was that day quite a fall of soft spring snow; and, then, with a mighty effort which made his heart quiver with pain, Morris was himself once more, and took the letter in his hand.

"Perhaps I ought not to read it," he said, but Katy insisted, and thinking to himself, "It will cure me sooner, perhaps," he read the few lines Wilford Cameron had written to his "dear little Katy."

That was the way he addressed her, going on to say that circumstances which he could not explain to her, had kept him silent ever since he left her the previous autumn; but through all he never for a moment had forgotten her, thinking of her the more for the silence he had maintained. "And now that I have risen above the circumstances," he added, in conclusion, "I write to ask if I may come to Silverton again? If I may, just drop me one word, 'come,' and, in less than a week I shall be there. Yours very truly, W. Cameron."

Morris read the letter through, feeling that every word was separating him farther and farther from Katy, to whom he said: "You will answer this?"

"Yes; oh yes; perhaps to-day."

"And you will tell him to come?"

"Why—what else should I tell him?" and Katy's blue eyes looked wonderingly at Morris, who hardly knew what he was doing, or why he said to her next, "Listen to me, Katy. You know why Wilford Cameron comes here a second time, and what he will probably ask you ere he goes away, but, Katy, you are not strong enough yet to see him under so exciting circumstances, and, as your physician, I desire that you tell him to wait at least three weeks before he comes. Will you do so, Katy?"

"That is just as Helen talked," Katy answered mournfully. "She said I was not able."

"And will you heed us?" Morris asked again, while Katy after a moment consented, and glad of this respite from what he knew to a certainty would be, Morris dealt out her medicine, and for an instant felt her rapid pulse, but did not retain her hand within his own, nor lay his other upon her head, as he had sometimes done.

He could not do that now, and so he hurried away, finding the world into which he went far different from what it had seemed an hour ago. Then all was bright and hopeful; but now, alas! a darker night was gathering round him than any he had ever known, and the patients he visited that day marveled at the whiteness of his face, asking if he were ill. Yes, he answered them truly, and for two days he was not seen again, but remained at home alone, where none but his God was witness to what he suffered; but when the third day came, he went again among his sick, grave, quiet and unchanged in outward appearance, unless it was that his voice, always so kind, had now a kinder tone and his manner was tenderer, more sympathizing. Inwardly, however, there was a change for Morris Grant had laid himself upon the sacrificial altar, willing to be and to endure whatever God should appoint, knowing that all would eventually be for his good. To the farm-house he went every day, talking most with Helen now, but never forgetting who it was sitting so demurely in the armchair, or flitting about the room, for Katy was gaining rapidly. Love perhaps had had nothing to do with her dangerous illness, but it had much to do with her recovery, and those not in the secret wondered to see how she improved, her cheeks growing round and full, and her eyes shining with returning health and happiness.

At Helen's instigation, Katy had deferred Wilford's visit four weeks instead of three, but in that time there had come two letters from him, so full of anxiety and sympathy for "his poor little Katy who had been so sick," that even Helen began to think that he was not as proud and heartless as she supposed, and that he did love her sister after all.

"If I supposed he meant to deceive her I should wish I was a man to cowhide him," she said to herself, with flashing eye, as she heard Katy exulting that he was coming "to-morrow."

This time he would stop at Linwood, for Katy had asked Morris if he might, while Morris had told her yes, feeling his heart-wound throb afresh, as he thought how hard it would be to entertain his rival. Of himself, Morris could do nothing, but with the help he never sought in vain, he could do all things, and so he gave orders that the best chamber should be prepared for his guest, bidding Mrs. Hull see that no pains were spared for his entertainment, and then with Katy, he waited for the day, the last one in April, which would bring Wilford Cameron a second time to Silverton.

CHAPTER VII.

Wilford Cameron had tried to forget Katy Lennox both for his sake and her own, for he forsaw that she could not be happy with his family, and he came to think it might be a wrong to her to transplant her into a soil so wholly unlike that in which her habits and affections had taken root.

His father once had abruptly asked him if there was any truth in the report that he was about to marry and make a fool of himself, and when Wilford had answered "No" he had replied with a significant

"Umph! Old enough, I should think, if you ever intend to marry, Wilford," and the old man faced square about. "I know nothing of the girl, except what I gathered from your mother and sisters. You have not asked my advice, I don't suppose you want it, but if you do, here it is. If you love the girl and she is respectable, marry her if she is as poor as poverty, and the daughter of a tinker, but if you don't love her, and she's as rich as a nabob, for thunder's sake keep away from her."

This was the elder Cameron's counsel, and Katy's cause rose fifty per cent. in consequence. Still Wilford was sadly disquieted, so much so, that his partner, Mark Ray, could not fail to observe that something was troubling him, and at last frankly asked what it was. Wilford knew he could trust Mark and he confessed the whole, telling him far more of Silverton than he had told his mother, and then asking what his friend would do were the case his own.

Fond of fun and frolic, Mark laughed immoderately of Wilford's description of Aunt Betsy bringing her "herrin'-bone" patch work into the parlor and telling him it was a part of Katy's "settin' out," but when it came to her hint for an invitation to visit New York, the amused young man roared with laughter, wishing so much that he might live to see the day when poor Aunt Betsy Barlow stood ringing for admittance at No. — Fifth Avenue.

"Wouldn't it be rich, though, the meeting between your Aunt Betsy and Juno?" and the tears fairly poured down the young man's face.

But Wilford was too serious for trifling, and after his merriment had subsided, Mark talked with him candidly of Katy Lennox, whose cause he warmly espoused, telling Wilford that he was far too sensitive with regard to family and position.

"You are a good fellow on the whole, but too outrageously proud," he said. "Of course this Aunt Betsy in her pongee, whatever that might be, and the uncle in his shirt sleeves, and this mother whom you describe as weak and ambitious, are objections which you would rather should not exist; but if you love the girl, take her, family and all. Not that you were to transport the whole colony of Barlows to New York," he added, as he saw Wilford's look of horror, "but make up your mind to endure what cannot be helped, resting yourself upon the fact that your position is such that cannot well be affected by any marriage you might make, provided the wife were right."

This was Mark Ray's advice, and it had great weight with Wilford, who knew that Mark came, if possible, from a better line of ancestry than himself. And still Wilford hesitated, waiting until the winter was over before he came to the decision, which, when it was reached, was firm as a granite rock. He had made up his mind at last to marry Katy Lennox if she would accept him, and he told his mother so in the presence of his sisters, when one evening they were all kept at home by the rain. There was a sudden uplifting of Juno's eyelashes, a contemptuous shrug of her shoulders, and then she went on with the book she was reading, wondering if Katy was at all inclined to literature, and thinking if she were it might be easier to tolerate her. Juno, who was expected to say the sharpest things, turned upon him with the exclamation,

"If you can stand those two feather beds, you can do more than I supposed," and as one means of showing her disapproval, she quitted the room, while Bell, who had taken to writing articles on follies of the age, soon followed her sister to elaborate an idea suggested to her mind by her brother's contemplated marriage.

Thus left alone with her son, Mrs. Cameron tried all her powers of persuasion upon him. But nothing she said influenced him in the least, seeing which, she suddenly confronted him with the question, "Shall you tell her all? A husband should have no secrets of that kind from his wife."

Wilford's face was as white as ashes, and his voice trembled as he replied, "Yes, mother, I shall tell her all; but, oh! you do not know how hard it has been for me to bring my mind to that, or how sorry I am that we ever kept that secret—when Genevra died——"

"Hush-h!" came warningly from his mother as Juno reappeared, the warning, indicating that Genevra was a name never mentioned, except by mother and son.

As Juno remained the conversation was not resumed and the next morning Wilford wrote to Katy Lennox the letter which carried to her so much of joy, and Dr Grant so much of grief. To wait four weeks, as Katy said he must, was a terrible trial to Wilford, who counted every moment which kept him from her side. It was all owing to Dr. Grant and that perpendicular Helen, he knew, for Katy in her letter had admitted that the waiting was wholly their suggestion; and Wilford's thoughts concerning them were anything but complimentary, until a new idea was suggested, which drove every other consideration from his mind.

"WHIZ ! ! WALK A MILE"

Is a laconic definition of a toboggan ride. It's quick work going down the slide, but it's a long climb back to the starting point. It is very much that way with health; it is quickly lost and slowly regained. When the first symptoms of failing health appear, proper care may prevent the descent to utter weakness and debility. Usually the complication of disorders known as general debility has its origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. These diseases are perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures through the stomach disorders which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," neither opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"I was all run down, had no strength; had sharp darting pains all through me; head and back ache every day," writes Mrs. Frank Caswell, of Salamanca, N. Y. "I was also troubled with a distressed feeling in the stomach and pain in front of the hip bones. I had a severe cough and it nearly killed me to draw a long breath, I was so sore through my lungs.

"I wrote to Dr. Pierce, telling my symptoms as near as I could. He sent me a very kind letter, advising me to try his medicines, which I did, and before I had taken them a week I was decidedly better. I took two bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and two of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and am sure I never felt better in my life than when I quit taking them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a cure for biliousness.

A HEALTHY OLD AGE

The Goal of Every Man's Ambition

THOUSANDS of human beings are suffering under the burden of a sickly, premature old age, because of diseased kidneys. These organs once diseased give out to all parts of the body a deadly slow-acting poison. The face loses its color, the eye its luster, the brain its ambition, and the muscles their energy, and many of the most troublesome ailments result.

Bu-Ju cures all forms of kidney trouble, and brings back youth and vigor by rooting out the evil. It is a never-failing cure for every form of kidney ailment. It cures rheumatism by eradicating the cause of rheumatism, kidney disorders. If you are suffering from any form of kidney trouble, commence taking Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, at once. You cannot afford to neglect the many symptoms that point to diseased kidneys.

Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

Gentlemen:—I had suffered almost continually for seven years from kidney trouble. Could scarcely walk and was unable to attend to my farm duties. Saw Bu-Ju, The Kidney Pill, advertised and procured a box from my druggist. After taking the first few pills I felt much relieved and after taking half a box was able to do a full day's work. I know one box of Bu-Ju saved me $40 doctor bills, and think they are the finest pill made. I give this testimonial freely.

Yours very truly, JAMES ABBOTT.

EVENING LETTER

March 1.—Wheat—The market opened lower on depressed cables and very free commission house selling. The Armour people were offering the May and the talent sold recklessly catching stop loss orders on the way down and causing a decline of over two cents. Indications are that the short interest is once more of good proportions and any bad news from abroad would cause a lively rally in the market. Some conditions are favourable to higher prices and will soon enforce their recognition, while affairs abroad are certainly in no better shape than when wheat was 7c. higher. The happenings seem to be all in favour of the bull side of the market and we cannot but feel that wheat should be bought and held on the decline. The buying of both old and new July has been much better in character than the selling. We would prefer the buying side.

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge fo the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

Look on the Bright Side.

The sufferer from nervous exhaustion is generally blue and discouraged. He looks on the dark side of things and fears paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity. All this is changed by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which gradually and naturally rekindles and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instils new vigour and onergy into the whole system.

THE COMMISSIONERS' SATISFACTORY REPORT.

Secretary-Treasurer S. R. Armstrong Presented Statement Yesterday.

An Increase in the Discounts after April 1st to 25. Some Gratifying Figures.

The following is the secretary-treasurer's report of the Water Commissioners, which was presented yesterday. Heretofore the discount allowed in cases when payments have been made within fifteen days has been twenty per cent; from April 1st this will be increased to twenty-five per cent. The following report shows a very satisfactory state of affairs:

To the Peterborough Water Commissioners:

Gentlemen,—I herewith submit the financial statements of the Waterworks Department for the year 1903.

The amount expended on the extension of mains, including hydrants, was $4,651.73 and in laying services, $1,951.01, a total of $6,602.74, expended in construction work. Last year, following the practice of the water company, a portion of the superintendent's salary was charged to construction work. This year a change was made by your directors and no part of the superintendent's salary was charged to construction which has reduced the amount charged to capital account and increased the expense accounts. In accordance with your instructions, of the surplus revenue for the year, over operating expenses and the sums provided for interest and sinking fund on account of waterworks debentures, $2,097.00 has been credited to the Town of Peterborough on revenue account and $2,096.99 transferred to a contingent fund now established under the authority of an act of the Legislature of Ontario, passed in 1903.

All of which is respectfully submitted

S. R. ARMSTRONG,
Secretary-treasurer.

ENTERTAINED AT LUNCHEON MONDAY.

The Canadian General Electric Company as Hosts.

With Mr. Frederic Nicholls and the Canadian General Electric Company as hosts, two hundred of the most prominent business and professional men of the city were entertained at luncheon Monday afternoon at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto. It had been originally intended to take the whole party out to see the company's works at Davenport, but the severity of the storm induced Mr. Nicholls to cancel that part of the entertainment until a more convenient season. As for the luncheon, it was of a character to tempt the palate of the most blase gourmand. There were no speeches, and one of the charming features was the delightful informality of the whole affair. Mr. Nicholls moved about among the guests and with his true bonhomme made everyone feel thoroughly at home.

JAPANESE MILITARY STAFF SAILS.

Japanese Transports Carrying Troops Continue to Arrive at Chemulpo — Jap Squadron at Chemulpo Strengthened, But the Horses Have Been Discovered to be Unserviceable — Japs in Ichioyang.

London, March 2.—No confirmation of the report published Monday in The Daily Telegraph that The Japanese had bombarded Port Arthur, Feb. 29, has been received from any point.

The wires from the scene of war have been practically silent for the past 24 hours, and in some quarters this silence is supposed to indicate that Japan's attack on Port Arthur is actually in progress and that consequently the use of the wires has been discontinued.

In a despatch from Shanghai, a correspondent to The Daily Telegraph reports that the Japanese military authorities object to the installation of wireless apparatus on newspaper despatch boats.

Japan's Military Staff Sails.

Japanese Concentrating.

London, March 2.—A correspondent of The Daily Mail, at Che Foo, who has just returned from Chemulpo, Corea, cables that Japanese transports carrying troops continue to arrive at Chemulpo at the rate of one a day, while provisions are being landed near Hwang Ju, fifty-six miles northwest of Chemulpo, at the head of Taidong River, where a large force of Japanese infantry has concentrated.

"A serious defect has been disclosed," the correspondent continues. "It is feared that most of the Japanese horses are unserviceable.

"The Japanese squadron at Chemulpo has been strengthened. A fleet of twelve battleships and cruisers has been stationed permanently in Prince Jerome Gulf, between Chedido Island and the anchorage.

"Yesterday I saw a cruiser of the Niitaka type beached at the entrance of Namyang Creek; she was deserted except for a Japanese guard.

"The Coreans are hostile to the Japanese, and they are assisting the Russians in Northern Corea."

Forestalled the Russians.

Liaoyeng, Manchuria, March 2.—The Japanese have occupied Ichioyang, Corea, and are now fortifying the walls of the town. A detachment of Russian troops is in the neighborhood of Ichioyang. The Coreans are averse to giving the Russians information regarding the movements of the Japanese.

Railway Under Fire.

Tokio, March 2.—According to the stipulations of the protocol, the Japanese Minister at Seoul has notified the Corean Government that the building of a railroad from Seoul to Wiju for military purposes will be commenced forthwith. Engineers and surveyors have already left Seoul.

Corea Chinese Gather.

St. Petersburg, March 2.—A Russian correspondent of the Associated Press at Shanghai telegraphs that it is reported at Tientsin that 4,000 additional Chinese soldiers have been posted in Northern China, and that the Chinese Government has recently placed large orders for guns and ammunition.

Wounded Japs Arrive.

Nagasaki, March 2. — Several wounded engineers arrived at Sasebo Monday from the stone-laden merchant steamers sunk off Port Arthur, Feb. 24. The sinking of the vessels was managed by wires connecting them with the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers.

Attempted to Blow Up Dock.

St. Petersburg, March 2.—The Japanese attempted to blow up a dock at Vladivostock, but did not succeed. They escaped. A Japanese barber at Vladivostock, deeming himself insulted by a Russian officer, shot him dead and then dramatically announced that he was a captain on the Japanese General Staff and was not used to taking insult.

Askold Had Gun Dismounted.

Che Foo, March 2.—A Russian official despatch says that the Japanese renewed the attack on Port Arthur on the morning of Feb. 26. The fleet kept beyond the range of all but the most powerful land batteries. The engagement lasted one hour, the Japanese then retiring. Their loss is unknown. The Russian cruiser Askold had one gun dismounted and two men injured. At low water on Feb. 28 the Russians discovered a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer which had been sunk on the shore of the outer harbor. They also found five unexploded torpedoes.

War Makes 10,000 Idle.

Odessa, Russia, March 2.—About 10,000 dock laborers are out of employment here on account of the stoppage of sea business.

Elections in Japan.

Tokio, March 2.—The general election was held yesterday in Japan, and was without disturbance of any kind. An Imperial rescript convening the diet in special session at Tokio, on March 18, will be issued on March 2. This session will last for 10 days, and the most important bill to be presented is one which increases the land tax by 1½ per cent. This increase will result in doubling the income from this source.

STUCK IN THE SNOW.

Ontario Towns Entirely Without Railway Service and Suffering Fellows.

Clinton, March 2.—The big storm of Monday, of rain, sleet and snow has made the railway situation the worst in the history of all railroading in this section. Nine engines, two snow plows and two passenger trains are stuck, disabled or off the track at this place, and last night showed no signs of being relieved. A snow plow cannot keep the track, owing to the ice and snow. Large gangs of men are being engaged to dig the line out, which seems the only way it will ever be opened up. The G.T.R. have over seventy-five people as their guests at the different hotels here. No mail or papers have been received since 8 o'clock Monday morning, while provisions of all kinds are short and business is at a standstill.

Snow Eight Feet Deep.

London, March 2.—The month of March brought with it one of the worst tie-ups experienced by the railways this hard winter. Monday a severe sleet and snow storm set in and continued all day. The snow between here and Stratford is reported to be over 8 feet deep. No. 1 express came to grief on the Stratford branch Monday and was stalled all night. Mrs. Hays, wife of President C. M. Hays of the G.T.R., was one of the unfortunates who spent the night in the snow. This train did not reach London till 11 o'clock last evening. The main lines are being kept clear so far. The Huron & Bruce is still blocked, as is the St. Mary's branch. Similar conditions are being experienced on the Pere Marquette and C.P.R.

Fuel Situation Grave.

Guelph, March 2.—The snowstorm of Monday has completely demoralized railway traffic and business generally in the city. Not a train has arrived since early Monday afternoon, and not one has departed. The fuel situation is again very grave.

Assizes Postponed.

Brockville, March 2.—No train on the Brockville, Westport and Northwestern Railway reached here yesterday. The train due at 11 a. m. became fast in a drift near Athens and had to be dug out. The spring assizes were postponed till Wednesday, owing to the non-arrival of Justice Street and some of the jurors.

Branch Lines Closed.

Kingston, March 2.—This city is in the grip of the storm. The Kingston and Pembroke trains were cancelled, while snow plows opened the line, and the Bay of Quinte line has been closed since Saturday. On the main line of the G.T.R. the Monday mail from the west passed here last evening.

Seven Trains Stalled.

Belleville, March 2.—There have been no trains from the west since Monday night. Seven trains are stalled between Belleville and Toronto.

Coal Pile Now.

Listowel, March 2.—There is barely sufficient fuel in town to last a week. Listowel has had only two weeks of daily mail service since the new year.

Rail Co. Pay Heavily.

Ottawa, March 2.—The Railroad Commission on Monday listened to argument on behalf of Port Arthur and Port William, who desire to have their municipal telephone lines connected with the C.P.R. stations and premises, and which the railroad under their contract with the Bell Company, refuse, the application in effect being to invalidate the contract as a "restraint to commerce," and as such being of considerable significance as affecting other places. During the argument it was stated that the net benefit to the C.P.R. annually was $20,459.

Everyday Heroes.

New York, March 2.—In saving a four-year-old child from being run over by a heavy express wagon yesterday, Frank Carlin, an umbrella mender, was probably fatally injured. He threw the girl out of harm's way.

New York, March 2.—James Malien, a brakeman on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, was yesterday killed in an successful endeavor to save the life of a deaf and dumb woman. He threw her from in front of an approaching train, but slipped and was himself run over and killed.

DESPERATE POSITION AT PORT ARTHUR.

Harbour Completely Blocked by Retvizan Which Has Grounded.

EFFORTS TO STOP THE WAR.

Chinese Arrested for Assisting the Japs — Another Japanese Victory in Corea—Warships Being Repaired.

(Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

TURKEY AND RUSSIA.

Constantinople, March 2.—The Turkish Government has resolved forcibly to prevent the Russian Black Sea fleet from passing through the Dardanelles, and a fight will probably occur should such an attempt be made. The defences along the Straits have been strengthened and mines have been laid. Officers also have been appointed especially to serve these measures. The reason for Turkey's bold action, it is learned, is that strong representations have been made by the other powers against such a breach of Russia's treaties as the passing would incur.

ANOTHER JAPANESE VICTORY.

Berlin, March 2.—The position of the Russians at Port Arthur is described by the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Schlesische Zeitung as desperate. The damaged Retvizan, the correspondent states, blocks the narrow entrance to the harbour against other battleships. She can neither be repaired nor moved all the other battleships are land-locked, scarcely anything is heard of the torpedo boats, it is assumed that they are without ammunition.

POSITION AT PORT ARTHUR DESPERATE.

Tokio, March 2.—The Japanese war office has issued a statement that the Japanese forces have defeated a force of Russian cavalry near Anju and Pingyang in Northern Corea and driven them back. The statement gives no hint as to the number of troops engaged or the losses on either side.

TO STOP THE WAR.

Paris, March 2.—Gabriel Hanotaux, former Minister of Foreign Affairs, has started an agitation in favour of intervention by the powers to stop the war between Russia and Japan. It is believed the Russians would be glad of a good excuse to stop a war in which they have thus far been the under dog.

CHINESE HELP THE JAPS.

St. Petersburg, March, 2. — According to a special despatch from Port Arthur, twenty Chinese have been arrested there for signalling to the Japanese ships from the shore with flash lights and lanterns. A warning has been issued that similar offenders will hereafter be treated as spies and shot. Work on the warships here is being pushed night and day.

NEWS OF TO-DAY.

PATERNALISM.

A government seems to be considered, to employ the language of the street, a "mark" for the genus "grafter," who may be broadly defined as a person who rises at, and often succeeds in getting, favours, more or less legitimate, and more or less profitable, without furnishing a quid for a quo. And the manifestations of this cule are infinite in number, and varied in form. One of the manifestations of the grafter's habit of a more impersonal character, is the mania for making wards for the province out of the most incongruous material. During the debate on the budget, Dr Reaume, of North Essex, a member of the Opposition, made an appeal to the Government to throw the aegis of its paternal protection over the people of a foreign state—the state of Michigan. He pointed out the practice of residents of the state of Michigan, anxious for matrimony, coming over in great numbers to Windsor, procuring marriage licenses, and being promptly "spliced" on the spot. These marriages in haste, the doctor explained, often turned out unfortunately, and resulted in numerous divorces. The marriages performed in Windsor were, the doctor asserted, numerous, and out of all proportion to the population, and he demanded that the Government take some steps to prevent the demoralizing effects resulting from these divorces—the residents of a state of divorces-made-easy were to be protected by the paternal government of Ontario from the results of their own lax marriage and divorce laws. This is certainly pushing paternalism to the extreme. There must be something in the air of Michigan that impels susceptible hearts to matrimony. Possibly it may be the knowledge that, if the rosy fetters of conjugal affection should harden in the warm fires of domestic felicity into galling bonds, the easy divorce laws of the state will afford prompt and cheap relief. At any rate the fact that Windsor has, as asserted, 1,000 marriages a year, a large proportion of which are between Michiganders—and goes on to say that the fault of the Ontario marriage license system. In Welland county, with a frontier line of between twenty and twenty-five miles the annual marriage rate is said to be only about 400. But the other divorce laws of New York State are not so liberally framed in the interests of free and easy virtue. It does not seem that Dr. Reaume is justified in demanding that the province should take under its wing the experimenters in matrimony from the State of Michigan who make Windsor a sort of ex-Atlantic Gretna Green.

Another demand for paternal intervention is represented by the bill introduced the other day by the member for North Ontario, who generally comforts himself a la Hoyle, to protect guileless investors from the wiles of silver-tongued solicitors for subscriptions to joint stock companies. The core of the matter was touched when Hon. Mr. Stratton suggested that there would be no need for such legislation if people would only use the brains nature gave them and stop to think a moment before venturing their funds upon the equally set of speculative stock taking. Without pronouncing upon the merits of Mr. Hoyle's bill it does seem unreasonable that legislation should be asked to supply the place of common sense. Reasonable safeguards in the public interest may be provided, but grown up people—mostly sensible persons—need not be treated as if they were children and provided with keepers.

We protect and shelter the feebleminded and the mentally deranged because, for one reason, they are incapable of protecting themselves, but we cannot be expected to protect, except within certain limits to be defined on general principles, people in the rather personal matter of disposing of their means, unless the misrepresentations of soliciting agents expose them to the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. No code of laws can be devised to save people from making foolish bargains whether in the field of finance or the equally risky field of matrimonial enterprise. We can't be expected to devise laws to prevent the foolish and impulsive from being persuasively gold-bricked any more than we can be expected to prevent Michiganders from marrying in haste, repenting at the same rate and getting divorced in like manner.

THE ROAD TO HEALTH.

Lies Through Rich, red Blood and Strong Nerves.

Debility is a word that fairly expresses many ailments under one name. Poor blood, weak nerves, impaired digestion, loss of flesh. No energy, no ambition, listless and indifferent. This condition is perhaps the penalty of overwork, or the result of neglected health. You must regain your health or succumb entirely. There is just one absolutely sure way to do this—take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills will bring you new life, fill every vein with rich, red blood, restore elasticity to the step, the glow of health to the wan cheek; they will inspire you with new energy and supply the vital force of mind and body.

There is not a corner of the civilized world where Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have not brought health and hope and happiness to some weak, debilitated despairing person. If you have not used the pills yourself, ask your neighbours and they will tell you these statements are solemn truth. Mr. Charles Saulnier, Corberrie, N. S., says: "I was very much run down and so weak I could hardly work. It seemed as though my blood was little better than water. I tried several medicines, but I got nothing to help me until I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It was simply astonishing how quickly these pills began to help me and how much new life and vigour they put into me. I am a cook by profession, and the fact that I was able to cook for fifteen men last winter is the best proof that the pills have made me as sound as ever I was."

There is no mystery about the power of Dr Williams' Pink Pills to put new life and strength into you. They actually make new blood, and that is why they cure all blood diseases, like anaemia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles, headaches and backaches and the special ailments of women. Through the blood Dr Williams' Pink Pills feed and tone the nerves, so that such forms of nervousness, cure St. Vitus dance, neuralgia, sciatica and partial paralysis. All these diseases spring from bad blood and disordered nerves, and they have all been cured completely and permanently by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, or by mail from the Dr Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FOR PROMOTION OF HANDSOME CITIES.

Municipal Improvement Associations Formed to Beautify Municipalities.

A Movement Which is Meeting With Marked Success Association's Work in Harmony with Municipal Councils.

Remembering the wonderful masonry aqueducts leading the purest of spring waters into Rome 1800 years ago, her fountains, and baths, pavements and sewers, it is natural to suppose that the great municipal services of to-day, in the older European cities at least, are of long standing. Such, however, is not the case, and the important works of this description, in the majority of instances, are of recent creation. Today the rural roads of England are unsurpassed in the world, while a century ago they were in an incredibly wretched condition. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries rough open drains were constructed on the streets of London to receive the surface water, and these in time became open sewers, into which all the filth was discharged. It was not until 1847 that the drainage of the metropolis of the British empire had so improved that it was made compulsory to empty all sewage into underground sewers. It is of a recent period only that steam power has been applicable to water supply, and it is since that time the important waterworks systems have been developed. The greater part of the present day systems of paving city streets have been developed since 1880. The improvement which has been made in London by the Metropolitan Public Gardens' Association in successfully carrying through upwards of 450 undertakings, chiefly the creation of parks, gardens, squares and open spaces, during the last 20 years, is an indication of the modern growth of interest in affairs municipal.

There is a tendency, too, on the part of critics to suppose that such matters must be left to the municipal council. A striking feature with regard to the origin of these works in England, Germany, and the United States, is that they are rarely to be attributed to either government or council, but that they owe their creation largely to private citizens, and to associations organized for the purpose of promoting the general welfare.

The Metropolitan Public Gardens' Association, of London, England, has been referred to and this is probably the greatest municipal improvement association in the world. The Commons Preservation Society, the open spaces branch of the Kyrle society, have been active throughout England, while there are many, very many, independent local organizations for this purpose. Rich and poor, nobles and commoners, business men and men of leisure, both in England and Germany are united in their desire to make their native land more habitable and more beautiful, a patriotism of the truest order.

Much that has been said of England and Germany, is applicable to France, Italy, Belgium, Austria and other European countries. Coming to the United States we find hundreds of similar organizations, "Village Improvement Associations," "Municipal Improvement Associations," "Municipal Art Associations," being among the more common names by which they are known.

The movement is making itself known in Ontario, and in Toronto, the capital of the province, we find the "Guild of Civic Art." Ottawa has a municipal improvement Commission, entrusted with the expenditure of a grant from the Canadian Government, in making boulevards and other improvements in the capital of the Dominion. Hamilton has a municipal Improvement Association. Brantford and other places have their Park Commissioners.

Working in harmony with councils these associations are productive of much good in all municipalities, small and great. In the United States, the fundamental idea of these societies, in the smaller places, has been to "clean up." Public streets, private lawns, back yards, are all objects of reform. This accomplished, the creation of parks, open spaces, tree planting, waterworks, and street lighting systems, are all objects of attention. A plan of the Hamilton Municipal Improvement Association has been to offer prizes for the most carefully kept lawns and front gardens, and for the best floral window decorations on certain of the principal residential streets. Boards of trade in a number of towns throughout the province have been active in municipal affairs. The co-operation of all these efforts with those of councils is most salutary in many ways, not the least being to encourage a general interest in an intelligent understanding of local requirements and possibilities. "To make the world a pleasanter place than we find it," is a laudible ambition finding expression through these channels.

AN EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION.

Mr. J. H. Taylor, of Keene, Writes to Thank His Friends.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I desire, through the columns of your paper, to express my thanks to all those who, in any way, helped to make life easier for me and mine, during the season in which scarlet fever in a mild form invaded our home. When, upon February 22nd we were liberated, and after having been quarantined for a time, were then made mask free, we were reminded of the words of the Great Physician: "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free; if the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed (John v: 32-36)

I wish especially to thank those who opened their doors and took in some members of my family perhaps at some risk to themselves, also those who fed and watered my stock for so many days, when I was not able to attend to them myself, for I have been far from my usual health most of the time. Those also who kindly sent a few lines of sympathy, I extend my sincere thanks. How good to have friends in the hour of need! May I ever be grateful to God for all His goodness to me.

As this disease has entered our home for the second time, and as there has been between the former time and this a lapse of twenty years, perhaps you might allow me to make some remarks on the changes that have occurred during that period.

First, what a wonderful change has taken place in the medical profession. And to the treating of this disease, it does appear now as if there were some regard for the little ones. How many have passed away during twenty years, many who had as fair for life at the beginning of that period as we who yet remain.

Twenty years ago I believe there was only one binder in the Township of Otonabee; now every farmer in the county, or nearly so, has one, and it may safely be said that the work of this machine more than equals the work in former years of ten men.

The cradle and scythe have almost entirely disappeared, making harvest time so much easier. Steam now does most of the work of threshing. Farming has improved in every line—all showing the wonderful goodness of God to us.

Again, if we look at the town or city how it has advanced during the last twenty years!

We, who live in the County of Peterborough, ought to be good people, for does not the Bible speak of the goodness as leading to repentance, and does not repentance lead to a better life? So that, seeing so much of the goodness of God in our county, should it not stir us up to live better lives? In the life of the farmers, how desirable the direct deal between our Father in Heaven and ourselves! We sow or plant the fields; the rain and sunshine come direct to our assistance.

I have always had a profound respect for those who are called of God to stand in the sacred desks of our land, leading man to a better life here and pointing him to a home beyond; but the farmers need take second place to no other. Our occupation brings us directly in touch with God; we see His wisdom, beauty and love on every side in our daily work, as we see the wonders of nature; and it has often been a question with me, whether we, to whom God has given so much; as members and adherents of the different churches of our individual choice, are helping as much as we should to fulfill the Saviour's last command: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Christ also loved the church and gave Himself for it; may we not ask ourselves how are we showing our love?

The Saviour said to His sorrowing disciples: "I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you." How wonderfully it has been fulfilled to everyone who has looked to Christ in the hour of trouble.

The 12th chapter of Paul's Letter to the Hebrews speaks a great deal about chastisements, and the Psalmist also refers to it in the words: Before I was afflicted I went astray, but now I keep thy word" (Psalm 119; 67). Brought back by the rod of affliction, he followed God more closely. We see that chastisements are a blessing to us though unpleasant. The night is dark and not so pleasant as the day, but without the night we should see no stars. David said: "The heavens declare the glory of God; the firmament showeth His handiwork." The poet has said: "The voice that rolls the stars along speaks all the promises."

In the glare and blaze of worldly prosperity do not fail to grasp the promises. Jesus sometimes says to us: "Come ye, yourselves, apart into a desert place and rest awhile."

John Bunyan spoke of the man working with a muck rake, while he failed to see the crown dangling over his head.

What wealth untold there is left in the Bible, unclaimed! What has it meant when the Saviour said: "It is finished!"

Personally, there have been some dark days in those twenty years, but the bright ones have far out-numbered the dark days.

Bunyan said: "Then I saw that there was a way to hell, even from the gates of Heaven."

St. John, towards the close of his gospel, says: "But these are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that, believing, ye might have life through His name."

THE WAR IN THE EAST

West, North and South That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Waging Against All Forms of Stomach Trouble. Can Only End One Way.

Dyspepsia Will Be Driven off the Earth.

The great and effective work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is no longer confined to America. They are being used now all over the world, for their fame has spread throughout foreign countries and they cure dyspepsia in all lands and all climates just as well as they do at home. In fact, surroundings and conditions never interfere with the successful work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, not even the conditions of the stomach itself. They go ahead of their own natural way regardless of the stomach, and digest the food that the bad stomach cannot digest and permit that organ to do just as it pleases, rest, take a vacation, get well or what not. The stomach, however, always makes it a point to get well when it has nothing else to do. That's what stomachs always have done and will continue to do when they have the opportunity.

A prominent Detroit physician says: "I prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all cases of stomach trouble. I have tried many prescriptions, including a number of my own, but find nothing which gives such universal relief as this remedy. They are natural, harmless and perfectly effective in their work, and while I have a natural antipathy to patent medicines, I do not hesitate to prescribe and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on all occasions."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at fifty cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great, that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. The testimonial of the physician is no exception. In fact physicians are prescribing them all over the land and if your doctor is real honest with you he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

RAILWAY TAXATION

Mr. Pettypiece Still Advocates an Assessors' Board.

THE PROMISE OF THE PREMIER

Supplementary Revenue Measure Will Tax Railways Considerably More Than at Present—Premier Ross Defends the Policy of Granting Subsidies to Railways in New Ontario—Education Bill.

Toronto, March 1.—Railway subsidies and railway taxation occupied almost the whole time of the Legislature yesterday afternoon, and on both subjects the discussion was of unusual interest.

Mr. J. J. Preston of East Durham, condemned the practice of granting subsidies to railroads, and hoped the Premier's reply to a recent deputation of farmers could be interpreted as a abandonment of the policy.

Premier Ross showed that since 1885 only roads in New Ontario had been assisted, and argued that in thus helping to open up the newer parts of the Province they were adopting a patriotic policy that was appreciated and approved by all classes.

Mr. Pettypiece's Bill.

Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, in moving the second reading of his bill providing for the increased taxation of railways, expressed surprise at the decision of the special assessment committee to abandon the idea of a Provincial Board of Assessors. That was the only method of fairly and equitably assessing these corporations, he contended, and showed that it had been adopted with success in many States of the Union. He also quoted numerous figures to show that Canadian railroads were not paying a fair proportion of the taxes.

The Premier in a brief reply intimated that in a supplementary revenue bill, which he is preparing, the railways will be taxed considerably more than at present.

The Temperance Bill.

Before the orders of the day were reached, Mr. St. John asked the Premier to inform the House when he would introduce his promised temperance bill. Mr. Ross replied: "No bill will be brought down this week."

Education Bill.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt introduced a bill to amend the Education Act, and Mr. Pettypiece had a bill to amend the act respecting the audit of school accounts. The former bill proposes among other things to increase the pay of school inspectors and to reduce the number of model schools.

In committee, bills by Mr. Hendrie to confirm bylaw 291 of the city of Hamilton, and by Dr. James respecting the town of North Bay, were advanced a stage.

MONK EXPLAINS.

Why He Resigned the Quebec Leadership—Tarte Was the Disturber.

Montreal, March 1.—F. D. Monk's address at Lachine last evening was listened to by a large audience.

"I do not think," began the speaker, "that the Conservative party in our Province will ever again experience such a defeat as that inflicted upon it in November, 1900."

Mr. Monk then referred to the choice of R. L. Borden, as leader, adding that "my relations with our leader have always been of a most friendly nature."

About the same time the speaker said "certain so-called Conservative papers started the notion that the only hope in our party in this Province rested upon the assistance which the former master of the Administration might give us. This idea gained ground rapidly, especially in our sister Provinces. Leading Conservatives here held powwows with the ex-Minister, and the question was would he consent to direct the campaign. The House met on the 12th of March, 1903, and I saw clearly that many of my Conservative colleagues considered our success in Quebec depended on what Mr. Tarte would decide to do. Was he not the man who had carried the elections of 1896, and did not the Liberal party owe him its success in 1900? Was he not the prince of organizers and what he had done for others he could do for us?

"Such was the opinion of several of my best friends, but I did not share it. A section of my colleagues sincerely believed that our new ally would be invaluable in Quebec. My own conviction was that if our party became identified with the ex-Minister it would become in the eyes of the people a trial of strength between the Prime Minister and his ex-Minister, and the result might prove unfavorable. There was a difference of opinion between us, yet let me add that some of our newspapers ceased publishing reports of my doings in the House."

Then Mr. Monk referred to the activity of Mr. Tarte and his preaching the absolute nullity of a Quebec leader.

"I may say right here," added Mr. Monk, "that I have never had any personal difficulty with Mr. Tarte, whatever may have been said, to the contrary as regards the Quebec leadership."

He also declared that he was not consulted when it was decided to drop the name Conservative. "It was a poor piece of business," said Mr. Monk, "and it lost us many votes. People laughed grimly at the transparent disguise. Protection was inaugurated by the party in 1878, and it has always been an article of our program, but protection alone cannot constitute a party."

THE ELECTIONS ACT

Heelers and Grafters Who Prey Upon Public Men.

EVIL OF SAW-OFF PROCESS

Government Proposes Automatic Issue of Bye-Election Writs—Mr. Clark's Bill to Prevent Trivial Election Petitions Discussed—Abolition of Statute Labor Legislation—Public Measures.

Toronto, March 2.—The harassment of members of Parliament by trivial election petitions, and, incidentally, the evil of "sawing-off" process, were very thoroughly discussed in the Legislature yesterday, when Mr. Hugh Clark moved the second reading of his bill to amend the controverted elections act. Mr. Carscallen of Hamilton, was particularly outspoken in urging the House to get after the "heelers and grafters who prey upon members of Parliament," for they were driving docent men from public life. Attorney-General Gibson showed that the existing act provided for most of the difficulties which Mr. Clark had aimed at removing, but thought that much good would be done if the bill were referred to the Legal Committee and seriously considered there. He mentioned that he was endeavoring to prepare an amendment to the act that would make the issuing of writs for bye-elections absolutely automatic.

Four Protests For Reid and Conmee.

Mr. Reid said he had been elected four times and had four protests, and if any man had been elected honestly he was the member for Addington. The protests were filed to put him to worry and get a saw-off.

Mr. Conmee—I have had an equal number of petitions.

Mr. Clark wanted some assurance from the Government that it did not attempt to burk reform by sending the bill to the Committee.

Mr. Gibson assured Mr. Clark that an effort would be honestly made to meet the case.

Mr. Whitney believed that it would be found a difficult matter to deal with this question.

The bill was then referred to the Legal Committee.

Second Reading.

In moving the second reading of the bill respecting statute labor, the Attorney-General said the law as it at present stands was somewhat obsolete. He hoped, however, the day would come when statute labor would be abolished. The bill was read a second time.

Mr. Harcourt's bill to amend the High Schools Act was read a second time. It provides that trustees may collect a fee from parents for books.

Mr. Harcourt's bill to amend the act respecting boards of education in certain cities was also given a second reading.

The law respecting security of public offices was amended to reach division court clerks and bailiffs.

Mr. Ross' bill to amend the General Land Companies Act was read a second time.

Houses of Refuge.

Mr. Stratton's bill respecting houses of refuge, read a second time, allows a municipality containing a house of refuge to make arrangement with the nearest town or city for electric light, sewer and water connections. It may issue debentures up to $30,000 for improvements to the refuge without the consent of the ratepayers. After discussion, the bill was sent to committee.

Hon. Mr. Gibson's bill to amend the law respecting religious institutions, so as to give quarterly boards of the Methodist Church power to execute deeds of property, was read a second time.

Riordon Contract Ratified.

The Premier moved that an agreement with the Riordon Paper Mills Co. for the supply of printing paper for five years be ratified. He explained that the contract effected a saving of $1,500 a year on about $8,000 worth of paper, comparing prices with the last contract.

Col. Matheson said the contract had not been properly advertised. The contract price was 5c. and 5½c. per pound, and he had been told that 1c. would be a good price.

The Premier said the paper used for Parliamentary purpose was better than ordinary paper and he believed the contract was a good one.

To Col. Matheson the Premier said only one tender was received.

The resolution was declared carried on division.

The Premier also moved to ratify the contract for printing with Warwick Bros & Rutter. The contract would expire next July, when new tenders for the work will be called for.

The motion passed without comment.

The following bills were given a final reading: Respecting the town of Perth (Matheson); to authorize the town of Ingersoll to issue debentures (Sutherland); to confirm a bylaw of the city of Chatham (Pardo)

Estimates Taken Up.

After recess the House went into supply. The estimates of the Crown Lands Department were first taken up and Hon Mr. Davis explained a number of increases. The total estimates of the Crown Lands Department are $73,375, as against $70,825 last year.

The Public Works estimates, showing an increase of $400, were passed without debate, and the House went on to discuss the figures of the Treasury Department.

The Committee rose at 10.15 and the House immediately adjourned

Railway Interests Clash.

In the Railway Committee yesterday morning there was a clash of interests between the Brantford and Erie Railway Company, which proposes to build from Brantford to Port Dover, through Simcoe, with a loop line, taking in Delhi and Lynedock, and the Hamilton, London and Lake Erie Company, which covers some of the same ground. T. H. Preston said the municipalities interested should give their consent, and further discussion of the bill was postponed.

HARD UP IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Lord Milner, However, Is Not Dismayed at the Gloomy Prospects—Defeat Amounts to $5,000,000.

Johannesburg, March 2.—Lord Milner, British High Commissioner in South Africa, in delivering the Presidential address before the Inter-Colonial Council of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony, revealed the grave financial condition of the colony. He said a deficit amounting to $5,000,000 was due to the shrinkage in railroad receipts and the general paralysis of industry, while almost all of the $150,000,000 had already been expended on railroads, repatriation of the Boers and the development of the country. The only resources now were patience and economy. Lord Milner said he was not dismayed and that he hoped for improvements when an adequate supply of labor was forthcoming.

Mr. Bell was 52 years of age and was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. He came to Canada when a young man, and drifted into journalism, being on the reportial staff of The Ottawa Citizen. He subsequently became editor of The Mining Review, and made it a fine property. At the time of the accident he was preparing his report, with Judge Britton, on the Yukon investigation. He was Secretary of the Canadian Mining Institute, which meets in Toronto this month. He was a recognized authority on all questions pertaining to mining and the mineral resources of Canada.

ASKOLD SUNK NOVIK DAMAGED

More Russian Ships Disabled in Sharp Naval Engagement.

RUSSIAN TORPEDO BOAT LOST

Furious Bombardment By Fifteen Japanese Warships—Russian Cruisers Steamed Out to Meet the Attack, But Were Forced to Retire—Gen. Stoessel Orders Russians to Fight to the Death.

London, March 1.—Bennett Burleigh, The Daily Telegraph's correspondent in the Far East, cables that the Japanese bombarded Port Arthur for two hours Monday morning, and when the Russian fleet came out of the harbor, drove it back with great loss. The armored cruiser Askold was in a sinking condition, and the protected cruiser Novik was badly damaged. One torpedo boat was sunk, while the Retvizan was again splintered by the Japanese shells.

Japs Command the Sea.

No news is published here to-day of operations or movements other than at Port Arthur. As an indication that the Japanese possess full command of the sea, the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express, says it has been officially announced that the Japanese mail boat service between Shanghai and Japan will be resumed without naval escort.

A Furious Bombardment.

A despatch to The Daily Telegraph from Yinkow, dated Feb. 29, says: Fifteen Japanese warships furiously bombarded Port Arthur from 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock this morning. The Russian cruisers Novik, Askold and Bayan, accompanied by four torpedo boats, steamed out to meet the attack. They were, however forced to retire. The Askold was in a sinking condition, the Novik was badly damaged and a torpedo boat was sunk. The Russian battleship Retvizan was again damaged. The Japanese withdrew in good order.

MUST DIE FIGHTING.

Port Arthur Completely Invested—Russian General's Grim Message.

Port Arthur, March 1.—General Stoessel, commander of the garrison here, has issued a general order directing the attention of the troops and inhabitants to the fact that the Japanese intend to land and seize the fortress. The general declares the Japanese consider the seizure of Port Arthur to be a question of national honor, and from their obstinate attacks and bombardments of the fortress and bays he can only conclude that the enemy will make every effort to capture the fortress, failing which the Japanese will destroy the railroad and withdraw.

Fight to the Death.

"The enemy, however," proceeds the general order, "is mistaken. Our troops know and the inhabitants are herewith informed by me that we will not yield. We must fight to the finish, as I, the commandant, will never give an order to surrender. I bring this to the notice of those less daring, and call on all to become convinced of the necessity of fighting to the death Those who leave without fighting will not save themselves. There is no way out. On three sides there is the sea, and on the fourth will be the enemy. There is no means of escape except by fighting."

Japs Face the Yalu.

Che Foo, March 1.—The twenty-ninth Japanese infantry, occupying Pingyang, midway between Seoul and the Yalu River, on Sunday met a body of Russian cavalry scouts north of Pingyang and drove them back. It is estimated that 60,000 Japanese troops have landed at Chemulpo. The transports now are not escorted by warships.

The Japanese sailors who manned the merchant vessels which were sunk at Port Arthur, on landing here, shaved their heads as a mark of the disgrace they felt at the failure of the project.

The crew of the Jinsen Maru wrote their names on the foremast flag, which remained above water, when the ship went down.

May Be Blockaded.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—Direct confirmation of the report from Hakodate that Vladivostock is blockaded by Japanese vessels, cannot be obtained here, but it is considered not improbable.

SOO REORGANIZATION.

Mr. Conmee, M.P.P., Has Necessary Legal Documents Many Days Ago.

Toronto, March 1.—James Conmee, M.P.P., received a telephone message from Philadelphia last night that the documents covering the rehabilitation of the Soo enterprises had been signed and the reorganization plan goes into effect at once.

In conversation he said the plan provided for the raising of $7,000,000 capital. The scheme first proposed was that the Moffly committee should raise $8,000,000, but the Ontario Government insisted that there should be at least $1,000,000 of working capital. The completion of the Algoma Central to the C.P.R., a distance of about 35 miles, was not included in the original proposition, as it was merely intended to complete the graded portion to the Helen Mine. The additional million was secured by underwriting the Canadian Improvement Committee, which is composed of Philadelphia and New York capitalists undertaking to get the money.

The Government will get a mortgage on the Algoma Central Railway and its assets, including twelve vessels, the ore docks at Michipicoten, and it also holds the land grant. The railway will get a bonus of $6,400 a mile from the Dominion Government, there being due the railway at the present time $40,000 from that source.

The Government bill will be brought down in a few days.

TO ARRANGE FOR THE CONFERENCE.

The Joint Meeting of Methodist Official Boards Last Night.

A joint meeting of the Boards of the George street, Charlotte street, and Mark street Methodist churches was held in Mr. Aaron Cox's office last night to make the preliminary arrangements for the Bay of Quinte Conference to be held here in the first week in June, when it is expected that 300 delegates will be present.

The principal business of last night's meeting was the preparations made for the billetting of delegates. For this purpose the following committee was appointed: Messrs. B. Shortly, chairman; Dr. Morrison, secretary; J. J. Jeffries, treasurer; Rev. Rev. J. P. Wilson, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, Rev. J. G. Lewis, and Messrs. T. W. Robinson, J. A. Sutcliffe, and D. W. Dumble, for the George street church, J. Forester, A. B Cunningham and W. P. Adamson for the Charlotte street church, and J. Davy, W. Crowe and M. Carton, for Mark street church.

The above committee will meet in Mr. Aaron Cox's office on March 15th next.

A proposition was made that a booklet be printed, setting forth the programme, the names of the delegates to the conference, and where they will be billeted, as well as other useful information. This booklet will be printed more as a souvenir than anything else and the suggestion seems a good one.

PETERBOROUGH BOYS OF SOME PROMINENCE.

Men who Have won Their way in the United States.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Under the above caption you give a short list of some Peterborough boys who have gained distinction across the border, taken from the Saturday edition of the Toronto Evening News.

The list is an incomplete one, and perhaps the most conspicuous omission is the name of T. J. Nicholl, an old Peterborough boy. The "Successful American," an illustraded periodical published in New York city, in its January, 1903, number had his portrait with an account of his phenomenally successful career, which was copied in the Examiner on the 23rd of that month.

As I was intimately acquainted with him I may say that he is a son of T. F. Nicholl, Esq., an eminent civil engineer, who was associated with Sir I. K. Brunel in constructing the Great Western Railway of England and later as an assistant engineer in the construction of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada. He subsequently changed his location to Peterborough and filled for a long time the offices of Town and County Engineer of Peterborough. His son to whom I have referred, who seems to have inherited his father's splendid talents, also became famous as a civil engineer, and, finding wider scope for his energies and abilities in the United States, finally settled in that country. His advancement was rapid. He became chief civil engineer and consulting engineer of many of the big railway corporations of the United States. From there he rose to be the general manager of various large railway systems. Some years ago when the Rochester railway system was in low water the management decided on selecting a strong man to run it with the view of making it a financial success. Mr. Nicholl was the choice and the inducements held out to him were sufficient for him to undertake the task. He was successful beyond all expectations and the railway to-day is one of the most flourishing on the continent. He is now president of the Rochester & Sodus Bay Railway Company; vice-president and general manager of the Rochester Railway; president of the Rochester Electric Railway; president of the Rochester & Charlotte Turnpike Co. and president of the Chattanooga Terminal Ry Co., and besides holds numerous other offices of trust. He was living here at the time of the Fenian raid and was one of the volunteers who went to the front, for which, in common with others, he got a medal which he prizes above all other honours. Believing that he is entitled to a place on the roll of honour is my reason for thus troubling you.

Yours very truly,
J. GREEN.

A TWENTY HOURS STOP AT BURKTON.

An Unenviable Experience of a Snow Bound Passenger

Of the many tales which travellers have brought home this winter of experiences encountered through trains being snowbound, perhaps Mr. G. R. Browning, town, can relate one of the most unenviable. Mr. Browning left Toronto at 5 o'clock on Monday morning and it was a quarter to nine o'clock last night before he reached Peterborough, his destination, in short it took nearly twenty eight hours to make a distance of 77 miles, and that by a train consisting of two coaches drawn by two engines.

The road was in a bad condition when the train drew out of Toronto and but slow speed was made. The snow had begun to drift badly and a snow-blocked freight near Myrtle stopped the train at Burkton, while the snow plough with two engines tried to free the freight. However, this train was hopelessly stuck and the passengers were kept at Burkton for over 20 hours. Being snowbound is always a trying experience but perhaps not more so than at Burkton of all places on the line. There is no hotel accommodation and the passengers were confined to the limits of the car. The crew and station agent made themselves attentive to every want and by this the lot of the wayfarers was made pleasanter to some extent. Before the freight had got clear the engines of the passenger had used all their water and went to Myrtle for more, but they too got stuck and when the line had been somewhat cleared the two engines and snow plough were coupled onto the train, which began its journey, again, about 6 o'clock last evening, arriving here about 8.45 o'clock.

A VERY PRETTY FEBRUARY WEDDING.

Miss Mabel J. Chambers Married to Mr. Benj. Adams.

At the residence of Mr. George Chambers, 346 Aylmer street, on Monday afternoon, Miss Mabel J., the third daughter of Mr. Chambers, was united in marriage to Mr Benjamin Adams, of Balgonie, Assa. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, B.C.L., of the Charlotte street church, in the presence of only the immediate friends of the interested parties, the event being a most pleasing one in every way.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lizzie Chambers, while the groomsman was Mr. A. Fulton, of Harvey. Among the many elegant presents received by the bride was a beautiful piano, the gift of the groom. A dainty wedding breakfast was served at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Adams left yesterday for Balgonie, where they will reside in future.

LATEST SPORT

BELLEVILLE ISSUES AN INJUNCTION.

And Games Between Peterborough and Midland Have Been Cancelled.

The semi-final game between Peterborough and Midland which was arranged to take place last night, and later postponed until to-night, because of the fact that the Midland team was snow bound in Orillia, has been cancelled on the order of Mr. W. A. Hewitt, secretary of the O.H.A., who wired the local club last night to the effect that Belleville had issued an injunction against the O.H.A., retraining that body from carrying out the resolution suspending McMillan. The Globe this morning said:—

"Reddy' McMillan and the Belleville Hockey Club are still in the limelight, and have introduced a new feature in sport in Ontario. It will be remembered that at last Saturday's meeting of the O.H.A. Executive McMillan, whose status as a Belleville player had afforded matter for the consideration of that body ever since December, was suspended and games in which he played for Belleville were cancelled. Peterborough was declared the winner of that group and ordered to play off with Midland, the first game in Peterborough last night.

"On the application of McMillan's solicitor, Mr. Carnew, of Porter & Carnew, an injunction was obtained from junior Judge Fralick at Belleville on Monday prohibiting the association and its executive officers from enforcing or carrying out those resolutions. Suit was also entered on behalf of McMillan for $200 damages.

"So far as last night's game was concerned no injunction was necessary. The storm king got to work ahead of the court, and blockaded the Midland team in Orillia for the last two days. The interim injunction lasts till next Monday. Vice-President Nelson and Secretary Hewitt were served yesterday with the injunction and writ. Mr. F. F. B. Johnston is acting for the association."

The local team will thus do nothing until the matter is disposed of next week.

GAME TO DECIDE THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Napanee and T. A. S. to Play for Trent Valley League Honours To-morrow Night.

The final game in the Trent Valley League, which will be played here to-morrow night between Napanee and T. A. S. promises to be one of the fastest in the series. Both teams have had a very successful season, and the game to decide the winners will be sure to be filled with some interesting features. That the Napanee team is a fast bunch of players, no one who has watched their record can deny, and it will be a case of "when Greek meets Greek" to-morrow night.

According to the original arrangement the winners should be decided by home and home games, the first of which was to have been played at Napanee on Monday. A rule of the T.V.L. provides that all games on open rinks shall be played in the afternoon. This the Napanee team refused to do, claiming that they wanted a gate, which they could only get at night. The T.A.S. could have claimed the game and the championship by default, but they preferred to play for it, and offered the Napanee players all their expenses, including hotel bills, and referee's expenses, if they would come to Peterborough and play a sudden death game. It will thus be seen that the Napanee team had everything to gain and nothing to lose by adopting this course.

Chaucer Elliott will referee the game and there is no doubt that there will be one of the biggest crowds of the season to witness the game to decide the Trent Valley championship.

For the winners the defence was very strong while Callaghan and Cranfield on the forward line were the stars, scoring at will. The Bedelias were not in the same class as the machinists. E. Dormer made a good referee.

CIRCUMSTANCES AROUND EDITH GAROW'S DEATH.

Will be Investigated by Coroner and a Jury on Friday.

An inquest concerning the death of Edith Garow, the domestic servant, who is supposed to have committed suicide, near Havelock, on Saturday night last, will be held on Friday afternoon, March 4th, at two o'clock. Coroner Dr. Gray was unable to go to the scene of the fatality, owing to the railways being blocked, but telephoned instructions to empannel a jury. On Friday an inquest will in all probability be deemed necessary, and the actual examination of witnesses adjourned until some time next week.

Havelock, March 1.—Nothing new has transpired regarding the death of Edith Garow, and there seems no doubt that she died by her own hand. Some delay in the inquest has been entialed through the trains being snowbound, thus preventing Coroner Gray of Peterborough arriving in person.

TRENT WATERWAY NATIONAL BENEFIT.

Board of Trade Will Send Delegates to Ottawa to Urge Its Immediate Completion.

MR. HUGHES CHARLES, PRESIDENT.

Annual Meeting of the Board of Trade Held Last Night — Fire Protection and Transportation were Discussed.

Elected Officers of the Peterborough Board of Trade for 1904. The men who will lead in the upbuilding of Greater Peterborough:

President—D. Hughes-Charles.
Vice-President—A. H. Stratton.
Treasurer—Peter Campbell.
Secretary—T. Q. Quartermaine.

The Board of Trade last night started on a new year's work, with the holding of the annual meeting and election of officers for 1904. Two very important matters were discussed last night, that of Transportation and Fire Protection, in both of which the town of Peterborough is vitally interested. Mr. J. H. Burnham opened the discussion on the question of Transportation, in a short address full of important points. He called attention to the fact that there was an abundance of water in the Otonabee River, if it could be properly conserved and made available for use when needed. He believed that an average flow of 90,000 to 100,000 cubic feet of water per minute could be obtained, which would be ample for all requirements.

Naturally the Trent Waterway claimed considerable attention by the meeting, and in connection with the coming visit of the Royal Transportation Commission, the President, Mr. Hughes-Charles, expressed his opinion that Mr. J. A. Culverwell, of Toronto, had acted in a traitorous manner towards the Board and the town, and said that he considered Mr. Culverwell no longer a member of the Board in good standing.

Three delegates were appointed to visit Ottawa in company with a deputation from the Trent Waterway Association for the purpose of urging upon the Government the necessity of at once taking over the control of the dams at the head waters of the Trent system and also present facts as to the importance of the canal and ask for its immediate completion. The delegation from the Board of Trade will be composed of the President, Mr. W. H. Meldrum and Mr. T. F. Matthews.

Mr. A. Stevenson, who was added to this committee, which was instructed to prepare data to present to the Commission, stated that he considered that it was largely due to the efforts of Mr. R. R. Hall that the Dominion Government had at last consented to take over the control of the dams.

The question of fire protection was introduced by Mr. A. L. Davis, who said that a great majority of the fires could be traced to the fact that there had been no systematic inspection of the buildings in town. He urged the importance of an inspector being appointed. Other members of the Board believed that what the town needed badly was a new fire engine.

The President's address was an ably written document and showed that the writer had a good grasp of the business affairs of the town.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Board of Trade was held last night in the council chamber, with the president, Mr. D. Hughes-Charles in the chair, and the following members present:—Messrs John Carnegie, A. L. Davis, E. J. Toker, T. A. S. Hay, J. Coyle Brown, B. F. Ackerman, J. H. Burnham, K. Eardley-Wilmot, W. Might, P. Campbell, F. D. Kerr, R. M. Denistoun, A. H. Stratton, H. Rush, R. Fair, W. Rudkins, T. E. Bradburn, A. P. Poussette, R. E. Wood, R. R. Hall, W. H. Meldrum, A. Stevenson, D. W. Dumble, Mayor Roger, A. E. Dixon, T. W. Robinson, Ald. Batten, B. Shortly, B. Sutcliffe, R. C. Winch and others.

The secretary, Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, read the minutes of the last meeting, which were on motion adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read by the secretary:—

From Rt. Hon. Jos. Chamberlain, already published.

From Mayor Roger, enclosing copies of letters from Mr. John Bertram, chairman of the Royal Transportation Committee. The first of these has been published in the Examiner, and the second is as follows:

Geo. M. Roger, Esq., Peterborough,—

My Dear Sir,—I need hardly say that Mr. J. A. Culverwell has no authority to act for the Commission on Transportation. He, along with some others, has been asking for a session to be held at Peterborough or some central point to take evidence on the Trent Valley Canal. We had no word from Peterborough until Mr. R. M. Denistoun's letter reached here on the 25th inst. and I wrote you on that date advising you what action had been taken. Mr. Bell, unfortunately has been laid up for some time in Ottawa and I have written to him this morning to leave the matter for the arranging of a meeting in my hands. So if you will be good enough to act on the request of my letter of the 25th inst. and let me know how soon you can be ready. I do not wish to hurry you but rather to give you every opportunity to have the case for the canal presented fully before the Commission.

Yours very truly,

JOHN BERTRAM,
Chairman.

From E. G. Moreley, secretary, Toronto Board of Trade.

From H. J. Sims, secretary, Berlin Board of Trade.

From J. T. MacKay, secretary, Sault Ste. Marie Board of Trade.

From Thos. Jarrett, secretary, Trenton Board of Trade.

From J. Parker Thomas, secretary Belleville Board of Trade.

From J. Alex. Culverwell, re Royal Commission on Transportation already published.

A communication was received regarding fees for inspection of Weights and Measures.

The following telegram was received:

Toronto, March 1st, 1904.

T. Q. Quartermaine, Esq.,—
Secretary Board of Trade.

Got registered letter for meeting Trenton Board of Trade, Lindsay Post, Port Hope and other public bodies praising my efforts notwithstanding Examiner's jealousy editorially expressed. My politics are all Trent Valley Canal and protection of public interests.

J. ALEX. CULVERWELL.

A resolution expressing the thanks of the Board to the Mayor and Council, for the use of the Council Chamber, for the meetings of the Board during the year, was adopted.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

The president then presented his annual address as follows:—

That the past year has been a most important one in the history of Peterborough everyone conversant with current affairs must admit.

An amalgamation has taken place between the two municipalities, Peterborough and Ashburnham, and this must prove a great benefit to both evenutally.

The Lock has been completed and is now ready for work, which is another stride towards the completion of the Trent Valley Canal.

Many of our large factories have largely increased their buildings and plant and one new industry has been annexed. I refer to the Peterborough Sugar Beet Co. and we, the members of the Peterborough Board of Trade, wish every success for it will be a very valuable addition to our list of enterprises and will, like the American Cereal Co. and Matthews' Co., be of service to both town and county.

The town council are to be congratulated upon the fact that they have arranged for the re-opening and the extension of the street railway in the near future. This cannot help but be of great service to our labouring men in going to and from work and it must bring a great deal of trade to our merchants from outside places.

I regret to record the fact that we have had three large fires in town the past year. Bad as they were they might have been worse and we should take warning in time and do all that lies in our power to provide more fire protection in the way of fire engines and inspection of premises. The telegraph and telephone wires are a great menace both in fire and tempest, besides being a great eyesore on our streets and it would be well if some arrangement could be made with the companies to put their wires underground, and if this cannot be carried out the poles should be painted.

We are well situated to become a manufacturing centre, a distributing centre and a residential town. For manufacturing we have cheap electric power from the Otonabee River; good railway transport, having both the C. P. R. and G. T. R. systems and very soon I hope, good canal transportation and the latter is most required and it would be hard to estimate what the opening of the Trent Canal from Trenton to Midland would mean to Peterborough. We have had several meetings during the past year regarding this important matter and I am glad to say that the Committee appointed to bring it before the Dominion Government are well on with their work and have gathered much valuable information and so can present a strong case.

At present we have 28 separate manufacturing industries, some very large and some small, but all prosperous.

I have taken some trouble to collect statistics relative to our manufactures and I think they will prove a surprise to many of our citizens.

During 1903 there were 2,750 hands employed, the wages paid being $1,087,900 and the output or value of production amounted to the very large sum of $7,551,600.

In addition to becoming a manufacturing centre I think it is both possible and probable that we may become a grain centre as well.

We have one large mill which bought last year from farmers, 463,000 bushels of oats and from dealers 4,555,000 bushels; totaling 5,083,000 bushels and there are two flour mills with an output of 450 barrels per day, and I am sure if we had canal transportation this already large business would be doubled.

Our situation as a distributing centre is beyond question. We have an immense country on all sides all contributary to us and we are in the midst of a large and fine agricultural district with no large town near us.

There are two wholesale houses here now and it is expected that the number will be increased very soon.

Our retail merchants have had the largest year's trade on record and this is not to be wondered at when we take into consideration the large amount of money paid in wages—over $1,000,000. In addition to this the American Cereal Co. bought 483,000 bushels of oats worth $156,000, from farmers, delivered at their mill and paid for in town.

The Matthews Co. paid out to farmers $105,600 for hogs delivered at their factory and the cheese sales at our local board amounted to $670,000. It goes without saying that a good proportion of this large amount of money is spent in town.

The trade of the town is large and growing fast, as all departments show large increases over previous years. The statistics for 1903 are: Post office revenue, $25,553; inland revenue, $63,133; customs, $228,927. Railway and river tonnage, inward, 175,292 tons; outward, 155,184, total tonnage, 320476 tons.

I wanted to give the bank clearings as they show more clearly than anything else the volume of business done in town, but for some reason or other, which is hard to understand, the Ontario Bank manager would not give me his figures.

To anyone seeking a place of residence I think our town offers many inducements. It is a healthy situation with beautiful landscape scenery, hills and vale, river and lake and with good shooting, fishing and boating within easy reach. Nature has done much for us and it is only necessary for the citizens to be tasty and neat about their premises to make our town one of the prettiest in Canada.

If the town council will see to it that our streets are kept clean, free from loose paper and in good repair and each householder will endeavour to make his residence look better than his neighbours, then we will have a town, which will attract strangers.

PETERBOROUGH LADY DIED IN AUSTRALIA.

The Late Mrs. R. D. Ollard was Born in Town and was a Daughter of Rev. J. C. Taylor.

Lived Here About Fifty Years Ago, and was Well Known to Older Residents Her Father, Rector of St. John.

The Stawell (Australia) News and and Pleasant Creek Chronicle of January 12th, tells of the death in that city of Mrs. Ollard, who was born in Peterborough, where her father, Rev. J. C. Taylor was rector of St. John's church Mr. Taylor lived here about fifty years ago and the late Mrs. Ollard was his only daughter.

The late Mrs. Ollard's brother, Mr. Taylor, of St. Louis, Mo., was in Peterborough on a visit last summer. The News says:

"General regret will be felt throughout the district at the announcement that Mrs. Ollard, relict of the late Mr. R. D. Ollard, barrister and solicitor, died at her residence, "Dimora," in Church street, yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. The deceased lady has been for some time past in delicate health, and very little hope was entertained of her recovery. She gradually sank and died yesterday afternoon while in a state of unconsciousness. She was 69 years of age at the time of her death and was born in Canada, where her father was rector of the Church of England at Peterborough. It was in Canada that she was married to the late Mr. Ollard, and together they came to Victoria in 1864. In 1869 they took up their residence in Stawell, where they spent the remainder of their days. The deceased lady during the many years she has lived in the town has always been identified with charitable work. She was a prominent member of the Ladies' Benevolent Society, and took an active part in carrying out the objects of the society. To the poor and distressed she was a ways a friend, and the many kindly acts she did in the hour of need gained for her a place in the hearts of those in the town who have suffered in the battle of life. She also took a deep interest in the Holy Trinity Church of England and was foremost in every movement for the benefit of the church. She had no family but had two brothers residing in New Zealand, Mr R. J. C. Taylor and Mr. S. E. Taylor. The former, with his daughter, was with Mrs. Ollard when she passed away. The remains of the deceased will be interred in the Stawell Cemetery to-morrow afternoon, the funeral leaving her late residence at four o'clock.

Sudden drops of temperature are impossible in the home heated by hot water. Stove fires die out, hot air furnaces heat unevenly, and the hot air switches to other parts of the house leaving the remaining rooms cold and drafty. But with the heating system of the in connection with Oxford Radiators an even, steady circulation of hot water is kept up throughout the house. Each radiator is diffusing the same temperature of heat in sufficient quantities for the size of the room.

The illustration below shows that the distance from the fire to the first surface is less than in any heater made, and the water has a shorter distance to travel, thus a more equal temperature is maintained in the water of the several sections.

Write for our booklets, they are of interest to everyone with a home to heat.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC CHANGES

The Complete Details of the Proposed Modifications.

AIMS OF THE GOVERNMENT

The Eastern Division of the Proposed Line of Railway Is Not Affected in Anyway By the Alterations—Some Changes As to Financing, Leasing and Guarantee For Bondholders.

Ottawa, March 1.—The modifications in the Grand Trunk Pacific contract were announced last night There are no changes whatever with respect to the construction, operation, lease or location of the eastern division. The apparent object of the amendment is to facilitate the financing of the enterprise with respect to the mountain section, and to provide, in case of default, a remedy known to the British bondholders, who, as is naturally to be expected, must find the funds for the construction of the western division. The control of the location of the line east and west of Winnipeg remains in the hands of the Government, and the close identification of the Grand Trunk Railway with the new transcontinental line is maintained.

Aim of the Government.

The evident object of the Government from the outset has been to give the western country the benefit of close connection with the manufacturing centres of Ontario and Quebec, all of which are reached by the Grand Trunk System, to open up the undeveloped portions of Ontario and Quebec, and to provide a continuous all-rail route for Canadian products over Canadian territory to Canadian seaports. To provide the manufacturers of Ontario with access to the markets of the west, and the farmers of the west with an all-the-year-round commercial rail route to Canadian seaports, has been the earnest aim of the Government, and this has been effectively carried out in the present agreement. It is confidently expected that as a result of these amendments the Finance Minister will be in a position to announce at the opening of Parliament that the deposit of $5,000,000 has been duly made.

MODIFICATIONS IN DETAIL.

Grand Trunk President Strongly Recommends Agreement—Proposed Changes

London, March 1.—An advance copy of the special report to be submitted at the general meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, to be held on March 8, was handed out last night.

The president, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, opens with the statement that in view of the great and rapidly growing development of the Northwest Territories of Canada, the Government of the Dominion have recognized the urgent necessity of obtaining increased railway communication with and within that region. It is equally interesting to the company, and there is a necessity that it should secure for itself some participation in the advantages offered by these provinces.

The G.T.P. Contract.

An act of incorporation promoted by the Grand Trunk Railway Company had accordingly been obtained for the Grand Trunk Pacific Company, and agreements have been entered into between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company under which a trans-continental railway will be constructed, extending from New Brunswick to the Pacific coast, passing through the most fertile portions of the Northwest These agreements, which secure substantial advantages to the Grand Trunk Railway Company, contain certain conditions which require the approval of the proprietors of its stock.

Then follows a resume of the agreement between the Dominion Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Company, concluding with the statement that the agreements are the result of protracted and most careful and anxious negotiations with the Government, and that the directors strongly recommend them to the favorable consideration and approval of the proprietors.

Proposed Changes.

The document closes with the proposed changes in the agreement, as follows:

"THIS AGREEMENT, made this eighteenth day of February, 1904, between His Majesty King Edward VII., acting in respect of the Dominion of Canada and herein represented and acting by the Honorable Henry Robert Emmerson of the first part and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company of the second part.

"WHEREAS, by contract bearing date the 29th day of July, 1903, made by and entered into between His Majesty the King, of the first part, and Sir Charles Rivers Wilson and others, acting on behalf of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, providing, upon certain terms and conditions in said contract mentioned and set forth, for the construction and operation of a line of railways as therein described, and,

"WHEREAS said contract was afterwards confirmed by an act of parliament of Canada, set out in chapter 71 of the statutes of 1903 and known as the National Transcontinental Railway Act, and,

"WHEREAS the parties hereto have agreed, subject to make certain modifications in said contract,

"NOW, THEREFORE, this agreement witnesseth that the said parties have contracted, each with the other, as follows:

"Firstly—Notwithstanding anything in the said contract contained, the time fixed for the completion of the western division of said railway shall be and the same is hereby EXTENDED UNTIL THE 1ST DAY OF DECEMBER, 1911, and the tenth paragraph of the said contract shall be amended accordingly and also by inserting the word 'strikes' after the word 'floods' in the seventh line thereof.

"Secondly—Notwithstanding anything contained in the 13th and 29th paragraphs of said contract, the company shall, when it has completed the construction of the said western division in accordance with the terms of said contract hereby amended, and SHALL HAVE SUPPLIED ROLLING STOCK TO THE AMOUNT OF FIFTEEN MILLION DOLLARS, IF THE EASTERN DIVISION SHALL NOT THEN BE CONSTRUCTED AN DCOMPLETED BY THE GOVERNMENT, BE ENTITLED TO THE RETURN OF THE DEPOSIT MADE UNDER THE 12TH PARAGRAPH OF SAID CONTRACT or any part thereof which may then remain unforfeited in the hands of the government under the terms of said contract, and the company shall also be entitled to have the guarantee of the government endorsed upon the said bonds issued in respect to the western division pursuant to paragraph 20 of said contract, and if it shows to the satisfaction of the government that the western division will be completed and rolling stock to the said amount of $15,000,000 supplied before the construction and completion of the eastern division and that the application of said deposit will enable the company to so complete the western division and to supply rolling stock to the said amount and that the same will be so supplied the said deposit shall be released by the government in such instalments as may from time to time be agreed upon. Provided, however, that of the said rolling stock to the amount of fifteen million dollars, rolling stocks of the amount of five million dollars, to the satisfaction of the government, shall then have been marked in the manner provided by the 22nd paragraph of said contract and shall be ready to be assigned to the eastern division under said paragraph upon the completion thereof, and to serve all the purposes in respect of the whole of said contract intended to be served by five million dollars worth of rolling stock in said 22nd paragraph mentioned.

Third—Pending the completion of the eastern division by the government, the company shall be entitled to lease from the commissioners to be appointed under the said act, and to operate such portions of said eastern division as may from time to time be completed but upon such terms as may be agreed upon between the company and the said commissioners, which terms are not to be more onerous than those in the lease of the whole division by such contract provided for, save in so far as it may be necessary to give full effect to the paramount right of the said commissioners next hereinafter mentioned, and subject always to the paramount right of the said commissioners to use and operate the same without any payment of tolls or other compensation, and to such proposals as they may deem necessary or expedient in executing their commission.

Fourth—The twenty-eighth paragraph of said contract is amended by striking thereout all of the words following the word "not" in the eighth line thereof and inserting instead the words "in respect of the prairie section exceed $13,000 per mile of the mileage thereof, although 75 per cent. of such cost of construction may have exceeded said sum of $13,000 per mile."

Fifth—Notwithstanding anything in the said contract contained, THE GOVERNMENT may and shall, preserving always the proportions in said contract provided as between the prairie and mountain sections of the western division, IMPLEMENT for the purposes and subject otherwise to the provisions of said contract, ITS GUARANTEE OF THE BONDS OF THE SAID COMPANY TO BE ISSUED ON ACCOUNT OF THE COST AND CONSTRUCTION OF SAID WESTERN DIVISION IN SUCH A MANNER AS MAY BE AGREED UPON, so as to make the proceeds of said bonds so to be guaranteed, A SUM EQUAL TO 75 PER CENT. OF THE COST OF CONSTRUCTION OF THE WESTERN DIVISION, as contained and provided in said contract, but not exceeding in respect of the prairie section $13,000 per mile.

Sixth—Notwithstanding anything in the said contract contained, the government shall not exercise any rights in respect to possession by forced sure or sale by reason of the non-payment of interest by the company under the thirty-first, thirty-second and thirty-third paragraphs of said contract, or under all or any of them, unless and until there shall be such default to the extent of the whole of a sum equal to the accumulation for five years of such interest, as the company is not relieved of the payment of, limited to default or to capitalize by the provisions of said paragraphs.

Seventh—In case of such default being made by the company as to the rest of said bonds guaranteed by the government as would, under the provision of the said contract as amended hereby, entitle the government to take possession of said western division or to foreclose or sell the same, the remedy of the government shall notwithstanding anything in the said contract contained, be the taking possession thereof by and thru an agent or agents to be appointed as hereinafter provided, whose powers and duties shall be to manage and operate said western division, to receive all tolls and revenues thereof, to pay the running working expenditure as defined by the Railway Act of 1903, in filling the expenses of such management or agency, and to distribute the surplus of such tolls and revenues after the payment of such working expenditure pari passu between the government or other holders of bonds secured, as provided by paragraph 35A of said contract and guaranteed by the government, and the holders and bonds secured as provided by paragraph 35B of said contract and guaranteed by the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada in the proportion of 75 per cent. of such surplus, tolls or revenues to the holders of the former issue of bonds, and 25 per cent. to the holders of the latter issue, and the mortgage to be prepared under said paragraph 35A shall contain appropriate provisions in that behalf, the said manager or agent to be appointed by the government with the consent of the company, or if they be unable to agree, by a majority of the justices of the supreme court of Canada.

Eighth—Should possession be taken under the aforesaid right of the government, such possession shall terminate if and when the application of the proposition herein provided of said surplus of tolls and revenues shall have paid off all arrears of such interest.

Nine—Notwithstanding anything in the 27th paragraph of said contract contained, the Grand Trunk Pacific Company of Canada shall not, after the acquisition of $25,000,000 of the common stock therein mentioned less the amount of shares held by the directors not exceeding one thousand, be prevented from making any such disposition of such common stock as the said Grand Trunk Pacific Company of Canada may deem expedient, provided, however, that the said Grand Trunk Pacific Company of Canada shall, during the delay mentioned in the said paragraph, continue to hold the majority of said stock by such title as shall enable the Grand Trunk Pacific company of Canada to control the policy of the company.

Ten—Paragraph 10 of said contract is amended by adding thereto the following clause: "Provided further that in the event of the government determining to undertake the operation of said eastern division, the company shall be entitled for a further period of 50 years to such running powers and haulage rights as may be necessary to the continuity of operations between said western division and other portions of the company's system and the Grand Trunk Railway system, upon such terms as may from time to time be agreed upon, or as may, from time to time, in case of failure so to agree, be determined in the manner provided by paragraph 24 thereof, which is hereby made applicable to cases under this garagraph."

Eleven—In case, during the currency of the lease of theeastern division, the company shall have constructed a branch line or lines running from a point or points on said eastern division, the government shall, if at the expiration of said lease, it shall determine to undertake the operation of said eastern division, take over such branch line or lines AS THE COMPANY MAY ELECT NOT TO RETAIN, at such value as may be agreed upon or as may in case of failure so to agree, be determined in the manner provided by paragraph 24 "2" of said contract, which hereby is made applicable to cases under this paragraph. If any such branch line or lines shall have received any grant or grants under the provisions of any act of the parliament of Canada, the amount of such grant or grants without interest shall be deducted from such value and the difference only shall be payable by the government upon taking over such branch line or lines.

Twelve—Said contract modified by this agreement is to be ratified by the general meeting of the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Pacific Company of Canada on or before the 8th day of March, 1904, and THE DEPOSIT required by the 12th paragraph of said contract IS TO BE MADE IN CASH OR APPROVED SECURITIES IMMEDIATELY AFTER SUCH RATIFICATION.

Thirteen—The parties have herein expressly provided for said contract and for each and every paragraph of this supplemental contract, but they are hereby expressly confirmed and ratified and the words and expressions defined in said contract shall, except where herein expressly varied, be held to have the same meaning herein as in the said contract, and particularly and without in anyway limiting the generality of the foregoing, the word and expressions "government," "company," "eastern division," "western division," "prairie section," "mountain section," "cost of construction" and "months" shall have the same meaning herein as in the said contract.

Fourteen—The 31th paragraph of the said contract is amended by substituting the word "thirty-five" for the word "twenty-five" in the twelfth line thereof.

Fifteen—This agreement shall be submitted to and be subject to the ratification of the parliament of Canada.

In witness whereof, the said Henry Robert Emmerson, acting on behalf of his majesty the king, hath hereunto set his seal, and Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Lord Willy, John A. HARCOURT TO RESIGN.

Will Not Be a Candidate at the Next British Elections—Liberal Party Is Now United.

London, March 1.—(C. A. P.)—Sir William Vernon Harcourt, M. P. (Liberal leader), has announced his intention to resign his seat at the next general election on account of his age. Sir William was born in 1827. This means that Lord Rosebery's star is in the ascendant.

In introducing the naval estimates in the House of Commons yesterday, Ernest G. Prettyman, Secretary of the Admiralty, justified the increase in the estimates on the ground that the two powers standard must be maintained.

Liberals Are United.

London, March 1.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Rosebery, presiding at the annual banquet of the Liberal League at the Hotel Cecil, said that on all the great questions the Liberals were a united party. He believed in the nature of things that a general election was close at hand, especially as the Government was crumbling to pieces by its own inherent weakness. In the great campaign which had been waged Mr. Asquith had followed Mr. Chamberlain step by step, and where Mr. Asquith had passed little had been left of Mr. Chamberlain. He hoped that every Liberal was essentially an Imperialist. In the coming smash they would see that wherever the principles of the Liberal League prevailed.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE OLD PEOPLE

A new Source of Strength and Vigor for Those who Feel Their Vitality Waning and Suffer From the Ills Consequent on Old Age.

The story of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a story of great cheer for the old people.

It is a source of great strength and support at that time in life when vitality begins to decline, and the weaknesses of age begin to make themselves felt.

Young blood is warm blood—it is rich, pure and life-sustaining; and it is by actually forming new blood that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves of such wonderful benefit to the aged.

As the years go by the blood gets thin, watery and impure, and fails to keep vitality at high water mark. Circulation gets bad and the nervous system suffers. Besides the pains and aches, besides the weakness and dizziness, there are feelings of numbness which tell of the approach of paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Judging from the experience of the thousands of old people who have tested this great food cure, it seems to be exactly suited to overcome these conditions, consequent on old age.

Unlike ordinary medicines, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is entirely restorative in action, while others seek to tear down the tissue. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and building up the system. It thus permanently overcomes disease and affords lasting benefit.

Mr. William Lee, retired carpenter, 710 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—

"For some months I was not in good health. My system seemed to be run down. I was troubled a good deal with indigestion, and suffered from headaches and liver disorders. I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and am pleased to say that I found both of these preparations exceedingly beneficial. In fact I can confidently say that they have done me a lasting good and I cannot praise them too highly."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 3

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

Wilford was naturally jealous, but the fault had once led him into so deep trouble that he had struggled to overcome it, and now, at its first approach, after he thought it dead, he tried to shake it off—tried not to believe that Morris cared especially for Katy. But the mere possibility was unendurable, and in a most feverish state of excitement he started again for Silverton.

As before, Morris was at the station, his cordial greeting and friendly manner disarming him from all anxiety in that quarter, and making him resolve anew to trample the demon jealousy under his feet, where it could never rise again. Katy's life should not be darkened by the green monster, he thought, and her future would have been bright indeed had it proved all that he pictured it as he drove along with Morris in the direction of the farm-house.

Katy was waiting for him, and he did not hesitate to kiss her more than once as he kept her for a moment in his arms, and then held her off to see if her illness had left any traces upon her. It had not, except it were in the increased delicacy of her complexion, and the short hair now growing out in silky rings. She was very pretty in her short hair, but Wilford felt a little impatient as he saw how childish it made her look, and thought how long it would take for it to attain its former length. He was already appropriating her to himself, and devising ways of improving her. In New York, with Morris Grant standing before his jealous gaze, he could see no fault in Katy, and even now, with her beside him, and the ogre jealousy gone, he saw no fault in her, it was only her hair, and that would be remedied in time; otherwise she was perfect, and in his delight at meeting her again, he forgot to criticize the farm-house and its occupants, as he had done before.

They were very civil to him — the mother overwhelmingly so, and Wilford could not help detecting her anxiety that all should be settled this time. Helen, on the contrary, was unusually cool, confirming him in his opinion that she was strong-minded and self-willed, and making him resolve to remove Katy as soon as possible from her influence. When talking with his mother, he had said that if Katy told him "yes," he should probably place her at some fashionable school for a year or two, but on the way to Silverton he had changed his mind. He could not wait a year, and if he married Katy at all, it should be immediately. He would then take her to Europe, where she could have the best of teachers, besides the advantage of traveling, and it was a very satisfactory picture he drew of the woman whom he should introduce into New York society as his wife, Mrs. Wilford Cameron. It is true that Katy had not yet said the all-important word, but she was going to say it, and when late that afternoon they came from the walk he had asked her to take, she had listened to his tale of love, and was his promised wife. Katy was no coquette; whatever she felt she expressed, and she had frankly confessed to Wilford her love for him, telling him how the fear that he had forgotten her had haunted her all the long winter; and then with her clear, truthful blue eyes looking into his, asking him why he had not sent her some message if, as he said, he loved her all the time.

For a moment Wilford's lip was compressed and a flush overspread his face, as drawing her closer to him, he replied, "My little Katy will remember that in my first note I spoke of certain circumstances which had prevented my writing earlier. I do not know that I asked her not to seek to know those circumstances; but I ask it now. Will Katy trust me so far as to believe that all is right between us, and never allude to these circumstances?"

He was kissing her fondly and his voice was so winning that Katy promised, and then came the hardest, the trying to tell her all, as he had said to his mother he would. Twice he essayed to speak, and as often something sealed his lips, until at last he began, "You must not think me perfect, Katy, for I have faults, and perhaps if you knew my past life you would wish to revoke your recent decision and render a different verdict to my suit. Suppose I unfold the blackest leaf for your inspection?"

"No, no, oh no," and Katy playfully stopped his mouth with her hand. "Of course you have some faults, but I would rather find them out myself. I could not hear anything against you now. I am satisfied to take you as you are."

Wilford felt his heart throb wildly with the feeling that he was deceiving the young girl; but if she would not suffer him to tell her, he was not to be censured if she remained in ignorance. And so the golden moment fled, and when he spoke again, he said, "If Katy will not now read the leaf I offered to show her, she must not shrink in horror, if ever it does meet her eye."

"I won't, I promise," Katy answered, a vague feeling of fear creeping over her as to what the reading of that mysterious page involved. But that was soon forgotten, as Wilford, remembering his suspicions of Dr. Grant, thought to probe her a little by asking if she had ever loved any one before himself.

"No, never," she answered. "I never dreamed of such a thing until I saw you, Mr. Cameron," and Wilford believed the trusting girl, whose loving nature shone in every lineament of her face, upturned to receive the kisses he pressed upon it, resolved within himself to be to her what he ought to be.

"By the way," he continued, "don't call me Mr. Cameron again, as you did just now. I would rather be your Wilford. It sounds more familiar," and then he told her of his projected tour to Europe, and Katy felt her pulses quicken as she thought of London, Paris and Rome, as places which her plain country eyes might yet look upon. But when it came to their marriage, which Wilford said must be within a few weeks—she demurred, for this arrangement was not in accordance with her desires, and she opposed her lover with all her strength, telling him she was so young, not eighteen till July, and she knew so little of housekeeping. He must let her stay at home until she learned at least the art of making bread.

Poor ignorant Katy! Wilford could not forbear a smile as he thought how different were her views from his, and tried to explain that the art of bread-making, though very desirable in most wives, was not an essential accomplishment for his. Servants would do that; besides he did not intend to have a house of his own at once; he should take her first to live with his mother where she could learn what was necessary much better than at Silverton.

Wilford Cameron expected to be obeyed in every important matter by the happy person who should be his wife, and as he possessed the faculty of enforcing perfect obedience without seeming to be severe, so he silenced Katy's arguments, and when they left the shadow of the butternut tree, she knew that in all human probability six weeks' time would find her on the broad ocean alone with Wilford Cameron. So perfect was Katy's faith and love, that she had no fear of Wilford now, but as his affianced wife, walked confidently by his side, feeling fully his equal, nor once dreaming how great the disparity his city friends would discover between the fastidious man of fashion, and the unsophisticated country girl. And Wilford did not seek to enlighten her, but suffered her to talk of the delight it would be to live in New York, and how pleasant for mother and Helen to visit her, especially the latter, who would thus have a chance to see something of the world.

"When I get a house of my own, I mean she shall live with me all the while," she said, stooping to gather a tuft of wild blue-bells growing in a marsh spot.

Wilford winced a little, but he would not so soon tear down Katy's castles, and so he merely remarked, as she asked if it would not be nice to have Helen with them—

"Yes, very nice; but do not speak of it to her yet as it will probably be some time before she will come to us."

And so Helen never suspected the honor in store for her as she stood in the doorway, anxiously waiting for her sister, who she feared would take cold from being out so long. Something though in Katy's face made her guess that to her was lost forever, the bright little sister whom she loved so dearly, and fleeing up the narrow stairway to her room, she wept bitterly as she thought of the coming time when she would occupy that room alone, and know that never again would a little golden head lie upon her neck, just as it had lain, for there would be a new love, a new interest between them, a love for the man whose voice she could hear now talking to her mother in the peculiar tone he always assumed when speaking to any one of them excepting Morris or Katy.

"I wish it were not wrong to hate him," she exclaimed passionately; "it would be such a relief; but if he is only kind to Katy, I do not care how much he despises us," and bathing her face, Helen sat down by her window, wondering if Mr. Cameron took her sister, when it would probably be. "Not this year or more," she said, "for Katy is so young," but on this point she was soon set right by Katy herself, who, leaving her lover alone with her mother, stole up to tell her sister the good news.

"Yes, I know; I guessed as much when you came back from the meadows," and Helen's voice was very unsteady in its tone as she smoothed the soft rings clustered around her sister's brow.

"Crying, I know; oh don't. I shall love you just the same and you are coming up to live with us," Katy said, forgetting Wilford's instructions in her desire to comfort Helen, who broke down again, while Katy's tears were mingled with her own.

It was the first time Katy had thought what it would be to leave forever the good, patient sister, who had been so kind, treating her like a petted kitten and standing between her and every hardship.

"Don't cry, Nellie," she said, "New York is not far away, and I shall come so often, that is, after we return from Europe. Did I tell you we are going there first, and Wilford will not wait but says we must be married the 10th of June?—that's his birthday—thirty—and he is telling mother now."

"So soon—oh Katy! and you so young!" was all Helen could say, as with quivering lip she kissed her sister's hand raised to wipe her tears away.

"Yes, it is soon, and I am young; but Wilford is in such a hurry; he don't care," Katy replied, trying to comfort Helen, and begging of her not to cry so hard.

No, Wilford did not care how much he wrung the hearts of Katy's family by taking her from them at once, and by dictating to a certain extent, the way in which he would take her. There must be no invited guests, he said, no lookers-on, except such as choose to go to the church where the ceremony would be performed, and from which place he should go directly to the Boston train. It was his wish, too, that the matter should be kept as quiet as possible, and not be generally discussed in the neighborhood, as he disliked being a subject for gossip. And Mrs. Lennox, to whom this was said, promised compliance with everything, or if she ventured to object she found herself borne down by a stronger will than her own, and weakly yielded, her manner fully testifying to her delight at the honor conferred upon her by this marriage of her child. Wilford knew just how pleased she was, and her obsequious manner annoyed him far more than Helen's blunt straightforwardness, when, after supper was over, she told him how averse she was to taking Kitty so soon, adding still further that if it must be, she saw no harm in inviting a few of their neighbors. It was customary, it would be expected, she said, while Mrs. Lennox, emboldened by Helen's boldness, chimed in, "at least your folks will come; I will be glad to meet your mother."

Wilford was very polite to them both; very good-humored, but he kept to his first position and poor Mrs. Lennox saw fade into airy nothingness all her visions of roasted fowls and frosted cake trimmed with myrtle and flowers, with hosts of the Silverton people there to admire and partake of the marriage feast. It was too bad, and so Aunt Betsy said, when, after Wilford had gone to Linwood, the family sat together around the kitchen stove talking the matter over.

"Yes, it was too bad, when there was that white hen-turkey she could fat up so easy before June, and she knew how to make 'lection cake, that would melt in your mouth and was enough sight better than the black stuff they called weddin' cake. She meant to try what she could do with Mr. Cameron."

And next morning when he came again she did try, holding out as inducements why he should be married the night before starting for Boston, the "white hen-turkey, the 'lection cake, and the gay old times the young folks would have playing snap-and-catchem; or if they had a mind, they could dance a bit in the kitchen. She didn't believe in it, to be sure—none of the Orthodox did; but as Wilford was a 'Piscopal, and that was a 'Piscopal quirk, it wouldn't harm for once."

Wilford tried not to show his disgust, and only Helen suspected how hard it was for him to keep down his utter contempt. She saw it in his eyes, which resembled two smouldering volcanoes as they rested upon Aunt Betsy during her harangue.

"Thank you, madam, for your good intentions, but I think we will dispense with the turkey and the cake," was all he said, though he did smile at the old lady's definition of dancing, which for once she might allow.

Even Morris, when appealed to, decided with Wilford against Mrs. Lennox and Aunt Betsy, knowing how unequal he was to the task which would devolve on him in case of a bridal party at the farm-house. In comparative silence he heard from Wilford of his engagement, offering no objections when told how soon the marriage would take place, but congratulating him so quietly, that if Wilford had retained a feeling of jealousy, it would have disappeared. Morris was so seemingly indifferent to everything except Katy's happiness. But Wilford did not observe closely, and failed to detect the hopeless look in Morris's eyes, or the whiteness which settled about his mouth as he fulfilled the duties of host and sought to entertain his guest. Those were dark hours for Morris Grant, and he was glad when at the end of the second day Wilford's visit expired, and he saw him driven from Linwood round to the farm-house, where he would say his parting words to Katy and then go back to New York.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"If women would study the laws of health and use a little more common sense there would not be such a large number to-day suffering with the ills peculiar to our sex," writes Mrs. Sallie Martins (President Mutual Social Science Club) of 180 South Halstead Street, Chicago, Ill. "Then when medicine is needed if they would take the 'Favorite Prescription,' they would have a chance to get well. I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription three years ago and it cured me of female weakness of several years' standing so I know what I am talking about when I praise it and always know what the result will be where it is used."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

THEY LOVED CHILDREN.

Great Writers Who Won the Hearts of the Youngsters.

It is one of the most lovable traits in many of our greatest men that they are as skillful in winning the hearts of little children as in captivating the minds of their parents.

Was there ever a great man who did not love children? If there was, and we have never heard or read of him, his greatness was by so much the less. Even Sam Johnson relaxed his grimness into smiles of pleasure when Boswell's baby daughter held out her arms to him and pulled his hair when he was not sufficiently attentive to her.

Byron, whose own child life had been so saddened and imbittered by a loveless mother, worshiped his little daughter Ada with all his passionate soul, and history has no sweeter picture than that of Southey singing his child to sleep as he paced the floor with his "little burden of love" in his arms.

Lamb's great heart had many a warm corner for his child friends—all the heart, in fact, that his sister Mary did not fill—and when he took his daily walk through Edmonton it was the signal for all the little children to flock to him for a kiss, a kind word, or, better than all, to take his hands or coat tails and accompany him on his rambles.

It is little wonder that Charles Dickens, "the great hearted one," was idolized by the little ones; for there never was a more entertaining companion or one who could better "make himself a child again" for their delight. There are many staid men and women of today who recall with pleasure and regret the romps they used to have with "Boz" in the famous nursery at Gadshill.

Amonk great men of later days Mr. Lewis Carroll must be counted "king of the children's hearts." That solitary, lovable "mixture of a man," who was wedded to mathematics and to children, had few pleasures apart from one or the other. His study at Christchurch was a perpetual nursery, its corners and cupboards stuffed with toys and sweets and all that appeals to a child's heart, and here or on a river picnic, surrounded by swarms of his young friends, the mathematical professor was always a boy, as full of fun and as ripe for mischief as the youngest of his guests. May his rest be sweet, this chief of children's lovers!

Oliver Wendell Holmes, most amiable of "autocrats," was a lifelong lover of children and could "skip back seventy years" at a moment's notice at a child's bidding. Could anything be sweeter than the letter he wrote acknowledging the photograph of one of his little girl friends? "May those lips," he wrote, "speak what is pure and true; may those ears hear but what is good, and may those eyes always mirror a soul as beautiful as themselves."

by Mr. W. H Meldrum, and seconded by Mr. T. A. S. Hay.

R. F. McWilliams was nominated for the office of secretary by B. E. Ackerman and J. H. Burnham, and the vote stood, Quartermaine 12, McWilliams 4.

On motion of R. Fair, seconded by R. E. Wood, Messrs. Dumble, Burnham and Bradburn were appointed to select the council for 1904.

The president, before taking up the general business, said that he felt Mr. J. A. Culverwell, of Toronto, had acted in a traitorous manner towards the Peterborough Board of Trade. He had attended a meeting of the local Board, and had almost immediately attended a meeting in Port Hope, and had distorted the remarks made here into something which was never intended. He concluded by saying that he no longer considered Mr. Culverwell a member of the Board in good standing.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

The first question considered was that of Transportation, which was opened by Mr. J. H. Burnham, who said that he had consented to speak on this question merely to open the subject. He did not profess to possess an expert knowledge of the subject.

The water powers of the vicinity must be depended upon for the future prosperity of the town, as far as a manufacturing centre was concerned. He had endeavoured to ascertain what the actual condition were, and had found that in the early spring the flow usually reached 800,000 cubic feet per minute for about three weeks, while the average flow is about 100,000 cubic feet per minute, and at times it dwindles down to 20,000 cubic feet per minute. By enquiries he had found that with a slight expense for the purpose of properly conserving the waters, an average flow of 90,000 to 100,000 cubic feet per minute could be easily obtained. The area of water above the town was, he said, 27,000 acres, controlled by 51 dams. He was pleased to learn that these dims were about to be passed over to the Dominion Government for control. All the expense necessary for the proper controlling of the water would be probably about $150,000. He advocated taking some action looking to the immediate rehabilitating of the dams necessary.

MR R. R. HALL.

Mr. R. R. Hall followed, stating that he had received a letter from Hon. Mr. Latchford, stating that the Ontario Government was quite willing to hand over to the Dominion Government the control of the dams. Similar letters had also been sent to Ottawa, and he thought immediate actions should be taken to conserve the waters for this season. Mr. Hall said that he had seen the Minister of Railways and Canals and had been assured that the matter would be dealt with. He had been informed that even with the present facilities, if they were properly used, the flow of water would be ample for all requirements. This was an unusual year, but he thought that some action should be taken at once. He felt that all that was necessary was to press for immediate action by the Government.

A CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION.

Mr. R. M. Donnistoun was the next speaker, and said that the eventual remedy must come from the Ottawa Government, but he thought the first duty of the Board should be to educate the public. A good example of the value of educating the public might be found in the Erie Canal, and he believed it was due to that canal that New York State had attained its industrial supremacy. When the canal became of little practical use because of the fact that the railways had improved their facilities and the St. Lawrence route became improved, the people of the state decided to spend a $101,000,000 to improve the course so that the trade might be regained. In order to hold the trade Canada must take some action and he believed that the only way to do this was to complete the Trent Valley Canal, which, would have a barge capacity of 800 tons against 1,000 tons by the Erie Canal, while the large stretches of open water on the former would enable it to compete successfully with the latter.

The people should be educated to demand the completion of the canal. The manufacturers had taken action. The canal would have the effect of lowering freight rates, which would benefit all classes.

MR HALL'S GOOD WORK

Mr. A. Stevenson was the next speaker, and said that the only hope for such a lack of population in Peterborough was to induce more manufactories to locate here. He said that it was largely due to Mr. Hall that the question of water conservation was so far advanced as it was at present, and he believed that the work of the Trent Valley Waterway association was about concluded.

His Worship Mayor Roger thought that perhaps passing the dams over to the Dominion Government might not be sufficient. He thought that some action should be taken to have a uniform flow of water guaranteed. At present the flow was very irregular, at times there was an abundance of water and at others the flow was practically nil. The question of conservation was largely a local one, but the Canal is a national one. He thought, with Mr. Donnistoun, that the urgent duty of the Board of Trade was to educate the public.

He thought the Board should prepare for the coming visit of the Commission, and present the most forcible facts.

The President assured the Mayor that the Board of Trade would be glad to co-operate with the Council with respect to the visit of the Transportation Commisson. The question of sending delegates to Ottawa with the committee from the Trent Waterway Association, was discussed, and it was decided that the delegation from the Board should consist of the President, Mr. Matthews and Mr. Meldrum.

Mr. Meldrum thought a committee should be appointed to collect and prepare data to be presented to the Commission on its visit, and the following committee was appointed:—The Committee appointed to go to Ottawa, and Mr. A. Stevenson, with power to add to their number.

Mr. Hall counselled appointing a committee to take concerted action with Boards from other towns and points on the route of the canal.

A NATIONAL WATERWAY.

Mr. Dumble thought it impossible to secure figures which would be of any practical service, because the canal would be of but little service if it were not a national enterprise. To speak of the importance of the canal to those who had been filled with the idea for years seemed superfluous. He believed that the Otonabee was the steadiest river in America. The Government Engineer had reported that there was abundance of water in the head of the system to operate the canal. There would be line of industries from Trenton to Fenelon Falls along the canal which would build up the Province. The great importance of the canal, however, is its national aspect.

Mr. Donnistoun presented the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. P. Campbell and carried:

"Whereas the commercial supremacy of the state of New York has been ascribed by all classes of the people of that state to the construction of the Erie canal.

"And whereas owing to the wise policy of the governments of Canada the canals of the River St. Lawrence have been enlarged and deepened, so as to divert to Canadian ports a large amount of commerce that would otherwise have gone to the port of New York.

"And whereas recognizing this fact the people of the State of New York throwing aside the prejudices of party politics, have on the third day of November, 1903, voted the expenditure of $101,000,000 for the enlargement and development of the Erie Canal for the purpose of recovering, if possible, the commerce now being diverted to the St. Lawrence and Gulf of Mexico.

Therefore be it resolved by the Board of Trade of the Town of Peterborough that the Trent Waterway from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario with its great stretches of open water and short sections of canal, which can be navigated at four times the speed by barges four times the capacity of those now in use on the Erie Canal, offers to the people of Canada a magnificent national route to the seaboard, and the only means of maintaining and greatly extending the commerce of Canadian ports, notwithstanding the competition which will be furnished by the new 1,000 ton barge canal from Lake Erie to the Hudson river.

Resolved further that the completion of the Trent waterway will add material prosperity to every city, town and village in Central Ontario, by lowering freight rates on coal, grain, wood and all manufactured products and will prove an immense boon to the farming community, by affording increased facilities for the shipment of everything the farmer has to sell and lower prices on everything he has to buy.

Resolved further, in the opinion of this Board of trade that the completion of this great work will alone solve almost all the great difficulties in the adjustment of railway freights, which now burden the manufacturers of this section of the Dominion.

FIRE PROTECTION.

Mr. A. L. Davis, speaking on the question of fire protection, said that it was necessary that the town's equipment should be put up to the highest state of efficiency. The large manufacturing establishments in town have spent thousands of dollars for the purpose of providing the best fire fighting equipment, and the Town Council should be supported in their efforts to improve the service. The town should do its utmost to keep the fire loss low. During the last few years the town had been visited by a number of very serious fires, and he believed that had there been an inspection of the premises these fires might not have occurred. All large companies were forced to see that their works are properly protected. He suggested that in view of the fact that a large amount of plumbing was being put in an inspector might be appointed whose duty it should be to see that this work was done properly, and this duty might include that of inspecting stores for fire protection. When the companies see that precautions are being taken to prevent fire the rates will be reduced.

Mr. Dumble thought that the inspection might be done by the three or four companies which owned a large portion of the business places in town. The town should not allow buildings to be erected until the plans had been submitted to an inspector.

Mr. Dumble referring to the recent Cereal Works fire, asked why it was that when the sprinklers were operated there was no power for the town system.

Mr. Donnistoun thought that the town needed a new engine. The old one had outlived its usefulness, and did not owe the town anything.

Discussing the question as to the best date upon which to ask the Commission to meet here, it was thought that about May 15th would be the most suitable date.

The Board then adjourned.

A GUARDED SPEECH

Premier Balfour's Plea for Support of Naval Estimates.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF WAR

Those, Says the British Premier, Must Be Taken Into Account—Lansdowne on Coal As a Contraband of War—Japan Declares That She Did Not Violate the Law of Nations.

London, March 1.—In the course of a discussion of the naval estimates in the House of Commons last night, Premier Balfour, while admitting the magnitude of the estimates, said the House should not only consider the amount, but should watch the general European and Asiatic situation, which alone could justify what the country was asked to expend. The country should not lose sight of the possibility of war between Great Britain and two great maritime powers, which could hardly end without great losses on the part of both the enemies and Great Britain, in which event the other navies would be intact, and in a maritime position which they did not now hold.

Continuing, Mr. Balfour said he was reluctant to mention the possibility of war. He did not think such a dreadful contingency was one which they at present had any reason to apprehend. But, when talking of the navy, they must always be talking of the possibility of war, and he was forced when indicating the general outlines of the reasons which compelled the Government to ask for this sacrifice to indicate possibilities which did not exist twenty-five years ago. There was no possible comparison between the dependence Great Britain placed on her navy, which was defensive, and the dependence placed by America or any European country on their navies, which were offensive.

Great Britain's policy had been to see what other nations were doing in the way of laying down ships, and to immediately make a reply. So long as the Admiralty was careful not to anticipate or force other countries on, but simply to follow suit in insuring that other countries did not outstrip Great Britain in the race for naval superiority, Mr. Balfour believed the country would support him in the expenditure.

John Redmond (Irish Nationalist leader), speaking in the same debate, said that the small contribution of the colonies to the expenses of the Navy was a mockery of Imperialism. Ireland's contribution should be the same as that of Australia, on account of her having no oversea trade.

The vote for navy was agreed to.

When Coal Is Contraband.

London, March 2.—Messrs. Powley, Thomas & Co. of Cardiff, having written to the Marquis of Lansdowne, asking whether, in view of the hostilities between Japan and Russia, coal is contraband of war, received Monday the following reply from the Foreign Office:

"I am to state generally that coal is an article ancipitis usus, not per se, contraband of war, but if destined for warlike, as opposed to industrial use, it may become contraband. Whether in any particular case coal is or is not contraband of war is a matter prima facie for the determination of the prize courts of the captors' nationality, and so long as such decision, when given, does not conflict with well-established principles and rules of international law, His Majesty's Government will not be prepared to take exception thereto. I am to add that His Majesty's Government are not at present aware that any declaration on the subject has been made by either of the belligerents."

JAPAN'S ANSWER.

Says She Did Not Violate Law of Nations in Making War Prior to Making a Declaration.

Washington, March 2.—The Japanese Minister last night gave out his Government's reply to Russia's charge that Japan had treacherously obtained a victory by a sudden attack, and by not issuing a declaration of war had been guilty of a flagrant breach of international law. The reply says:

"The answer to these charges may be found in the action of Russia. That her Government never entertained any sincere desire for peace can be clearly seen from its own conduct, which is then reviewed at great length. The reply continues:

"On Feb. 6, Japan announced to Russia her determination to terminate the pending negotiations, and to take such independent action as she might deem best to defend her position, menaced by Russia, and to protect her established rights and legitimate interests.

"The term 'independent action' naturally included the opening of hostilities. The fact that Russia was unable to understand it in that light is, of course, no reason why Japan should be held responsible for the misinterpretation made by Russia. It is the almost unanimous opinion of international jurists that a declaration of war is not an indispensible prerequisite to the opening of hostilities. Indeed, it has been the common practice in recent years to declare war after hostilities have been begun. Japan's action, therefore, is not open to the least criticism in this regard. From the standpoint of international law, it must be acknowledged that the charge made against her does not come with good grace from Russia, inasmuch as there are not only many historical instances of Russia herself resorting to hostilities without declaring war, but one case, that of her invasion of Finland in 1808, when she began war before there had even been a rupture of diplomatic relations."

Enemy Did Not Appear Off Port Arthur Feb. 28, 29 or March 1.

MARCHING ON VLADIVOSTOCK

Rumours of the Fall of Port Arthur, Spread in London, Had No Foundation—Japs Destroy a Mile and a Quarter of Siberian Railway Between Vladivostock and Harbin Telegraph Offices Seized.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—In a despatch to the Czar, Viceroy Alexieff says:

"Admiral Stark, telegraphing from Port Arthur yesterday, March 2, says the enemy did not appear off Port Arthur on Feb. 28, Feb. 29 or March 1. Reconnoissances made by cruisers and torpedo boats over a radius of sixty miles from Port Arthur also failed to discover the enemy's vessels."

"According to additional information which has reached me, our patrols having passed the night twelve versts (eight miles) from Pingyang, approached that town on the morning of Feb. 29. They were closely pressing Japanese patrol of seven officers. Lt. Lonchakoff attacked this patrol with three Cossacks, forcing it to retreat at a gallop towards the gates of the town.

"The presence of our patrols near Pingyang caused great alarm, and soon the enemy's sharpshooters manned the wall and the towers and opened fire, expecting an attack. According to the report our patrols approached within seven hundred paces of the town, which they found to be surrounded by both old and new ramparts. These, however, were not occupied by the enemy, and it is supposed the Japanese have not more than 15,000 men in Pingyang."

Has Port Arthur Fallen.

London, March 3.—A rumor was circulated in the lobby of the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that Port Arthur had fallen. The origin of the rumor could not be traced and no confirmation whatever was obtainable.

Japs Marching on Vladivostock.

Shanghai, March 3.—The Japanese force that landed at Possiet Bay on Feb. 26 has penetrated inland and is reported to have gained possession of the telegraph line between Vladivostock and Harbin. A strong patrol, moving rapidly towards the latter point, has destroyed the railroad near Harbin. The main body is believed to be marching on Vladivostock, acting in co-operation with the fleet reported to be hovering around the northern fortress. News of the complete investment of Vladivostock by sea and land is expected within the next few days.

Russians Seize Telegraph Offices.

Tokio, March 3.—It has been learned that the Russians have occupied the telegraph offices of Anju and Yongpyon, north of Pingyang. They have imprisoned the District Governor and have confiscated official papers. The Russian force near Anju number only about forty men. The main Russian force is concentrated at Lioayang, a station on the Manchuria railroad nearly midway between Newchwang and Mukden. The Russians near Antung aggregate 2,000. No important engagement is expected south of the Yalu River, which it is believed the Russians will make their main line of defence.

Many Killed and Wounded.

Yinhow, near Newchwang, Manchuria, March 3.—Many Japanese are actively engaged throughout the district around Newchwang in fomenting raids on the Russian posts along the line of the Manchurian Railroad. The country swarms with bandits and scarcely a day passes without a determined attack on some one or other of the numerous Russian outposts. An unusually severe combat took place in this neighborhood yesterday between a mixed force of Japanese and natives and a strong Russian detachment. The fighting was fierce while it lasted, and the Muscovites finally succeeded in repelling the attack, but not till many on both sides had been killed and wounded.

Destroying the Railway.

London, March 3.—A mile and a quarter of the Siberian Railway, according to the Tokio reports, has been destroyed in the Ninguta district between Vladivostock and Harbin.

The Tientsin correspondent of the Standard cables that the Russians are strongly fortifying points south of Mukden. Thousands of coolies, who are working day and night on the ramparts and entrenchments of Haicheng, are compelled to labor without pay.

Hovering About Vladivostock.

St Petersburg, March 3.—A despatch from Vladivostock, dated yesterday, says that according to private reports there three Japanese detachments of 800 men each, recently landed at Chinghi in Corea, about 130 miles north of Wonsan (Gensan), with the supposed object of reaching the valley of the Tumen River and threatening Hunchun, Manchuria nine miles north of the Corean boundary and near Vladivostock. A fleet of ten Japanese warships was recently sighted on the horizon off Vladivostock. They were believed to be reserve vessels not powerful enough to blockade Vaidivostock or endanger the Russian first-class cruisers whose base is that port.

6,000 Japs in Gensang.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—An official despatch from Major-General Pflug, Viceroy [illegible] dated March 2, says: According to the reports of our patrols to Pingyang and on the road to Gensan (Wonsan) there are no signs of the enemy. Pingyang has been occupied by 6,000 Japanese, who include 200 cavalrymen. No particulars have been obtained concerning artillery. It has been learned that the Japanese bring troops by sea from Fusan."

2,000 British Troops for Malta.

London, March 3.—Orders were issued yesterday to despatch 2,000 troops to reinforce the British garrison at Malta. It is believed that this movement is made to facilitate the reinforcement of the stations in China later should necessity arise.

Chinese Agitated Japs.

St. Petersburg, March 3.—According to a special despatch from Port Arthur twenty Chinese have been arrested there for signaling to the Japanese ships from the shore with flashlights and lanterns. A warning has been issued that similar offenders will hereafter be treated as spies and shot.

Diet to Meet March 13.

Tokio, March 3.—The Cabinet met and discussed war taxation measures in extra session yesterday. It is now planned to increase by seventy million yen the amount to be raised by taxation. The Emperor issued a rescript, countersigned by the Minister of State, summoning the diet to meet in special session on March 13.

"THE BASER SORT."

Who has not often noticed that a policeman struggling on the street with a resisting subject he has arrested, receives very little sympathy from on-lookers? Indeed, a crowd such as collects on occasions of this kind is, generally, largely composed of persons who vociferously, if not actively, sympathise with the law breaker, and applaud his efforts to best the officer of the law; and the more trouble he gives the policeman the greater hero he becomes. A case in point arose in Hamilton a few days ago. A man named Hillis had broken jail, and was re-captured. His reception when he arrived in the city in charge of the officers of the law, is thus referred to in a despatch:

About 800 young men and boys were at the Stuart street station when the train from the west pulled in, and they appeared to regard Hillis as a hero. "Good boy, Hillis!" and "Hurrah for Hillis!" were expressions heard from the crowd, while the inspector and his men made their way through the gathering to the police patrol wagon, which was waiting to convey them to the jail. A number of policemen were on hand to see that nothing untoward happened, and the jail-breaker's admirers were not encouraged in their demonstrations.

This seems to be a comparatively trifling incident, but it serves to show that there are in every community "lewd persons of the baser sort," always ready to sympathise with this kind, always ready to exalt into heroes — according to their standard — those most conspicuous in violating the law of the land, or the laws of decency of any kind. Happily, there are few of these in Ontario communities, but they exist to a certain extent in every part of the country. It is to the minds of such persons that the peculiar platform oratory of Mr. Gamey appeals, in proportion as this oratory outrages one's sense of decency. To lawless minds, Mr. Gamey's attacks on the judges of the land, the representatives of constitutional authority, his disregard of the refined, or, even ordinary conventionalities of society, observed by respectable persons, and his free and easy adaptation of the vernacular of the tap-room to his public utterances, reveal a kindred spirit. Behind all this is the defective training, or rather perhaps, the utter absence of training of the children of this and the preceding generation. The manners of the present age are sadly degenerated. Now-a-days, children have no respect for their elders, or even their parents, nor adults in many cases for their superiors. Why is it? Who is responsible?

A NEW PLAN FOR MUNICIPAL CONTROL.

An interesting experiment is being tried in Indianapolis in the way of "A new plan for Municipal control of quasi-public works." The plan was formulated by Mr. Potts, an attorney in Indianapolis, and has been quite successful, as applied to the furnishing of natural gas to the residents of that city at a very low price. Mr. Forrest describes this plan in the May number of the American Journal of Sociology, and discusses its practicability at some length. The following brief extracts give a general outline of the scheme:

"(1) A stock company is formed, and by the terms of corporation, the stockholders assign their shares to a self-perpetuating board of trustees, who are given irrevocable power to vote the same for directors. Thus, if a majority of the shares should fall into the hands of one person, he would have no control over the company. . . . The trustees serve without compensation. . . . The board fills vacancies in its own body. It is, therefore, not under the control of stockholders, nor of political authorities, though it may be controlled by a legal process if there is evidence of corruption or mismanagement. The organization is thus seen to be similar to our best universities. The means of public control must be found in public opinion, which needs to be aroused when friction occurs. But since the trustees can derive no pecuniary advantage from the management of the concern, they must serve from the social motive, and may be expected to regard their trusts. . . . . .

"(2) The immediate management of the concern is in the hands of the directors chosen annually by the board of trustees. . . . . .

"(3) The necessary capital is secured by popular subscription, the shares being fixed at $25. It is necessary that such movements shall be backed by local capital, and it is desirable that as many people as possible shall be directly interested in its success. Incidentally a splendid means is provided for short time investment of savings by persons of all classes. It is provided that the dividends upon the stock shall not exceed 8 per cent. yearly, and that the amount invested shall be returned to the investors as soon as possible. . . .

"(4) Finally and most important, perhaps, is the provision that service shall be rendered at actual cost, after these returns shall have been made to the stockholders. It is not to be supposed that a company organized upon this basis will charge unreasonable rates up to the time that the obligation to the stockholders is fully discharged; but the full benefits to the public are secured only after that has been done. The gas trust has already saved to the consumers about $10,000,000, but it will become more completely a public servant after the remaining payments shall have been made to stockholders."

The advantages of the plan are briefly summarized as follows: It seems to be a plan which will secure adequate control without throwing these works into the hands of the spoils politician. It depends upon a public opinion such as ultimately controls our greatest educational institutions, and may in these cases be expected to control, though not radically, the management of non-political institutions. It uses our most highly developed business methods in the service to the public and secures to the public all the possible advantages of those methods. It secures the complete socialization of the values of social functions and yet does not throw the strain of frequent oversight of complex institutions upon the social consciousness. This last seems to be the desideratum. It might be secured by expert official service, but, unless this should become an intolerable bureaucracy, it must be subject to the fitful changes of our political life; whereas the Indianapolis plan provides for a management whose policy cannot be revolutionized by a spasm of popular prejudice, yet which must be gradually readjusted to meet social needs by the pressure of public opinion at important crisis, and which, for the faithful performance of its trust, will be under legal rather than political control.

HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Messrs. Alex. and Moses Trude are at Tweed, attending the funeral of their father, who died at his home on Saturday evening.

The social at the Presbyterian church last Friday evening, given by the young ladies, was a complete success. Mr. W. Slater won the prize in the crokinole contest, and Miss Shandler the box of bon-bons for being the lucky young lady to have the lowest score. A short programme was given, and refreshments were served in the basement.

Everbody was grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. William Wiseman, daughter of Mr. Eliza Williams of town, who died on Saturday at the age of 21 years and 10 months. The funeral took place to the Maple Grove cemetery. The numerous wreaths and floral emblems contributed by different friends and relatives, were evidence of the esteem in which the deceased was held. The deceased had only been married a couple of years. Her husband and the different relatives have our deepest sympathy.

On account of the sad death of Mrs. William Wiseman, the shanty supper, which was to have been given Feb. 29th, was postponed until March 4th.

As the Norwood skating rink has fallen in it is stated that the management have an idea of rebuilding it in Havelock during the coming summer. They think it would be a paying investment on account of this being a much larger town, and having more young people who would patronize such an enterprise. The open air rink here this season has proven to be a great success in the financial line, if not in the good ice. But if a good covered rink were to be built and good ice supplied, putting it up here would be the best investment the skating rink company could make. In summer the rink could be used for other purposes.

When our citizens woke up on Tuesday morning they found that there was some work ahead of them. The wind and snow had done its duty. It is a good thing that the coal shovel and dust pan are inside implements of every house, or some of the good housewives would have been in a sorry fix getting the snow out of the house that tumbled in when the doors were opened.

All freight and passenger service was also blocked on Tuesday. The midnight coming from the west did not get in at all. The day noon train arrived at 7 o'clock, and the afternoon train from the east did not show up until 6.30. All trains as well as snow ploughs were double headers.

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge fo the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

ONTARIO PROGRESS IN AGRICULTURE.

The Story of It Told by Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture.

The Influence Exercised by Government Initiation and Association.

The Toronto News, which as a rule shows no very robust friendliness for the Ontario Government, has the following appreciative article of the work of the Agricultural Department:—

The story of the agricultural progress of Ontario in the last decade is one of great interest and attractiveness. It was told by Hon. John Dryden in the Legislature in terms so modest and convincing as to make it most impressive. His speech ranks as the most interesting address of the session. He presented his facts more in the form of a popular lecture than a Parliamentary debate. He declared the prosperity of the farmer, and brought forward to prove his contention a mass of illuminating statistics which are unanswerable. His figures showed that progressive farmers have doubled their incomes since 1896. In cattle, swine, horses, sheep, poultry and cheese the value of the annual product has increased 100 per cent. Although there has been so appreciable growth of population the products of the farms have expanded in a marvellous way. The value of our cattle has increased from twelve to twenty-three millions; of our horses from two and a half to five millions; swine from ten to twenty millions; and sheep, poultry and some cereals in like proportion. It was hardly necessary for the Minister of Agriculture to say that these results did not come by hap-hazard. The same number of farmers—the same men practically—have doubled their production in six years. It is a result that not only the Minister himself and the Government should feel proud of, but in which the entire Province should rejoice. Accounting for

THIS REMARKABLE SHOWING

Mr. Dryden attributed it to the educational forces put in motion by the Department, and the ready response of the farmers to that form of inspiration. The Agricultural College at Guelph as the centre, and the farmers' institutes as radiating influences, have carried encouragement and enlightenment to the remotest township, and developed enthusiasm among the farmers that has had even farther reaching benefits than doubling their incomes. In addition to the increase of knowledge that has flowed from the farmers institutes, there are social advantages that cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. These gatherings have stimulated the thought of the whole country side. An impetus to individual effort and experiment has been given that has changed the dull routine of farm life into an occupation as interesting as science. Inspired by the ideas imparted at the institute meeting, many a farmer, has entered upon the field of original research, and found therein something that brightened every task. He has been brought to co-operate with with the Department by the expectation of increased profits from his farm, and has continued to do so for that and higher reasons.

During the past decade the Ontario agriculturist has been taught new methods of cheese making that have enriched the farmers of Eastern Ontario. They have been persuaded to raise the right breed of hogs, have increased the value of the swine raised by ten million dollars, and in Britain for Canadian bacon. The dairy schools are turning out men who are taking charge of the factories, and raising the quality and reputation of our butter. Guelph is the agricultural Mecca to which there is an annual pilgrimage of thirty thousand farmers and their wives. A day or two spent on the grounds there gives the farmer a more exalted conception of his calling, and renews in him the enthusiasm that isolation had done something to destroy. In making it possible for so many to visit the Guelph College, and in organizing the farmers' institutes, the Department has done a service for the great basic industry of the Province that is revealed more strikingly in the statistics than would be possible by metaphors.

The expenditures of the Government under this heading have increased a hundred thousand dollars in ten years in the face of the results attained, he would be a rash legislator who would critize the appropriation. That the limit of production has been reached there is no pretence. On the contrary, the Minister of Agriculture frankly admits that we have just begun the work of education that he confidently anticipates will produce still larger yields and better quality of products. The fact that stands out prominently before the people of the Province is that the farmers of today are prosperous and contented and have before them the prospect of a permanent income so long as they are industrious and progressive. For this condition it would be ungenerous and unfair to deny the Government and the Minister of Agriculture a great deal of credit.

THE CENTENARY OF THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

A Few Facts Relating to the Founding of the Society.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I once more ask you the privilege of a space in your much read paper in view of the arranging for the centenary services which take place on Sunday, March 5th, in relation to the British and Foreign Bible Society. Will it be out of place to give a few particulars of its Bible-like origin; it may be that all your readers are not acquainted with the small beginning whence it rose. I fear we can scarcely hope that there is the same longing desire to know and understand the word of God that there was in days past, when many valued it much even a few pages.

We cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the illiterate or eyes to the fact that the illiterate and unlearned in the wisdom of this world have had a deep insight of the one Bible as the Word of God, the spirituality of which can only be obtained by Divine inspiration, and while we are instructed to search the scriptures, to compare spiritual things with spiritual, waiting at wisdom's door-post, all of which imply examination and inferences, as well as a teachable spirit, the mysteries of Heaven being for babes, not for the wise and prudent who demand positive dogmas and hard, rigid definitions and explanations as in books of science.

Some ten years or more since in the "Review of the Churches" by Dr. Farrar, we have the account of a little Welsh girl who was, humanly speaking, God's instrument in calling into existence a society which has produced beneficial results among all nations of the world, having published the Holy Scriptures in about 200 languages. The history of Mary Jones is thus given:

Mary Jones was born in a weaver's cottage at Llanichangle, under the shadows of Cader Idris in 1782. Her poor parents were too poor to own a Bible, but they told her what they knew of its truths and took her as a child to hear it read in the house of a neighbouring farmer, named Evans, two miles from her home. When ten years old she was taught to read. And one day Mrs. Evans allowed her to read the Bible by herself. She found the words, "Search the Scriptures," and they awoke a deep yearning in her heart. For six years she saved every farthing of her earnings to buy a Bible, but no Bible could be obtained nearer than the house of Mr. Thomas Charles, a minister, at Bala. To procure it the young girl, in the spring of 1800 trudged 25 miles barefooted along an unknown road to make purchase with her scant savings of six years, with bleeding feet, dependent for food upon the kindness of strangers. She made her way to Bala and, after sleeping at the house of an old Methodist preacher, she went in the morning while it was yet dark, to Mr. Charles' house. With great reluctance, for he found how much of the Bible she knew by heart, Mr. Charles was obliged to tell her that he had but a few copies left for friends, and no more to be had, even from London. Then the poor girl burst into tears and sobs which so moved the heart of the minister that he said: "My dear child, I see that you must have a Bible. It is simply impossible to refuse you." Then her tears changed into soft tears of joy, and Mr. Charles, turning to the Methodist preacher, said: "David Edwards, is not such a sight enough to melt the hardest heart? A girl so poor, so young, so intelligent, so familiar with the Scriptures compelled to walk fifty miles to get a Bible. I can never rest till I find out some means of supplying this want of my country." In 1802 Mr. Charles travelled to London to see what could be done. At a committee of the Tract Society he told the story of Mary Jones and pleaded for a supply of Bibles; then one of the secretaries, Mr. J. Hughes, rose and said: "Mr. Charles surely a society might be formed for the purpose, and if for Wales, why not for the world?" Such was the grain of Mustard seed from which sprung the great tree of the British and Foreign Bible Society, founded on March 7th, 1804. We are told that in Wales, when, in 1806 the arrival of the cart was announced which carried the first sacred load, the peasants went out in crowds to meet it, welcomed it as did the Israelites did the ark of old, drew it into town and eagerly bore off every copy as rapidly as they could be dispersed. The young people were soon spending the whole night in reading it, and labourers carried it with them into the fields that they might enjoy it during the intervals of labour.

Dear Mary Jones' Bible is still to be seen at the British and Foreign Bible Society, with this inscription: "Mary Jones, his onour (as printed) of this Bible, bought in the year 1800, Aged 16." We may well ask the question, "How many of us love our Bible as Mary Jones did? I would ask our young friends to read and search the Bible; don't neglect your Bible, that like young Timothy, from a child you may know the scriptures. In a letter a friend writes "I have found it a precious companion amidst the trials of life, and often think of the last letter I received from my dear old grandmother, in which she wrote, 'I'm too old to go to the dear old chapel now, but, thank God, I have my Bible!'"

"Holy Bible, book Divine!
Precious treasure, thou are mine.
Mine to teach me whence I came;
Mine to tell me what I am.
Holy Bible, book Divine!
Precious treasure, thou are mine."

March 1st, 1904. J. BABB.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest at Lakefield.

Mr. Forbes, an employee of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company, met with quite a serious accident on Saturday afternoon. Men who were working on the roof in some way displaced a stone, which fell, and struck Mr. Forbes on the head, inflicting an ugly wound. He was taken to Dr. Robert Fraser's office, where the wound was dressed.

Mr. Stuart, of Ottawa, was in Lakefield on Monday.

Rev. Mr. Potter, of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church here on Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Mr. Campbell, who was at Smith's Falls, attending the funeral of his younger brother, was unable to get back in time to take the services.

A welcome sign of spring was the appearance in our midst the other day of Mr. J. Thompson, of the Dickson Company. When Mr. Thompson appears in Lakefield the spring is not far off.

On Tuesday morning at the residence of her brother, Capt. W. H. White, of this village, the death occurred of Miss Hattie White, of Cobourg. Miss White has been the victim of a serious illness for some months past and her sad demise was not unexpected.

Mr. H. J. Stuart, formerly of the Traders Bank here, paid a visit to our village on Monday, prior to his leaving for Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Davidson, who have been visiting in Toronto and Windsor, returned to the village on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Graham, and Miss Lynche, are in Toronto this week visiting friends.

Mrs. Samuel Henderson of Toronto, who has been the guest of her brother, J. H. Sherin, of the village, returned to her home on Wednesday.

Mrs. V. Darcey of the Burleigh Falls Hotel, is the guest of Mrs. John Holmes, Queen street.

Wood, coal and snow shovels are much in demand in Lakefield at present, and those who are thoughtless enough to leave any of the above mentioned articles lying about loose find that they have the faculty of becoming scarce in the night. One theory is that the articles evaporate in the intense cold; another that the high winds displace them—but these theories don't go with some of the victims who find themselves short of the above mentioned articles.

Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A. F. & A.M., held a regular mothly meeting in their lodge rooms on Tuesday evening.

The young men of our village find that in order to be popular with the fair ones it is necessary to skate, therefore all spare moments are occupied by those who cannot skate in cutting figures quite unknown to the Davidsons, who appeared in the Peterborough rink recently.

Will You Help a Sick Friend?

Get My Book for Him Now.

Which shall I Send?

Book 1 on Dyspepsia
Book 2 on the Heart
Book 3 on the Kidneys
Book 4 for Women
Book 5 for Men (sealed)
Book 6 on Rheumatism

Send me no money.

Only tell me which book to send.

You certainly know of someone who is sick—some sufferer who will be grateful for the help my book offers.

And that book tells of a way to help. Tells of a way so certain that I, as a physician, offer that help on trial. The book tells how, for thirty years in hospitals and at bedsides I searched for a way to cure deep-seated and difficult diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality that the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves, the inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me. Now by any sick one Dr. Shoop's Restorative can be taken on trial. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send me no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month—then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubts as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this of you are at all sick.

If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it.

Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help. Get my book now—to-day.

PETERBOROUGH BILL IN THE COMMITTEE.

Is Now Being Considered and Has Been Partly Passed.

The Toronto News of Wednesday said:—

"When the village of Ashburnham was united to Peterborough last year there was an agreement passed by the respective councils providing that the property of Ashburnham be transferred to the united municipality. This is the principal claim of the 'Peterborough Bill' which was before the Private Bills Committee this morning. The town also asks permission to expend $15,000 for an isolation Hospital, without the approval of the ratepayers, for a revision of the system of election, and for the reconstitutoin of the Court of Revision. These latter clauses were sent to the Municipal Committee.

"Mr. Crawford objected to permission being given for the issue of debentures without the submission of a bylaw, pointing out that Toronto had been refused the same request. In this the chairman agreed, unless the town could show that the expenditure was for emergency purposes. It was then shown that the Board of Health had insisted on the immediate erection of the hospital. The clause therefore passed.

"The special clause providing for the grant of a free site to the Peterborough Lock Works, caused some objection. Mr. Culverwell led the opposition, but as the clause was not printed, the matter was held over until to-morrow morning."

The barn of Mr. Edward Howley, lot 11, con. 7., Asphodel, about three miles south-west of Norwood, was burned to the ground last night. It seems that Mr. Howley went to the barn as usual in the evening to do up the chores, and everything at that time was apparently all right. About twelve o'clock he was awakened to find the barns in flames and beyond control. The barns, two horses, his implements and hay were burned. There was insurance on both buildings and contents.

Among the toasts of the evening were:—"Our King;" "Dominion," responded to by Dr. J. C. Moffatt, Rev. Mr. McKee McLennan; "Our Guests," responded to by Mr. Thomas Fraser, Mr. G. J. Sherry; "Hockey," responded to by Mr. James Cumming, Mr. Charles Pearce, Mr. J. F. Anderson, Mr. C.A. Ghent. About 45 guests sat down to the tables, which reflected great credit on Mr. King in the excellent manner in which the banquet was gotten up. Mr. Anderson will be missed as he was an all round sport, being especially a hockey enthusiast, and was secretary-treasurer of the hockey team here for several seasons.

THE CONTINUED THAW MAKES WALKING BAD.

Rain and Thunder Early this Morning—The Floods.

Peterborough was visited at an early hour this morning by a heavy down pour of rain, accompanied at frequent intervals by loud peals of thunder and bright flashes of lightning. The rain continued until about 11 o'clock this morning, when it turned to snow.

The thaw which set in yesterday, and continued to-day, made walking very disagreeable, the roads and pavements being flooded with water. However at the end of last week in the business part of the town at least, drains were dug,, and this proved to be a timely precaution.

Shortly before noon a cold west wind sprang up, and the prediction of the weather authorities of some more cold weather is alarming the railways who fear the water between the rails will freeze and cause them much trouble and expense.

Nuptials of Mr. J. Scott and Miss Effie Larmer.

The marriage took place yesterday afternoon of Miss Effie Larmer, third daughter of Mr. Isaac Larmer, to Mr. J. Scott, of Alameda, Assa., at the residence of the bride's parents, "The Maples," Cavan township. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large number of the friends and relatives of the young couple and the house was very artistically decorated for the occasion. Mr. W. L. Gibson officiated as best man, while the bride was assisted by Miss Jennie Hillier, of Millbrooke. The bride looked charming in silk, and the bridesmaid was similarly attired. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. W. McIntosh, of Centreville, a dainty wedding dejeuner was served, and a very pleasant time spent. Mr. and Mrs. Scott passed through Peterborough yesterday and will reside in Alameda, Assa.

PETERBOROUGH BILL PASSED THE COMMITTEE.

Concluding Section were Passed This Morning.

Will Go to the Legislature to be Notified—A Summary of the Bill.

The Peterborough Bill, entitled "An Act Respecting the Town of Peterborough," introduced by Hon. J. R. Stratton, reached on Wednesday the crucial stage, the Private Bills Committee, and successfully passed the ordeal.

The first section authorizes the Commissioners of the Town Trust to invest sinking funds in their hands remaining uninvested, in the purchase of buildings and other permanent improvements erected or made by tenants of the Market Block.

The second section vests in the town Trust, the real estate owned by the former village of Ashburnham, with power to lease or sell the same.

Section three, also vests in the Town Trust the sinking funds of the former village.

Section four permits the town to pass a bylaw, without suubmitting it to the people, to authorize the Water Commissioners to expend the sum of $10,000 annually in providing improvements and making extensions of the works, instead of the $5,000 per year the Commissioners are now by law permitted to expend.

Section five confirms the town bylaw passed Jan. 11th, 1904, authorizing the purchase of the Hilliard property.

Section six authorizes the Town Council, without the consent of the ratepayers, to pass bylaws providing for the erection of an isolation hospital or hospitals.

Section seven confirms the purchase by the Little Lake Cemetery Company, of a plot of land within the limits of the town, and west of the present cemetery, on which is erected the superintendent's residence.

Section eight provides for the conveying to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company certain lots upon which to erect large manufacturing buildings.

Section nine gives the council authority to fix the assessment of the land and buildings of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company at $12,000 for a term of ten years.

The concluding section of the Bill authorizes the Town Council, without the consent of the ratepayers, to fix by bylaw for a term of ten years the assessment of lands, and buildings erected thereon, and used as an opera house or academy of music,, the assessment so fixed to be a sum not less than the land upon which such buildings may be erected.

Sections eight and nine were passed this morning. The whole bill was passed unopposed.

A STRANGE WOMAN CLAIMED WATCH.

Which Boy Had Picked up on Aylmer Street.

On Tuesday a boy named Heaslip found a lady's gold watch on Aylmer street. A woman who resides at 24 Patterson street, chanced to see him pick it up and immediately claimed the timepiece, saying she had lost it the previous night, and was looking for it at the time. Before the boy had realized what had happened, the woman had taken the watch and disappeared. The boy reported the case to the police, and as Mrs. Braund had reported the loss of her gold watch, the Chief sent Policeman Adams to investigate. Mr. Adams found the woman, and as the watch had Mrs Braund's name on the back, took it away from her. It is now in the rightful person's possession.

FORWARD MOVEMENT OF MR. WHITEN.

Has Fitted up One of the Finest Studios in Canada.

A visit to the Whiten Photo Studio gives one the impression that he has suddenly been transferred to a fairy world, so beautiful has the place been arranged. A great amount of time and money have been spent, and the result is one of the most artistically arranged and beautifully fitted up studios in Canada. The whole interior has been remodelled, and Mr. Whiten is to be congratulated upon the good taste evidenced in the fittings he has had placed in his studio.

The entrance to the reception room is through a bevelled plate glass door upon which Mr. Whiten's name is artistically painted in gold leaf, and the reception room itself is one of the cosiest and homelike places imaginable. This has been entirely refitted, and large plate glass mirrors surmounting golden oak pedestals, with antique ornaments and a profusion of ferns, palms and lillies make the large double rooms look particularly inviting. The walls are covered with a rich red and gold paper, and upon them are displayed some more than ordinarly good specimens of the photographers' art, some new effects, including colour photography, mirror and shadow work which is unsurpassed in any studio in the country. A cosy corner in the reception room fitted with rich draperies, and soft coloured lights and cushions galore, looks particularly inviting. The archway is prettily draped with Madras curtains, with silk trimmings, which, with the Turkish rugs and Oriental decorations combine to make the effect an exceedingly pleasing one.

Evidences of true photographic genius are not wanting, and the new samples of work, some of them in the newest frames of natural and black wood with burnished gold ornaments, adorn the rooms. The mounts this year will be especially artistic. Some of the newest were seen, just imported from Chicago. A new system of lighting, with handsome electroliers, and a musical instrument recently purchased in Toronto, make a visit to the reception rooms of Whiten's studio one of more than ordinary pleasure. Nor is the work of remodelling confined to the reception rooms; upstairs in the operating room, marked improvements have been made. New backgrounds painted especially for this studio by a gold medalist scene painter facilitate the production of modern photography. This room is also adorned with palms. The cameras fitted with the most expensive Ross lenses, and the large dark room 12x28 feet, equipped with all modern improvements, make the work of producing photos from minature to life size a work of pleasure, and satisfaction. A ladies' dressing room in pink and white is also situated on this storey. The work-room is one of the largest in the province, and is 16x30 feet, and fully equipped. Mr. Whiten's 30 years experience should enable him to turn out work to satisfy anyone. The phone number is 418, and sittings may be arranged by telephone. A visit to this handsome studio will well repay anyone who has an eye for the beautiful.

SPECIAL ADDRESS AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Hare, of Toronto, Spoke Last Night With Great Effect

The third of the series of St. John's special Lenten addresses was delivered last night by Rev. Dr. Marmaduke Hare, of St. George's church, Toronto. Dr. Hare is a typical Englishman, of good presence and direct address. He spoke with readiness and power. His subject was the "Call to Discipleship," and his theme was directed chiefly to the advance in Christian life, referring to the request of St. James and St. John for preminence in the Kingdom. Their assumption that the chief places could be had for the mere asking, was shown to be a mistaken one by the Lord. Those who would follow Him must be prepared to drink of His bitter cup and to be baptized with His baptism, which was the entrance to a life of self-sacrifice and effort. The Christian life is a strenuous life, and, as a matter of fact, no real advance is possible without conscious effort either in the spiritual, mental or material world. In education, for instance, the prizes and honours only fall to those who exert themselves and never to hands empty stretched out to grasp them. The object of education was not the getting of a certain amount of learning but the effect of that learning upon the life. The enterprising and persevering effort so necessary to attain real distinction in the world of business, society or letters, was even more necessary in the religious life. Our religious ambition was not wrong but a noble thing, we were not only to enter, but advance in the Kingdom. And its high places were within the reach of all. Some religious teachers pictured the joy, others the pain, of Christian life, which really possessed both; the cross and crown were in close connection. And Christianity to-day furnished the best field there was for lives of noble, unselfish heroism, which lives were crowned already in the sight of God and man.

In spite of the weather the congregation was a large and representative one. The next speaker will be Rev. Dr. Macklem, Provost of Trinity University. His address will deal with the call to Christian citizenship and should be interesting to many outside the Church of England.

LADY FORESTERS PLEASANT EVENING.

Court Alexandra I. O. F. Held Successful Concert.

Last night the members of Court Alexandra, I.O.F., held a very successful entertainment in the Sons of England Hall, Hunter street, when a most enjoyable evening was spent by the large number of guests of the Court. Mr. George Record acted as chairman for the evening and in his opening address welcomed those present. He paid a high tribute to the work of the Lady Foresters.

The first number on the programme was an instrumental solo by Miss Ida Rutherford, followed by a vocal solo by Mr. J. Miller. Little Miss Maud Titterson delighted the audience with a recitation, after which Miss Pearl Morgan rendered a vocal solo. Miss Lizzie Smith gave a recitation, which pleased her hearers, followed by an instrumental solo by Miss Moss. The concluding number of the first part of the programme was a dialogue, in which Mr. H. Dodds, and Misses E. Record and B. Crowe took part.

In the interval between the first and second parts of the programme refreshments were served, which were thoroughly enjoyed. The first number after the intermission was a cornet solo by Mr. Miller, who also rendered a vocal solo. A second recitation by Miss Lizzie Smith was much enjoyed, as was also a dialogue by Misses M. Record, C. Dodds, Ethel Heathorn and Willie Heathorn. A vocal duet by the Misses Chasty was greeted with well-earned applause, Miss Jessie Manley's solo was very pleasing. Miss Maud Titterson gave a vocal solo, which like her former number was well received.

The programme concluded by the singing of the National Anthem.

LATEST SPORT

THE FINAL T. V. L. GAME TO-NIGHT.

Napanee and T. A. S. will Play for the League Championship.

If the present weather continues in all probability the last hockey game of the season will be that to-night, between Napanee and the T. A.S. team, in the final for the Trent Valley League championship. No skaters were on the ice last night so that it will be in good condition to-night for the game, which is certain to be a close one. Chaucer Elliott has seen the Napanee team play, and gives it as his opinion that it is a team that will be hard to defeat. The T.A.S., however, will be there with the goods, and it will be no walk-over for either team. The T.A.S. have played much better hockey in the latter part of the season than they did earlier, and the men are in good condition to make a bid for the championship for the second year in succession.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock sharp, with Chaucer Elliott of Kingston, as referee. The T. A. S. team will be:—

Goal—McCoy.
Point—Meagher.
Cover point—Crowley.
Forwards — Parnell, Lynch, McGrath, George.

CURLERS WELCOME THE COLD WEATHER.

Anxious to Meet Orillia again for Shepherd-Neill Trophy.

To-day's prophecy, from the Meterological office, of more cold weather, was received with joy by the curling fraternity of the town, who have een unabble to indulge in the game to any appreciable extent owing to the soft condition of the ice. The curlers are also anxious to play off with Orillia again for the Shepherd-Neill Trophy, which was to have taken place last Tuesday, but which was postponed owing to the snow blockade on the railway lines. Should however, the frost set in with true vigour, the games will be played off some time in the fore part of next week, probably Tuesday.

HAVELOCK TEAM IN MIDLAND LEAGUE.

Letter from a "Foot-ball" Enthusiast in Havelock.

Havelock, March 1st, 1904.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner,—

In regard to entering a football team in the Midland League this coming season, both the people and team are rather sore by the way they were used in the last match last season. They look at it in the light that the Havelock bunch had not a word to say in regard to when the last match was to come off and when the Y. M. C. A. team came down the boys had no team at all to put in the field. Although the cup was claimed and given to Peterborough by default we are satisfied we can and could have trimmed the Peterborough bunch. Of course if the Peterborough people were to give us their word that there would not be any bull-dosing it is possible that we may put a team in the field this year, and if we do look out for something doing. If not, possibly at the end of the season we will give Peterborough an exhibition match if one can be arranged, as we are satisfied that the Peterborough Y. M. C. A., although they beat us last year, are not invincible, Yours truly, "Football"

The above letter has been received by the Examiner from Havelock, and is published in accordance with this paper's desire to give everyone an opportunity of expressing their opinions, but some explanation is due the president of the League, and the Y. M. C. A. team, the winners of the trophy in last season's series.

The date for the final game in Havelock was arranged by the executive, not by the Y. M. C. A. team, and the latter was given no advantage over the Havelock team. In view of the fact that the game was ordered to be played on that date and the Y. M. C. A. team was on the field ready to play, the Executive could do nothing else than give the game to them. The winners asserted that they would prefer to have played for the championship, instead of winning it by default. The members of the Y. M. C. A. team are thorough sports and they have proved this not only in football but in other games, and the Havelock team may be assured of fair treatment, not only by the members of the team which won last year's championship, but by the league.

FARMERS IN HOT WATER FOR NOT PAYING TOLL.

An Over Ready Tongue Proved a Source of Trouble Also.

If a Peterborough farmer had not drunk so much whiskey, his tongue would not have wagged too much, and had he exhibited silence to a public official he would not have had to face the Police Magistrate this morning on a charge of using grossly abusive and insulting language towards Warren Hall, the market clerk.

The other day the man brought a load of hay to town which he got weighed on the market. The trouble began when he refused to pay the market toll. The farmer has a good command over a certain portion of the English language, and made violent use of it. His words and actions were so fierce that the police had a say in the matter. At the court he pleaded not guilty but notwithstanding this he was fined $2 and $4.15 costs, in all $6.15.

In giving judgment the Magistrate said that the market was an open shop for the benefit of the farmers whose business it was to pay the small fee for its maintenance. The market clerk was a public official and should be civilly treated.

THE COPYRIGHT LAW

Dr. Nesbitt Wants the Imperial Act Amended

A SCHOOL BOOK DIFFICULTY

No Trouble in the Future, As Education Department Is to Hold Copyrights of All Extracts—Government Asked to Grant Reasonable Compensation to San Jose Scale Sufferers.

Toronto, March 3.—The Imperial Copyright Law, as it affects extracts from the works of well known authors incorporated in Public School text books, occupied the attention of the Legislature for some time yesterday. In the discussion, which arose on a motion by Dr. Nesbitt, the Premier announced that in the future no text book would be published until the Education Department held the copyright on all articles on which the copyright had not expired.

San Jose Scale Sufferers.

In moving for a return showing payments under the San Jose Scale Act, Mr. Lee (East Kent) urged that the Government should provide for reasonable compensation for those whose orchards had been destroyed under the act, which had since been repealed. The act was no doubt passed with good intentions, for the purpose of protecting the balance of the country from the scale. The people of the country should therefore be willing to pay compensation to those who had suffered by its operation when it was discovered that, after all, that method of dealing with the pest was wrong and unnecessary. If the Government were not prepared to make a grant for this purpose they should certainly permit suits for damages to be brought against them when it might be discovered just how much the owners of fruit orchards had suffered.

The Minister of Agriculture was free to admit that the action of the Government was drastic, but it was based on the idea that the scale existed in only a few localities and that severe measures should be taken to drive it out. But it was afterwards discovered that the infestation covered such a large area that it would be impossible to get rid of it in that way. The San Jose Scale Inspector, Mr. Fisher, after two or three years, was able to find a mixture that would succeed in destroying the scale. It had been found that whale oil, lime and sulphur and several other mixtures were efficacious. The destruction of trees had cost a lot of money, but it had succeeded in stamping out the scale in 100 different spots where infected trees had been recently planted. Under the present law infected nursery trees were destroyed without any compensation.

The order was granted.

Subsidy For Temiskaming.

Mr. Sutherland moved for a return of correspondence between the Government and the Dominion Government relating to applications for a subsidy to the Temiskaming Railway.

The Premier said there was no correspondence, but he had two or three interviews with Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the subject, and up to that moment had received no absolute refusal. He would move a resolution memoralizing the Dominion Government on the question.

Colonel Matheson moved to have the papers re. the Soo payments referred to the Public Accounts Committee. The Premier agreed to this. Col. Matheson also asked that the accounts of the Temiskaming Railway be referred to the Railway Committee with power to take evidence upon oath respecting the location, construction and expenditure in connection with the railway.

The accounts will go to the public accounts on the suggestion of the Premier.

In reply to Mr. Gamey, the Attorney-General replied that there was no general regulations on the question of permitting registrars to engage in business outside of their official duties, and the Government was not aware that Mr. Abrey, registrar at Gore Bay, was acting as valuator for loan companies.

A number of bills were introduced.

Third Readings.

Bill to confirm a certain bylaw of the village of Ottawa East (Powell); to confirm bylaw 291 of the city of Hamilton.

Election Act Amended.

Mr. Powell's bill to amend the Election Act was taken up at the evening sitting. The object of the bill is to make special provision for taking the vote of railway employes on the day before the regular polling day.

The Attorney-General said the bill would give rise to much confusion, expense and dissatisfaction generally.

The bill was declared lost on division.

Mr. McKay's bill respecting the inspection of steam boilers, and steam threshing machines, was read a second time.

To Punish Personators.

Mr. Macdiarmid moved the second reading of the bill to amend the election law by providing for punishment of election offenders and for the disqualification of persons who have been found guilty of offences from holding office as returning officers. The present act provides for the prosecution of personators in cities or towns only, and Mr. Macdiarmid wanted it to apply to rural municipalities as well.

The Attorney-General thought the Committee might be able to [illegible] something from the bill, and [illegible] referred.

[illegible] reading was given a bill [illegible] Cameron (West Huron) to amend the law respecting noxious weeds, and Mr. Brown's bill to amend the Ontario Factories Act, to permit a tenant to throw up a lease of premises if the landlords fails to make improvements required by the Inspector, was withdrawn after the Attorney-General pointed out its bad features.

Mr. Smyth's (Algoma) bill, respecting voters' lists in unorganized territories, was sent to committee.

Stationary Engineers' Certificate.

Mr. Graham's bill, calling on engineers of stationary engines to pass a qualifying examination met with general favor in the discussion that followed, which led the Attorney-General to wonder what had become of the old-time kickers. The measure was referred to a special committee, and will probably become law.

Other bills were read a second time as follows: Respecting the City of St. Catharines (Jessop); respecting the City of London (Either); to consolidate the debt of the Village of Stirling (Pearce); respecting the Canadian Casualty and Boiler Insurance Company (Graham); to incorporate the Brantford and Erie Railway Company (Little); respecting the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway (Auld).

The Speaker's dinner takes place to-night, and there will be no session of the House.

Bounty on Beet Sugar.

Hugh Blain, Toronto; J. W. Garvin and T. E. Bradburn, Peterboro; D. A. Gordon, Wallaceburg, and C. K. Hagerdorn, Berlin, representing the beet sugar industry, waited on Premier Ross and asked that the bounty on beet sugar be continued for the next three years.

A deputation representing the Huntsville and Lake of Bays Transportation Company, waited on Premier Ross yesterday and asked for a subsidy for a mile of railway connecting Peninsula Lake and Lake of Bays.

BOTH CURED OF

KIDNEY TROUBLE

BY

Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Benjamin Brooks, a well-known farmer of West Cape, P.E.I., tells of how his son was cured of Kidney Disease, and how he was cured of Backache.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

There is not a kidney trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Doan's Kidney Pills will not relieve or cure. The price is 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 and may be procured at all dealers or from

POPULAR OTTAWA MAN IN LUCK

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him of Stone in the Kidneys.

Mr. S. A. Cassidy, the Well-known Sportsman, Tells Why He is Grateful to the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Ottawa, Ont., March 2.—(Special)—Few people in the Capital are as well known and popular as Mr. "Sam" Cassidy, proprietor of the Bijou Hotel, Metcalf street. As a hunter and fisherman of more than local reputation, he has become known to followers of the rod and gun all over the country, and many of the members of parliament who make an annual sojourn here are counted among his personal friends.

The news, therefore, that he has found a complete cure for a dangerous malady will give general satisfaction. Speaking of it he says:—"My friends all know that I have been troubled for years with stone in the kidneys; that though I consulted the best physicians and tried nearly every remedy I could think of, I was unable to get better.

"Some time ago a friend told me Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure me. As a last resort I tried them and they have cured me. I cannot imagine more severe suffering than one endures who has Stone in the Kidneys, and I feel the warmest gratitude towards Dodd's Kidney Pills."

If the disease is of the Kidneys or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Found "Not Guilty" Twice.

Brockville, March 3.—The Spring Assizes were formally opened yesterday, Justice Street presiding. The first case was that of King v. Drake, the charge being shooting with intent to kill. Drake is a one-armed man, who comes from Cardinal, Ont. On May 24 last Drake and another man named Monette got into a row in a boarding house at that place, which ended by Drake drawing a revolver and firing at Monette. The latter also drew a revolver, and the pair exchanged several shots, both being wounded in the fracas. Drake's defence was self-defence. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The next case was King v. Monette, the charge being the same, shooting with intent to kill. He also was found not guilty by the jury.

CHAPTER VIII.

"MISS HELEN LENNOX, Silverton, Mass."

This was the superscription of a letter, postmarked New York, and brought to Helen within a week after Wilford's departure. It was his handwriting, too, and wondering what he could have written to her, Helen broke the seal, starting as there dropped into her lap a check for five hundred dollars.

"What does it mean?" she said, her cheek flashing with anger and insulted pride as she read the following brief lines:

"New York, May 8th

"Miss Helen Lennox: Please pardon the liberty I have taken in inclosing the sum of $500 to be used by you in procuring whatever Katy may need for present necessities. Presuming that the country seamstresses have not the best facilities for obtaining the latest fashions, my mother proposes sending out her own private dressmaker, Mrs. Ryan. You may look for her the last of the week.

"Yours truly, Wilford Cameron."

It would be impossible to describe Helen's indigation as she read this letter, which roused her to a pitch of anger such as Wilford Cameron had never imagined when he wrote the offensive lines. He had really no intention of insulting her. On the contrary, the gift of money was kindly meant, for he knew that Uncle Ephraim was poor, while the part referring to the dressmaker was wholly his mother's proposition, to which he had acceded, knowing how much confidence Juno had in her taste, and that whatever she might see at the farm-house would remain secret with her, or at most be confided to the ears of his mother and sisters. He wished Katy to look well, and foolishly fancying that no country artiste could make her look so, he consented to Mrs. Ryan's going, never dreaming of the effect it would have upon Helen, whose first impulse was to throw the check into the fire. Her second, however, was soberer. She would not destroy it, nor tell any one she had it, but Morris—he should know the whole. Accordingly, she repaired to Linwood, finding Morris at home, and startling him with the vehemence of her anger, as she explained the nature of her errand.

"If I disliked Wilford Cameron before, I hate him now. Yes, I hate him," she said, stamping her little foot in fury.

"Why, Helen!" Morris exclaimed, laying his hand reprovingly on her shoulder, "is this the right spirit for one who professes better things? Stop a moment and think."

"I know it is wrong," Helen answered, "but somehow since he came after Katy, I have grown so hard, so wicked toward Mr. Cameron. He seems so proud, so unapproachable. Say, Cousin Morris, do you think him a good man, that is, good enough for Katy?"

"Most people would call him too good for her," Morris replied. "And in a worldly point of view she is doing well. Cameron, I believe, is better than three-fourths of the men who marry our girls. He is very proud; but that results from his education and training. Looking only from a New York standpoint he misjudges country people, but he will appreciate you by and by. Do not begin by hating him so cordially."

"Yes, but this money. Now, Morris, we do not want him to get Katy's outfit. I would rather go without clothes my whole life. Shall I send it back?"

"I think that the best disposition to make of it," Morris replied "As your brother, I can and will supply Katy's needs."

"I knew you would, Morris. And I'll send it to-day, in time to keep that dreadful Mrs Ryan from coming; for I won't have any of Wilford Cameron's dressmakers in the house."

Silverton, May 9th, 18—

Mr. Wilford Cameron:—I give you credit for the kindest of motives in sending the check which I now return to you, with my compliments. We are not as poor as you suppose, and would almost deem it sacrilege to let another than ourselves provide for Katy so long as she is ours. And furthermore, Mrs. Ryan's services will not be needed, so it is not worth her while to make a journey here for nothing. Yours,

Helen Lennox.

Helen felt better after this letter had gone, wondering often how it would be received, and if Wilford would be angry. She hoped he would, and his mother, too. "The idea of sending that Ryan woman to us, as if we did not know anything!" and here Helen's lip curled scornfully as she thus denounced the Ryan woman, whose trunk was packed with paper patterns and devices of various kinds when the letter arrived, saying she was not needed. Being a woman of a few words, she quietly unpacked her patterns and went back to the work she was engaged upon when Mrs. Camerkn proposed her going into the country. Juno, on the contrary, flew into a violent passion to think their first friendly advances should be thus received. Bell laughed immoderately, saying she liked Helen Lennox's spirit, and wished her brother had chosen her instead of the other, who, she presumed, was a milk and water thing, even if Mrs. Woodhull did extol her so highly. Mrs. Cameron felt the rebuke keenly, wincing under it, and saying that Helen Lennox must be a very rude, ill-bred girl," and hoping her son would draw the line of division between his wife and her family so tightly that her sister could never pass over it. She had received the news of her son's engagement without opposition, for she knew the time for that was past. Wilford would marry Katy Lennox, and she must make the best of it, so she offered no remonstrance, but, when they were alone, she said to him. "Did you tell her? Does she know it all?"

"No mother," and the old look of pain came back into Wilford's face. "I meant to do so, and I actually began, but she stopped me short, saying she did not wish to hear my faults, she would rather find them out herself. Away from her it was very easy to think what I will do, but when the trial comes, I find it hard, we have kept it so long; but I shall tell her yet; not till after we are married, though, and I have made her love me even more than she does now. She will not mind it then. I shall take her where I first met Genevra, and there will I tell her. Is that right?"

"Yes, if you think so," Mrs Cameron replied.

Whatever it was which Wilford had to tell Katy Lennox, it was very evident, that he and his mother looked at it differently, he regarded it as a duty he owed to Katy not to conceal from her what might possibly influence her decision, while his mother only wished the secret told in hopes that it would prevent the marriage; but now that Wilford had deferred it till after the marriage, she saw no reason why it need be told at all. At least Wilford could do as he thought best, and she changed the conversation from Genevra to Helen's letter which had so upset her plans. That her future daughter-in-law was handsome, she did not doubt, but she, of course, had no manner, no style, and as a means of improving her in the latter respect, and making her presentable at the posed sending out Ryan; but that altar and in Boston, she had proproject had failed, and Helen Lennox did not stand very high in the Cameron family, though Wilford in his heart felt an increased respect for her independent spirit, notwithstanding that she had thwarted his designs.

"I have another idea," Mrs. Cameron said to her daughters that afternoon, when talking with them on the subject. "Wilford tells me Katy and Bell are about the same size and figure, and Ryan shall make up a traveling suit proper for the occasion. Of course there will be no one at the wedding for whom we care, but in Boston, at the Revere, it will be different. Cousin Harvey boards there, and she is very stylish. I saw some elegant gray poplins, of the finest lustre, at Stewart's yesterday afternoon. Suppose we drive down this afternoon."

This was said to Juno as the more fashionable one of the sisters, but Bell answered quickly, "Poplin, mother, on Katy?" It will not become her style, I am sure, though suitable for many. If I am to be fitted, I shall say a word about the fabric. Get a little checked silk, as expensive as you like. It will suit her better than a heavy poplin."

Perhaps Bell was right, Mrs. Cameron said; they would look at both, and as a result of this looking, two dresses, one of the finest poplin, and one of the softest, richest, plaided silk, were given the next day into Mrs. Ryan's hands, with injunctions to spare no pains or expense in trimming and making both. And so the dress-making for Katy's bridal was proceeding in New York, in spite of Helen's letter, while down in Silverton, at the farm-house, there were numerous consultations as to what was proper and what was not, Helen sometimes almost wishing she had suffered Mrs. Ryan to come. Katy would look well in anything, but Helen knew there were certain styles preferable to others, and in a maze of perplexity she consulted with this and that individual, untill all Silverton knew what was projected, each one offering the benefit of their advice until Helen and Katy were nearly distracted. Aunt Betsy suggested a blue delaine and round cape, offering to get it herself, and actually purchasing the material with her own funds, saved from drying apples. That would answer for one dress Helen said, but not for the wedding; and she was becoming more undecided, when Morris came to the rescue, telling Katy of a young woman who for some time past had been his patient, but who was now nearly well and anxious to obtain work again. She had evidently seen better days, he said; was very ladylike in her manner, and possessed of a great deal of taste, he imagined; besides that, she had worked in one of the largest shops in New York. "As I am going this afternoon over to North Silverton," he added, in conclusion, "and shall pass Miss Hazelton's house, you or Helen might accompany me and see for yourself."

It was decided that Helen should go, and about four o'clock she found herself ringing at the cottage over whose door hung the sign, "Miss M. Hazelton, Fashionable Dressmaker." She was at home, and in a few moments Helen was talking with Marian Hazelton, whose face showed signs of recent illness, but was nevertheless very attractive, from its peculiarly sad expression and the soft liquid eyes of dark blue, which looked as if they were not strangers to tears. At twenty she must have been strikingly beautiful; and, even now, at thirty, few ladies could have vied with her had she possessed the means for gratifying her taste and studying her style. About the mouth, so perfect in repose, there was when she spoke a singularly sweet smile, which in a measure prepared one for the low, silvery voice, which had a strange note of mournful music in its tone, making Helen start as it asked, "Did you wish to see me?"

"Yes; Dr. Grant told me you could make dresses, and I drove round with him to secure your services, if possible, for my sister, who is soon to be married. We would like it so much if you could come to our house instead of having Katy come here."

Marian Hazelton was needing work, for there was due more than three months' board, besides the doctor's bill, and so, though it was not her custom to go from house to house, she would, in this instance, accommodate Miss Lennox, especially as during her illness, her customers had many of them gone elsewhere, and her little shop was nearly broken up. "Was it an elaborate trousseau she was expected to make?" and she bent down to turn over some fashion plates lying upon the table

"Oh, no! we are plain country people. We cannot afford as much for Katy as we would like; besides, I dare say Mr. Cameron will prefer selecting most of her wardrobe himself, as he is very wealthy and fastidious," Helen replied, resenting the next instant the part concerning Mr. Cameron's wealth, as that might look like boasting to Miss Hazelton, whose head was bent lower over the magazine, as she said, "Did I understand that the gentleman's name was Cameron?"

"Yes, Wilford Cameron, from New York," Helen answered, holding up her skirts and s-s-k-ing at the kitten which came running toward her, evidently intent upon springing into her lap.

Fear of cats was Helen's weakness, if weakness it can be called, and in her efforts to frighten her tormentor she did not look again at Miss Hazelton until startled by a gasping cry and heavy fall. Marian had fainted, and Helen was just raising her head from the floor to her lap, when Morris appeared, relieving her of her burden, of whom he took charge until she showed signs of life. In her alarm Helen forgot entirely what they were talking about when the faint came on, and her first question put to Marian was, "Were you taken suddenly ill? Why did you faint?"

There was no answer at first; but when she did speak, Marian said: "I am so weak that the least exertion affects me, and I was bending over the table; it will soon pass off."

Jolly Jack Tar.

"Jolly" is the word generally associated with the jack tar. He is the picture of health, and the health bubbles over in mirth and merriment. When people are sick, especially when sickness attacks the lungs the doctor often advises a sea voyage. But in the large majority of cases the sea voyage is impossible.

It is to the men and women of the workaday world to whom sea voyages or change of climate are impossible, that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes as the greatest earthly boon. The effect of this medicine upon those whose lungs are "weak" is remarkable. Even where there is bronchitis, spitting of blood, emaciation, weakness, conditions which if unchecked or unskillfully treated lead to consumption, "Golden Medical Discovery" in ninety-eight cases out of a hundred works a perfect and permanent cure. It strengthens the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the body in all its parts is not merely fed but nourished. And it is by nourishment that Nature builds up the body to resist or throw off disease.

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes J. M. Parr, Esq., of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bottle I was entirely well."

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. RECORD WINTER IN SEVENTY YEARS.

That of 1903 1904 Remarkable for Continned Cold Weather.

The record of the three winter months just closed will be handed down as the most severe that the present generation has ever experienced. In fact the officials of the Observatory at Toronto, say that since any record has been kept of the weather in Ontario, (and such a record has been kept for seventy years), this winter has never been equalled for steady cold weather. Since the year 1840 the only winter that approached the present one was that of 1874-5, and that winter was only a poor second.

The month of February has been surpassed but twice during the past 60 years. February of 1875 and 1885 being somewhat colder.

The coldest day was the second of the month, viz., 27 below zero. The highest temperature was on the 28th, 37 degrees above. We had 19 inches of snow, and 1.20 inches of rain.

Last night we had a severe thunder storm, and there was a rainfall of 68-100 of an inch. The gale this afternoon will bring some more cold weather, but winter will soon see its finish.

REV. D. T. OWEN AT ST. LUKE'S.

Was Preacher at Special Lenten Service Last Night.

The Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, formerly curate at All Hallows' Barking Church, London, England, preached a very instructive sermon last evening at St. Luke's church, from the text found in St. Mark, Chapter 12, verse 30: "Thou shalt love the Lord, thy God, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength; this is the first commandment."

This is the first commandment. This Lenten season gives to us to learn what we already know. A good many things we have to learn which we already know, such as the Creed, the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer. We use them; we think about them, they are old and familiar things which we forget. Hardly anything is so familiar to us as, "We ought to love God." Man was made to love God. Our Lord Jesus Christ puts it the first thing that we ought to love God. "To love God," is what we would almost call "cant." It is a good thing to think of; it is a good thing to sing in churches; it is alright in its place; but does not bear out the life of a man who finds himself weak; does not shake his sins. Is this the case? Was it understood by one who understands man's weakness—by one who saw through man? Take the commandment. This first commandment stands by itself in spite of the fact that we have heard it since we were born. It has something to do with each of us. It embraces that highest phase of life. God is a living power and our Saviour has stated that it calls forth man's whole being into concentrated effort; the exercise of the highest affections doing their best sense. It is a principle of Christianity that no man is using his faculties until he has arrived at loving God. It is the supreme effort of a man's whole life. You are not a loving man until you love God. Strange that God should command us to love Him. It is not like unto the command of an earthly king. It arises from a fact, namely, that God is a father, and because He is our Father He will do what is best for us. Look at all the mercies which He entertains for us. He will be satisfied with nothing less than the best of our lives, because we stand so high in His creation; He can put up with no shoddy work. Love is the object of our existence. When God made man He endowed him with that power of love. All through the Old Testament there is the yearning of the heart of the Father for His sons. Jesus Christ came and He revealed that love and showed the reasonableness of this commandment; He revealed the fact that God loves us. No matter how sinful we are, that yearning in our hearts will be found, the love of God. However much we may have done and said for life and our neighbours if we have not learned to love God we have lost the battle of life. How does this apply to us? How does this apply to me? In all these things it has a message to me. Love of fame, love of success in business, love is its secret. Love is that for which we labour night and day. Not until we have some of that same tenacity, shall we learn to love God. When we look over the battle of life we find we love that which is evil better than that which is good. He who gave us this commandment has led us the way; He has revealed to us the Father's love and taught us how we should love God, in the wilderness, in the Gethsemene, on the cross and on high, all through, in obedience, showing the test in love by keeping His commandments.

LICENSE LAW IN EAST SIMCOE.

Reasons for the Dismissal of the Inspector.

MR. STRATTON'S SIDE.

Many Protests Received as to the Conditions Arising From Improper Sale of Liquor.

In an article printed in The Mail and Empire of Saturday appeared a version by Mr. McKay, late license inspector for East Simcoe, of the cause of his resignation, accompanied by rather severe criticism of Hon. Mr. Stratton and his administration of the license department. Hon. Mr. Stratton was seen by a representative of The Globe and in answer to his inquiry furnished the true version of Mr. McKay's resignation as folllows: Mr. Stratton said that the article of The Mail and Empire, and the statements it contained were misleading, and quite at variance with the true facts of the case. In regard to the retirement of Mr. McKay, the late license inspector for East Simcoe, the department had abundant reason to conclude that his services in that capacity were not satisfactory, nor such as are required of an officer of the license department charged with carrying on the settled policy of the department, that the license law must be enforced. This conclusion was based on repeated complaints coming from responsible quarters.

On January 2nd, 1901, the Executive Committee of the Church of England Temperance Society,, Orillia, complained to the department of the lax enforcement of the liquor license act in Orillia, and elsewhere in the district, and referred to the sad death of a lad of seventeen years who, it appeared had been sent from a livery stable to convey a drunken Indian, a white man and a squaw a few miles out of town. The lad had drunk so much strong drink out of a bottle in the possession of the party that on his return he fell from the conveyance and was killed. Another case was reported when a man eighty years of age, under the influence of drink, fell from a wagon and suffered a broken neck.

In July, 1901, complaints from the Midland Women's Christian Temperance Union reached the department. The complaints were comprised in the statements of a resolution setting forth that they could not obtain from the license inspector (McKay) a reply to the communication respecting the shameful violation of the license law at Midland, and asking that the law be better enforced. Again, on July 27, complaints from the same source were made to the effect that the Indians in the vicinity of Midland became beastly intoxicated and the inspector was asked to give his attention to the matter. Subsequently serious complaints had been made to Mr. Stewart.

A DISGRACE TO THE COUNTRY.

Last September the Lord's Day Alliance of Orillia notified the Provincial Secretary that the license laws were habitually violated in East Simcoe, especially in regard to the sale of liquor on the Lord's Day. A resolution was moved by Rev. Dr. Grant, and seconded by Rev. J. L. Locke, and the latter stated that he had been told that the business carried on in the hotels of Orillia on the Lord's Day was a disgrace to the country.

In the matter of each of these complaints the attention of the inspector had been called to them by the department. At various times the inspector was communicated with and urged to see to the proper enforcement of the law, and informed that if the law was not fully complied with the department would have to take steps to secure its enforcement.

In the meantime there were many verbal and personal complaints made to officials of the department. Many persons who do not wish to complain formally and be placed on record verbally enter complaints to the officials of the department or the Minister, and the complaints thus made are regarded as confidential.

However, when the Lord's Day Alliance of Orillia formally and by resolution widely published, called the attention of the department to the infraction of the law, Mr. McKay was sent for early in October, 1903, to discuss the situation, and his attitude of indifference to the responsibilities of his position was so palpable that I suggested that he had better resign, in which event his pay would be given to the end of the year. His resignation was immediately forthcoming and accepted.

LAW WAS NOT ENFORCED.

If there were the slightest truth in the insinuations of License Inspector McKay as to the cause of his retirement, surely Rev. Dr. Grant, who lived in Orillia, and Rev. Mr. Locke, who seconded the resolution previously referred to, would not vindictively or maliciously lend themselves to misrepresenting Inspector McKay. The explanation of Mr. McKay's resignation may be put in a few words. The facts are that the license law was not enforced in East Simcoe. The inspector was making no effort to enforce the act, and showed no disposition to do so, and for that cause, and for that only, was his resignation requested. Every inspector dismissed on account of neglect to faithfully discharge his duties thinks he has a grievance, but it must be remembered that the public have rights in regard to the enforcement of the law, and these rights must be spected.

The License Department intends to see that the license law is enforced. To this end inspectors must do their duty, or, in default of this, suffor the consequences. It is somewhat remarkable that when the services of an inefficient inspector are dispensed with every Conservative newspaper and every Conservative member in the House seems to find it a duty to make a martyr of the inspector, and a tyrant of the license department. In spite of this inconsistent attitude, however, the department intends to apply its policy of securing a full and adequate enforcement of the license law, no matter how much its acts in this direction are misrepresented or its motives misconstrued.

Another insinuation in Mr. McKay's alleged statement, as published in The Mail and Empire, tantamount to a direct assertion that Mr. Stratton practically dismissed the old Board of License Commissioners for East Simcoe and appointed a new board because the former refused to carry out his wishes, is easily refuted. The facts are that Mr. Justice MacMahon issued a mandamus, enjoining the commissioners to rehear an application then pending. The Commissioners, declining to obey the order of the court, tendered their resignation to the department. The department thereupon, on August 17, 1900, caused to be addressed to the commissioners a letter stating that the department declined to accept their resignation, as the court had ordered a rehearing of the application pending, and that their resignation could not be considered till the matter pending should be dealt with by the board as then constituted, and, further, that this did not necessarily mean the reversal of their decision arrived at before the intervention of the court.

ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT FOUNDATION

Perhaps the most serious part of the charge made by Mr. McKay, as published in The Mail and Empire, is that contained in the following statement attributed to him:—

"Finally, Mr. Stratton told me to tell the commissioner opposed that it was his wish that the license be granted, and I delivered the message, as directed. But the board were unanimous in refusing it at their next meeting. The next year an entirely new board was appointed."

I emphatically deny that I expressed to Mr. McKay any semblance of a wish that the license in question be granted. I am quite clear upon that point, and I am sure that the chief officer of the license branch, who was present, will say that my statement is the absolute truth. The statement is as false as the insinuation already dealt with, that the Board of License Commissioners was practically dismissed because they refused to carry out my wishes in the matter of granting a license, when, as a matter of fact, the letter of August 17th is written evidence that I positively refused to accept their resignation.

The facts are that in May, 1901, one of the commissioners declined to be reappointed, and another, who was 80 years of age, and has since died, did not desire reappointment, and a new board was constituted. If the Mail and Empire will turn up its files it will find in its own columns, in its report of the visit of a deputation, a flat contradiction of what appears in its editorial columns of Sat-Saturday last. In its report, printed on August 17, 1900, of the visit of the deputation to urge the appointment of a new board, it prominently describes in a heading line the nature of my reply to the deputation, "Local matter in which Government cannot interfere," and in its report, covered by the above heading, of my reply to the deputation, these words of mine, addressed to the deputation, are found:

"The policy of the department was that of non-interference in cases where the question was of a purely local character."

It will thus be seen, Mr. Stratton added, that the Mail and Empire, with distinct disproof in its own columns of the misstatements contained in its issue of Saturday, February 27th, has no light task in defending itself from a charge of deliberately misrepresenting my attitude and that of the department upon the matter in question, from motives easily susceptible of explanation.

THE RUSSIANS RETREATING.

Going Inland as They Cannot Defend the Coast off Yinkow.

RUSSIANS ARE BADLY EQUIPPED.

Japan's Military Plans are Developing—Island Kingdom has Three Armies in Corea—Battle Expected Before the End of March—Japan Controls the Sea—Martial Law at Seoul.

Yinkow, March 4.—The Russo-Chinese Bank is closing, preparatory to removing to Mukden. Women and children are preparing to leave Yinkow in anticipation of the arrival of a Japanese fleet, which is expected when the river opens, probably a fortnight hence. The mainmast of the Russian gunboat Sivoutch has been cut off; this would indicate that she is being dismantled, but otherwise she would appear to be clearing for action.

On account of the impossibility of defending the coast of Yinkow until such time as a thaw permits the construction of entrenchments and forts, the Russians have prepared to retire up the main railroad line. There are practically no defences here and although the shifting and re-shifting of troops and artillery to the small forts at the mouth of the Liao River have the appearance of an intention to defend Yinkow, the military authorities depend upon an inland engagement to put a stop to the Japanese advance.

Martial Law at Seoul.

Tokio, March 4.—Gen. Inguye, the Japanese Commander at Seoul, Corea, with the consent of the Corean Government, has issued an order corresponding with the proclamation of martial law.

Compelling the Coreans.

Seoul, March 4.—The Russian forces at Anju are compelling the Coreans to supply them with rice, fodder and fuel. The Russians are fortifying Antung heavily with the apparent intention of preventing the Japanese from crossing the Yalu River.

Battle Before March Ends.

London, March 4.—The general idea among correspondents in the Far East appears to be that no important land battle is expected before the end of March.

A despatch to The Daily Express from Chemulpo, dated March 2, says that 15,000 Japanese troops have landed at Chinampo and gone to Pingyang.

A Harbin correspondent of The Daily Chronicle gives a rumor that 60,000 Japanese have landed at Wonsan.

The Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Telegraph asserts that three separate Japanese armies have landed in Corea, and the Paris edition of The New York Herald publishes a report from Che Foo to the effect that six Japanese cruisers, escorting 10 transports, have been seen steaming in the direction of the Gulf of Liaotung.

Nothing in any of these reports is improbable, but it is evident that Japan is maintaining strict secrecy as to her plans.

Russians Badly Equipped.

"Refugees from Port Arthur," the Nagasaki correspondent of The Times cables, "believe that there were 30,000 troops there the middle of February. They report that the 10,000 Russian troops who were despatched to Corea the beginning of February were so ill-equipped with transport and supplies that it was thought they would be compelled to return.

"They say also that the Russians treated the Japanese at Port Arthur so brutally that they fled to the seashore, embarked in small harbor boats and endeavored to reach Port Dalny. Several were drowned."

Japan Controls the Sea.

Under date of March 3 a Che Foo correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that, although Japan has lost a small cruiser and the machinery of two of her warships have been damaged, these probably have been fully repaired, and in any event Japan has complete command of the sea and will resume her naval movements, the landing of Japanese troops at the best strategic positions and the occupation of territory near Fort Dalny as soon as the winter moderates. He predicts that having crossed the Yalu River the Japanese will threaten Kirin, cutting the railroads and menacing Vladivostock, while a second force deals with the Liaotung Peninsula.

According to the Che Foo correspondent of The Morning Post, a Japanese battleship has run aground near Chemulpo.

Jap Steamer Sunk.

Vladivostock, March 4.—It is reported here that a Japanese steamer, the name of which is not known, was sunk in the Sea of Japan, on Feb. 25, while on her way to Wonsan with a load of rice.

"Eye-witnesses of the naval fight at Port Arthur have just arrived here. They declare that the losses of the Japanese up to Feb. 25 were greater than has been admitted in foreign newspapers.

In addition to five steamers sunk they say that five torpedo boat destroyers, one gunboat and two torpedo boats were put out of action, and several others so damaged that they will require extensive repairs.

Russian Fleet's Chief Mission.

St. Petersburg, March 4.—The naval organ says the chief strategical mission of the fleet at Port Arthur is to protect the disembarkation of troops on the shores of the Gulf of Liaotung, thus protecting the right flank and rear of the forces in Manchuria from the Japanese army.

On the Watch.

Berlin, March 4.—Advices from St. Petersburg yesterday say that new orders have been sent to Admiral Wirenius to keep his squadron in the Red Sea to watch passing war vessels and to capture vessels carrying contraband of war.

Rebellion in Kouchou.

Shanghai, March 4.—A despatch from Chenningchou, Province of Kouchou, China, announces that a rebellion has broken out against the Boxer indemnity tax. The Sub-Prefect's residence was looted Wednesday.

RUSSIAN PLAN FOR CAMPAIGN.

Alexieff's Headquarters will be at Mukden.

Secretary for War of U. S. Annoyed by Anti-Russian Tone of American Press—Latest War News.

(Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

DESPERATE RUSSIAN MEASURES.

Vienna, March 4.—The Arbeiter Zietung asserts that 300 political arrests have been made at Lodz Poland. The prisoners receive the alternative of being taken into custody or enlisting as volunteers in the Russian army. The object of the Russian authorities, says the Zietung, is apparently simultaneously to get rid of political suspects and to demonstrate the popularity of the war among the more intelligent classes by the large enlistments.

RUSSIAN PLANS.

London, March 4.—A correspondent at Yin Kow, says the following plans have been decided upon by the Russian officials:—1st, Gen. Duropatkins' headquarters will be at Mokden where Admiral Alexieff proposes to remain indefinitely as the place is the centre of the Chinese administration in Manchuria. 2nd, The almost indefensible plain west of Tashichiao will be held if possible for the sake of the road from Mokden and Port Arthur. 3rd. The Hai Cheng Liao Yang line will be the extreme limit of withdrawal.

ANTI-RUSSIAN TONE ANNOYING.

New York, N.Y., March 4.—A special from St. Petersburg says that in connection with Count Benckendorff's recent departure for London, local newspapers, especially the Novre Vremya, have been seriously warned against harmful and bitter anti-English articles which they have been in the habit of publishing. Mr. Hays' issuance that he is annoyed by the anti-Russian tone of the American press comes as a pleasant surprise.

The Medicine that has Cured the Ills of a Million Women is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

STERILITY

How shall a mother who is weak and sick with some female trouble bear healthy children?

How anxious women ought to be to give their children the blessing of a good constitution!

Many women long for a child to bless their home, but because of some debility or displacement of the female organs, they are barren.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound more successfully than by any other medicine, because it gives tone and strength to the parts, curing all displacements and inflammation.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., whose advice is given free to all expectant or would-be mothers. The medicine that instantly asserts its curative powers in the ills of women is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Read These Two Remarkable Cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—During the early part of my married life I was very delicate in health. I had two miscarriages and both my husband and I felt very badly as we were anxious to have children. A neighbor who had been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it, and I decided to do so. I soon felt that my appetite was increasing, the headaches gradually decreased and finally disappeared, and my general health improved. I felt as if new blood coursed through my veins, the sluggish, tired feeling disappeared, and I became strong and well.

"Within a year after, I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of out home. You certainly have a splendid remedy, and I wish every mother knew of it. Sincerely yours, MRS. ANNA POTTS, 510 Park Ave., Hot Springs, Ark."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for five years, and gave birth to two premature children. After that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it changed me from a weak, nervous man to a strong, happy and healthy wife within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, which is the pride and joy of our household. If every woman who is cured feels as grateful and happy as I do, you must have a host of friends, for every day I bless you for the light, health and happiness your Vegetable Compound has brought to my home. Sincerely your friend, MRS. MAE P. WHARRY, Flat 31, The Norman, Milwaukee, Wis." Sec. Northshore Oratorical Society

HELPING HOUSES OF REFUGE.

The Bill relating to Houses of Refuge, introduced into the Legislature by Hon. Mr. Stratton, while of general application, has a special significance for Peterborough. The Bill, when it becomes law, will permit of connecting any county House of Refuge, with the water, sewerage, electric light or gas system of any city, town or village municipality. In the case of Peterborough, a House of Refuge should be placed in proximity to the town, if it is desirable to have the conveniences which the town can only supply. It is to the interest of both the town and county that this relative location should exist, for it is probable as being many thank an obviously mutually advantageous thing to do, to have the county and town unite in the establishment and maintenance of a House of Refuge. Houses of Refuge are so self-evidently desirable as furnishing the best available solution of the problem of dealing with the indigent members of a community, that any measure tending to improve their efficiency, is an imtant step in the right direction. At present our jails, asylums and other public institutions are cumbered with cases which are quite unsuited for them, but have to serve the purpose—till such times as Houses of Refuge are provided.

A dispatch states that the extreme cold weather and severe storms have resulted in a decrease of $25,000 in the customs collections at the port of Montreal, as compared with the corresponding month of last year. We may expect a similar decrease all along the line for the same conditions that have affected Montreal returns will affect in the same manner all other collection ports, and these same conditions will also affect similarly all branches of business etively. The fourth of March this year will probably see some little difficulty experienced in adjusting statements by merchants and others for the weather conditions have had a paralyzing effect on business. The reported and almost continuous blockading of railways and highways is bound to have a depressing effect upon both local and general trade.

THE HUSBAND PAYS.

The husband pays. According to a jury of six married men of Huntington, L.I., the wives may buy such millinery creations as they are minded to and their husbands must pay the bills, says the St. Catharines Star. These enlightened Benedicts declare that it doesn't matter that the husband admonished the proprietor of a hat store not to trust his wife for more than $5. The wife may order a hat costing $30.63 and the husband must settle the bill. George Noyes, for such is the name of our hero, refused to pay the sum mentioned when Mrs. Fannie Mason, proprietor of a millinery shop in Huntington, sent in a bill for goods furnished Mrs. Noyes. Mr. Noyes declared on oath that he had warned Mrs. Mason not to sell his wife more than $5 worth of goods on credit. Mrs. Mason paid no attention to the warning, and sold Mrs. Noyes "one of the lovelist little hats that can be imagined," and she declared that Mrs. Noyes "just looked too pretty for anything" in the creation. Then Mrs Noyes and the "creation" were placed on the stand, and the jurors decided that any husband ought to jump at the chance of adding to his wife's beauty, even if it did cost $30.63, and they returned a verdict in favour of the milliner. While we do not criticize the enthusiasm of the six good men and true of Huntington, their wisdom is open to doubt. They have established a dangerous precedent. We predict that as soon as the women of Huntington are acquainted with the verdict there will be an unprecedented rush on Mrs. Mason's shop.

DEATH CLAIMS MR. JOHN JENKINS.

A Respected Resident of Peterborough County Passes Away.

Lakehurst, March 2nd. — The Angel of Death has again visited our settlement, and has claimed for his own a much respected citizen in the person of Mr. John Jenkins, who has been ailing for some time.

Mr. Jenkins was born in England, and came to this country with his family some years ago. Since that time he has lived at Peterborough, and at Lakehurst, and has become one of our most respected citizens. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Warne, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Earl, of Lakehurst, and one son, Mr. Samuel Jenkins, to mourn his loss. His wife died some two years ago.

Mr. Jenkins was a member and and a strong supporter of the English church here, and will indeed be greatly missed by both young and old.

The funeral took place on Saturday at two o'clock, to the Lakehurst cemetery, and was largely attended by his sorrowing friends and neighbours. The services at the house and at the grave was conducted by Mr. G. W. Rowan, the Presbyterian student at Lakehurst. The pall-bearers were Mr. Adams, Mr. Smith, Mr. Coons, Mr. Tedford, Mr. Thompson and Mr. Northey.

SOON TO BE CREATED

New Division of High Court, Says the Attorney-General.

GOOD PROGRESS IN SUPPLY

Price Paid For London Asylum Farm Criticized—Temperance Bill Will Not Be Brought Down Before the End of Next Week—Increased Sessional Indemnity Goes Through Without Protest.

Toronto, March 1.—The Legislature spent the greater portion of yesterday afternoon in supply and made considerable progress with the estimates. A lively discussion took place in regard to the price paid for the farm in connection with the London Asylum. The Attorney-General announced that the new division of the High Court would be created very shortly, and that a small vote would be included in the supplementaries to meet the cost. Mr. Gibson subsequently said that he was expecting the Dominion authorities would appoint a Judge any day now. The Premier informed Mr. Whitney that the temperance bill would not be brought down before the end of next week.

Premier Ross' bill to amend the law respecting the security of public officers, and Hon. Mr. Harcourt's measure to enable High Schools to charge fees for books at 25 cents a month, were put through committee.

Cost of London Asylum Farm.

In supply the items, legislation $185,450, administration of justice $478,297, education $989,154, were passed, and good progress was made with the vote for public institutions maintenance until Mr. Hanna expressed surprise at the cost of the London Asylum farm, starting a discussion which lasted nearly an hour. The farm consists of 235 acres, and the price paid was $23,000. Mr. Hanna asked whether it was not a fact that before the purchase a valuator had estimated that the farm was worth $13,000. Hon. Mr. Stratton said this was not true, whereupon Mr. Hanna asserted that the farm was not worth more than $50 per acre, and $15,000 would be an outside price. The Government had previously been renting the farm for $300 per annum.

Hon. Mr. Gibson admitted that the Government was very often unable to make as good a bargain when buying lands as two private individuals could. Undoubtedly the land at London had been purchased more cheaply than if they had done it through arbitration. Take any expropriation for railway purposes that had been made recently in the Niagara Peninsula, the price was never less than $100 per acre.

Mr. Beck said he would be sorry to make a statement that would tend to depreciate the value of the land in London, but the farmers in the neighborhood had told him that $50 per acre would have been a high price for this property.

A Sporting Proposition.

Hon. Mr. Stratton was emphatic in his declaration that the farm was well worth what had been paid for it. He would be quite willing to take it himself, and he would undertake that in five years the front part alone could be disposed of for the amount given for the whole.

Mr. Hanna—That's a good sporting proposition.

Dr. Routledge, the member for East Middlesex, here entering the House, Colonel Matheson appealed to him for his opinion. Considering its location the land was worth anywhere from $80 to $100 per acre, he said.

Mr. Whitney then rose to state that the whole 250 acres was not to be sacrificed.

Hon. Mr. Stratton replied that the person owning the land had refused it for years, and he had allowed the asylum to have the use of it for a number of years at a nominal rental. A friend resided in a house on the farm, and it was well known that the owner was holding the land expecting it would appreciate. The Government could not renew the lease, and it was important that it should not get into other hands. Sir John Carling had five years ago been paid $300 per acre for land not as adjacent to the city as this.

The legislation item concluded the increased sessional indemnity to the members who now receive $1,600 a session instead of $800. There was no criticism of this increase.

A number of bills were introduced and read a first time.

Repairing Fire Damage.

A staff of carpenters and plasterers is at work repairing the damage caused by Thursday morning's electrical storm. The injury to the building will not involve an expenditure of more than $300 or $400. The magnificent oil paintings at the entrance to the Chamber escaped altogether, except that of the late C. F. Spencer, which is slightly spotted by water.

Perth May Not Buy.

By a vote of 28 to 11 the private bills committee of the Legislature postponed for the session consideration of the bill of the Town of Perth providing for the purchase of the Perth Electric Co.

Deepen the Welland Canal.

Kingston, March 3.—The Dominion Transportation Commission, consisting of John Bertram, Toronto, and Robert Reford, Montreal met in the Kingston Council chamber to hear evidence as to the grain carrying trade between Fort William and the seaboard. Much information along this line was given by various witnesses. The Kingston marine men argued that the greatest thing required to improve the transportation route from Fort William to Montreal was the enlarging and deepening of the Welland Canal.

LUCID LECTURE ON THE TRENT CANAL.

Mr. R. B. Rogers Gives Reasons for its Completion.

Successful Meeting at Belleville a Natural Waterway The Canals Early History Its Estimated Cost.

(Belleville Intelligencer)

The public meeting held in the City Hall last evening, for the purpose of hearing the Trent Valley Canals scheme discussed, was, considering the storm which raged, well attended. A goodly number of the city's prominent business and professional men were present, and all who attended were amply repaid. Much valuable information in reference to the route of the proposed canal and the pecuniary advantages to be derived through its construction, was given, especially by Mr. Richard B. Rogers, of Peterborough, who is the chief engineer. The title of his address was "Water Transportation in Canada with Special Reference to the Trent Canal." The lecture, for such it was, was profusely illustrated with beautiful views, showing the route of the proposed canal from the Georgian Bay to Trenton. In his opening remarks the speaker dealt at some length with the transportation question in its various phases. He said there was no doubt whatever that Canada controls the natural highway of transportation by water on this continent. He described minutely the canals and water courses which Canada possessed at present, but which were as yet inadequate for the immense traffic, and especially in handling the great wheat products of the Northwest. In speaking of the Trent Canal proper he said the idea of building this waterway was first conceived by the Engineer Corps of the Imperial Government, who were sent out there in the first quarter of this century in order to suggest and carry out the best means of improving the transportation facilities through the country.

The money necessary to build the canal as far as Balsam Lake, which is about three-quarters of the distance in length of the whole canal, was actually voted, but about that time the Mackenzie rebellion broke out (1837) and the money so appropriated was used in quelling the rebellion. Nothing more of any extent was done until 1880, when the question was again taken up by the Dominion Government. In 1887 a Royal Commission was appointed, consisting of Mr. John Kennedy, Harbour Engineer, of Montreal; Mr. F. Turner, of Toronto; and Judge Clarke, who spent two years in gathering information. In 1890 they handed in their report, which was in effect that in their opinion the Government should proceed at once with the completion of the canal. A great advantage that this route has is that it is almost wholly a natural navigable channel for its entire length. The trade between Trenton and the Georgian Bay by the cross-country route from Lake Simcoe, is 200 miles, and of this whole distance it is calculated that not more than 15 or 20 miles will be actual canal, the remaining distance being either beautiful lake or river navigation. Another great advantage is that it is a land-locked route from its entrance at Georgian Bay to Montreal. Another advantage is that a very cheap class of vessels can be used, and the insurance on both the vessels and cargo will be low. The route of the Trent Valley Canal is all along the line of domestic consumption, and the district through which the canal would pass contains a population in excess of some of the smaller provinces of the Dominion. Freight rates will be considerably reduced by the completion of the canal, on coal, grain, iron, etc., by at least two-thirds. The question of what the Trent Valley Canal would do in the way of paying its own way was considered. First, the water power which will be developed by the construction of the necessary dams along the route; he believed that every pound of available water power would be utilized in the near future. There would be about 40,000 horse power available to rent. At the rate that the Government rents this power at present, namely, $2 per horse power, this would yield a revenue of $80,000 per annum, which would pay the interest at 3 per cent. on a capital expenditure of two and three quarters million dollars. Then there is the question of tolls. It is estimated that from this source a revenue of about $125,000 per annum will be secured. These two items would yield a revenue of $205,000, a sum sufficient to pay the interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum on four millions of dollars of capital required to complete the canal, also to pay the salaries of the officials necessary to operate the canal, $10,000, and leave a balance of $45,000 for repairs and renewals. The capacity of the Trent Canal will be over 42 million tons, or about 400 million bushels of wheat per annum, which will be more than we will require for many years at least. There is no scheme before the people of Canada to-day that, for such a small capital expenditure, will ensure such great results. The speaker then described minutely the route as surveyed from Trenton to the Georgian Bay. It is estimated that it will take a fleet of one steam barge towing five other barges, about one week to go from the Georgian Bay to Montreal, carrying about 150,000 bushels of wheat. Mr. Rogers, in concluding his able and lucid address, spoke of the beneficial effect that the canal when completed, would have upon Belleville, which would reap as much benefit as Trenton. It will have the effect of placing the city in a direct line of cheap transportation, by means of which we would be able to ship cheaply to any point on the line of the canal. This fact would induce manufacturers to locate in the city. The rates would be cut down 60 or 70 per cent. and the lower the freight rates the larger the field of operation. There was no reason why Belleville, with its close proximity to the immense water power of the River Trent, should not become a large manufacturing centre. Electricity is so cheaply transmitted, with so little loss of energy, that it makes very little difference whether a town is located right at the source of operation or at a reasonable distance away, such as Belleville is. The importance of this water course had not, he thought, been as fully appreciated by Belleville as it should have been. In conclusion he made an appeal to Belleville to assist in the proposed scheme.

Get My Book, if Sick

Don't Send a Penny.

Don't send a penny.

Just wait till you see what I can do. Let me take the risk. Let me prove up first what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. The Restorative will gain your friendship, your endorsement, if you test it. And for a whole month you can use it without the slightest risk.

I will tell you of a druggist near you who will furnish six bottles of

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

A MONTH ON TRIAL.

I will absolutely stand all the cost if it fails. If you say, "It did not help me," that ends it as far as cost to you is concerned. Do you understand me? I am telling it as plainly, as clearly as I can. I want you to know absolutely and without doubt that this offer is made on honour. I have the prescription that cures. My only problem is to convince you that Dr Shoop's Restorative will cure—is an uncommon remedy. A common remedy could not stand a test like this. It would bankrupt the physician making the offer. And I am succeeding everywhere, and here is the secret of my success. I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began. Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Thousands are accepting my offer and only one in each forty writes me that my remedy failed. Just think of it. 39 out of 40 get well and these are difficult cases too. And the fortieth has nothing to pay. That is a record I am proud of. It is wrong to stay sick when a chance like this is open. If well, you should tell others who are sick, of my offer. Don't let a sick friend stay sick because he knows not of my offer. Tell him. Get my book for him. Do your duty. You may be sick yourself, sometime. Sick people need help. They appreciate sympathy and aid. Tell me of some sick friend. Let me cure him. Then he will show to both of us his gratitude. Your reward will be his gratitude. Send for the book now. Do not delay.

SLEEP IS PRICELESS.

But It can be Obtained by Simple Methods.

Are you a hard worker? Are you overcome with fatigue at the end of each day's labour, and instead of retiring to bed with a feeling of satisfaction at the prospect of a night's repose do you wait the hour of bedtime with dread and shrinking?

Is it your unhappy lot to be awakened every night, just after you have dropped off to sleep, by an intense, uncontrollable itching of the rectum? Do you then endeavour to relieve the sensation by scratching so desperately that the skin becomes raw and lacerated, and you finally sink into the sleep of exhaustion?

If so, you do not need to be told that you are afflicted with itching piles. You have probably tried every remedy you could hear of, with but temporary relief, if any, and have concluded there was nothing left for you but to drag out a miserable existence. As a drowning man grasps at a straw, so should you eagerly devour the words of W. O. Milbury, 70 Pearl street, Reading, Mass.

"I am pleased to state that I bought one fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure at the drug store, and used about one half of it, and it not only cured me of itching piles, but also of constipation, a trouble of about fifteen years standing. I have tried almost everything without any lasting benefit, but I can honestly and truthfully state that Pyramid Pile Cure has entirely cured me, as I have had no return of that terrible itching, which used to keep me awake by the hour, night after night. If the old trouble should ever return I will know just what to do, but I guess it won't for it is now six or seven months since I first used this wonderful remedy."

We vouch for the authenticity of this testimonial, and as Mr. Milbury found relief and a cure, so you may also. Do not delay, but buy a box and try it tonight, and do not allow any dealer to sell you "something just as good." You will do well to well to write Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., for their little book on the causes and cure of piles, which is sent free for the asking.

Great Britain's Answer re Thibet.

Paris, March 3.—The Liberte yesterday published a despatch from St. Petersburg, saying that the British Ambassador, Sir Charles Scott, had transmitted to Foreign Minister Lamsdorff the answer of Great Britain to the Russian protest against Colonel Younghusband's expedition to Thibet, with the further announcement that Great Britain had found herself not to enhance the independence of Thibet, and that Russia had given a like assurance.

Left $10,000 to College.

Winnipeg, March 3.—The late Miss Fowler of Toronto, who has left $10,000 to St. John's College, Winnipeg.

Look on the Bright Side.

The sufferer from nervous exhaustion is generally blue and discouraged. He looks on the dark side of things and fears paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity. All this is changed by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which gradually and naturally rekindles and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instils new vigour and energy into the whole system.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS' SUCCESS.

Protestant Churches will Join in Celebration.

Universality of Bible Society's Operations Emphasized by Success in Enlisting Sympathies of Protestantism.

The arrangements for the observance of Bible Sunday on March 6th—the last day of the British and Foreign Bible Society's century—are now practically complete, and in nothing is the universality of the Bible Society more emphasized than in the remarkable way it has been able to enlist the sympathies of all Protestant churches in the organization of this world-wide thanksgiving. The unique feature of the occasion is the drawing together of the churches of other lands, no less than those of British origin, in one great celebration, all minor differences of race, language and sect being submerged in the great bond of the common heritage—the charter of salvation as contained in the word of God. In England their Majesties King Edward VII. and Queen Alexandra, will be present at divine service at St. Paul's Cathedral, on Bible Sunday, when the Lord Mayor, the Sheriffs and the Corporation will attend in State. The sermon will be preached by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Among the earliest to endorse the suggestion were the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. Cordial resolutions in favour of the observance have also been received from every Noncomformist Assembly and Conference which met last year, including the Baptists, the Congregationalists, the Society of Friends, all denominations of Methodists, the Moravians and the Presbyterians. In Scotland both the Established Church and the United Free Church are co-operating in the celebration. The Metropolitan of Rupert's Land and Primate of All Canada, the Archbishop of Sydney, the Archbishop of the West Indies, and the Archbishop of Cape Town, and nearly 50 colonial and missionary bishops of the Anglican community, and the chief representatives of non-Episcopal Churches in the colonies have written cordially endorsing the observance of Bible Sunday, and the proposal has received the hearty sanction of the Synod of the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa. In the United States of America both the chief Presbyterian Churches, the two Methodist Episcopal Churches and the presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church have cordially agreed to observe Bible Sunday in their various churches throughout the States. All the missionary societies, without exception, have joined hands to observe this day of common thanksgiving. But the most significant item in this huge programme is the bringing into line of the Protestant churches on the continent of Europe, and establishing a link between those that may be most widely sundered on minor points. Bible Sunday will be kept by hundreds of congregations, representing Lutheran, Reformed and Waldensian Churches. Thus, throughout the world, thanksgiving will be made to Almighty God in all tongues and by all peoples on this memorable day.

In Peterborough it is expected that in all Protestant churches special services in connection with the Centenary will be held, while on Monday night a mass meeting will be held in Murray street church.

Don't Forget to Look

As you pass Messrs. H. LeBrun & Co's window, don't forget to look at the pyramid of new fashionable spring suitings piled up in the south window. There ought to be choice enough for any man, no matter how hard to please he may be. It's the largest display of imported cloths for spring to be seen in town.

Another attraction is the exhibition of fine cambric shirts in the north window, of the City Clothing Store. They are principally for big men with lots of neck, the sizes being 16 and 16 1-2. The selling price is only 50c., although 75c and $1.00 are the regular prices d

WALKED SIXTY MILES THROUGH DEEP SNOW.

In Order that He Might Attend Court.

Jerry Driscoll Walked that Distance Because it was His Duty.

In order that he might attend court to give evidence in the Hatley case, which is fully reported in another column of this issue, Jeremiah (commonly called "Jerry") Driscoll, a seasoned lumberman about 35 years of age, walked 60 miles, taking five days to complete the journey.

Driscoll, who lives in Monmouth Township, started on his tramp at 6 o'clock on Saturday morning. He walked all day along the barely beaten track, and waded more than knee deep through snow drifts, while the wind beat the frozen snowflakes in his face, making progress very slow. Doggedly, with the persistence of the Canadian woodsman, he trudged on, heedless of snow, wind, or rain. He was subpoenaed to appear in court on Thursday, and appear he would, no matter what he had to face. About nine o'clock that night he reached Apsley, and there he spent the night, but rising with the break of day to continue his journey. On the second night he reached Stony Lake, and slept there, but beginning his tramp with the dawn of Monday. All that day he faced the elements, and stayed during the night with Mr. P. Cavannah, another witness in the case. The two men set out together on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock and about ten o'clock that night reached the residence of Mr. S. Cavanah, about five miles out of Norwood. They left about three o'clock this morning and arrived in town early in the forenoon, thoroughly tired out from the bad walking.

That great credit is due Driscoll goes without saying. He did his duty not because there'd be "a mention in despatches," as in the case of soldiers, not because he had to, for the prosecution would have made allowances in his case, but simply because it was his duty.

FURRIER ENTERTAINED ALL HIS OWN EMPLOYEES.

A Pleasant Affair at McCallum's Restaurant Last Night.

About 6 o'clock last night Mr. Thomas Barrie, the well-known furrier, entertained all his employees to dinner at McCallum's Restaurant. At the tables about 35 persons were seated, and a most enjoyable time spent. After the excellent dinner had been given due attention a number of speeches and songs were given. Mr. Thos. Barrie, as host, presided, while Mr. Hyland acted as vice-chairman. Mr. D. Chevigny sang, "O Canada terre de nos aieux," while Messrs. McCormack, Brundrette and Carey also rendered vocal selections, the latter contributing an ode to the Bedelias' hockey team. At intervals speeches were made by Messrs. Barrie, Hylands and Armstrong, and at the conclusion of the very pleasant affair a vote of thanks moved by Mr. Brundrette and seconded by Mr. Hylands, was tendered to Mr. Barrie for his kind hospitality.

POSTMASTER FINED FOR LIQUOR SELLING.

Breach of the Law Costs Jos. Hartley Nearly $225.

One of the heaviest sentences for a breach of the liquor laws in Peterborough county, was imposed by County Police Magistrate Edmison this morning, and amounted to nearly $225, most of which totalled up in the costs of the case, chiefly witness fees. The fine was the least which could be imposed by the Magistrate.

The culprit was Joseph Hatley, a storekeeper and postmaster residing in the township of Anstruther, and the charge was one of selling intoxicating liquors without a license for so doing. Under the direction of his lawyer Hatley pleaded guilty. There were two charges. One was for selling between December 13th, 1903, and January 15th, 1904, and the other between the dates of January 23rd and February 22nd of this year.

Hatley was summoned last November, but on his oath denying the charge, was dismissed with a warning.

There were six witnesses, who came from forty to sixty miles to give evidence, and this is where the costs mounted up into the three figures.

In the first case Hatley was fined $50 and costs, in all $80.15, and in the second $100 and costs of $44.53, the total fine being $224.68.

County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, conducted the prosecution, while the information was laid and papers served by J. J. Crowe, the License Inspector for East Peterborough.

A Valuable Publication.

It contains the latest statements of all the more important railway and industrial companies in the United States, together with a quantity of other valuable statistical and general information which would by investors be carefully studied.

GREAT EVENT OF WINTER SEASON.

The Annual Fancy Dress Carnival of Court Peterborough C. O. F. To-night.

Good ice is promised for the Carnival to-night which will be the annual winter event held by Court Peterborough, C.O.F., and which has proved so successful in previous years, and, judging by present indications, all former successes are likely to be eclipsed by that to be held to-night. The prospects are that there will be a larger number of skaters in costume than at any carnival held for many years, and the valuable prizes offered by the management are strong inducements to dress for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Campbell and Mr. Hughes-Charles have very kindly consented to act as judges.

The full band of the 57th Regiment will be on hand to render music for the occasion, and the event promises to be one of the most enjoyable of the winter season.

THE FLY WHEEL FLEW IN PIECES.

Accident at Mr. H. G. Buck's Saw Mill in Dummer.

An accident which might have resulted in serious injury to the workmen occurred on Friday afternoon last at Mr H. G. Buck's saw mill at the head of White Lake in the Township of Dummer. The accident was caused by the engine "running away" in consequence of the "governors" refusing to work. The iron horse, driven by a full head of steam, attained such rapid motion that the big metal fly wheel burst and pieces went flying in all directions, some going up through the roof of the building as if it were a tent. Fortunately, although there were a number of hands employed about the mill, no person was injured. The accident, however, caused about $100 worth of damage. In addition to the bursting of the wheel a considerable portion of the driving belt was destroyed.—Norwood Register.

NON-SUPPORT CASE UP FOR HEARING.

Ephraim Green at the Police Court this Morning.

At the Police Court this morning before Police Magistrate Dumble, Ephraim Green was charged with the non-support of his wife, Lilly Green, and in answer pleaded not guilty. The evidence disclosed the facts that plaintiff and defendant had been married by a Baptist minister six years ago last June, and had lived peaceably together for four or five years, when the wife was sent to Mimico for treatment. After being there for about six months her father got her out and since that time her father, who lives at Omemee, has supported her. The wife claimed that her husband only visited her once while she was at the asylum, and that he never answered her letters. She had not seen him since he visited her at Mimico until this morning in the court room. The husband on the other hand claimed that his wife suffered from delusions and was not fit to take care of his house. He is employed at Fitzgerald's livery.

On the suggestion of the Police Magistrate a compromise was effected, the husband promising to pay $2.50 per week for the support of his wife if she lived with her father. As the compromise was satisfactory to both parties the Court did not object.

THE CENTENARY OF THE BIBLE SOCIETY.

A Mass Meeting to be Held on Monday Night.

The citizens are asked to remember the mass meeting on Monday night, March 7th, in Murray street Baptist church, when the Centenary of the Bible Society will be publicly and unitedly celebrated. No Society has done more to break down the wall existed between Christian churches. No Society has done more to unify them. It has been the pioneer in Missionary work. It has stood by the churches in the needs of their progressive work. Its work during 100 years should elicit the praise and gladness of every Christian. The Secretary of the Bible Society invites the attention of the officers of the various Young People's Societies to the mass meeting to be held in Murray street Baptist church celebrating the Centenary of the Bible Society. It is earnestly hoped that this will be a successful union meeting of all Christians and it would be in keeping with the objects of Endeavour Workers and members to spend the night in this celebration. It ought to prove a very profitable night.

PROSPECTS FOR A STORMY MARCH.

Prof. Hick's Forecasts of the Weather for this Month.

According to weather-wise Prof. Hicks the coming month will be a poor one for picnics, river excursions and other outside jollifications. His weather bulletin for March is as follows: This will be the great storm month of the year. It will enter with a storm forming over the Missouri valley. This storm will move eastward across the northern part of the country, causing a snow storm. First to 3rd, cloudy with snow, turning to rain. Fourth to 6th, mild, pleasant. Seventh to 8th, cloudy followed by rain, turning to snow. Ninth to 10th, cold wave. Eleventh to 15th, pleasant. On the 16th the great equinoctial storm will form over Texas and move northward, causing a great blizzard for St. Patrick's day over all northern states. Eighteenth to 19th cold wave. Twentieth to 23rd, moderating. On the 24th a storm will form over the Missouri valley and move eastward. Twenty-fifth to 26th, mild, followed by rain. Twenty-seventh to 28th, pleasant. On the 31st a severe snow storm will form over Texas and move northward, causing snow over the western states; and the month will close with a cold wave.

HOW IT SPREADS.

The first package of Hem-Rod (the infallible Pile cure) that was put out went to a small town in the State of Nebraska.

It made the cure of a case of Piles that was considered hopeless.

The news spread and although this was only two years ago the demand prompted Dr. J. S. Leonhardt of Lincoln, Neb., the discoverer, to prepare it for general use. Now it is being sent to all parts of the world.

It will cure any case of Piles. There is a month's treatment in each box. Sold for $1.00, with absolute guarantee.

It is for sale by James Lynch, druggist, 166 Hunter street, Peterborough. 4

STORM DELAYED NAPANEE TEAM.

And Final Trent Valley League Game was not Played.

Peterborough hockey enthusiasts have once more to blame the weather for a postponed hockey game. Last night the final Trent Valley League game was announced to be played between the T. A. S. and Napanee teams. The Napanee septette was due to arrive here by the 5.33 G.T.R. train from Port Hope, but the storm made such a course impossible, as all trains on the Midland Division were cancelled, consequently the team only reached Port Hope, where they were obliged to remain. A great many disappointed people were on the streets last night, and had the team succeeded in reaching here there would have been one of the largest crowds of the season to see the game.

The date upon which the game will be played has not yet been announced.

HOCKEY SEASON FINISH IN SIGHT.

It Will Probably End with a Game between Marlboro and Peterboro'.

The hockey season, as far as the local senior team is concerned will probably end about the middle of next week with a game between them and the senior Marlboro team, which they are making every effort to arrange. Midland and Stratford will probably play the final game for the Intermediate championship, which will close the O.H.A. season. The game which the local team is trying to arrange for next week should be the best game of the season. The Marlboros are undoubtedly the best senior team in the O.H.A., while the general impression is that Peterborough has the best intermediate seven, consequently a game between these two teams should be of more than usual significance, as showing the relative ability of the representative senior and intermediate teams.

LADY HOCKEYIST DEFIES REFEREE.

Ordered to the Fence but Refused to Go.

The Tweed News in speaking of a hockey match between the ladies of Madoc and Tweed, in which the latter won by 4—0, says: — "Notwithstanding the fact that the weather was extremely cold the interest in the game was sufficient to draw a good crowd of spectators. The ladies on the Madoc team handled their sticks well but they hadn't the speed of the Tweed team and therefore had to play defence most of the time. During the first half only one goal was scored, but in the latter half three more were won by Tweed. Lottie Beatty, captain of the Tweed team, did some exceedingly good work for her side and was heartily cheered by the spectators. During the first half she and Miss Rollins, Madoc, were each ordered to the fence for two minutes, but the rest was evidently beneficial to Miss Beatty for as soon as she left the fence she rushed up the ice and scored. Again in the second half she was ordered to the fence and went, but Mrs. Wallbridge on the other side who was also ordered to the fence politely refused to do so. The game was exciting from start to finish and was an example of hockey as it should be played."

We Have Everything a Lady Wears.

Spring News

We have opened out the entire second flat as a Ready-to-wear Department this season, and even in that spacious area (which is by far the largest department in Peterborough) we find it exceedingly difficult to satisfactorily exhibit the profusion of beautiful goods that are now being opened up.

The various racks, circles and tables are laden with all the newest and latest Dress Skirts, Underskirts, Rain Coats, Wrappers, Spring Jackets and Waists of every description.

The New Dress Skirt this season is much fuller, and in many instances is trimmed with self-goods. Our Skirt Department is showing all the latest novelties.

The fashionable Waist this year is a work of art—the front, back and sleeves show a great deal of trimming in tasteful and artistic designs.

Our Lawn Waist stock is magnificently assorted, showing all the latest ideas and lingerie effects.

March is always the best month in which to pick up the high class goods; there are always a few exclusive designs—often just one or two of a kind that come in with the early stock—many of our customers appreciate this opportunity.

Our greatly increased space enables us to handle an immensely larger stock and to exhibit it much more satisfactorily.

Everything is conveniently arranged and it is quite interesting to see row after row, totalling up to a thousand waists of this season's most beautiful designs.

We invite you to come and look through them at your leisure.

You will not be asked to buy, and it will be interesting to you to see what is being done for the coming season.

See our Special Department of Children's and Girls' Coloured and White Dresses, Skirts, Hats, etc.

A FORECAST OF FOOTBALL TEAMS.

Prospects for the Association Branch in 1904.

With the rapidly approaching close of the hockey season, come thoughts of football, and in view of the fact that it will only be the matter of a few weeks when the season will open, it is not too early to begin to prepare for work. The Midland Football League, this year will be stronger than it was in 1903, and will probably include a greater number of teams from Peterborough. A new team will be the "Old Country Wanderers" recently formed, and if all reports are true they will get a team together which will make last year's champions look to their laurels. The Quakers and Auburns will, in all probability enter again this year, while the champion Y. M. C. A. team will sure to be in the running. This team has lost some of last year's men. A. W. MacPherson, one of the best men in the business will be missed from the team, and Whitlow will probably be seen on the O.C.W. team. The majority of the champion team will, however, be available for this year, and some new blood will also be introduced. Ernest Belleghem is a new man, who will probably catch a place on the team. He showed up well in Rugby last fall, and is looked upon as a promising man. T. J. Anderson, is another Association player, who will, in all probability, be seen on the Y.M.C.A. team this year. With these and other additions, it is expected that the team will be in good condition, and they will make a big effort to hold for another year the Stratton Trophy won in 1903. The outside teams will be more numerous than last year. Havelock, the runners up, will likely be in the series again, and with an equally good team, so that the prospects for Association Football in the Midland district for 1904 are bright.

LACROSSE SEASON NEAR AT HAND.

Annual Meeting of C. L. A. Only Four Weeks Away.

Four weeks from to-day the annual meeting of the Canadian Lacrosse Association will be held in Toronto, and already lacrosse clubs are being organized for the coming season. Next Monday night the Toronto Lacrosse Club will hold its annual meeting, when the report will be presented and officers elected. The Cornwall team is also making preparations for the season, which will soon be opening.

There is one matter which should engage the attention of the C.L.A. at its annual meeting, and that is the ordering of the semi-final and final games earlier in the fall. Last year the Junior championship was not decided until October, when Rugby was being played, and it is impossible to keep the players in training during such a long season. Last year was a successful one for the C.L.A. and the prospects are that an equally large number of teams will unite this year.

Last night an interesting game was played for the "Stanley Cup," representing the mercantile championship of Peterborough. The opposing teams were the Pig Iron Tigers and Martin & Stanley Piano Co's team, the latter being defeated by 7—2. Clarke Earls played a great game for the losers, and is a coming championship man.

The line-up was as follows:—

EASTERN HOCKEY VERSUS WESTERN.

A Comparison Made by the Ottawa Free Press.

The Stanley Cup games between the champion Ottawas and the late challenging Marlboros, of Toronto, winners in the O.H.A. series, demonstrated beyond the possibility of a shadow of doubt, that the long disputed difference between the hockey of the East and West had a real and substantial foundation, says the Ottawa Free Press. Equally apparent to every spectator particularly to those fortunate enough to be present at the second and, as it proved, the final game, was the fact that eastern hockey "as she is played" transcends that of the Ontario organization, as the light of the sun at noonday dims the feeble flicker of a wax taper. There is hardly room for a comparison, and in years to come, when the ever present question crops up for discussion, the mere mention of the Stanley Cup games of the late series will be sufficient to silence even the most bigoted devotee of the Ontario body of puck-chasers in eulogy of the hockey experts of that effete organization.

For one thing, the Ontario cities, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Berlin, Belleville and the towns like Barrie, Waterloo and the other hamlets have no real ranks where the very best in the strongest and most scientific of their young men may be developed. As a natural and unpleasant result, the pucksters lack the stamina, so necessary to a hard game in a large pavilion, while the lifting of the defence men also suffers.

Then as to rough play. It is clear, after the two games, that in vigorous, man-against-man style of play, where everyone gives and takes good hard knocks, the champions of the O. H. A. were outclassed by harder and more energetic play. Neither body has to be instructed in the use of all the little tricks of the trade, but the Ottawas in a match that cannot be called rough, made their "friends the enemy" quit—quit cold as the Toronto papers said.

In clean, fast, scientific hockey, where the whole seven men played one man to the other, and where real, genuine hockey was to be seen, the result was disastrous for the O.H.A. representatives. They were swamped, deluged, dazed and stunned by the exhibition as given by the cupholders. It was simply East against West, and the Eastern style, as one is accustomed to see it here, won the victory. Individually, the cup holders are head and shoulders above the Ontario people. The Winnipeg people are too, for that matter, but the way that the Ottawa boys skated in and out, around and about their opponents, in point of grace, can only be compared to the free movements of swallows.

14 PEOPLE KILLED

Many Others Are Missing and a Score Are Badly Injured.

COLLAPSE OF A SKYSCRAPER

Whole Structure Fell With a Crash That Was Heard For Blocks and Which Shook All the Buildings in the Vicinity—Some Killed in an Adjoining Hotel While at Lunch —Due to Carelessness.

New York, March 3.—Fourteen persons were killed, about a score injured, and eight or ten, all of whom are believed to be dead, are missing, through the collapse yesterday afternoon of the steel skeleton of the Hotel Burlington, a thirteen storey apartment in course of erection at 57 West Forty-Sixth street.

The steel framework had been erected as far as the eleventh floor, and the structure was swarming with iron workers, masons and laborers, when, without an instant's warning, the upper floor sagged and collapsed and the whole structure fell with a crash that was heard for blocks, and which shook all the buildings in the vicinity.

A portion of steel frame fell upon the rear of the Hotel Patterson, on West Forty-Seventh street, crashing in the wall of the dining-room, and killing Mrs. Ella Lacey Storrs, the wife of Frank Storrs, a wealthy resident of Rye, West Chester County, as she was sitting at luncheon with the wife of Rev. Dr Minot Savage. Mrs. Savage escaped injury.

The cause of the disaster was the overloading of the floors.

Foreman James Halpin, in charge of the iron workers, stated that there was a large quantity of cement and other building material on the fifth floor, and that on the ninth floor were eighty-three beams, which were to have been used in constructing the remaining floors of the building.

Apparently criminal carelessness is chargeable to somebody, as the building department had placed repeated "violations" against the building, the last one being filed yesterday, because "the side walls were more than two storeys in advance of the front walls, and the floor beams were not properly bolted and tied."

Jumped to His Death.

Leamington, March 3.—At about 11 o'clock Tuesday night John Walker, an inmate of the House of Refuge, committed suicide by jumping from the top balcony, a distance of forty feet, to the ground, striking his head on the frozen ground, causing almost instant death.

THE WAR IN THE EAST

West, North and South That Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Waging Against All Forms of Stomach Trouble, Can Only End One Way.

Dyspepsia Will Be Driven off the Earth.

The great and effective work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is no longer confined to America. They are being used now all over the world, for their fame has spread throughout foreign countries and they cure dyspepsia in all lands and all climates just as well as they do at home. In fact, surroundings and conditions never interfere with the successful work of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, not even the conditions of the stomach itself. They go ahead of their own natural way regardless of the stomach, and digest the food that the bad stomach cannot digest and permit that organ to do just as it pleases, rest, take a vacation, get well or what not. The stomach, however, always makes it a point to get well when it has nothing else to do. That's what stomachs always have done and will continue to do when they have the opportunity.

A prominent Detroit physician says: "I prescribe Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all cases of stomach trouble. I have tried many prescriptions, including a number of my own, but found nothing which gives such universal relief as this remedy. They are natural, harmless and perfectly effective in their work, and while I have a natural antipathy to patent medicines, I do not hesitate to prescribe and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on all occasions."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at fifty cents a box. They are so well known and their popularity is so great, that a druggist would as soon think of being out of alcohol or quinine. The testimonial of the physician is no exception. In fact physicians are prescribing them all over the land and if your doctor is real honest with you he will tell you frankly that there is nothing on earth so good for dyspepsia as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

THE MINING ENGINEERS.

New Department of the Government at Ottawa Advocated.

Toronto, March 3.—The death of B. T. A. Bell, the secretary of the Canadian Mining Institute, cast a gloom over the opening of the sixth annual meeting yesterday afternoon Eugene Coste, M. E., the president, paid a tribute to the memory of the late secretary, and a resolution expressing the profound regret of the Institute and the deep sympathy of its members with Mrs. Bell, and his family, was passed on the motion of Treasurer Stevenson and Professor Miller. The report of the committee shows 435 members on the roll, a slight decrease on the previous year, explained by removals. The library collection had been removed to Ottawa. An index of authors and papers in the proceedings of the Institute from 1891 had been prepared by the late secretary, and was circulated at the meeting. In the students' competition the cash prize of $25 was given to S. H. Boright for a paper on the "Geology of the Northern Portion of the Boisdale Hills Anticline." Norman W. Parke in the mining section received the same amount for a paper on "Rock Drilling and Blasting." The receipts of the year were $6,061.30, and the disbursements $4,831.03.

Mr. Coste advocated the establishment of a thoroughly organized Geological Survey and Mining Department at Ottawa, under a Minister of the interior or of mining. The branches which this department would embrace were stated to be administrative, geological survey, paleontological and botonical, geographical and topographical, mining, geological survey and monograph: statistical, economic and commercial and metallurgical. A large number of technical papers were read and the meeting adjourned till this morning.

NAVAL DEFENCE COST.

Colonies Shirk Their Part According to British Statesmen Devlin Asks "What Has Navy Done For Canada?"

London, March 3.—(C.A.P.)—The debate in the House of Commons on the navy estimates brought out an interesting discussion on the matter of colonial contributions to the Navy. Sir John C. Colcomb, M. P. for Yarmouth, (Conservative), raised the question of the absence of any substantial contribution by the colonies to the cost of naval defence. He pointed out that the revenue of Australia actually exceeded the revenue of Japan, yet Japan was able to maintain a navy competent to dispose of the navy of Russia, whereas Australia paid only a small fraction of the cost of the British Navy, which guaranteed Australian defence. There was also danger that this country, and certainly a part of the colonies, should imagine that the Empire of the sea demanded any very great excess of personnel. Reserve men were of supreme importance to the army, but the navy reserve was less important because naval warfare itself created a reserve.

T. Gibson Bowles, M.P., (Conservative), thought it would be a long time before England got any substantial contribution from the colonies toward the navy. The whole of the colonies at present subscribed only £300,000 out of £12,000,000, and we could not expect anything from them, as in the case of India.

Charles Devlin (Nationalist), M. P. for Galway, said Canada had been attacked for not contributing to the maintenance of the navy. What had the navy done for Canada that she should be obliged to contribute? The object of the navy was to defend the commerce of the United Kingdom, and whatever trade was done between Britain and Canada was carried in English vessels. Canada came to the aid of England in her hour of trouble and now Canada was treated with absolute scorn.

TO WATCH JAP OPERATIONS.

Canadians Left Wednesday For Vancouver —Capt. Thacker With Others.

Ottawa, March 3.—Owing to the Grand Trunk system between Toronto and North Bay being blocked with snow, Sir William Nicholson, Director-General of the British Intelligence Department, and Lieut.-Col. Haldane, who are on their way to Corea, came around by way of Ottawa to take the C.P.R. for the coast. They called on Lord Minto and Lord Dunsonald yesterday morning, and at 1.30 left for Vancouver, the general officer commanding being at the station to see them off. Capt. Thacker of the Royal Canadian Artillery, who has been detailed to watch the Japanese operations on behalf of Canada, arrived here yesterday, and was introduced to General Nicholson, on whose staff he will serve. Capt. Thacker was fortunate enough to secure a passage on the same steamer as General Nicholson and Lieut.-Col. Haldane, and left with them yesterday afternoon.

AN OUTLAW KILLED.

Terror of Big Muddy River Shot By Sheriff.

Moose Jaw, March 3.—The fatal shooting of Outlaw Jones is very satisfactory to residents along the Big Muddy River. He was looked upon as one of the worst characters in that section, and had been a regular terror to everyone.

It is reported by Indians, who have returned from this section, that a sheriff called on Jones to arrest a man who was working for him for some offence. The sheriff started off with his prisoner, and several miles out he was overtaken by the Outlaw Jones, who had pursued them. Jones got a drop on the sheriff, ordering him to hold up his hands. He did so, and Jones then took the sheriff's horse, and, disarming him, sent him home on foot, Jones returning to his cabin with the man who had been arrested.

The sheriff returned with a posse of 25 men, and started searching for Jones. It was some time before he was located. He was taken by surprise and ordered to surrender. He immediately reached for his gun, but was fired on and shot through the body and head, instantly dying. His cabin contained all kinds of goods which it is thought had been stolen.

Magnificent Pile in Queen's Park, Toronto, Narrowly Escapes Destruction.

Toronto, March 3.—The magnificent pile in Queen's Park, the pride of the Ontario Legislature, had the narrowest possible escape from destruction early this morning, as a result of the heavy thunderstorm which broke over the city shortly after midnight.

A blaze of fire leaped up the wires running from the telegraph station at the east corner of the great rotunda and ascended to the second storey. It is believed lightning was responsible for the blaze. The fire was put out and everything made safe in an hour. Smoke penetrated to the chamber, but no harm has been done to the rich decorations. The sum of $700 will probably cover the actual damage sustained.

One in Four Persons.

One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment, and others have not heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Smallpox Smites Indians.

New York, March 2.—A cable to The World from St. Petersburg says: Reports received here from the troops along the route to Harbin show a disheartening condition of affairs. Disease is rife among the soldiers. A smallpox epidemic is raging in East Siberia and has spread among the regiments. Pneumonia and bronchitis are claiming many victims, and already thousands of men have been rendered unfit for service by frost bite.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

If She was so weak she was not able to work, Helen said, proposing that the plan be for the present abandoned, but to this Marian would not listen, and her great eager eyes had in them so sacred a look that Helen said no more on the subject, but made arrangements for her coming to them at once. Morris was to leave his patient some medicine, and while he was preparing it, Helen had time to notice her more carefully, admiring her ladylike manners, and thinking her smile the sweetest she had ever seen. Greatly interested in her, Helen plied Morris with questions of Miss Hazelton during their ride home, asking what he knew of her.

"Nothing, except that she came to do North Silverton a year ago, opening her shop, and by her faithfulness, and pleasant, obliging manners, winning favor with all who employed her. Previous to her sickness she had a few times attended St. Paul's at South Silverton, that being the church of her choice. Had you not observed her?"

No, Helen had not. And then she spoke of her fainting, telling how sudden it was, and wondering if she was subject to such turns. Marian Hazelton had made a strong impression on Helen's mind, and she talked of her so much that Katy waited her appearance at the farm-house with feverish anxiety. It was evening when she came, looking very white, and seeming to Helen as if she had changed since she saw her first. In her eyes there was a kind of hopeless, weary expression, while her smile made one almost wish to cry, it was so sad, and yet so strangely sweet. Katy felt its influence at once, growing very confidential with the stranger, who, during the half hour in which they were accidentally left alone, drew from her every particular concerning her intended marriage. Very closely the dark blue eyes scrutinized little Katy, taking in first the faultless beauty of her face, and then going away down into the inmost depths of her character, as if to find out what was there.

"Pure, loving, innocent and unsuspecting," was Marian Hazelton's verdict, and she followed wistfully every movement of the young girl, as she flitted about the room, chatting as familiarly with the dressmaker as if she were a friend long known instead of an entire stranger.

"You look very young to be married," Miss Hazelton said to her once, and shaking back her short rings of hair, Katy answereh, "Eighteen next Fourth of July; but Mr. Cameron is thirty."

"Is he a widower!" was the next question, which Katy answered with a merry laugh, "Mercy, no! I marry a widower! How funny! I don't believe he ever cared a fig for anybody but me. I mean to ask him."

"I would," and the pale lips shut tightly together, while a resentful gleam shot for a moment across Marian's face; but it quickly passed away, and her smile was as sweet as ever as she at last bade the family good-night and repaired to the little room where Wilford Cameron had once slept.

A long time she stood before the glass, brushing her dark hair, and intently regarding her own features. While in her eyes there was a hard, terrible look, from which Katy Lennox would have shrunk in fear. But that too passed, and the eyes grew soft with tears as they turned away, and falling on her knees, moaned sadly, "I never will—no, I never will! God help me to keep the promise. Were it the other one—Helen—I might, for she could bear it; but Katy, that child—no, I never will," and as the words died on her lips, there came struggling up from her heart a prayer for Katy Lennox's happiness, as fervent and sincere as any which had ever been made for her since she was betrothed.

They grew to liking each other rapidly, Marian and Katy, the latter of whom thought her new friend greatly out of place as a dressmaker, telling her she ought to marry some rich man, calling her Marian altogether, and questioning her very closely of her previous life. But Marian only told her that she was born in London; that she learned her trade on the Isle of Wight, near to the Osborne House, where the royal family sometimes came, and that she had often see the Queen, thus trying to divert Katy's mind from asking what there was besides that apprenticeship to the Misses True on the Isle of Wight. Once indeed, she went farther, saying that her friends were dead, that she had come to America in hopes of doing better than she could at home; that she had stayed in New York until her health began to fail, and then had tried what country air would do, coming to North Silverton because a young woman who worked in the same shop was acquainted there and recommended the place. This was all Katy could learn, and Marian's heart history, if she had one, was guarded carefully.

They had decided at last upon the wedding dress, which Helen reserved the right to make herself. Miss Hazelton must fit it, of course, but to her belonged the privilege of making it, every stitch; Katy would think more of it, if she did it all, she said; but she did not confess how the bending over that dress, both early and late, was the escape-valve for the feelings which otherwise woulh have found vent in passionate tears. Helen was very wretched during the pleasant May days she usually enjoyed so much, but over which now a dark pall was spread, shutting out all the brightness, and leaving only the terrible certainty that Katy was lost to her forever—bright, frolicsome Katy, who without a shadow on her heart, sported amid the bridal finery, unmindful of the anguish tugging that the hearts of both the patient women, Marian and Helen, who worked on so silently, reserving their tears for the nighttime, when Katy was dreaming of Wilford Cameron. Helen was greatly interested in Marian, but never guessed that her feelings, too, were stirred to their very depths, as the bridal preparations progressed. She only knew how wretched she was herself, and how hard it was to fight her tears back as she bent over the silk, weaving in with every stitch a part of the clinging love which each day grew stronger for the only sister, who would soon be gone. Only once did she break entirely down, and that was when the dress was done, and Katy tried it on, admiring its effect, and having a second glass brought that she might see it behind.

"Isn't it lovely?" she exclaimed, "and the more valuable because you made it. I shall think of you every time I wear it," and the impulsive girl wound her arms around Helen's neck, kissing her lovingly, while Helen sank into a chair and sobbed aloud, "Oh, Katy—darling Katy! you won't forget me when you are rich and admired, and can have all you want? You will remember us here at home, so sad and lonely? You don't know how desolate it will be, knowing you are gone, never to come back again, just as you go away."

In an instant Katy was on her knees before Helen, whom she tried to comfort by telling her she should come back — come often, too staying a long while; and that when she had a city home of her own, she should live with her for good, and they would be so happy.

"I cannot quite give Wilford up to please you," she said, when that gigantic sacrifice suggested itself as something which it was possible Helen might require of her; "but I will do anything else, only please don't cry, darling Nellie—please don't cry. It spoils all my pleasure," and Katy's soft hands wiped away the tears running so fast over her sister's face.

After that Helen did not cry again in Katy's presence, but the latter knew she wanted to and it made her rather sad, particularly when she saw reflected in the faces of the other members of the family the grief she had witnessed in Helen. Even Uncle Ephraim was not as cheerful as usual, and once when Katy came upon him in the woodshed chamber, where he was shelling corn, she found him resting from his work and looking, from the window far off across the hills, with a look which made her guess he was thinking of her, and stealing up beside him she laid her hand upon his wrinkled face, whispering softly, "Poor Uncle Eph, are you sorry, too?"

He knew what she meant, and the aged chin quivered, while a big tear dropped into the tub of corn as he replied, "Yes, Katy-did—very sorry."

That was all he said, and Katy, after smoothing his silvery hair a moment, kissed his cheek and then stole away, wondering if the love to which she was going was equal to the love of home, which, as the days went by, grew stronger and stronger, enfolding her in a mighty embrace, which would only be severed by bitter tears and fierce heart-pangs, such as death itself sometimes brings. In that household there was, after Katy, no one glad of that marriage except the mother, and she was only glad because of the position it would bring to her daughter. But among them all Morris suffered most, and suffered more because he had to endure in secret, so that no one guessed the pain it was for him to go each day where Katy was, and watch her as she sometimes donned a part of her finery for his benefit, asking him once if he did not wish he were in Wilford's place, so as to have as pretty a bride as she should make. Then Marian Hazelton glanced up in time to see the expression of his face, a look whose meaning she readily recognized, and when Dr. Grant left the farm-house that day, another than himself knew of his love for Katy, drawing her breath hurriedly as she thought of taking back the words, "I never will,"—of revoking that decision and telling Katy what Wilford Cameron should have told her long before. But the wild wish fled, and Wilford's secret was safe, while Marian watched Morris Grant with a pitying interest as he came among them, speaking always in the same kind, gentle tone, and trying so hard to enter into Katy's joy.

"His burden is greater than mine. God help us both," Marian said, as she resumed her work.

And so amid joy and gladness, silent tears and breaking hearts, the preparations went on until all was done and only three days remained before the eventful tenth. Marian Hazelton was going home, for she would not stay at the farm-house until all was over, notwithstanding Katy's entreaties were joined to those of Helen.

"Perhaps she would come to the church," she said, "though she could not promise;" and her manner was so strange that Katy wondered if she could have offended her, and at last said to her timidly, as she stood with her bonnet on, waiting for Uncle Ephraim, "You are not angry with me for anything, are you?"

"Angry with you!" and Katy never forgot the glitter of the tearful eyes, or their peculiar expression as they turned upon her. "No, oh, no; I could not be angry with you, and yet, Katy Lennox, some in my position would hate you, contrasting your prospects with their own; but I do not; I love you; I bless you, and pray that you may be happy with your husband; honor him, obey him if need be, and above all, never give him the slightest cause to doubt you. You will have admirers, Katy Lennox. In New York others than your husband will speak to you words of flattery, but don't you listen. Remember what I tell you, and now, again, God bless you."

She touched her lips to Katy's forehead, and when they were withdrawn there were great tears there which she had left! Marian's tears on Katy's brow; and it was very meet that just before her bridal day Wilford Cameron's bride should receive such baptism from Marian Hazelton.

Could Not Lie On Her Left Side.

WAS TROUBLED WITH PAIN IN HER HEART FOR SIX YEARS.

Expected Her Friends Would Find Her Dead.

MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

She tells of her experience in the following letter: "I was troubled with a pain in my heart and weakness for six years. Most of the time I could not lie on my left side. I consulted a doctor but got no relief and was completely discouraged. I did not think I would live long and expected my friends would find me dead. A friend brought me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I took them to please her, not thinking they would do me any good. I had not used half the box when I commenced to feel myself getting better and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers from heart trouble."

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience, in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y.

What Balfour Said.

London, March 4.—Premier Balfour aroused both cheers and derisive laughter by the statement in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon that he had never advocated protection either in or outside the Cabinet.

The assertion was elicited by a request of Mr. MacNeil (Nationalist) that Mr. Balfour give the public an opportunity of reading his pamphlet advocating protection, presented to the Cabinet. Mr. Balfour declared that no such pamphlet was in existence, and added the above intimation that he was not a protectionist.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS

Has An Interesting Discussion Upon Colonial Preferences.

'TIS ONLY A PIOUS OPINION

Lord Rosebery's View—Thinks Britain Has a Right to Expect Preferences From the Colonies—Lord Spencer Says a Preference Is Impossible Without Protection, a Reversal of Country's Fiscal Policy.

London, March 4.—(C. A. P.)—The House of Lords spent two hours yesterday in the discussion of colonial preference. Lord Peauchamp raised the point of Mr. Chamberlain's allegation, that the self-governing colonies had made a definite substantial offer which Britain would be criminal, and it would be dangerous, to refuse. Not more important than the attitude of the colonial Premiers disclosed in the blue book referring to the conference of 1902 was the attitude of the colonial Parliaments since Mr. Chamberlain's Birmingham scheme. Canada's trade since the preference had increased 35 per cent., while her exports to Germany had increased in the same period 109 per cent.

The Duke of Marlborough, Under Secretary for the Colonies, replying for the Government, said that the colonies in general had not made us a definite offer, but they in a practical manner incited us to enter into reciprocal relations by giving as a token of their goodwill a preferential treatment neither inconsiderable nor by any means valueless. He quoted from the resolutions passed at the Premier's conference and at the Boards of Trade of Montreal, Toronto, London, St. John and other cities. Preferences had already been granted by South Africa and New Zealand and there were preference leanings shown by Australia. He was not speaking in favor of a colonial preference, but to show that Mr. Chamberlain was correct in stating there was an offer of colonial support.

Lord Rosebery declared that the alleged offer of the colonies, supposed to be contained in the conference resolution, was only a pious opinion. Mr. Chamberlain had called the result of Canada's preference altogether disappointing. Lord Rosebery would have laid more importance on the Australian Premier's declaration in favor of an Imperial preference if the latter had been returned to Parliament by a substantial majority at his back. There was no reason for dislocating our fiscal system in order to meet the preferential tariffs of the colonies. He quoted Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement, that the Canadian preference was given not as a matter of bargain but as a matter of goodwill. He thought that as a mere matter of gratitude the colonies might give us a preference because of the at least equivalent services we rendered them by supporting the whole burden of the naval defence of the Empire.

Lord Onslow, President of the Board of Agriculture, said the Government was not contemplating inviting the country to carry out Mr. Chamberlain's scheme, but he decried the attempt being made to cast ridicule on the colonial suggestions so solemnly made.

Lord Brassey said that protectionist countries would never lower their duties on British goods and quoted from a speech by the Canadian Minister of Agriculture that anything which would interfere with the purchasing power of England would be a deadly blow to Canada.

Lord Goschen said the great bulk of the British people were in favor of some closer tie between the Motherland and the colonies.

Lord Lansdowne said the proceedings of the colonial conference constituted something which might fairly be called an offer or at any rate an overture from the colonies. The overture needed examination, and for that reason the Government did not include in their policy the proposals associated with the name of Mr. Chamberlain.

Lord Spencer, Liberal leader, insisted that a preference was impossible without protection, meaning thereby a reversal of the fiscal policy of the country.

Premier Deakin Prepared.

London, March 4.—(C.A.P.)—In the Commonwealth House of Representatives Premier Deakin stated that the Government was prepared to alter the present tariff in favor of Britain by making the sacrifices necessary to secure reciprocal preferences with the Motherland.

A LIBERAL SENATE.

Globe's Ottawa Correspondent Figures Out a Majority of 9.

Ottawa, March 4.—(Globe Special)—When the present four vacancies in the Senate have been filled the following will be the political standing of the parties in the Senate:

	Liberals.	Conservatives.
Ontario	13	11
Quebec	14	10
Nova Scotia	8	4
New Brunswick	7	3
Prince Ed. Island	2	2
Manitoba	2	2
British Columbia	1	2
Northwest Territories	0	2
Totals	45	36

This gives a Government majority of 9. There are two Senators to be appointed for the Northwest, which would increase the Ministerial strength to 47 and raise the majority to 11.

It is understood that Mr. Wm. Mitchell of Drummondville, in the Eastern Townships, will be appointed to the vacancy in the Senate caused by the late Senator Cochrane's death.

Nominations In Quebec.

Montreal, March 4.—This was nomination day in four counties where elections for the Quebec Legislature will take place a week hence. In Shefford there is a three-cornered fight. Dr. A. Mathieu of Granby, as straight Liberal; A. E. Duberge of Waterloo as independent Liberal, backed by the Conservatives and supporting the Parent Government, and P. Hubert of Waterloo, as farmers' candidate, also a Liberal. In Maskinonge the candidates are J. L. Desaulniers, Liberal, and George Lafontaine, Conservative. The candidates in Berthier are Victor Allard, ex-M.P.P., Conservative, and Joseph Lafontaine, Liberal. While in Portneuf, Charles Deguise was nominated by the supporters of the Parent Government, and Louis Naud of the Opposition.

Charged With Perjury.

Brantford, March 4.—J. Clayton Drummond, who figured prominently as a witness for the defence in the Kennedy murder trial last week, was arrested yesterday on a charge of perjury in connection with his evidence at the trial. In his testimony Drummond stated he was caretaker at the local Y.M.C.A. at the time of the crime in Sept. 30 last. He said that in the afternoon Kennedy was in the reading-room of the building from 12.30 to 2 engaged in writing a letter. Several witnesses gave evidence that they saw Kennedy near "The Willows" at that time. The Y.M.C.A. was a busy place on Sept. 30, but none of the many people present can remember seeing Kennedy.

TWO SERIOUS FIRES.

$75,000 Gone Up in Smoke at St. John's, Que.

St. John's, Que., March 5.—A serious conflagration, which originated in U. Normandin's fur store, at the north end of Richelieu street, has been burning since 7.30 last evening. The losses so far amount to at least $75,000.

Bad One at Halifax.

Halifax, March 5.—The worst conflagration that has occurred here this year broke out at 12.10 last night, at the corner of Duke and Water streets. Fire started on the lower floor of T. H. Carroll's fruit and commission merchant, and in less than 20 minutes the entire building was a mass of flames, and by 1 o'clock it was completely wiped out. The British American Hotel, south of the corner, and on Water street, was completely gutted, and the Commercial Hotel on Duke street, west of Carroll's, was also badly damaged. The loss, it is thought, will amount to about $25,000.

Fatally Burned.

Hamilton, March 5.—Thursday night Mrs. James Hall, 276 North Hughson street, was fatally burned by the explosion of a coal oil lamp. She and her husband were playing crokinole, and the lamp was upset. While the other members of the family were stamping the fire out, Mrs. Hall gathered up some of the fragments in her apron, and ran out into the yard. The husband and children did not know that her clothes were on fire, and they did not discover the fact until she was so badly burned that she died yesterday morning.

TRANSFER OF TRENT VALLEY DAMS.

Province Will Grant Dominion Application for Transfer.

OUR RIGHTS SAFEGUARDED.

Bill to Insure Against Weather Damages—Farmers Mutual Companies to Meet Loss by Storms—Establishment of County Telephones Systems—Mr. Gamey's Motion Respecting the People's Company.

Toronto, March 5.—The Ontario Government is willing to accede to the request of the Dominion Department of Railways and Canals for a transfer of the dams owned by the Province on the head waters of the Trent Valley Canal. The transfer will provide that Provincial rights as regards water powers shall be in no way prejudiced, and the owners of existing powers are to be guaranteed by the Dominion Government a continuance of them. The Dominion will be asked to refund to the Province the cost, $31,194, of the Young's Point lock, which has been built in a substantial manner, making it a permanent part of the canal system.

Weather Insurance.

The Attorney-General yesterday introduced in the Legislature a bill to enable farmers to form mutual insurance companies for the purpose of insuring against loss by tornadoes, hail, drouth, lightning (not resulting in fire), or any other atmospheric causes. Companies formed under the act must not undertake a contract of insurance for a term exceeding three years.

Hon. Mr. Gibson also introduced an act consolidating and revising the statutory regulations regarding the Court of Appeal and Divisional Courts, showing precisely what are their respective powers.

Premier Ross informed Mr. Hoyle that the Treasury Department had no record concerning the closing up of the beet-sugar factory at Wiarton. No portion of the bounty for the last year's business had been paid as yet. It would be withheld pending the result of inquiry as to the payment of farmers for the beets supplied by them.

The Premier, in answer to Mr. Carscallen's question regarding the number of railways to the Albany River which had complied with the regulations of the House regarding the submission of maps, said that the regulations has been very indifferently enforced. The Department instead of insisting on the maps had been content with one of the ordinary maps of the Province with the projected lines indicated upon it.

County Telephone Systems.

Mr. Tucker's bill to extend to counties the powers now held by towns and cities respecting the establishment of telephone systems was read a second time and referred to committee. The Attorney-General expressed himself as entirely favorable to the proposal in the bill.

Mr. Lee (E. Kent) moved the second reading of his bill to amend the jurors act by reducing the panel from 48 to 36. Hon. Mr. Gibson said that the panel would be too small, as when a jury was out and some of the remainder were challenged there might not be enough members to fill a second jury. The bill was withdrawn.

Mr. Lee's bill respecting the Public Schools Act was given a second reading and referred to the Legal Committee.

Mr. Tucker's bill to regulate the width between the runners of sleighs was sent to the Agricultural Committee. The proposal is to have a uniform width of four feet.

Second readings were given to the following bills: Respecting the Town of Peterboro', Mr. Stratton; respecting the City of Ottawa, Mr. Powell; to consolidate the debt of the Town of Trenton, Mr. Morrison; respecting an agreement between the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada and the corporation of the Town of Barrie, Mr. Davidson; respecting the Hamilton, Grimsby & Beamsville Electric Railway Company, Mr. Hendrie.

Mr. Gamey's Motion.

Mr. R. R. Gamey moved for copies of all Orders-in-Council authorizing an increase in the capital stock of the People's Life Insurance Company during the last two years, with the correspondence relating thereto. The commissions which had been allowed on the sale of the new debenture stock of this company, of which the Provincial Secretary was President, had been, he contended, unusually high; the annual statements for 1901 and 1902 showed extraordinarily large advances to agents, compared with the income, and dividends had been paid to the debenture stockholders in 1902 contrary to the Federal act providing against impairment of capital. He also referred to criticisms by two financial journals that Dr. Hunter, the Inspector of Insurance, was acting with partiality.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said no Order-in-Council had been issued in reference to this company, and he did not know whether there was any correspondence, but if there was it would be brought down. Everyone knew that all insurance companies in their early stages had to suffer an impairment of capital in order to do business. The Canada Life and other large companies had done business for many years on an impaired capital. He did not think the House desired him to discuss the affairs of this company, and if there were any charges of favoritism or neglect of duty against the inspector of insurance or loan companies they should be ventilated in the Public Accounts Committee, which might call the officers to give evidence under examination. Personally he believed there were no more faithful or trustworthy members of the public service than the Inspectors of Insurance and Loan Companies.

Mr. Stratton's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Stratton said the company was doing business entirely under the acts of the Legislature. The directors, in addition to himself, were D. W. Karn of Woodstock, C. Kloepfer of Guelph, T. P. Coffee and F. M. Holland of Toronto, none of whom were men who would be connected with a company not doing business legitimately and properly. He had not the facts before him to discuss some of the matters the member for Manitoulin had alluded to, but the Government insurance report for this year showed the company's receipts as $156,218, and expenses of management $44,474. As to the advances to agents, they were all eventually returned to the company, and all insurance companies adopted this policy. The gentlemen who had purchased the debenture stock had taken the risk and responsibility of the whole company on their shoulders and were absolutely liable for the policies of the company, and it could hardly be expected that the stock could be sold at the ordinary commission. The standing and statement of the company was one of the most satisfactory in the Province. He thought Mr. Gamey was inspired by a desire to attack the Provincial Secretary rather than to champion the cause of the policy-holders.

Independent Phones in Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 5.—The Telephone Committee of the City Council at its meeting last night decided to recommend that the franchise be given the Canadian Telephone Company. F. Wannke of Scranton, Pa., and Leonard, New York, representing the company were present. The city is offered $36 and $22 phones, $2,500 cash a year and 10 free phones. The company also offers a cash guarantee of $5,000 that it means business.

Suffered Agonies For 30 Hours.

New York, March 5.—After living more than thirty hours under a mass of steel beams and other debris of the collapsed Hotel Darlington, in West Forty-sixth street, Charles Lazek, a cement worker, died early yesterday, while being carried to Flower Hospital in an ambulance. This increases the known dead to fifteen.

BOMBARDMENT AT PORT ARTHUR.

A Three Day's Cannonde with no Available Results.

EFFECT ON CZAR AND CZARINA.

Japanese Troops Have Landed in Gensen—Will Head for Ping Yang—The Czar Consults a Miracle Worker.

(Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.)

BOMBARDING PORT ARTHUR.

New York, N.Y., March 5.—There has been three days bombardment by the Japanese off Port Arthur according to a Herald despatch from Tien Tsin, timed at half past eight this Saturday morning. The attack was kept up at intervals on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The Japanese ships attacking the town were in action first at a distance of nine and three-eighth miles from the forts, and then they drew closer their range being four and three-quarter miles.

TROUBLE FOR ROYALTY

New York, N.Y., March 5.—The Czar and Czarina, according to a cable from St. Petersburg, are reduced to a deplorable state of mind by the war. The Czar is constantly praying with Father John, of Cronstadt, the miracle worker, and the most influential personage from a religious standard in the Greek church and is sending propitiatory offerings in all direction to all the famous shrines. The Czar's condition is causing grave anxiety as it is feared that his mind may give way.

APANESE IN COREA.

CheFoo, March 5.—Word reached here to-day that Japanese troops have landed in some force at Gensen of the Eastern coast of Corea. They are making for Ping Yang, where they will reinforce the Japanese forces already there. The forces at Ping Yang are also being reinforced daily from Seoul and the western coast. The Russian advance column, which is now situated at Anju about 25 miles North of Ping Yang, is but small in number.
